I see in the BANNER that L. H. Reynolds received a majority of all the votes cast in the first primary. I see no cause why the executive committee should not declare L. H. Reynolds the regular nominee of the People's Party. Brothers Rollins and Vinson came out too late, it caused the people to think that there was some trick or fraund being played on somebody. Eor the sake of harmony I hope that Mr. Rollins will withdraw his name from the list of candidates and not force Mr. Reynolds in the second primary. We should lay all our prejudice aside, put our shouders to the wheel and push with all our might, and elect our ticket in August. We should be sure to keep in the middle of the road.

Respectfully,
ALBERT THOMPSON.

MR. EDITOR: Again I am forced to ask for space in your paper. In the letter sent over our county by Mr. Jot Miller, chairman of the People's Party executive committee, and in the letter published in your last issue by Bro. E. G. Rollins, great dissatisfaction and confusion seems to have existed in our county, or at least in the minds of certain parties, in regard to who should be nominated as the People's candidate for the legislature.

Now, Mr. Editor, if there really existed any confusion who caused it? Certainly not I. There were two candidates for this office asking the support of our people, no dissatisfaction and confusion in this, certainly not. Was not the very beginning of this "confusion" when Mr. Jot Miller wrote to the members of the executive committee and asked them that if any candidate received a majority of all the votes cast for any one particular office if this candidate should not receive the nomination. The answer of the committee was yes. What next do we find our chairman doing? Do we find him holding himself aloof from the battle of votes? Do we find him occupying that high and lofty position which would give us a guarantee that he was impartial and unprejudiced? That he was in favor of "special favors to none?" What does the people of our county find? Let them examine. We find the chairman of the People's Party leaving his exalted position, riding over our county working against the interest of certain candidates, trying to bring out other candidates, adding "confusion" to "confusion." We find him bringing out new candidates, writing letters and sending telegrams in the interest of this new candidate, signing his name as chairman, prostituting his position and the trust of the people to defeat a candidate for a nomination. Who ever heard of such action on the part of a chairman? Where does he find any authority for such conduct? We are taught that in the People's Party we have a party known for its honesty and fair dealing, a party that demands fairness in all things, that scorns all political tricks, yet what do we find our chairman doing. I ask the people to stop and think.

There were only two candidates in this race, Mr. Frank Crichton and myself. When the committee met and counted the votes what did Mr. Crichton say? Listen, fellow citizens, and hear the words of an honest man, hear the ring of justice: "Mr. Chairman, I am defeated in this race honestly, Mr. Reynolds is elected and according to the voice of the committee he should receive the nomination." These are the words of an honest man, a man who in the hour of defeat had the courage to say what he thought. Was not the trouble with our chairman this; the wrong man got the nomination? Why did not our chairman see Mr. Rollins sooner? Who were the other parties waiting for the answer of Mr. Rollins? Did not our chairman carry the news from Mr. Rollins direct to the other parties? What is the People's Party in our county coming to? Is it to be known as a party of tricksters? Are we to soon lose confidence in each other? Are we to view with suspicion every act of its members? Fellow citizens, it is time for this thing to stop.

Now one word as to Mr. Rollins, Mr. Rollins is my friend and I feel that he has been led into this "confusion" without appreciating it. I would have liked it better if Bro Reynolds had said in his letter that he was or was not a candidate, that he wanted the position or that he did not want it. The people have a right to hear both Bro. Rollins and myself on the great subjects that are to-day confronting our people. Well, may be they forget the fact that our "chairman" vouches for Bro. Rollins, but may I not ask who vouches for our "chairman"?

Pardon me for again referring to the cutting off of a part of our county but I have received a letter from T. M. Barbour, who was chairman of the People's Party caucus at the time the bill was before the Legislature.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., April 9, 1896.

Mr. L. H. Reynolds, Jemison, Ala.

Yours received and in answer to your inquiry will say that neither yourself nor Mastin, who was representing your county, favored the cutting off of north Chilton.

Yours truly, T. M. BARBOUR,
Representative in Legislature of 1892 and 1893.

Now, Mr. Editor, hoping that there will be no further cause for "confusion" and that no further tricks will be resorted to in this campaign and that everybody will be satisfied with the result of our primary on May 5th, and that you will pardon me for again appearing in print beg to say to the people that if I shall have their support that they will find no act of mine to cause regret. Very respectfulty,

L. H. Reynolds.

MR. EDITOR: I am of the opinion that the following letter, written by or for Mr. Jot A. Miller, and sent over the county the day before the primary election, will be very interesting reading:

Clanton, Ala., April 13, '96.

To the voters of Chilton County:

There is and has been some dissatisfaction among the members of the People's Party relative to the candidates for the office of representative, and believing it would not be to the best interest of the party to nominate either of the present candidates, I, with others, have been looking around for a suitable man to nominate for the position. There is a man who is in every respect qualified to fill this responsible position and is, I think, the most available man for the place. I have just had a conversation with him and he says he is not a candidate for the position, has not been or does not propose to be, but if the people think it is to the best interest of the party, and so decide by giving him the nomination, he will serve them to the best of his ability The man I refer to is Mr. E. G. Rollins, of Beat five. I take this means of asking all the voters of the People's Party to help us keep down all strife, to get the people to unite and vote down all office seekers, and elect a good, honest, conscientious, upright People's Party man who pledges himself to support our principles, and assure us an overwhelming victory in August, to do this no surer or better way could be adopted than to vote for E. G. Rollins.

Write the name under the name of the other candidates for representative on the blank line.

With much respect, I am and shall ever remain, your obedient servant, J. A. MILLER.

Four years ago we said there existed at Clanton a ring or clique, by our votes we declared it should be broken up. Where are we today? Let us stop for a moment and see. Let us examine the details of the present campaign, look at the sharp tricks and schemes you see at every turn. Have they forgotten how the Democratic Committee four years ago sought to rule and dictate to the people. We all remember what we thought of them Now look at the chairman of our own committee trying to do the very same thing. Does he forget that the people can and will think for themselves? He knows that the committee ruled that all the names should be printed on the tickets so the people could know who the candidates were. Yet he goes and violates this agreement or ruling. He as chairman writes, telegraphs and rides over the county in the interest of his special candidate and lends his office to help defeat a man who has done more in one day for our party than he (Miller) will ever be able to do. He cannot say he did not know this for he is chairman. Miller knows that he signed his name to letters written to other members of the committee and that it was decided that if any one candidate got a majority of all the votes cast that he should be declared the nominee. He knows that according to the ruling of the committee the race was confined to Reynolds and Crichton. Again he knows that according to the rules and the replies to his letters that L. H. Reynolds is to-day the nominee for representative. Mr. Crichton, true to our principles and honest to the core, declared Mr. Reynolds the true nominee.

Just think of it, all this squabbling and controversy caused by the chairman, not of the Democratic or Republican party, but of our own, backed by a small crowd who would rather see the People's Party disrupted than to see one man in office whom they cannot control. The majority of the people of our county left the old parties on account of the tricks, cliques, unfair and dishonest plans, that we might have a party free from all this, and now see where we are.

I tell you, Mr. Editor, we hope to see the day when the People's Party of this county will rid itself of all such tricksters and schemers for they are known and will soon be sent to their old homes by a people who once thought they could trust them.

Very Respt'y,
W. A. MIMS.

$1.00 FOR YOUR PHOTOGRAPH.

Write us a letter covering these three points:

FIRST,—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."

SECOND.—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.

THIRD.—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, net, and should retail at not over 10 or 12 cents, if consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain; Zeilin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 300 or 400 per cent., instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine," which you be sure to specify, and take no other, as there is nothing else like it.

On receipt of your letter enclosing photograph, we will mail you free of charge, a $1.00 package Liver Medicine, or on receipt of letter without photograph we will mail you a 25 cent package, free.

CUBAN RESOLUTION.

Mr. Powell, of Jefferson, introduced a resolution committing the democrats of Alabama in favor of the cause of the Cubans, and requesting the Federal government to recognize them as belligerents. The resolution prevailed by an overwhelming vote.

THE PLATFORM.

We the democrats of the state of Alabama, in convention assembled, declare our continued faith in the old time-honored principles of the democratic party, and among these principles are the following:

1. The free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at 16 to 1 as the standard money of the country, without any discrimination against either metal and without the consent of foreign nations, as the United States coined silver and gold before the republican party obtained control of the government and changed the coinage laws of the country for the benefit of a class and to the injury of a great mass of the people.

2. The unconstitutional penalty of 10 per centum on each issue of state bank notes by any state or national bank ought to be repealed.

It is our purpose to maintain a government in this state fair and just to all, under control of the white men of Alabama.

The faith and credit of the state must be maintained untarnished.

Our system of public education should be improved and extended so far as the state has the ability without oppressive taxation.

We are in favor of honest and fair elections, and we recommend that laws be enacted under which primary elections and other party proceedings for the selection of candidates may be conducted.

We cordially invite all good citizens of this state, and especially all democrats who strayed from the party, to unite with us in an earnest and determined effort to maintain good government in the state of Alabama.

Let us preserve the dignity and credit and peace, and if possible, the prosperity of our state.

CARR DECLARED CRAZY.

He Was Under Sentence to Hang at Atlanta.

A special from Atlanta says: Alex Carr, the murderer, has been declared insane by a jury. He was under sentence to be hanged Friday last, but this will save him. Carr killed John King here in 1894. The murderer soon began to feign insanity. For more than a year he did not speak a word. Experts pronounced him a victim of dementia. But he was convicted of murder and sentenced to be hanged. One month ago, just a few days before the date set for his execution, he broke his long silence and stated that he had been shamming all the time. The governor gave him thirty days' respite to see whether or not he was insane. Thursday he was examined and pronounced insane. He will be sent to the asylum. It is still a question with a great many whether he is sane or insane.

Evangelist Diaz Released.

Rev. Albert Diaz, the Baptist evangelist of Cuba, an American by naturalization, whose recent arrest and imprisonment by the Spanish authorities so stirred the hearts of Baptists and other Christians in this country, has with his brother Alfred, been released on condition of his leaving Cuba within six days. The Baptists of Atlanta, Ga., have invited him to that hospitable city.

Britons vs. Matabeles.

A dispatch from Buluwayo, South Africa, dated April 24, says: Commander Duncan, with 200 whites and 100 natives, with Maxim and Hotchkiss guns, met the Matabeles three miles out from Buluwayo. The Matabeles fired a heavy volley into the British party and drove them into the Umguza river. One of the whites of the British party was killed, three officers were wounded and several of the natives also killed.

Mr. Wiley is an energetic and capable newspaper man, and Mr. Bayol is competent to make the business management of the enterprise a success.

Nine Orphaned Children.

Mr. Clarence Crenshaw was buried from his home in Marion last Wednesday afternoon, with Masonic honors. His death resulted from a fall down a flight of steps in the hotel at Columbus, Miss., fracturing his skull. His wife has only been dead a few months, and the entire community sympathizes deeply with the nine orphaned children.

Athens College Commencement.

The commencement exercises of the Athens Female College will take place May 31 to June 3. Rev. R. A. Timmons, of LaFayette, will preach the commencement sermon Sunday May 31 at 11 a. m. Rev. J. W. Shoemaker, of Florence, will preach the baccalaureate sermon the evening of the same date at 8 o'clock.

Compulsary Vaccination.

Among the sanitary measures recommended by the state board of health was one asking the legislature to vest power in city authorities to compel vaccination in the future as a prerequisite for admission to the public schools, thus gradually protecting more and more the cities and towns from the dangers incident to small pox.

Great Revival at Blountsville.

There was a great revival at the Methodist church in Blountsville last week. More than fifty persons were converted and about thirty joined the church.

Dr. McGaha, of East Lake, is to preach the commencement sermon at Blount college and Dr. Anson West the baccalaureate. Rev. G. W. Reed, of Birmingham, will deliver the annual address.

Dogwood Timber Valuable.

W. R. Sloan, of Buffalo, N. Y., was in Mobile en route to the cypress swamps near that city. Mr. Sloan said: "From the car windows I notice the dogwood in bloom everywhere. It is not generally known, but dogwood and persimmon timber is getting more valuable every day. It is the only wood available for the spindles in cotton mills and millions are used every year."

Alabama Medical Association.

This important body, which has been in session in Montgomery adjourned Friday at noon, to meet in Selma next year. The session was entirely harmonious and profitable and pleasant in all its details, social, legislative and scientific. The attendance was good, 162 physicians registering. The hospitality of the physicians of the city and of the citizens was generous and cordial.

Murder Near Ishkooda.

A cruel murder was committed Thursday afternoon about two miles from Ishkooda, some five or six miles below Birmingham. Alonzo Cook, colored, shot and killed Susie Spencer, also colored. The murderer is still at large. It seems that the two quarreled when Cook pulled his gun and fired on the woman, killing her instantly. A telegram was received by the police department to look for the man, who is described about 5 feet 7 inches in height, and of ginger-cake color. He is said to be 25 years of age.

Desperate Attempt of a Convict.

Last week Tom Martin, a negro, was sentenced in Birmingham criminal court to a term of two years in the penitentiary. Special Officer S. B. Hale was taking him, chained to another convict, to Pratt Mines. While they were going through the woods between Pratt Station and the mines Martin sprang at Mr. Hale's horse, causing him to shy so suddenly that Hale was thrown to the ground. Martin jumped on him. In the struggle Officer Hale shot Martin in the thigh. He then submitted, and now lies in the prison hospital.

Another for Birmingham.

In a quiet way T. C. Thompson & Co. have erected the plant of the Birmingham Car Wheel works in the southwestern portion of the city near Alice furnace. The buildings are complete, and yesterday Mr. Thompson was ready to turn them over to the owners. Machinery will be put in at once, and the institution will soon be doing practical work. Over 100 hands will be employed, and another substantial industry will soon be adding to the growth and progress of the community. N. S. Bouton and associates, of Chicago, are at the head of this enterprise. Malone & Bell brought them to the city. This industry wil represent an outlay of $100,000.

Remarkable Electrical Experiments.

One night during the session of the Medical Association in Montgomery Professor McKissick, of Auburn, the accomplished young electrician of the college there, gave a series of beautiful and remarkable electrical experiments to a very large gathering of doctors and citizens, along the line of the study of the new X ray, by which, with electrical illumination of Geissler tubes, it was rendered perfectly possible to see clearly and distinctly objects through a block of wood an inch and a half thick, and other perfectly astonishing revelations of this discovery which, even now in its infancy, promises so much for the future of science. Many of these facts were demonstrated in large detail by the aid of the sterepticon.

Alabama's Poultry Show.

Arrangements have been perfected for giving the annual exhibition of the Alabama Pet Stock and Poultry Association in the city of Birmingham. It has been decided that the show will take place on December 15, 16 and 17. A large hall will be secured in the heart of the city, so as to render it convenient for the whole public to inspect the beautiful birds that will be on exhibition. It is expected that there will be at least two thousand feathered wonders on show. They will come from all parts of the country. Already a large number of special premiums have been secured from the local merchants in addition to the regular prizes that will be offered by the association itself.

Murdered While Asleep.

On Sunday while Bob Lewis, colored, was asleep in his cabin near Smith's Mines, in Jefferson county, Hattie Hayden and Josie Pegram, colored, were observed to enter the house and immediately afterwards a shot was heard. Men rushed to the house and therein found the two women, so it is stated, and discovered the man dying from a wound made by a pistol. The man did not live long enough to give a statement of the affair, so it is said. The women were arrested and brought to the city, where they were lodged in the county jail and a charge of murder was preferred against them both by Constable B. E. McGhee. The case was heard in the court of Justice J. L. Whitmore this morning and the Pegram woman as the result was turned loose, while Hattie Hayden was remanded to jail without bail to await the action of the grand jury.

Items Noted.

C. L. Bacon, of Gadsden, purchased 830 bales of cotton from A. G. Henry in Guntersville last week.

The Etowah Rifles are drilling preparatory to going to the state encampment, which will probably be in Birmingham.

Mrs. Phoeba Chapman, of Gadsden, has been awarded $2,000 damages for the killing of her husband by the Alabama Great Southern road some time ago.

A gentleman from Columbus, O., has been in and around Valley Head recently looking for a location to establish a colony of the Society of Friends or Quakers.

J. L. Griffin & Co. have erected a large saw mill at Gadsden and the mill is now running. It has a capacity of 20,000 feet of lumber per day and will give employment to a large number of men.

Unknown Man Killed.

About 5 o'clock last Thursday morning an unknown tramp was killed on the Louisville and Nashville railroad track, just north of the New Decatur depot, the engine passing over the man's breast, resulting in instant death. It is thought that the man was beating his way north over the road. Nothing was found on the body of value or by which his name or destination could be determined. A negro hack driver who went up on the train Thursday morning identified the remains as those of a man of foreign accent, whom he had seen Wednesday night in Birmingham begging, and who said he was an English seaman, on his way from San Francisco, Cal., to Philadelphia, where he expected to get on an English vessel. His height was above that of the average man, of blond complexion, hair sandy, and having a slight beard. He was about 45 years of age. There were tatooed figures upon the breast, which, it is said, were obliterated by the cause of death.

Bad Barn Burners.

Two large stock barns were burned near Fayetteville, Tenn., last week and in each case the fires were clearly traced to incendiarians. The first barn belonged to Parks Bros., on the Mulberry pike, the other belonged to A. H. Smith and was situated on the road to Pulaski, six miles out. Five head of horses were burned, among them Fannie B. M., winner of a number of races in the north last year. The fire was undoubtedly caused by incendiaries and the farmers are holding meetings all over the district. The excitement is very great.

Jealousy, Murder, Suicide.

Last Thursday afternoon at a place about two miles south of Meadville, Pa., Edward Karleskind shot his wife in the head three times and then cut his own throat. Both are dead. The only witness of the tragedy was the couple's 3-year-old girl. She says her father knocked her mother down with a club and then shot her. Thinking the woman was dead, he took a razor and cut his own throat from ear to ear, dying almost instantly. The woman lingered in agony for about two hours. Jealousy was the cause of the trouble.

Possibilities of the Ray.

It has long been known that sunlight is a potent destroyer of noxious germs, and the general belief is that it is the actinic rays that chiefly have such action. Now, if the X rays are merely the invisible ultra-violet rays of the spectrum, they are probably the most actinic of all. Indeed, that is indicated by their effect upon photographic plates. That they may prove to be powerful germicide agents, and it may be needful only to pass them through the human body to destroy all the noxious bacteria in the most remote and inaccessible tissues.

The Biggest Prune Orchard.

The largest prune orchard in the world is said to be located at Los Gatos, on the western edge of the Santa Clare Valley, California. It contains nearly 50,000 trees, covering about 380 acres. A hundred workmen and as many horses are constantly employed on this farm, which is provided with its own water works and electric light plant.

A woman who never marries misses the greatest opportunity of her life to be a martyr.

An English kindergarten game consists of a little box containing flags of different colors with an outline map. Both flags and divisions on maps are numbered with corresponding numbers. Flags of one color are used for towns, another for rivers, one for mountains and one for mineral fields. This idea might be used with advantage by the mother who goes through the geography lessons with her small children. If they were given bits of colored paper and permitted to make the flags of different nations, they could then be used to denote the territory of different countries.

Humor with the Puritans.

"I suppose," remarked Miles Standish, emptying the water from his shoe, "that we can now be referred to as landed aristocrats."

And when this was repeated to Elder Brewster and explained to him he almost laughed.—New York Recorder.

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. Walter Waterman, of No. 24 North Eleventh street, Philadelphia, writes under date of August 31, 1896: "I have always been a great sufferer from constipation. My liver seemed to be out of order almost all the time. Besides my face looking yellow. I am forty-two years old and have always led an indoor life. Some time ago a neighbor of mine suggested that I try Ripans Tabules. I did so. I now take them. I feel better. My bowels act well and they tell me my color has gotten more healthy in the face. I usually take one Tabule every day, also one at night before getting in bed. I have tried most all kinds of remedies. I am confident from the past experience that these Tabules have put me on my feet and I would recommend them to anybody who has been afflicted like me. I write this without solicitation."

VOL. IV. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, MAY 7, 1896. NO. 28.

From James G. Blaine's speech in the United States Senate, 1880.

"On the much vexed and long mooted question as to bimetallic and monometallic standard my own views are sufficiently indicated in the remarks I have made. I believe the struggle now going on in this country and in other countries for a single gold standard would, if successful, produce widespread disaster in and throughout the commercial world. The destruction of silver as money, and establishing gold as the sole unit of value, must have a ruinous effect on all forms of property except those investments which yield a fixed return in money. Those would be enormously enhanced in value and would gain a disproportionate and unfair advantage over every other species of property. If, as the most reliable statistics affirm, there are nearly $7,000,000,000 of coin or bullion in the world, very equally divided between gold and silver, it is impossible to strike silver out of existence as money without results which will prove distressing to millions and utterly disastrous to tens of thousands.

"I believe gold and silver coin to be the money of the constitution; indeed, the money of the American people anterior to the constitution, which the great organic law recognized as quite independent of its own existence. No power was conferred on congress to declare either metal should not be money. Congress has, therefore, in my judgment, no power to demonetize either. If, therefore, silver has been demonetized, I am in favor of demonetizing it. If its coinage has been prohibited, I am in favor of ordering it to be resumed; I am in favor of having it enlarged."

OPPOSED TO SACRIFICE OF ANY VITAL PRINCIPLE.

The Vice-President of the National Reform Press Association Favors A Union Only on an Honorable Basis—A Clever Painter.

One of the shrewdest politicians in the south is the Hon. Frank Burkitt of Mississippi, vice-president of the National Reform Press association and late candidate for governor of that state on the populist ticket. He has also been prominently mentioned as a possible candidate for vice-president on the populist ticket. Speaking of a union of reform forces, recently, in the People's Messenger, his own paper, Mr. Burkitt says:

"We publish elsewhere a communication from Brother T. N. Jackson of Amite favoring a combination of all reform forces in opposition to a gold standard. Such we apprehend is the feeling of every populist in the country, if it can be done without a sacrifice of vital principles and an abandonment of old time friends, who regard the land or transportation question as of paramount importance. Brother Jackson puts stress on the fact that the free silver party were invited to meet us at St. Louis and seems to think, we, by this act are under obligations to surrender a part of the Omaha platform. Just as well contend that Brother Jackson, when he invites a friend to his house to partake of his hospitality, is under obligations to surrender a part of his family government.

"Brother Jackson assumes there is a free silver party, when in fact there is no such party. An aggregation of gentlemen, members still of the two old parties, are dissatisfied with the manner in which both the republicans and democrats deal with the silver question and they are threatening to secede unless their respective parties shall meet their views on this subject, when their conventions are held and nominations are made. If this is done, we are told the free silverites will be content to stay with the old parties and they are not expected to surrender any of their old principles.' But before they can condescend to fight for their rights under the populist banner, we are informed by Gen. Warner, speaking for the silverites, we must surrender some if not all of our 'old principles.'

"Now we think we know Brother Jackson well enough to say that he will not accept any such terms, for a union under such conditions would mean the degradation and utter overthrow of our party organization

"Like our brother, we desire to see every man in America opposed to the English system of finance marshalled under one banner in the coming battle, but it must be done, if done at all, upon terms that will be honorable to all and humiliating to none. We are not demanding any 'sacrifice' to be made by the silver men in order that our respective forces may co-operate as allies against the gold power, and while we can and will make concessions for sweet harmony's sake, we are not prepared to make 'sacrifices' of principle to secure co-operation.

"When it is an incontrovertable fact that the people's party is the only national organization that has pronounced emphatically for free coinage at the rates of 16 to 1, and none of its members have ever failed after election to vote as they promised in the canvass preceding, the honest free silver man will not refuse to vote with us as against a gold standard of a cowardly, straddling plank in the [illegible] party platforms, and the man who would hesitate because the populists uphold the three cardinal declarations of the Omaha platform: 'Finance, Land and Transportation,' leaving him free to accept or reject whatever he pleased, would prove a weak ally, and probably a traitor in the end should he enter our camp. We say 'let's get together' with Brother Jackson, but let it be upon a basis that requires no 'sacrifices' at the hands of any party to the compact."

PASS THEM ALONG.

The following call has been sent out, from Washington, from the able chairman of the free-silver party of the United States:

American Silver Organization.—Office, Chairman National Committee, Corcoran Building, Washington, D. C.

Plan of Organization.

That the voters of the country may have an opportunity to so organize that they can co-operate and redeem our country from the blight of a gold standard which has made the one-hundred-cent dollar of 1873 a two-hundred-cent dollar in 1896, and is paralyzing the energies of our people, undermining our liberties and bids fair to fill the land with poor-houses, the National Committee appointed by the Silver Conference, in Washington, D. C., Jan. 22 and 23, suggests the following plan of organization:

1st. That the organization proceed from the people up, by all silver men signing the club roll.

2d. That the organization should extend into every school district, so that clubs may be formed convenient to the homes of the people.

In order to effect such organization, the representative of the National committee in each state and territory should proceed to secure the co-operation of one active and efficient worker in each county to act as a committeeman for such county, whose duty it will be to organize said county.

The county committeeman should proceed without delay to secure the co-operation of one active man in each city, township or precinct to undertake the organization of said city, township or precinct. It is further recommended that the city, township or precinct committeemen subdivide their work by the appointment of a committeeman in each school district, whose duty it will be to canvass the school district and secure the signature of voters to the club roll.

This would make a state organization right down with the people, each county having a member of the state executive committee. The school district committee men would constitute a township or precinct committee; the county committee would consist of the chairman of the township or precinct committees. It will be the duty of the representative of the Provisional National Committee to act as chairman of the state committee, until after state conventions have been held, and a new state committee created.

The importance of an immediate thorough canvass of the voters and the securing of their signature to the club roll cannot be too strongly urged. After the signatures are secured the work of perfecting the organization becomes easy. If this plan be adopted and vigorously executed it is believed that a majority of the voters can be enlisted in our cause long before the date set for holding our national convention. When the people understand that this plan has been adopted throughout the entire country they will at once realize that the only effective way of overcoming the money power and its servile politicians and press has been adopted, and hope will take the place of despair.

The club roll should be left in charge of the school district committeeman but a copy should be furnished to the national committee so that newspapers and documents could be sent to all signers of the club roll if desired—and further, so that the number of true friends of silver in the United States could be ascertained.

When the politicians learn the number of names on the list the Straddler will straddle no more and Goldbuggery will hide its head.

J. J. MOTT,
Chairman.

Whereas: The demonetization of silver in 1873 enormously increased the demand for gold, enhancing its purchasing power and forcing down prices until the one-hundred-cent dollar of 1873 has become a two-hundred cent dollar in 1896, measured by the average of American products. This fall of prices has deprived legitimate industry of profit, and injured producers for the benefit of non-producers, increased the burden of debts, swelled the gains of creditors and paralyzed the productive energies of the American people; condemning willing workers to idleness and filling our land with tramps and paupers while building up colossal fortunes at the money centers; Therefore be it

Resolved, That we the undersigned legal voters of.............................. County ....State .... will not support any political party, or vote for any candidate for any office whatever that does not favor the restoration of the money of the constitution by the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold on terms of exact equality regardless of the action of other nations, and that we will not support any candidate for the office of president or vice-president whose past record on this question does not constitute a guarantee of his action in the future.

NAME.	RESIDENCE.

We hope that all men who are not members of the People's party, and who do not desire to join it, but who nevertheless are in favor of free silver, will cut out the foregoing petition and pasting it at the top of a sheet of paper, get as many signatures to it as possible. I. D.

Are They Blameless?

If you are a populist you needn't read the short extract that follows. But if you are a democrat or a republican it may pay you to study it a little. It is from the New Charter, of San Jose, California:

For eight years we voted the republican ticket. When we became a voter all the chief legislative deviltry of the republican party had been committed. Men older and wiser than ourselves did all in their power to enlighten us. They gave us books and we would not read them. They gave us papers and we tore them up. They argued with us and we got mad, shrugged our shoulders, sneered, cussed the men who argued with us, and told them if they didn't like the country they had better get out of it. What was the matter with us? We were a party slave, with a party ring in our nose, the party collar on our neck, the party goggles before our eyes. We had eyes to see with, ears to hear with, brains to think with, yet we let the party bosses do our seeing, hearing and thinking on all things political. What we did, seven out of eight men in this country are still doing, in spite of the thousands who are holding the truth up before them. Were we blameless? Are they blameless?

USURY MEANS DEATH.

THE INCUBUS AND CURSE OF CIVILIZATION.

Has Left the Earth in Every Age and Clime Whitened With the Bones of Its Victims—Must Have a New Financial System.

The crisis is upon us. The campaign of 1896 will result in more for weal or woe than any event since the birth of this republic. The laborers and producers of the nation are being destroyed by an insatiable monster—usury. If this demon survives, the masses must perish. Though denounced by God, reason and experience, this fiend has left the earth in every age and clime, whitened with the bones of its victims. This word usury means to gnaw, to bite and is so defined because it eats up, or absorbs the product of the labor of others. But hard as the iron task-maker has been in the past, there has been no period when it was so powerful, so rapacious, so cruel and all-devouring as at present. Within the last half century it has submerged the United States beneath an ocean of interest-bearing bonds and debts, such as no previous age or civilization ever faced or contemplated. Mr. Harvey estimates the public and private debt at forty thousand millions of dollars. Other writers have placed it at thirty-two thousand millions of dollars. Hon. J. H. Walker, republican member of congress from Massachusetts, author of the proposed new national banking act, stated in Congress in March, 1892, that the debts of our people, public and private, amounted to thirty-one thousand millions of dollars. If we accept his figures, the interest at 6 per cent each year would amount to $1,860,000,000. This is more than the total value of all the following commodities, viz.: wheat, corn, oats, rye, barley, buckwheat, potatoes, hay, tobacco, gold and silver produced in the United States in 1894, which according to government reports were of the value of $1,303,873,433. If we add to this usury on debts the amount paid yearly for taxes, federal, state and municipal, which is $800,000,000, then we have the following burden:

Annual usury	$1,860,000,000
Taxes	800,000,000
Total taxes and usury	$2,660,000,000

This is a sum far in excess of the total wages paid in the year 1890 to 4,711,832 persons, engaged in all the factories of the United States who received $2,282,823,265. The total value of all property in the United States in 1890 was $66,000,000,000. The shrinkage in values since 1890 has been in excess of the added value, so that we may safely say the total property does not at present price exceed $60,000,000,000. But this debt of thirty-one thousand millions is owed by the masses and is owned and held by the rich. Now in 1889 we find that 200,000 families own $46,200,000,000. They certainly own as much or more now, and when this is deducted from the $60,000,000,000 (the present value of all property), we find that there remains less than fifteen billions of dollars in the hands of the remaining thirteen millions of families in our country, and at the rate of present accumulation, all this must be swept into the hands of the few in a very short time. While debts have increased, the means of payment have decreased. The ascertained loss on the following crops during the past twenty-five years by the fall in prices since 1870 has been as follows:

Cotton	$5,179,000,000
Wheat	2,589,000,000
Wool	950,000,000
Barley	225,000,000
Corn	1,772,000,000
Oats	510,000,000
Rye	37,000,000
Live stock	1,384,000,000
Total	$12,646,000,000

While such ruinous losses from falling prices have bankrupted agriculture and beggared labor, the value of bank stocks has increased beyond the fondest dreams of avarice. Chemical Bank stock rising from $100 per share to over $4,000 per share. First National (John Sherman's bank) from $100 to $2,500 per share, and numerous others rising from five to eight hundred per cent in value.

Again, we see that usury rolls wealth so rapidly into the hands of the few that they cannot find investment for it all in loans. It has absorbed all railroads, telegraphs, coal mines, oil fields, lumber forests, and similar industries, and by the enormous advantage of immense combined capital has consolidated the manufacturing and similar branches of business into three hundred gigantic trusts all controlled by the few. It has thus swept the smaller operators out of business and turned profit from such business to the usurers. This oligarchy, with control of banking, transportation and the trusts, increasing its income so rapidly has but one other outlet. It turns to absorb all valuable agricultural land. To this end it raises firmly its invincible weapon, the gold standard, by which it can force prices of land and products ever lower, until it has by foreclosure of mortgages or otherwise, swept all such land to the hands of plutocracy, thus destroying all independent American farmers, reducing them to renters and wage slaves, who in rags must toil side by side with Chinamen, and fast hurrying all branches of labor to conditions, where a pure despotism of capital shall grind ever deeper into the dust of despair, slavery and misery the once happy and hopeful millions of our land. With wages ever falling, the masses become more wretched, the army of unemployed is greater. The usurer despots object to giving to labor the means of life by public employment of the unemployed while they are yet outside the jail, but favor driving the laborer first to imprisonment where he may work as the slave of the state. To this end they enact so-called vagrant laws, by which all men without means of support become criminals, and when arrested and forced to prison for the crime of poverty, the usurers favor furnishing public employment in prisons to the victims whom they have forced to that position.

This is the situation, and the problem we are called to face in the year 1896. Therefore we are now face to face with the crisis of the ages. We enter upon this irrepressible conflict from which we are to emerge with victory and industrial freedom, or in defeat and hopeless slavery. If we will rise to the occasion the contest cannot be doubtful. The usurers have frankly stated the process by which they have enslaved the people, in the infamous Hazard circular issued by the London capitalists to the New York bankers in 1862, which said:

"Slavery is likely to be abolished by the war power, and chattel slavery destroyed. This I and my European friends are in favor of, for slavery is but the owning of labor, and carries with it the care of the laborer, while the European plan led on by England, is capital control of labor by controlling wages. This can be done by controlling the money."

It is, therefore, the control of money which they confess has been the chief weapon in destroying our people. This control of money has been possible only because these same despots have controlled our government and our people can never end their slavery until they hurl from political power the organizations which have given, and now give to usurers the control of money. Mr. R. M. Widney, a banker, said in 1891: "A corner on money is a corner on all other corners combined and can control the social and political as well as the producing, labor and property interests of the nation." This is the testimony of every honest statesman and of all human experience. We must have a financial system which will place the control of money forever beyond the power of any combination or class. The remedy must be adequate to the occasion a system which will destroy usury is the only one which can meet the demands of this hour.

Avoid Nagging.

J. R. Miller, speaking of this common fault, says:

"Nagging is not a means of grace. There is a more excellent way—the way of love. It is better, when we wish to correct faults in others, to be careful to let them see in us in strong relief, the virtue, the excellence, opposite to the defect we see in them. It is the habit of a certain good man, if one of his family or friends mispronounces a word in his hearing, never pedantically to correct the error, but at some early opportunity to find occasion to use the same word, giving it the correct pronunciation. Something like this is wise in helping others out of their faults of character or conduct. An example is better than a criticism."

The Way.

First find thou Truth, and then—
  Although she strays
From beaten paths of men
  To untrod ways—
Her leading follow straight;
And bide thy fate;
And whether smiles or scorn
  Thy passing greet,
Or find'st thou flower or thorn
  Beneath thy feet—
Fare on! nor fear thy fate
At Heaven's gate.

—Wm. S. Shurtleff.

Three Houses Form This Parish.

The changes necessary to the construction of Queen Victoria street, London, have brought about a curious state of affairs. Piece by piece has been taken from the parish of St. Mary Mounthaw until at present it actually consists of but three houses and yet it is legally an electoral parish still.—New York World.

River and Harbor Bill.

The senate committee on commerce has reported the river and harbor appropriation bill to the senate. Among the items added by the committee is $30,000 for dredging Mobile harbor.

Two Florida Bills.

Congressman Cooper's bill to settle the titles of settlers on the Arredondo grant has been favorably reported and also Mr. Sparkman's bill giving 100,000 acres of public land to the Normal college at DeFuniak Springs and the Tallahassee Normal college.

Getting Home the Gold.

Secretary Carlisle today called on the depository banks in New York to pay into the treasury $3,000,000 deposited in those banks in payment of the last government bond sale and which has remained up to this time. This action is taken because of the weakness of interest rates in New York and the strength of foreign exchange. It is done in a hope to prevent threatened gold exports.

Receipts and Expenditures.

Treasury figures which will be officially proclaimed tomorrow show that up to May 1 the excess of expenditures over receipts for the fiscal year aggregated $23,200,000. For the month of April the excess is $4,5000,000. In round numbers the receipts for the ten months of the fiscal year are $274,800,000 and expenditures $298,000,000.

Gen. Lee Preparing for Cuba.

Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, the new consul general of the United States at Havana called at the state department Saturday morning and had conferences with Secretary Olney and Assistant Secretary Rockhill. The Cuban situation was discussed, but further conferences will be held. The date of General Lee's departure for his post has not been settled, and he will probably remain in Washington several days posting himself on the state of affairs in the island, as shown by the reports received at the department.

Speed of the Big Cruisers.

The official computation of the speed made by the battleship Massachusetts in the trial trip Saturday, gives the vessel a record of 16.279 knots, according to a telegram received at the navy department this morning from Commodore Dewey, president of the trial board. As a result, the builders of the Massachusetts, the Cramps of Philadelphia, will get a premium of $125,000 or $25,000 for each quarter knot in excess of the contract requirement of 15 knots. The time made by the Indiana on her official trial was 15.61 knots.

Became Laws Without Approval.

The president, as was expected, has let the agricultural appropriation bill become a law without his signature, presumably because it thwarted Secretary Morton's purpose to abolish the seed distribution system. Four other bills have become laws without approval. These are the acts granting a pension of $100 a month to Joseph A. Cooper, late brigadier general, U. S. A., granting to railroad companies in Indian Territory additional grounds, granting a pension to Martha Brooks, of Nebraska, and the increase of the pension to Mary B. Houk, of Tennessee, widow of Congressman Leonidas Houk.

Executive Clemency.

The president has granted a pardon to R. J. Gilley, of Alabama, sentenced in July, 1893, to six years for conspiracy to intimidate witnesses. In his indorsement the president says he is satisfied that Gilley is not guilty of the charge. A pardon for the purpose of restoring him to citizenship was also granted M. R. Fleming, of Texas, passing counterfeit money. In the case of T. A. Hall, of Florida, convicted of cutting timber on government land and sentenced in March, 1895, to eighteen months in jail and a fine of $180, the imprisonment is remitted. The application for clemency made by Samuel Peeples, John Carnes and Anderson Black, convicted in Georgia of conspiracy to kill a person who had given information concerning violations of the revenue laws, was denied.

Assassination of the Shah of Persia.

Secretary Olney has received a cablegram from the minister of Teheran announcing that the shah of Persia, while visiting a shrine near the city for devotion, was shot by an assassin disguised as a woman. The shah was entering a shrine near Teheran when his assassin drew a pistol and fired at him, the bullet striking near his heart. The wounded ruler was at once conveyed to his carriage and taken with all speed to the palace, where he died two hours later. The murderer was arrested. It is believed he had accomplices.

The details that have reached London, England, of the assassination of the shah are of the briefest character. As the shah was entering the inner court of the shrine of Shah Abdul Azim the assassin, who is said to be a Sayyid from Kerman, named Mollah Rosea, delivered the fatal shot. The shah was attended by his chief physician, Dr. Tholoseau, and other physicians. The assassination caused much alarm. Prince Niab-Es-Saltanes, the third son of the shah, retired to his palace at the request of the government. The heir to the throne, Muzapar-Ed-Din, is at Tabriz. He will leave for the capital as soon as possible. A possible reason for the crime is that there has been much discontent for some time owing to the dearness of provisions, partly caused by the excessive issue of copper coins.

The Onwo Goes Down, With Over 300 People.

A dispatch from Shanghai, China, says the steamer Onwo has been sunk by coming into collision with the steamer Newchwang, off Woo Sung, ten miles north of Shanghai. A news agency dispatch from Shanghai, says that by the sinking of the British steamer Onwo, many lives have been lost. The European survivors of the sunken vessel are Second Officer Cooper and Third Engineer Allen. The drowned include the captain, five English officers and 300 Chinese. The United States warships Olympia, Boston, Yorktown and Detroit sent boats to the assistance of the Onwo and saved many lives.

SOUTHERN INDUSTRIAL PROGRESS

Birmingham, Ala., Enterprises Hold a Prominent Place.

Special reports to the Manufacturers' Record from various parts of the south, especially from the Birmingham region, show a very decided revival in business interests. In addition to the steel mill projected recently by the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, the Birmingham Rolling Mill company has definitely decided to build a steel mill with a capacity of about 200 tons a day. At the same place a $100,000 cotton seed oil mill company, a $100,000 tobacco factory, a large powder mill have been organized during the week and negotiations are pending looking to the building there of a $600,000 cotton mill by northern people. The development of grain facilities at southern ports continues to attract attention, and contracts have been made for the expenditure of about $500,000, to include two new cotton compresses, warehouses and other interests near New Orleans, while work has commenced at Pensacola on transportation improvements by the Louisville and Nashville railroad, including a grain elevator, the aggregate expenditure being about $150,000. One of the most extensive water powers in the south has been capitalized at $2,000,000, with the reported intention of large electrical development and the transmission of electric power in connection with cotton mill enterprises. Gold mining matters continue to attract attention, and in Virginia, North Carolina and Georgia considerable capital is being invested in the purchase and development of gold properties. Among other industrial enterprises reported for the week were the enlargement of several cotton mills and one or or new mills projected; a $25,000 lumber company in Mississippi; a forty-ton cotton seed oil mill in Texas; a $50,000 flour mill and a $30,000 compress in the same state.

Free Fight at a Picnic.

At a picnic Saturday, at Stilesboro, Ga., where one Bob McGinnis had put a dancing stand, a drunken man fell during a dance and broke up the set. A row ensued in which pistols were freely used, and seven persons received painful wounds. Three of the seven bear the name McGinnis. Among the worst is a little girl, Mary Jolley, who was shot in the neck.

Shah Muzafar Ed-Din.

THE PLATFORM.

"The People's Party of the State of Alabama, in convention assembled, recognizing the supremacy of political liberty over all the questions that can come before the people of the State for solution at the general State election, to take place on the 3rd day of August, 1896, reaffirm our allegiance to the cardinal principles of Populism as follows:

"First—We demand a free ballot and a fair count.

"Second—We believe in the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of international agreement.

"Third—We demand that miners and others like corporate labor be paid in lawful money of the United States semi-monthly.

"Fourth—We favor a tariff for revenue, so adjusted as to protect, as far as practicable the farmers, and the labour in our shops, mines, factories and mills, and their products against foreign pauper labor."

Judge Zell Gaston's amendment to the 2d section was as follows:

"We demand the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the abolition of national banks, the expansion of the currency to meet the needs of the people and the demands of commerce, free from the control of corporate influences, and we condemn the issue of interest bearing bonds in time of peace."

Next came a lot of rssolutions, which passed unanimously:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that our representatives in congress be and are hereby requested to use their best endeavors to secure appropriations by the Federal Government to open the Warrier River to navigation from the coal fields to the Gulf of Mexico."

"Resolved, That our county appointing boards are hereby requested to give to the political opposition a competent inspector at every polling place in their respective counties.

"And we further request the inspector so appointed to give a competent clerk and fixer at each polling place to said political opposition."

REGISTER!

THE county executive committee will meet at Clanton on Saturday for the purpose of counting the votes cast in Tuesday's primary and will then officially declare the county ticket.

Now that the state convention has given us a first-class ticket and our own county primaries are over all we have to do is to keep steadily at work until August and then poll every vote in the county and pile up the biggest majority for the People's Party we have yet seen in Chilton county. But remember you must register NOW in order to vote in August.

REGISTRATION began last Monday, and will close on Saturday, May 23.

THE second primary is now over and so far as we have been able to get news of the result it would appear that the following gentlemen have been successful: J. T. Cooley, for sheriff; and A. C. Mims, assessor. It will take fuller returns than we have at present to decide whether T. J. Hubbard or J. A. Logan is ahead for the collector's office. From the partial information we possess the race between L. H. Reynolds and E. G. Rollins for the office of representative is very close, but Reynolds seems to be slightly in the lead. Of course it is known that Alex G. Dake for treasurer and J. W. Moore for superintendent of education, having met with no opposition, are the respective nominees for those offices. There is considerable doubt as to who have been elected commissioners, but it would seem to be Rufus C. Riggins in the first district, Alex G. Glasscock in the second, J. G. Smitherman in the third, and in the fourth it is doubtful whether Moses Robinson or J. R. Vinson has received the largest number of votes. We will give full particulars next week.

THE State Convention made the heart of every Populist who was present feel good, and at the same time was an object lesson to such Democrats who viewed the proceedings. From beginning to end it was evidently a convention of the people, by the people and for the people. Every question that came before the Convention was freely and thoroughly discussed from different stanpoints. There was no hesitation in expressing opinions. Every man present felt he had a right to say exactly what he thought, and said it. The one pre-eminent question was that of co-operation with the Republicans for the purpose of securing an honest election law. There is no difference of opinion among the people of Alabama that we do require an honest election law, but there has been some difference of opinion as to whether it was not best for the Populists to endeavor to secure it inside our party, and without assisatance from any source.

It was evident from the start that those who favored fighting this question on a straight Populist ticket intended to do all in their power to attain that end, and it was also apparent there was a majority present who considered it was advisable to secure the assistance of all who favored a free ballot and a fair count, and that it would not be wise to reject Republican aid. The Populists produced their own platform (which will be found in another column) and the two gentlemen from the Republican party, Mr. J. A. Grimmett and Mr. W. H. Smith, Jr., endorse that platform and now Populists and Republicans go hand in hand through this campaign and will in August prove to the world that Democratic ballot-box stuffing is a thing of the past.

But nothing gave us greater pleasure at the Convention than the unanimity with which those gentlemen who had opposed the plan of co-operation gracefully accepted the will of the majority and in the spirit of true Populism pledged their hearty support to the ticket. This Convention made manifest the fact that Populists are men who do their own thinking and cannot be coerced against their convictions, and yet, while endeavoring to ameliorate the lot of suffering humanity, are not so wedded to their own opinions as not to be open to conviction by their brethren.

The copious showers and beautiful warm sunshine has made corn, cotton and all other vegetation look vigorous; grass not excepted.

Farmers have commenced chopping cotton somewhat earlier this season than usual.

Mr. Wm. DeShazo and wife visited relatives at Dixie last Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Geneva Jones was elected secretary of the Isabella Sunday-school last Sunday.

The Mulberry Sunday-school continues to grow in interest.

There seems to have been some misunderstanding as to when the singing convention would be at Mulberry, as it was first announced for the first Sunday in May and then the third Sunday, I wish to state that the third Sunday, and Saturday before is right. Come and bring your books and baskets. While nature has adorned herself so beautifully with her new mantle of verdure it is fitting that we should follow her example and adorn our song service with new songs that are inspiring and awaken new hopes and aspirations. Be it known that I have made the following changes in the Register business. In beat six I have appointed Elijah Deason instead of Milton Roper, as Mr. Roper's eye-sight is very much impaired and he is growing too old. In beat eight I have appointed C. W. Plant to succeed E. L. McKee on account of his health and holding a position away from home. In beat 4 by request I have appointed W. B. James in place of W. M. Wilson. Beat 9 D. N. Riggins in place of Henry Estes who has left the county. I am ready to make any other appointments for vacancies that may occur in any of the other beats when notified.
B. W. GARNER, County Rgister.

When no change is announced in THE BANNER the Beat Registers who acted at the last election will hold the same position in this election.

"Matron of a Benevolent Home and knowing the good Dr. Miles' Nervine has done me, my wish to help others, overcomes my dislike for the publicity, this letter may give me. In Nov. and Dec., 1893, The inmates had the "LaGrippe," and I was one of the first. Resuming duty too soon, with the care of so many sick, I did not regain my health, and in a month I became so debilitated and nervous from sleeplessness and the drafts made on my vitality, that it was a question if I could go on. A dear friend advised me to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. I took 2 bottles and am happy to say, I am in better health than ever. I still continue its occasional use, as a nerve food, as my work is very trying. A letter addressed to Milwaukee, Wis., will reach me."

We secure the best patents for our clients, and the object of this offer is to encourage inventors to keep track of their bright ideas. At the same time we wish to impress upon the public the fact that such as the "car-window" which can be easily slid up and down without breaking the passenger's back, "sauce-pan," "collar-button," "nut-lock," "bottle-stopper," and a thousand other little things that most any one can find a way of improving; and these simple inventions are the ones that bring largest returns to the author. Try to think of something to invent.

IT IS NOT SO HARD AS IT SEEMS.

Patents taken out through us receive special notice in the "National Recorder," published at Washington, D. C., which is the best newspaper published in America in the interests of inventors. We furnish a year's subscription to this journal, free of cost, to all our clients. We also advertise, free of cost, the invention each month which wins our $150 prize, and hundreds of thousands of copies of the "National Recorder," containing a sketch of the winner, and a description of his invention, will be scattered throughout the United States among capitalists and manufacturers, thus bringing to their attention the merits of the invention.

Editor BANNER: I know you are pressed with communications, but please allow me space in your columns to express my sincere and heartfelt thanks to my friends throughout the county for their very hearty support in the primary of April 14, 1896, that it was much beyond my expectations as I was unable to mingle with them during the canvas at their public gatherings, and to assure them it has pleased me under a debt of gratitude to them, that I shall ever appreciate, and my highest aim shall ever be to merit it and if elected to discharge the duties to the best of my ability.

Yours with respect,

Death hath again visited our community and left many sad hearts to mourn the loss of our beloved sister in whose memory we feel impelled to speak a few words. Sister Martha Anne Varden was born June 1859 and died at her home near Liberty Hill church March 15, 1896. In early womanhood Sister Martha sought and found the Saviour and at once joined the Missionary Baptist church at Liberty Hill in which she proved faithful until her death. The impression which she made on our minds at the first continued unchanged to the very end of her life. We can but feel that it is good to have known such a woman and it is still better to look forward to meeting her again in the serene, peace and the open vision of the heavenly home. She was faithful to her church, obedient to her parents and a loving sister. Pure in heart, she now sees God. She will be missed and mourned by many loving friends and relatives. The voice of our beloved sister is hushed, we shall hear it no more on earth save in the sensitive ear of memory. So friends weep not as those who have no hope.

Done by order of church in conference Saturday before the second Sunday in April, 1896.

Money Made in a Minute.

I have not made less than $16.00 any day while selling Centrifugal Ice Cream Freezers. Anyone should make from $5 to $8 a day selling cream and from $7 to $10 selling frezers, as it is such a wonder, there is always a crowd wanting cream. You can freeze cream elegantly in one minute and that astonishes people so they all want to taste it, and then many of them buy freezers as the cream is smooth and perfectly frozen. Every freezer is guaranteed to freeze cream perfectly in one minute. Anyone can sell ice cream and the freezer sells itself. My sister makes from $10 to $15 a day. W. H. Baird & Co., 140 S. Highland Ave., Station A., Pittsburg, Pa., will mail you full particulars free, so you can go to work and make lots of money anywhere, as with one freezer you can make a hundred gallons of cream a day, or if you wish, they will hire you on a salary.

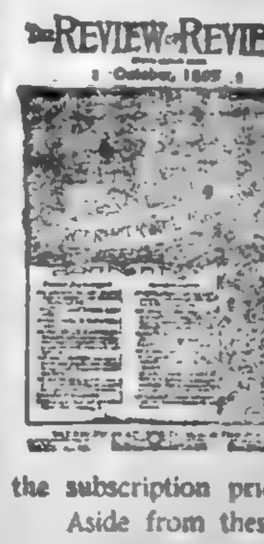
THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS

Edited by ALBERT SHAW.



THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as its name implies, gives in readable form the best that appears in the other great magazines all over the world, generally on the same date that they are published. With the recent extraordinary increase of worthy periodicals, these careful reviews, summaries, and quotations, giving the gist of periodical literature, are alone worth the subscription price.

Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the 'REVIEW OF REVIEWS,' which is a sort of Eiffel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."

What imagination will do I can show from my own experience. When a boy, in the Pyrenees, I once drank from a spring, and saw, to my horror, when I had already swallowed a mouthful, that the water was alive with small leeches. I had a bad time of it for two or three days. I firmly believed I had leeches alive and sucking my blood inside me; I felt them. I became languid. I believed they would drain my blood away. Happily, my father heard what was the matter with me and explained to me the corrosive nature of the gastric fluid and assured me that nothing living and of the nature of a leech could resist it.

A Good Dog is Worth Looking After.

If you own a dog and think anything of him, you should be able to treat him intelligently when ill and understand him sufficiently to detect symptoms of illness. The dog doctor book written by H. Clay Glover, D. V. S., specialist in canine diseases to the principal kennel clubs, will furnish this information. It is a cloth bound, handsomely illustrated book, and will be sent postpaid by the Book Publishing House, 134 Leonard St., New York City, on receipt of 40 cents in postage stamps.

J. T. SHUPTRINE, City.

Dear Sir:—"Several physicians treated me without success for what they pronounced a stubborn case of eczema. In addition to this I have tried every so-called remedy that was suggested to me, but nothing did me the slightest good until in sheer desperation I tried your TETTERINE. This effected what seems to be a PERMANENT cure, and I take pleasure in testifying to its merits." Respectfully yours, ISAAC G. HAAS.

That

Extreme tired feeling afflicts nearly everybody at this season. The hustlers cease to push, the tireless grow weary, the energetic become enervated. You know just what we mean. Some men and women endeavor temporarily to overcome that

Tired

Feeling by great force of will. But this is unsafe, as it pulls powerfully upon the nervous system, which will not long stand such strain. Too many people "work on their nerves," and the result is seen in unfortunate wrecks marked "nervous prostration," in every direction. That tired

THE PLATFORM.

There was much discussion of the platform and many amendments were offered, only one of which was adopted, it being that of Judge Gaston. The following is the platform:

"The people's party of the state of Alabama, in convention assembled, recognizing the supremacy of political liberty over all the questions that can come before the people of the state for solution at the general state election, to take place on the 3d day of August, 1896, reaffirm our allegiance to the cardinal principles of populism as follows:

"First:—We demand a free ballot and a fair count.

"Second—We believe in the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of international agreement.

"Third—We demand that miners and other like corporate labor be paid in lawful money of the United States semi-monthly.

"Fourth—We favor a tariff for revenue, so adjusted as to protect, as far as practicable, the farmers and the labor in our shops, mines, factories and mills, and their products, against foreign pauper labor."

Judge Zell Gaston's amendment to the second section was as follows:

We demand the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the abolition of national banks, the expansion of the currency to meet the needs of the people and the demands of commerce, free from the control of corporate influences, and we condemn the issue of interest bearing bonds in times of peace."

RESOLUTIONS.

George F. Gaither offered the following, which was adopted:

"Whereas, the business failures for the first quarter in 1896 have so far surpassed all past records, and believing this is due to our financial system,

"Therefore be it resolved, That our delegates to the national convention are hereby instructed to use all honorable and legitimate means to unite all the financial reforms in one solid phalanx against a polity that has brought want and misery to our once happy and prosperous country."

The following resolutions were passed:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that our representatives in congress be and are hereby requested to use their best endeavors to secure appropriations by the federal government to open the Warrior river to navigation from the coal fields to the gulf of Mexico."

"Resolved, That our county appointing boards are hereby requested to give to the political opposition a competent inspector at every polling place in their respective counties.

"And we further request the inspector so appointed to give a competent clerk and fixer at each polling place to said political opposition."

NEW ERA FOR ALABAMA COAL.

Way Opened to All-the-Year-Round Markets—More Work for Miners.

A few days ago representatives of the Southern Railway company and of the West Alabama Coal association met in Washington, D. C. When they adjourned an agreement had been reached and a contract properly signed by which the Southern Railway company should put in a new coal tipple at Greenville, Miss., the western terminal of that line, costing not less that $40,000, and by which a line of coal barges, numbering about 100, should be placed on the Mississippi river to carry the Alabama product to New Orleans and distribute it up and down the tributary streams.

The West Alabama Coal association is composed of these four coal companies: The Virginia and Alabama Coal company, the Corona Coal and Coke company, the American Coal and Coke company and the Kohinoor Coal Mining company, and this new enterprise will be conducted under the name of the above association, for the joint account of the Southern Railway company.

The Southern Railway company will begin at once the erection of an immense screen at the tipple already built at Greenville. A screen, as is well known, is used to separate the several grades of coal. When this additional work is completed the total cost of the plant in round numbers will be $75,000. Another important piece of work will be the arranging of the tipple so that barges can be loaded at any stage of water.

Perhaps the greatest and most important item in connection with the erection of this tipple at Greenville will be the affording of a market for coal the year round, avoiding the necessity, as heretofore, of light runs at the mines in the district during the months of March, April, May, June and July.

Lively Kentucky Mother.

The wife of Oscar B. Lyons, a respectable farmer living one mile west of Mayfield, Ky., gave birth last week to five strong, well-developed boys, all of whom are doing reasonably well and have good prospects of living. Four of the boys weighed four and one-quarter pounds each and the fifth weighed five pounds. The little city has been all excitement and intense interest ever since very early today when the news was first made known. The occurrence has been all the talk on the streets, the business men neglecting their business, clerks and employes generally forgetting business to discuss the Lyons children. Hundreds of people visited Lyon's humble home during the forenoon today to see the boys and their mother. During the afternoon, by the advice of their family physician, Dr. S. J. Matthews, at least 1,000 visitors were refused admittance.

Oscar B. Lyons, the father of the boys, is a native of Christian county. He came to this county some years since from Logan county, and is the father, including the last five, of eleven children. Mrs. Lyons, the mother, was a Miss Elizabeth Campbell. She was born and reared near Bowling Green, in this state, and moved to this county some years since with her husband. She is rather under the medium size, but strong and vigorous. The mother is doing splendid and seems happy over her boys.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyons are in only moderate means, and had not made arrangements to take care of so many babies, but the kind people of the town came to the relief, and many of the women either took or sent the little ones all the clothing and long dresses necessary for the time. The citizens here have raised money and have employed wet nurses to assist the family to take care of the children. Everything is being done by the people here to ensure the life and comfort of the babies, and everybody is deeply interested in their welfare.

Dr. S. J. Matthews, the attending physician, is very much elated over being the fortunate one called on to attend the mother during her confinement. Physicians here agree in the opinion that this case is the most remarkable one on record, and one that will attract universal attention among the medical fraternity.

CONDEMNED TO DEATH

By Judgment of the Court, But the Government is Merciful.

Four leaders of the reform committee of Johannesburg, South African Republic, who were implicated in Dr. Jameson's invasion of the Transvaal, when arraigned for trial plead guilty, hoping for the leniency of the court. But they were sentenced to death. One of the condemned men is John Haye Hammond, an American. The others are English. From the time their respective governments were informed of the severe sentence, the wires were kept hot until President Kruger gave assurance that the executive council of the republic had resolved not to enforce the death penalty. The British government has been informed that sixty other members of the reform committee have been sentenced to two years imprisonment, a fine of $10,000 and subsequent banishment for three years.

Leland Stanford Bequest.

After three years' litigation over the estate of the late Senator Stanford, Mrs. Stanford has at last been enabled to pay the bequest of $2,500,000 which the senator left to Leland Stanford, Jr., university. The bonds transferred to the university draw interest at the rate of $10,000 a month.

EVENTS IN ALABAMA

Carefully Collated and Condensed for Our Readers.

SUNDRY NEWS ITEMS NOTED.

Mobile's New Railroad—Coroner Appointed in Jefferson—Negro Shoots a Woman at Ishkooda—Murder at Oxmoor—Jugular Severed at Birmingham.

Shooting at Ishkooda.

A few days ago Alonzo Cook, a young negro, got into a quarrel with Susie Spencer, at Ishkooda, and shot her. The woman died of the wound and Cook lies in jail charged with murder. He claims the shooting was accidental.

Coroner Appointed.

Col. R. E. Jones, of Birmingham, has been appointed coroner of Jefferson county, by the governor, to fill the unexpired term of Coroner Dusenberry, deceased. Colonel Jones is the democratic nominee for the next term of the office, to which he has been appointed.

Struck by Lightning.

The dwelling of Mr. Riley, on Twelfth street, between Tenth and Eleventh avenues, Birmingham, was struck by lightning about 8 o'clock Friday morning. The house was considerably damaged, the roof and weatherboarding being partly wrecked. Fortunately no one was injured.

Industrial Movement.

The Clifton furnaces at Ironaton, Ala., will be repaired and put in blast. Crellin & Nalls, of the Birmingham Boiler works, have just made a $20,000 contract for repairing the Clifton furnaces. They have also just completed repairs to the Sloss Steel and Iron company's furnaces at North Birmingham. This last contract amounted to $12,000.

Struck by Lightning.

The depot of the Southern Railway at Cordova was struck by lightning Wednesday night, setting on fire some files, way-bills and messages hanging on the walls. The agent was fortunately out at the time, returning just in time to save the building from destruction, as the burning paper was sufficient to have ignited the walls.

Appropriation for Schools.

From the best information obtainable, there is a probability that the Tuskegee Normal School and the Girls' Industrial School, at Montevallo, will receive some aid from the public land bill, which is now pending before congress, rather the bill introduced for those two schools may pass. If so, the way will be opened for the other normal schools in the state at the next session of congress.

Reduction of Wages.

The coal miners throughout the Birmingham district, beginning Friday, are cutting coal for 37½ cents per ton, as against 40 cents last month. This reduction is caused by the fall in the price of No. 1 foundry iron, which is now quoted at $8.50 per ton. The sliding scale bases this price as rock bottom, and on every advance of 50 cents per ton the rate increases 2½ cents.

Thirty Convicts Sent Up.

Judge Green, of the criminal court of Birmingham, on Saturday morning sentenced thirty-five prisoners, all convicted in that court during the last two weeks. James Brown, who was convicted of murder in the second degree, was given twenty-five years; Will Spencer gets five years on the same charge and George Hawkins ten for assault to murder. The remaining sentences are for periods ranging from ten days to five years.

Negro Shot at Oxmoor.

On Wednesday at Oxmoor Clabe Tolbert, a negro, was shot, and it was thought the wound was fatal, but hopes of his recovery are now entertained. John, Frank and George Morrison have been jailed on the charge of assault with intent to rob Henry Mitchell. John Morrison is also charged with shooting Clabe Tolbert, colored, and Frank Morrison is charged with accessory to that act. The warrants were issued by Justice Ray, of Oxmoor, and the arrests were made by Deputies Burgin, Jones and Roebuck.

Arrested for Murder.

Sheriff Morrow, of Jefferson county, on Wednesday afternoon received the following telegram from Sycamore, Ala:

"I have arrested Alonzo Cook for the murder of a woman at Ishkooda. What must I do with him? Answer. C. P. Plassie."

A telegram was sent to hold the prisoner, and an officer was sent for him. Cook shot and killed a woman named Susie Spencer a few days ago near Ishkooda. A quarrel ensued between the woman and Cook and the latter pulled a pistol and killed her.

Items Noted.

The corner stone of the Barber Memorial School for negro girls was laid Tuesday at Anniston.

The United States grand jury recently in session at Huntsville returned eighty true bills as the result of their work.

W. T. Brooks, at Mobile, took aconite for paragoric by mistake. A doctor was secured in time to prevent serious results.

On Saturday last at 1 o'clock Mr. J. H. Radney, of near Roanoke, lost his mill and gin by fire. The loss is estimated at $1,500; no insurance.

Mr. W. R. Pryor, of Limestone county, sold three crops of cotton at one time a few days ago. There were 558 bales that averaged 500 pounds.

Thrown From a Buggy.

Mr. W. R. Hilliard, who travels in the Birmingham district for Roney, Arnold & Co., wholesale dealers in shoes at Knoxville, Tenn., was severely hurt Saturday morning near East Lake by being thrown out of a buggy. Mr. Hilliard lives at Huffman, a small place beyond East Lake, with his family. While going to Birmingham in a buggy the horse became frightened at something and became unmanageable. The horse finally ran away and Mr. Hilliard was thrown out of the buggy and seriously injured.

An Ingenious Suicide.

A French suicide near Lyons carefully built a guillotine for himself, using a hatchet weighted with a sledge hammer for a knife. Having adjusted his head to a block, he let go a cord holding the weight, and was neatly decapitated. This man certainly deserved to succeed. If he had built a pond to drown himself in he might have been rescued at the last moment and made ashamed of himself. But deliberately planning to lose his own head by his own hand shows that he had a brain.

A Remarkable Railroad Accident.

Probably the most remarkable railroad accident ever seen in America occurred on the Northern Ohio recently. The engine of one train struck the rear car of a train ahead and the car ran up on the engine. The engineer stayed in the cab and was not injured, nor was the fireman. The glass in the cab windows was shattered. The train ran back to a town a mile away from where the collision occurred and went on to a switch, with its strange burden.

It may sound like an anomaly, but the man discovered in crookedness is in a strait.

Sciatic Rheumatism and Its Cure.

From the Gazette, Burlington, Iowa.

The story of Mr. Tabor's nearly fatal attack of sciatic rheumatism is familiar to his large circle of acquaintances, but for the benefit of others and those similarly afflicted The Gazette has investigated the matter for publication. Mr. Tabor is Secretary and Treasurer for the Commercial Printing Company, with offices in the Hedge Block and resides at 417 Basset Street, Burlington, Ia. A Gazette man sought an interview with Mr. Tabor at his place of business to-day, and, although he was busily engaged with imperative duties, he talked freely and feelingly on the subject of his recent severe sickness and subsequent wonderful cure.

"Yes," said Mr. Tabor, "I can safely say that I am a well man, that is, my old trouble with rheumatism has entirely disappeared, but I am still taking Pink Pills and will keep on taking them as long as I continue to grow stronger and healthier, as I have been every day since I began to use them. You will not wonder at my profound faith in the merits of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People after you have heard what I have to tell you. About one year ago I was stricken suddenly with sciatic rheumatism and was confined to my bed. It grew worse and rapidly assumed the form of inflammatory rheumatism. I suffered constant and acute pains and all the tortures which that horrible disease is capable of inflicting. At length under the constant care of a local physician I was enabled to return to my work, but only at intervals. Severe attacks would appear regularly in my back and descend into my leg and foot, and threatened to make me a permanent cripple. I tried various remedies for rheumatism, but without any beneficial results. I grew pale, weak and haggard, and my family and friends grew alarmed at my condition.

"About eight weeks ago my mother induced me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and you know the result. Before I had used one box I felt greatly relieved and much stronger. I continued their use and improved rapidly. I have now taken eight boxes and feel like a new man and completely cured, all of which is due to the efficacy of Pink Pills. They are invigorating and thoroughly wholesome, and have helped me in every way."

In reply to inquiries Mr. Henry, the druggist, stated that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were having a large sale, that it was particularly gratifying to him to know that the customers themselves were highly pleased with the benefits they had derived from their use; that many of them stated that the pills were the only medium that had done them any good; that they not only gave quick relief, but permanent benefit. That the pills do sell and that the pills do cure is a certainty.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes only at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

How to Mend Blackmailers.

A Newark lawyer has hit upon a novel and effective method of dealing with a blackmailer. A fine-looking and somewhat notorious woman called at his office and demanded $500. On his positive refusal to give her a cent the woman threatened to call at his house and demand the sum of his wife.

As the lawyer knew the character of the woman, he communicated with his people at home by his private telephone, and instructed his two strapping, able-bodied German girls to show the visitor to the reception-room when she called and then to set upon her together and give her a sound beating.

The girls, liking the fun, did as they were requested, and without saying anything to the wife of their employer, carried out his suggestion so well that the blackmailer fled from the house without her $500 but with two black eyes and a broken nose. She left behind her a quantity of hair and two front teeth.—New York Evening World.

He Didn't Wait.

They have been printing recently some of Henry Labouchere's experiences as a diplomat in the United States. He was an attache of the British legation in Washington, once upon a time. One day, they tell us, Labouchere was sitting in his office, when a rather noisy individual came in and asked to see the minister.

"You can't see him. He's gone out. You must see me."

"I don't want to see you; I want to see the boss of the ranch," said the noisy individual.

"All right," replied Labouchere, going on with his writing. "Take a chair."

The visitor sat and waited for an hour. Then, with several picturesque extracts from profane history, he inquired how long the boss would be.

"I should think about six weeks," replied Labouchere, carelessly. "You see, he has just sailed for England."

He didn't wait.

Distinction with a Difference.

"It's rather disappointing," said the Cuban insurgent, "that we can't be recognized as belligerents."

"Never mind," was the reply. "We are all right. You've noticed that when a young man gets through a medical college he puts out an elegant gilt sign, and is known as a 'physician.' But whenever anybody in the neighborhood gets sick they send for the old-fashioned fellow that everybody's been calling plain 'doctor' for years."

"That's true."

"And some of these people who sit in the office and write pieces about us are journalists. But the one who gets the real facts is simply known as a 'newspaper man.'"

"Yes."

"Well, we aren't any 'belligerents.' We're fighters."

The Newest New Woman.

Out West there is a "traveling man" who is a curiosity—simply because this man is a woman. She is Mrs. J. Jagodnigg, of Kansas City, and her line is one that is dear to the average woman's heart—fine furs. Mrs. Jagodnigg represents a big furrier, and she has just returned from a successful business trip through the Northwest. Her samples consist of several thousand dollars' worth of all manner of fur wraps for men and women, and she carries as well a full line of fur trimmings, from ermine down to the least expensive.

If Fate does slip a complimentary notice of a man in a paper, the foreman puts it where no one ever sees it.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

The Ideal Salesman.

A prize essay on the successful man says: "He must be enthusiastic! He will never be fully successful until he thinks his business is the best thing in earth! He must be true to his trade and earnest in his avocation. It is scarcely necessary for me to urge the importance of increasing his ability by learning all that is to be learned in the business, even to the minutest detail. The salesman should be an expert in the examination of his own goods. He should never represent a weave or fabric until he is sure of what he is handling.

Keep the Children Busy.

Almost every family can allow the children a tiny spot their very own for the planting of a few seeds or bulbs or slips, the care of which will give occupation and keep the children at home when otherwise they would plead to go somewhere or to have somebody come to see them.—Womankind.

Every married woman looks as if she needed a little more love, but what she really needs is a little more money.

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. Herbert Miles, special representative of the Interstate Savings Loan and Trust Corporation, having main offices 901 and 902 Neave Bldg., Cincinnati, O., sends, under date of September 3d, 1895, a testimonial from his barber, Harry Scheid, of 211 West 6th St.: "I want to say," writes Harry, "that for eight months I have taken three Ripans Tabules a day, and have not been to see a doctor once since I commenced to take them. Before I would have to have a big tube put down my throat and have my stomach flushed (I believe that is what they call it) three times every week by a doctor that charged me 50 cents for every time. Of course that always gave me relief, but it always came back again, and I can tell you it was no fun to be pumped out about every two days. The doctor said I had catarrh of the stomach; but whatever it was it don't bother me now, but I still take one of Ripans after each meal, as I am afraid to quit. I am a barber, and for four years I was troubled, so that I used to lose about three days out of every month. I wish you would have your Tabules kept in more stores in Cincinnati, as there are only two places where I can get them. My attention was first called to your remedy by asking what the street car sign meant. (Signed), HARRY SCHEID."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce st., New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

THE ELECTION LAW.

No. 377.] AN ACT [H. B. 721,
To further regulate elections in the State of Alabama.

Section 1.—Be it enacted by the general assembly of Alabama. That the judges of probate shall superintend the registration of electors in their respective counties.

Section 2.—Be it further enacted, That the governor shall appoint, as soon as practicable after the passage of this act, one competent person as registrar for each county, and such registrars shall hold office for four years and shall appoint a competent person as assistant registrar for each precinct or ward in their respective counties, and the governor shall have power to fill any vacancy should any occur in said office of registrar. And such registrars before entering upon their duties shall take an oath of office as prescribed in section 1, article 15, of the constitution of Alabama, which oath may be administered by any officer authorized by law to administer oaths in this state and must be filed in the office of the judge of probate of the county. Such registrars are authorized to administer the registration oath, and it shall not be lawful for any other officer or person to administer the same.

No.	Date.	Name.	Registration Attestation.	White or Colored.	Residence.	Employment and Remarks.

Section 3.—Be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of such registrars within the several precincts or wards for which they are appointed respectively, in each year when any general state or federal election is to be held, to make registration of the electors residing in such precincts or wards upon blank forms provided for that purpose, and shall not register in other way or in other form than that herein prescribed.

Section 4.—Be it further enacted, That the registrars in each precinct or ward shall begin registration on the first Monday in May and shall continue the same for eighteen successive days, Sundays excepted, except in cities of 20,000 or more inhabitants, where thirty days time for registration shall be given.

Section 5.—Be it further enacted, That it shall not be lawful to register any elector in any precinct or ward in this state after the time herein prescribed for such registration; but the registrars shall be present at the polling places in the precincts or wards for which they are respectively appointed on the day of any general or special election to register such persons as may have reached the age of twenty-one years since the last registration; such other persons as may make oath that they were unable by reasons of absence from the county or by reason of sickness which confined them to their houses to register during the time appointed by law for general registration; such other persons as may take oath that they became bona fide residents of the precinct in which they propose to register not less than thirty days before the day of election and since the last registration; but electors having the constitutional qualifications who may have resided in any incorporated city in this state having a population of more than five thousand inhabitants as determined by the last federal census for thirty days immediately preceding any election and have within such thirty days removed their residence from one precinct to another in the same city, shall after a residence therein of one day be entitled to vote in the precinct in which they reside at the time of the election, but each of said electors herein last provided for must first deposit with the inspectors of election in said precinct the certificate of the judge of probate that said elector is duly registered in the precinct from which he has removed, and no other persons than those provided for in this section shall be permitted to register on the day of any election. The precinct registrar shall furnish to each elector who may register on the day of election a certificate of registration which shall be substantially in this form: State of Alabama, county of............Precinct No......
I,...............precinct registrar, do hereby certify that...............has this day registered before me as an elector. ....Registrar. Precinct No.... And if the precinct elector fails to attend or there is a vacancy in the office, the county registrar shall appoint some competent person as precinct registrar for that day, and if no appointment is made by 10 o'clock of that day, then the inspectors of election, or any two of them, may appoint a precinct registrar who may qualify and act as such for that day. Provided nothing in this act shall be construed as repealing, altering or amending the ordinances now or hereafter ordained by any municipal corporation chartered by the general assembly providing for the separate registration of electors for municipal elections.

Section 6.—Be it further enacted, That each registrar shall, at the time of his registration, furnish each elector who may register a certificate of registration, which shall be in the following form:

State Election 189..
Federal Election 189..

I,.......registrar, do hereby certify that.......has this day registered before me as an elector in precinct (or ward) No....

Witness my hand this........day of ....189....

(Signed).................. Registrar.

Section 6½.—Be it further enacted, That any person who shall purchase or offer to purchase, or in any way attempt to get possession of the certificate of registration of any voter, with the intention to deprive him of his vote, or with the intent to use said certificate of registration in any manner to control the vote or manage the vote, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction shall be fined not less than $100 and imprisoned in the county jail for not less than thirty days.

Section 7.—Be it further enacted, That each registrar shall, within two weeks after the time prescribed for registration, make a true copy of the list of names registered, which copy, along with the original registration list, he must return to the office of the judge of probate of the county.

Section 8.—Be it further enacted, That the judge of probate shall, from the registration list of electors returned to his office, make a correct alphabetical list of the electors so registered by precincts or wards, which list shall be certified by him, officially, to be a full and correct transcript of the list of registered electors, as the same appears from the returns of the registrars in his office. One copy of said list for each precinct or ward the judge of probate shall deliver to the inspectors of election in each precinct or ward immediately preceding every election.

Section 9.—Be it further enacted, That the judge of probate must furnish, previous to the first day of May of each year in which any general state or federal election is to be held, to the registrars the books and blanks necessary for the registration of electors, and each page of such books shall be in the following form:

State of Alabama, } We, the under-
County of.........} signed registered electors, each for himself, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support and maintain the constitution and laws of the United States, and the constitution and laws of the state of Alabama; that I am not excluded from registering and voting by any clause in section 3 of article 8 of the constitution of the state of Alabama, and that I am a qualified elector under the constitution and laws of the state.

I............, registrar for said precinct (or ward) No....in the county of...... do hereby certify that the above and foregoing names of registered voters, from No. 1 to No....... inclusive, were duly registered by me according to law, and that each of said persons, so registered, took and subscribed before me the above and foregoing oath, on the dates set opposite to their several names.

Witness my hand this........day of ....188....

Section 10.—Be it further enacted, That each judge of probate shall be paid for his services about the registration and certification of electors such reasonable compensation as may be allowed by the court of county commissioners or the board of revenue, in no event less than 2 cents for each elector registered and certified, and in addition thereto the necessary expense of printing the books and certificates herein provided for.

Section 11.—Be it further enacted, That the compensation for the registrars shall be 3 cents for each elector registered and certified as herein provided, which shall be paid by the county.

Section 12.—Be it further enacted, That if any registrar neglects, fails or refuses to perform the duties herein prescribed, or if there is a vacancy in the office, the county registrar shall appoint some competent person to act in his stead.

Section 13.—Be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful to register any person except in the precinct or ward in which such person is entitled to vote, and the registrar, when he has no personal knowledge of the identity or residence of the person offering for registration, shall examine him under oath touching the same, which oath shall be administered by the registrar.

Section 14—Be it further enacted, That in all elections hereafter held in this state on any subject which may by law be submitted to a vote of the people, and for all or any state, county, district or municipal officers, the voting shall be by secret official ballots, printed and distributed as hereinafter provided, and no ballot shall be received or counted in any election to which this act applies, except it be provided as herein prescribed.

Section 15.—Be it further enacted, That the printing and delivery of the ballots and cards of instruction to voters hereinafter prescribed shall in municipal elections be paid for by the several cities or towns respectively, and in all other elections by the several counties respectively.

Section 16—Be it further enacted, That the probate judge of each county shall cause to be printed on the ballots to be used in their respective counties the names of all candidates who have been put in nomination by the caucus, convention, mass meeting, primary election or other assembly of any political party or faction in this state, and certified in writing and filed with him not more than 60 days nor less than 20 days previous to the day of election, which certificate shall contain the name of each person nominated and the office for which he is nominated, and shall be signed by the presiding officer and secretary of such caucus, convention, mass meeting, or other assembly, or by the canvassing board of such primary election, and be duly acknowledged by one or more of them, before an officer authorized by law to take the acknowledgements. The judge of probate shall also cause to be printed upon said ballots the name of any qualified elector who has been requested to be a candidate for any office by written petition, signed, in case of a candidate for a state or federal office, by at least 500 electors; and in case of a county or municipal office, by at least 25 electors qualified to vote in the election to fill said office, when such petition has been filed with him not more than 60 nor less than 20 days previous to the election. And in addition to the name printed upon the ballot, and whether there be any names printed on said ballots or no, there shall be printed under each office to be voted for at the election blank lines in number equal to the number of persons who may be elected to fill that office. The name of no person shall be printed upon the ballot who shall, not less than twenty days before the election, notify the judge of probate, in writing, acknowledged before an officer authorized by law to take acknowledgements, that he will not accept the nomination specified in the certificate of nomination or request of electors. In case of any person to be voted for by the electors of the whole state or an entire congressional district or judicial circuit, such certificate of nomination shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state not less than 30 days before the day of election; and such secretary of state shall thereupon immediately certify to the probate judge of each county in the state, in case of an officer to be voted for by the electors of the whole state, and to the probate judges of the counties composing the judicial circuit or congressional district, in case of an officer to be voted for by the electors of such circuit or district, upon suitable blanks to be prepared by him for that purpose, the fact of such nomination and the name of the nominee or nominees, and the office to which he or they may be nominated; and the name of such person shall be printed by the judge of probate upon the ballot in its proper place in all respects as herein provided for nominations filed in the office of the probate judge; and any secretary of state who shall willfully fail or refuse to certify such nominations as herein provided shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not less than one thousand dollars; and in the event of such failure or refusal, such certificate shall be made by the state auditor.

Section 17—Be it further enacted, That any person who shall falsely make, or falsely destroy, any certificate of nomination, or any part thereof, or file any certificate of nomination, knowing the same, or any part thereof, to be false, or suppress any nomination which has been duly filed, or any part thereof, or forge or falsely write the name or initials of any inspector of election on any ballot, shall be guilty of a felony, and on conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not less than one nor more than five years.

Section 18—Be it further enacted, That the probate judge shall cause to be preserved in his office all certificates and petitions of nomination filed therein under the provisions of this act for six months after the election for which such nominations are made.

Section 19—Be it further enacted, That the ballots printed in accordance with the provisions of this act shall contain the names of all candidates nominated, as hereinbefore provided, who have not declined. The names of all candidates for the same office shall be printed together and arranged alphabetically according to the initial letters of their surnames irrespective of party. But the order in which the titles of the several offices to be filled shall be arranged upon the ballots shall be left to the discretion of the officer charged with the printing of said ballots.

Section 20—Be it further enacted, That whenever a constitutional amendment or other public measure is submitted to a vote of the people, the substance of such amendment or other public measure shall be twice in the same language clearly indicated upon the ballot after the list of candidates, followed in one case by the word "Yes" and in the other by the word "No."

Section 21—Be it further enacted, That all ballots provided by the judge of probate of any county for an election shall be alike, printed in plain type, in straight lines, upon plain white paper so thick that the printing cannot be distinguished from the back, with a slender line between each name, and extending sufficiently to the left of the names to easily permit making before each name a cross mark (X), and in the appropriate place the words "Vote for one" (or two, or other number, as the case may be), to indicate the number which may be elected to each office, and shall be substantially in the following form, except the order in which the several offices to be filled are stated, namely:

Section 23—Be it further enacted, That all ballots for use in each precinct or ward shall be fastened together in convenient numbers in books or blocks in such manner that each ballot may be detached and removed separately. Each ballot shall have attached to it a stub of sufficient size to enable one of the inspectors to write or stamp his initials thereon, and so attached to the ballot that when the same is folded the stub can be detached therefrom without injury to the ballot or exposing the contents thereof.

Section 23—Be it further enacted, That there shall be provided for each voting place at least one hundred ballots for every fifty registered electors at said polling place.

Section 24—Be it further enacted, That the sheriff of each county, at the expense of the county, or in case of a municipal election, the mayor or other chief executive officer, at the expense of the city or town, shall provide at each polling place a room or covered enclosure, and in such room or covered enclosure shall provide booths or compartments, one booth or compartment for each one hundred, or fraction of one hundred over fifty, electors registered for that election, and furnish each with a shelf or table for the convenience of electors preparing their ballots. Each booth or compartment shall be so arranged that it will be impossible for one elector at a shelf or table in one compartment to see an elector at another shelf or table in another compartment in the act of marking his ballot. Each voting shelf, or table, shall be kept supplied with conveniences for marking the ballots.

Section 25—Be it further enacted, That no person shall be permitted, under any pretext whatever, to come within fifty feet of any door or window of any polling room from the opening of the polls until the completion of the count of the ballots and certificates of the returns, except as herein provided.

Section 26.—Be it further enacted, That the judge of probate of each county shall cause to be printed in large type on the cards instructions for the guidance of electors in preparing their ballots. He shall furnish to the sheriff twelve, or more if necessary, such cards for each precinct or ward, and it shall be the duty of the sheriff to post one of such cards in each booth or compartment for the preparation of ballots, and not less than three in prominent places elsewhere about and outside of the polling place upon the day of election. Said cards shall be printed in large, clear type, and shall contain full instructions to electors as to what should be done: first, to obtain ballots for voting; second, to prepare the ballot for depositing in the ballot box; third, to obtain a new ballot in place of one accidentally spoiled.

Section 27.—Be it further enacted, That any person who wilfully, during or before an election, removes, tears down, destroys or defaces any booth or compartment, or any convenience provided for the purpose of enabling the elector to prepare his ballot, or any card printed for the instruction of electors, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than $10 nor more than $500.

Section 28.—Be it further enacted, That except as electors are admitted, one at a time, to vote, and except the sheriff or his deputy, the inspectors and clerks of the election, and as many electors as there may be booths or compartments, no person shall be permitted within fifty feet of the polling room.

Section 29.—Be it further enacted, That when the right to vote of any person who demands to be permitted to vote is questioned by any elector, the said challenge shall be communicated to the inspectors before the person is permitted to vote by the sheriff, or some other officer or person in attendance and in charge of admission to the polling place, when his right to vote must be determined as required by law.

Section 30.—Be it further enacted, That when all the booths or compartments are occupied and other electors are waiting to vote, no elector shall occupy a booth or compartment for a longer time than five minutes. No elector shall be allowed to occupy a booth or compartment already occupied by another, or to speak or converse with any one, except as herein provided, while in the polling place.

Section 31.—Be it further enacted, That after having voted or declined or failed to vote within five minutes, the elector shall immediately withdraw from the polling place and go beyond the prohibited distance and shall not enter the polling place again.

Section 32.—Be it further enacted, That each elector upon entering the polling room shall be given one ballot by the inspectors. Before delivering the ballot to the elector at least one of the inspectors shall write or stamp, or shall have already stamped or written or printed his initials or name upon the stub attached to the ballot. On receiving the ballot the elector shall forthwith, and without leaving the polling room, retire alone to one of the booths or compartments provided for that purpose, and there prepare his ballot by marking with pen and ink or pencil in the appropriate margin or place a cross mark (X) before the name of the candidate of his choice for each office to be filled, or by filling in the name of the candidate of his choice in the blank space provided therefor, and marking a cross mark (X) in the appropriate margin, and likewise by marking a cross mark (X) before the answer he desires in case of a constitutional amendment or other question submitted to a vote of the people.

Section 33.—Be it further enacted, That any elector applying to vote, who shall declare on oath, which oath may be administered by any one of the inspectors, that by reason of his inability to read the English language he is unable to prepare his ballot, may have the assistance of an inspector to be selected by the elector, or a person to be appointed for that purpose by the inspectors of election, and the inspectors may appoint as many assistants as they may deem necessary in the preparation of his ballot, and the person so appointed or the inspector selected, shall retire to a booth or compartment with the elector and there mark the elector's ballot by marking with pen and ink or pencil cross marks (X) before the name of each candidate for each office to be given to him by the elector without suggestion or interference from the assistant. The assistant shall then deliver the ballot to the elector and withdraw from the booth or compartment. In all other respects he shall vote as is required of other electors; provided, that no candidate for election shall act as assistant to any elector in the preparation of his ballot.

Section 34.—Be it further enacted, That any elector applying to vote, who shall declare on oath, which oath may be administered by any one of the inspectors, that by reason of blindness, of the loss of the use of his hand or hands, he is unable to prepare his ballot, may have the assistance of such assistant as may have been appointed or inspector selected; that the assistant shall retire with the elector who asks for assistance in the preparation of his ballot to a booth or compartment and there prepare the elector's ballot, so as to indicate the elector's declared choice of candidates as to each office to be filled without suggestion or interference from the assistant. But in all cases any elector, before retiring to the booth, may have one of the clerks of the election to read over to him the titles of the offices to be filled and the candidates therefor."

Section 36.—Repealed.

Section 37.—Be it further enacted, That any person making a false declaration under the provisions of sections 33 or 34 shall be guilty of a felony, and on conviction thereof, shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not less than one nor more than five years.

Section 38.—Be it further enacted, That any inspector who shall wilfully deceive any elector in preparing his ballot shall be guilty of a felony, and, on conviction thereof, shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary for not less than one nor more than five years.

Section 39.—Be it further enacted, That any person who shall disclose how any elector may have voted, unless upon the trial of an indictment under section 38 of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not less than $10 nor more than $100.

Section 40.—Be it further enacted, That any elector who shall by accident or mistake spoil a ballot so that he can not conveniently or safely vote the same, may return it to the inspectors and receive another in lieu thereof. In no case shall any person be permitted to carry a ballot outside of the polling room.

Section 41.—Be it further enacted, That after preparing his ballot the elector shall fold the same so as to conceal the face thereof, and show the stub thereto attached with the name or initials of the inspector, and hand it to the receiving inspector, who shall, after detaching the stub, deposit the ballot in the box in the manner prescribed by law.

Section 42.—Be it further enacted, That if the elector marks more names than there are persons to be elected to an office, or if for any reason it is impossible to determine the elector's choice for any office to be filled, his ballot shall not be counted for such office; but this shall not vitiate the ballot, so far as properly marked, nor shall any ballot be rejected for any technical error which does not make it impossible to determine the elector's choice, and nothing herein shall be construed to prevent any elector from voting for any qualified person other than those whose names are printed upon the ballot.

Section 43—Be it further enacted, That any elector who shall, except as herein provided, allow his ballot to be seen by any person, or who shall take or remove, or attempt to take or remove, any ballot from the polling place before the closing of the polls, or place any mark upon his ballot by which it may be identified, or any person who shall interfere with any elector when inside the polling place, or when marking his ballot, or unduly influence, or attempt to unduly influence, any elector in the preparation of his ballot, or any elector who shall remain longer than the specified time allowed by this act in the booth or compartment, after being notified that his time had expired; or who shall endeavor to influence any elector to show how he marks or has marked his ballot, or aids or attempts to aid, any elector by means of any mechanical device, or any other means whatever in marking his ballot, or shall print, or procure to be printed, or have in his possession any copy of the ballot prepared to be voted, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction, shall be fined not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars, and any ballot marked by the elector for identification shall be rejected.

Section 44—Be it further enacted, That any officer who willfully and knowingly refuses or fails to perform the duties herein prescribed, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than one hundred nor more than one thousand dollars. But this section shall not be held to apply to cases where a different penalty is prescribed by this act.

Section 45—Be it further enacted, That any judge of probate, or other officer on whom the duties of the judge of probate may have been temporarily devolved, who willfully and knowingly neglects, fails or refuses to perform the duties herein prescribed, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, except as herein otherwise provided, and on conviction shall be fined not less than $300 nor more than $2,000. And in the event the judge of probate of any county is unable, or neglects, fails or refuses to perform the duties herein prescribed, the duties, responsibilities and authority of the judge of probate shall devolve upon the clerk of the circuit court of the county.

Section 46—Be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the sheriff in each county in this state, on each day of election, to be present in person or by deputy at all election precincts where elections are held in his county, and it shall be his duty to preserve good order, and in order that every elector who desires to vote shall do so without interference or interruption; and to maintain good order, and to carry out the intents and purposes of this act, such sheriff, or his deputy, may especially deputize sufficient force to act at all election precincts on the day of any election that he may deem necessary, and, in case of necessity, may raise a posse comitatus to put down all riots, or attempted riots or disturbances.

Section 47—Be it further enacted, That in case of any municipal election, held at a time different from a general state or federal election, the duties hereby prescribed for the judge of probate, in respect to receiving nominations, printing and distributing ballots and cards of instruction, shall be discharged, under the same sanctions, by the mayor or other chief executive officer of the city or town.

Section 48—Be it further enacted, That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Approved February 21, 1893.

Section 49—Be it further enacted, That upon opening the polls the inspector must appoint two markers or assistants, one from each of the opposing political parties who may have candidates to be voted for at the election, and each of whom must be a discreet person able to read and write, if practicable; and the inspectors, or any two of them, shall in like manner from time to time, as often as may be necessary to give every illiterate elector and every physically disabled elector an opportunity to vote, appoint a marker, who must be selected as provided for the selection of the first two. Every marker, before entering upon his duties, must take an oath, which may be administered by any person authorized by law to administer oaths, or by any one of the inspectors, to perform the duties of marker at the election according to law. No inspector, clerk or marker shall be appointed nor shall act as such except in the beat of his residence at the time of the election. Clerks and markers must be appointed from a list of persons not less than six nor more than ten in any one beat, who may be suggested for that purpose by the duly constituted authorities respectively of the opposing political parties having candidates to be voted for at the election. Every illiterate or physically disabled elector shall be permitted to have the assistance of a marker, who may be selected by him from the number of markers who have been appointed by the inspectors. Any inspector who may refuse to appoint markers from the opposing parties, so as to give every illiterate and physically disabled elector the opportunity to select a marker of his own political party, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and must, on conviction, be fined not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars. It is the sense of this section that the opposing political parties shall each have the right to suggest a list of names not less than six nor more than ten persons to act as markers and clerks. If no lists are furnished, the inspectors shall appoint clerks and markers from opposing political parties.

A Devoted Advocate.

The London Telegraph publishes a dispatch from Pretoria, saying that the wife of John Hayes Hammond, the American member of the Johannesburg reform committee, who was sentenced to death, has had a long and touching interview with President Kruger, with whom she pleaded the cause of her husband and the other convicted prisoners. President Kruger promised that he would consider all the arguments that Mrs. Hammond had submitted, and said he hoped the matter would be settled by the end of the week. The outlook now seems to be most hopeful. The prisoners, with a few exceptions, have signed detailed statements relative to the agitation.

His Wife's Sister.

John W. Bowman and Miss Pearl Ballard were arrested at Anniston Thursday on a telegram from Joshua Ballard, of Omaha, Randolph county, who charged Bowman with deserting his wife and two small children and eloping with his wife's young sister, the wife and erring sister being Ballard's daughters. Bowman says he took the young girl from home in order to allow her to get married to a young man to whom her parents objected, but the girl denies this, and says she left home because her father mistreated her and told her to leave. Ballard is a wealthy merchant and planter of Randolph county.

Brave and Expert Swimmer.

George was in a sailboat, skimming along, close hauled, on a heavy breeze. A sudden squall upset the vessel. He was thrown away from the boat and floundered desperately in the water, meanwhile yelling for help. Gallwitz was in his rowboat. He bent to the oars and made it fairly jump over the waves. Just as the negro sank Gallwitz reached the scene. He dived, brought the man to the surface and held him there, in spite of the fact that he was grasped tightly around the neck.

Captain F. A. Santina, of the tug Annie H., which was passing, saw the struggle in the water, and had a boat lowered and sent to the rescue. The negro was hauled in, while Gallwitz continued his exercise, as if rescuing people from drowning were only a matter of ordinary moment.

Atkins of New York; of the class of 1897, to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Hon. R. G. Shanon, A. G. Menocal was elected. The board of directors afterward met and re-elected Hiram Hitchcock, president; C. T. Daly, vice-president; T. B. Atkins, secretary and treasurer. The executive committee consists of James Roosevelt, Hiram Hitchcock, H. E. Howland, F. F. Thompson and A. G. Menocal, in place of R. G. Shanon, resigned.

On the Transvaal Frontier.

Johnkheer Schaek, chairman of the first volksraad, has received a communication from Sir Hercules Robinson, British high commissioner in South Africa, to the effect that Earl Grey, administrator of the British South Africa company, believes the Matabele rebellion to be broken, and had therefore requested him (Sir Hercules) not to send imperial troops to Buluwayo, and so increase the difficulty of providing supplies there. Sir Hercules added that the British troops, numbering 700, would therefore remain at Mafeking, on the Transvaal frontier, pending the receipt of further orders.

THE PLATFORM.

"The People's Party of the State of Alabama, in convention assembled, recognizing the supremacy of political liberty over all the questions that can come before the people of the State for solution at the general State election, to take place on the 3rd day of August, 1896, reaffirm our allegiance to the cardinal principles of Populism as follows:

"First—We demand a free ballot and a fair count.

"Second—We believe in the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of international agreement.

"Third—We demand that miners and others like corporate labor be paid in lawful money of the United States semi-monthly.

"Fourth—We favor a tariff for revenue, so adjusted as to protect, as far as practicable the farmers, and the labour in our shops, mines, factories and mills, and their products against foreign pauper labor."

Judge Zell Gaston's amendment to the 2d section was as follows:

"We demand the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the abolition of national banks, the expansion of the currency to meet the needs of the people and the demands of commerce, free from the control of corporate influences, and we condemn the issue of interest bearing bonds in time of peace."

Next came a lot of resolutions, which passed unanimously:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that our representatives in congress be and are hereby requested to use their best endeavors to secure appropriations by the Federal Government to open the Warrier River to navigation from the coal fields to the Gulf of Mexico."

"Resolved, That our county appointing boards are hereby requested to give to the political opposition a competent inspector at every polling place in their respective counties,

"And we further request the inspector so appointed to give a competent clerk and fixer at each polling place to said political opposition."

REGISTER!

THE New Orleans Daily Item declares the election of the Populist State ticket in Louisana and openly asserts that blood will be spilled in that State if the Democrats attempt to usurp the power of government without showing a clear majority on a fair count.

THE Senatorial Committee for this district is called to meet at Clanton next Tuesday. It is fully time we began to consider the question of whom shall be nominated for this important office. We believe the understanding, since the formation of Elmore, Chilton and Shelby counties into the fifteenth district, has been that as Elmore furnished the first nominee in the person of Hon. A. T. Goodwyn, Chilton was to have the prior claim to name a man in the next election, and Shelby to follow. If this is the case, now is the time for Chilton to make it known to the rest of the district that it is our purpose to claim this privilege and produce our man.

HON. A. T. Goodwyn has addressed a letter to Capt. Johnston proposing that both of them join in a petition to the county appointing boards, asking "that the two contending parties be represented among the inspectors of election at every polling place in the State; that said inspectors be nominated by the authorized county executive committees of each party respectively," etc. We will give the letter in full next week.

Commenting upon this letter the State-Herald, which in common with other Democratic papers of the State is aghast at the prospect of fighting the combined forces of Populites and Republicans, says it is an insult to the Democratic party of Alabama. The fact of the matter is the Democratic press already recognizes the hopelessness of their cause, and in their efforts to find something to encourage themselves are imagining insults and manufacturing false statements in regard to the co-operation of Populites and Republicans, in the futile hope of retarding our triumphant march. If it is an insult to ask the Democratic party to assist in securing honest elections, what in the name of common sense is to be thought of those who oppose such a reasonable proposition? It is an insult to the common sense of the people to make such ridiculous assertions.

WE this week place before our readers the full ticket for State and county. Every man on that ticket has been selected by the people as being the very best men available for the respective offices, and every lover of honest government should from now until August work unremittingly, so that each and every nominee should be elected by an overwhelming majority.

The new County Executive Committee met and organized last Saturday with H. I. Honeycutt as chairman. The committee is as follows:

Beat 1 W. H. Conway, J. M. Robinson; Beat 2 Ira Campbell, I. B. Martin; Beat 3 Wylie Foshee, J. F. Fleming; Beat 4 H. I. Honeycutt, J. W. Littlejohn; Beat 5 J. W. G. Kicker, J. G. Burkhalter; Beat 6 John Edwards, John Scott; Beat 7 W. Y. Nix, W. A. Green; Beat 8 D. C. Gandy, Jesse Jones; Beat 9 J. W. Hayes, W. A. Mims.

NOTICE.

The Senatorial Committee of the Fifteenth District is hereby called to meet at Clanton on Tuesday, May 19, 1896, at 10 a.m., for the purpose of arranging for the Senatorial Convention. All Committeemen from Elmore, Chilton and Shelby counties are particularly requested to attend this meeting.

CIRCUIT COURT.

CIRCUIT Court convened Monday morning. Judge John R. Tyson, who has exchanged circuits with Judge Denson, presiding. There were 70 cases on the civil docket, 44 of which were disposed of and 26 continued. There were few cases of any public interest, but the principal ones were Alabama Mineral Land Co. vs E. E. Jackson et 'als involving $45,000, which was continued. The case which excited much amusement to the court was that of Thos. E. Taylay vs. Joseph E. White. This was an action for malicious prosecution growing out of the controversy at Enterprise church. Col. Knox, who appeared for the plaintiff, kept the court in a mirthful mood by his humorous speech. The defendant got a verdict in his favor. Several other minor cases of no public interest were disposed of. The grand Jury made their report, which will be found below and court adjourned this evening until Monday next.

Our local bar was ably represented by Col. Knox, T. A. Curry, Smith & Dennis, Tipton Mullins, Adams & Martin, and W. H. Foshee.

REPORT OF THE GRAND JURY.

To HON. JNO. R. TYSON, Judge presiding Spring Term 1896, Circuit Court Chilton Co., Ala.

We, the Grand Jury empanelled for said term of Court, respectfully submit this as our final report:

As the result of our investigations of violations of law in our county we have returned twenty true bills.

The public roads of our county have been reported as being in good condition, but there is much room for improvement.

The bonds of our county officials we regard as good and sufficient.

The books of our county officials are correctly kept, so far as we were able to judge in the limited time we have for such work.

The financial condition of our county is good.

It is gratifying that the County has begun the erection of a new court house.

We visited the jail and find it neatly kept. While we think, after a full investigation of the escape from our jail of Crosby and Martin, the Sheriff is not greatly to blame, yet we believe that he could have been more diligent in his duty as to the security of the prisoners named. The damage to the jail, caused by the escape of these prisoners, has been repaired.

There are nine inmates in our county poorhouse, eight white and one colored. It is a pleasure to state that these unfortnnate ones are comfortably cared for.

We thank your Honor for the very able and explicit instructions as to our duties, Solicitor Brewer for his advice and able and impartial discharge of duty, and the bailiff for his courteous attention to duty, and now respectfully ask to be discharged,

J. H. BOSTWICK, Foreman.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c and $100 per bottle

When Spring Has Come.

How eagerly we look forward to the beatiful spring! All through the long dark winter, when the only cheering things to be seen are the bright fires and our windows full of green, we long for it. Our hopes are fixed on the time when the earth shall awaken and it is with small patience that we resign ourselves to he weary waiting.

Did you ever realize how many remarks during the winter we preface with the words, "in the spring?" It is but human to form plans, and spring is the starting point for the work of the year. Spring is the season of promise. It is then that we trust to Mother Earther the seed that we have treasured for months, and from which we hope to reap a harvest. Spring is the season of joy. We rejoice that the long winter is past, that the birds are with us again, the warm rain and bright sunshine are calling the flowers to appear, and that the trees are putting on their summer robes of green. How pleasant are the first warm days that we can open our windows and let in the pure spring air, and wander out and gather the first blossoms that greet the flower season. How much we enjoy those blossoms, simple and modest and sweet, not bright and flaming as they are later, when such pale beauties would not engage our attention because of their familiarity. How sweetly the birds sing, every little body seems bursting with the melody that struggles to find utterance through its tiny throat. All nature is glad and joyous. Truly we are happy in the coming of spring.

It was in the shed room of Herbert Lucus who was arrested and carried to Montgomery and placed under $200 bond. About 200 gallons of sorghum beer and 11 fermenters were destroyed.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor at Rives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery: it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bot- [illegible] Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

Mrs. J. P. Bell, Osawatomie, Kan. wife of the editor of The Graphic, the leading local paper of Miami county, writes "I was troubled with heart disease for six years, severe palpitations, shortness of breath, together with such extreme nervousness, that, at times I would walk the floor nearly all night. We consulted the best medical talent. They said there was no help for me, that I had organic disease of the heart for which there was no remedy. I had read your advertisement in The Graphic and a year ago, as a last resort, tried one bottle of Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart, which convinced me that there was true merit in it. I took three bottles each of the Heart Cure and Restorative Nervine and it completely cured me. I sleep well at night, my heart beats regularly and I have no more smothering spells. I wish to say to all who are suffering as I did; there's relief untold for them if they will only give your remedies just one trial."

Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

1000 WAYS TO CURE A COLD!

Quinine, aconite, hot tea, onion syrup, whiskey and quinine, rock candy and rye, a "sweat," foot bath, starvation feeding, wrapping your hose around your neck, cod liver oil, and old hundreds cough cure, these and over 900 other ways are used by the human race to cure a cold. The best way is to make CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER your daily companion and you will never catch cold.

A man must be miserable indeed who is laid up with a bad Cold, Catarrh, Headache, unable to breathe without pain, his throat sore and his head throbbing, when one little product in the market called CUSHMAN'S INHALER will give him instant relief.

RELIEF EASY TO GET!

He may go on and on, sneeze his head off for that matter, sniffle and snort around to everybody's discomfiture. His eyes may become inflamed, his head and ears ache, and his throat so sore he can hardly swallow. Patient he must be to endure it all when for 50c. he can buy CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER and restore himself to his normal condition.

Cushman's Menthol Inhaler a Jewel!

A woman will sit around prostrated in nerves, feeling desperate over loss of sleep, head and eyes racked with pain, cold settled in every bone, so miserable that life seems a blank, but if she would make the marvelous little instrument known as CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER her daily companion, her headaches would come less frequent, she would never have a cold, and sore throat and catarrh would have no terrors.

NEVER NEGLECT A COLD OR COUGH

Neglect a Cold or Cough and if La Grippe don't get you, Consumption will. CUSHMAN'S INHALER cures colds and all diseases of the breathway passages. You lose dollars in doctor bills in not keeping CUSHMAN'S INHALER handy to drive off a cold or cough or sore throat at its very first approach.

The Greatest Authority in the World.

DR. BROWNE.

DR. J. LENNOX BROWNE, F. R. C. S. Ed. Senior Surgeon to the Central London Throat and Ear Hospital, says: "The vapor of Menthol checks in a manner hardly less than marvelous, acute Colds in the head. For all forms of nasal diseases, causing obstruction to the natural breathway, I prescribe CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER to the extent of hundreds per annum."

[Is not this recommendation sufficient that all who read may profit by it?]

Brings sleep to the sleepless. Cures Insomnia and Nervous Prostration. Don't be fooled with worthless imitations. Take only CUSHMAN'S. 50c. at druggists, or mailed, postpaid, on receipt of price. Write for book on Menthol and testimonials.

FIRST.—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."

SECOND.—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.

THIRD.—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, net, and should retail at not over 10 or 12 cents, if consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain; Zeilin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 300 or 400 per cent., instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. IMPORTANT GOLD DISCOVERY.

Editor Colsman Convalescent.

The many friends of Mr. Frank Coleman, of Huntsville, will rejoice to learn that he has passed all danger from the wound he received some days ago in an encounter with R. E. Spragins.

Homicide at Ramer.

In a difficulty at Ramer, in Montgomery county, last Tuesday a Mr. Weaver shot and fatally wounded a Mr. Miller. Mr. Miller died at noon Wednesday. He was a single man and was the only support of a widowed mother. The cause of the difficulty has not been reported.

Horses Run Away.

While driving out Wednesday afternoon, at Marion, Mr. Pritchett Crenshaw's horse ran away, throwing him and his brother out of the buggy, but not seriously hurting either. Mr. J. T. Fitzgerald's horse became frightened at the run-away team and also ran, badly smashing the buggy.

Medical College at Bessemer.

A new medical college will be opened in Bessemer in September by Dr. J. A. B. Lovett, president of the Montezuma university, with the following faculty: Drs. S. C. Carson, dean; E. M. Robinson, J. S. Winters, T. A. Spence, E. P. Lacy, J. T. Miller, Frank Pierce, W. H. Johnston, J. T. Chapman and J. A. B. Lovett.

Route of Proposed Canal.

"Beginning at a point at or near the site selected for lock No. 13, on the Warrior river, and continuing up Valley river, from its mouth, following the general course of said stream to Bessemer, Ala., thence up to five Mile creek, at a point where sufficient head can be obtained to supply water for that part of said canal between Five Mile creek and Bessemer, Ala., said channel to have a minimum depth of 6 feet and to be at least 50 feet in width at the water line."

Birmingham Police Notes.

Officer Disheroon caught a negro on the Southside Wednesday trying to sell a gold watch. The negro escaped and the watch is at police headquarters for identification.

Henry Johnson, the negro arrested for stealing brasses from the railroad Companies, was bound over in the sum of $500 by Judge Feagin yesterday morning. It is said that during the past four months the railroads centering here have lost at least $5,000 in this manner.

Rain and Produce Plentiful.

The heavy rains for the past week have interrupted farm work in Perry, and the crops are getting very grassy. If the rains continue another week some fields will have to be turned out.

Home raised corn is selling in this market at 40 to 45 cents, and fodder at 40 cents, and plenty of both are offered for sale at these prices. We never remember to have seen the prices of these products so low in this market at this time of the year. Good home raised molasses, hams and lard are also freely sold here.

Negro Deck Hand Killed.

A fatal accident happened on the steamer Hattie B., en route from Montgomery to Mobile, last Sunday. Just as the boat was leaving a landing a few miles north of Mobile a negro deck hand, Nathan Travis, attempted to throw a bundle of clothes to some one on shore. The bundle fell short of the land and struck on top of the rudder. Travis ran down on the fan tail and attempted to reach the clothes through the pit man hole, when the shaft which propels the wheel struck him about the head and shoulders, crushing his skull and of course producing instant death. The body went on down through the hole into the water and remained on the bottom.

An Incident of 75 Years Ago.

In view of the agitation of the question of a canal for Birmingham, the following from the Montgomery Republican of March 1, 1821, will be of interest:

"A boat arrived last week, the history of which will no doubt seem incredible to a stranger. She is a keel boat, 50 feet long, 6 feet beam, 6 feet deep and capable of carrying near 100 barrels. She was built at West Point, East Tennessee, where she was loaded for this place, and proceeded 100 miles down the Tennessee river to the mouth of Hiwassee, thence 66 miles to the entrance of the Wocoa,* up the latter a certain distance, when she was transported (with the cargo) ten miles by land to the Connesauga, thence to and down the Oostanaula, through the Coosa into the Alabama, a distance of nearly 1,000 miles from the interior."

*Probably the Ocoee is meant.

Further Discovery of Gold.

On last Saturday another gold-bearing quartz vein was discovered in the Arbacoochee gold mining district which, it is thought, will prove to be the richest find yet made. The vein is located on the lands of J. J. Boman, a mile and a half northwest of the Arbacoochee mines, now being worked. The quartz found on the surface will assay $25 per ton, and the vein, which has been cut, at a depth of less than 10 feet shows quartz that will assay as high as $100 per ton. The greatest width of the vein is 30 feet and the narrowest 3 feet. Its depth has not yet been ascertained. The prospect is that there is sufficient quartz to operate a twenty-stamp mill for a number of years and to justify a chlorination plant of equal capacity with the mill. The quartz are sulphuretter, but a large per cent of the metal in them is free gold.

Christian Endeavor Convention.

President Fred S. Ball, of the state organization of the Young People's society of Christian Endeavor, has issued the following: The sixth annual Christian Endeavor convention of Alabama will meet at Montgomery May 14-17, 1896. Each society is urged to send as many delegates as possible. Fully 300 are expected. Pastors and other Christian workers are also invited. The railroads have granted a two-thirds fare on the certificate plan under the usual conditions, which ticket agents will explain. Among the prominent speakers who will be present are Dr. Gilby C. Kelley, Prof. W. P. Taylor, Rev. A. B. Curry, and others, of Birmingham; Dr. J. I. Vance, Nashville; Dr. E. B. Bagley, Washington, D. C.; Rev. W. I. Sinnott, Columbiana; Rev. A. T. Clarke and E. T. Witherby, Shelby, and Rev. J. J. Dalton, Selma.

A chorus of fifty voices has been trained for the convention. This will be the best Christian Endeavor convention ever held in this state. For further information, write to Fred S. Ball, president, Montgomery, Ala.

Huntsville Looking Up.

Huntsville still moves forward in her onward march of growth and progress. The last industry secured is a modern flour mill with a daily capacity of 100 barrels each of flour and corn meal. The mill will be erected by Boyd Bros. of Tennessee, who already have in successful operation mills at Pulaski and Shelbyville. All arrangements have been perfected, and work on the buildings will begin at an early day.

Miss Mollie McGee, owner and proprietor of the McGee hotel has torn down the old rear part of her hotel and is erecting a new three-story addition to the main portion, which will be modern in all respects, and is done to meet the demand for rooms in this popular hotel.

Five miles south of the city the Indiana Lumber and Sawmill company is erecting a large band sawmill, the only one in this part of the state. It will be convenient to the Nashville and Chattanooga Railway company's road.

The old southeast corner building on the square, known as the Rerenson corner, is being removed, and on the lot Hon. Oscar R. Hundley will at once erect a handsome modern two-story building.

Father and Child Drowned.

One of the most sorrowful of recent events was that of the drowning of Mr. Gus Raulston, of Mobile, and his baby boy on Monday night last week. He, with his wife and two children were passengers on the steamboat Nettie Quill returning from an up-river excursion. The calamity which threw such a pall of sorrow over the hitherto merry excursionist was so sudden that none seem to understand precisely how it occurred. It appears, however, that Mr. Roulston was descending a ladder to the boiler deck, with his boy, who was 1 year and 10 months old, in his arms, preceded by his wife. Mrs. Roulston had just reached the boiler deck when her husband stepped upon the skirt of her dress. Stopping she called his attention to the fact. It is supposed that in stepping quickly back against the stairway he lost his balance and plunged into the river. The splash in the water was the first intimation Mrs. Roulston had that her husband and child were overboard. A young lady who was sitting at the foot of the stairs insists that he fell from the hurricane deck, and says she saw him strike the water, having the child clasped to his breast. They sank instantly out of sight and the bodies had not been recovered at last accounts. Later—The body of Mr. Roulston has been recovered.

THE COMPETITOR CAPTIVES.

Weyler and Others Threaten to Resign if They are Not Executed.

All the comments of the Spanish press manifest the deep impression made upon the public mind by the action of the United States toward the sentence of the Competitor captives.

A late dispatch from Havana confirms the report that Captain-General Weyler has threatened to resign his post unless the sentences are executed.

The Heraldo compares the offensive conduct of the United States consul-general at Havana with that of the British consul, who made friendly representations in favor of pardoning the prisoners. Public opinion, says the Heraldo, vehemently opposes American interference. This paper maintains that the rebels in Cuba are constantly receiving assistance from America, without which the rebellion would have been suppressed long ago.

The Epoca, which is the ministerial organ, discusses the matter in a far more conservative and less embittered manner than the other newspapers. It declares that America's demand applies exclusively to the form of trial, and not to the penalty. It believes that the Spanish government will decide that the matter shall be submitted to the supreme military and naval court.

According to the Dia the government cabled yesterday to Havana ordering Captain-General Weyler to send the case to the supreme military and naval court.

Several papers publish the report that besides General Weyler, Generals Ochando and Ahumada, who hold important commands in Cuba, have also threatened to resign if the judgment of the court martial is quashed.

Exports of Iron Products.

The following items from the Iron and Steel Bulletin, the organ of the American Iron and Steel Association, show that iron and steel exports are increasing:

The Delaware Iron works of New Castle, Del., are engaged on a large order for trolley and telegraph poles for North and South Africa. Two hundred tons of poles were shipped last week for Cairo and Cape Town, and the balance of the order, amounting to 1,000 tons in all, will be forwarded very shortly. We do not have any reciprocity treaties with North and South Africa.

The owners of the Baldwin Locomotive works have closed another important contract with the Russian government for sixty freight engines, to be completed by July 1. With the completion of this contract the firm will have constructed since October, 1895, 134 locomotives for the Russians.

The Union Iron works of San Francisco, Cal., recently shipped nine steel barges to Russia. They will be used for the navigation of Siberian rivers in connection with the construction of the Trans-Siberian railway.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

Summary of the Week's Proceedings in Both Houses.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTIETH DAY

The senate passed the naval appropriation bill, after amending it as follows: The number of battleships provided for by the house bill is reduced from four to two. The provision for five torpedo boats at a maximum speed of not less than 26 knots is changed to three at a speed of not less than 30 knots and the maximum cost reduced by $75,000; a provision is added for two submarine torpedo boats of the Holland type not to cost over $175,000 each; another amendment provides that bids for supplying armor for vessels shall not be received if they exceed $350 per ton. Some other amendments by the committee were agreed to, and at 5:58 the Senate adjourned.....The house, after four hour's debate under the five minute rule, passed the bankruptcy bill; yeas 157, nays 81. Pending the consideration of the bankruptcy bill Mr. Hitt, republican, of Illinois, chairman of the committee on foreign affairs, called up, and the house passed without a division, the bill passed by the senate yesterday appropriating $75,000 to defray the expenses of the committee to be appointed under the recent treaty with Great Britain to determine the claims for damages for the seizure of alleged Behring sea poachers. Upon the unanimous report of elections committee No. 3, R. T. Thorpe, republican, was declared to be entitled to the seat from the Fourth Virginia district, occupied by W. R. McKinney, democrat, and he was sworn in by the speaker. The house, at 5:15 o'clock, adjourned.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

The Dupont case was taken up in the senate and laid aside under an agreement to resume it on the day after the passage of the river and harbor bill at the close of the morning routine business and consider it until 5 p. m., when a vote will be taken. The river and harbor bill having been taken up, was laid aside for the bond resolution of Mr. Peffer. Mr. Hill spoke against it until the hour of adjournment....Today was suspension day in the house under the rules, and a number of private pension bills and other bills of local character were passed. The contested election case of J. C. Kearby vs. J. O. Abbott, from the Sixth district of Texas, was reported from elections committee No. 2, declaring Abbott, democrat, the sitting member, entitled to the seat, and it was agreed to. Mr. Sayers, democrat, of Texas, moved to concur in the senate amendment, reducing the number of battleships from two to four, and with the amendment pending the matter went over until tomorrow by unanimous consent. A bill was passed under suspension of the rules for the protection of American yacht owners and ship builders. Adjourned.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

The river and harbor bill was considered in the senate until 2 o'clock, when it gave way to the Peffer resolution and Mr. Hill continued his argument against it. It went over, Mr. Hill still having the floor. Twenty-seven private pension bills were then passed and the senate adjourned....In the house the resolution setting aside Wednesday, the 6th and 13th instants, for the consideration of the private pension bills, was presented as an order from the committee on rules. Mr. Henderson stated that there were 405 private pension bills upon the calendar, and it was to get rid of these that the committee on rules proposed the order. Adopted; yeas 172, nays 56. The house refused to concur in the senate amendment to the navy bill, reducing the number of battleships to be constructed from four to two, and requested a conference. The house then adjourned.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

A conference report on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill was made to the senate and ordered printed. The resolution offered yesterday by Mr. Call, of Florida, relating to citizens of this country captured on board the Competitor by the Spaniards, was laid before the senate and referred to committee on foreign relations. Mr. Morgan's resolutions, relating to recognition of belligerent rights in Cuba, were likewise referred. Mr. Call's resolutions on this same subject took the same course. Other resolutions by Mr. Call, relating to interference in elections by railroad coaporations, were referred to the committee on privileges and elections. The river and harbor bill was taken up and considered until 2 o'clock, when it gave way to the Peffer resolutions. Mr. Hill concluded his argument against the resolutions, which were then amended so as to instruct the committee on finance, instead of a special committee, to make the investigation, and it was agreed that a final vote on the resolutions be taken tomorrow not later than 4 o'clock. The senate then, after a short executive session, adjourned....The house passed a concurrent resolution providing for adjournment on the 18th instant. In the contest of Thompson, populist, vs. Shaw, democrat, from the Third North Carolina district. Shaw was declared entitled to the seat. The house went into committee of the whole on private pension bills, and, having acted on seventy-two bills, at 7:05 p. m., adjourned.

Southern Industrial Progress.

In spite of the general feeling of uncertainty which prevails throughout the country incident to the polical situation, reports to the Manufacturers' Record during the past week indicate much industrial activity in the south. Cotton mills representing an investment of over $600,000 capital have been projected by twelve different companies. The principal ones are a $150,000 mill in Texas, a $100,000 company in Georgia, a $50,000 company in Louisiana, a cordage plant in South Carolina, a 6,000 spindle mill at Norfolk, Va.; also a $120,000 company in North Carolina.

Other important industries to be placed in operation include a 120-ton cottonseed oil mill in Birmingham, Ala.; the enlargement of a farm implement works at Atlanta, a $50,000 marble company, also in Georgia; a $50,000 rice mill in Louisiana. A shirt-waist factory at McComb City is to employ 300 hands, and a furniture factory at Knoxville, Tenn., 60 hands.

Spanish Prevarication.

Official reports have been made of different engagements that took place last Wednesday between troops and insurgents. According to the statements of the commanders of the troops, the rebels sustained total losses amounting to sixty killed and twenty wounded. Four rebels were captured. The losses of the troops in all engagements is placed at four wounded.

Youthful Curiosity.

A case has been brought to the attention of the Dover (Me.) Observer in which the parents of a small boy were talking about hanging, and in the course of the conversation the method was described minutely. A little later the child went out, got a rope, and tying it to a beam, proceeded to experiment. He was so successful in his investigation that when he was found he was black in the face, and would have died soon.

Location of Garden of Eden.

Noah's wife is said by Armenians to be buried on Mount Ararat, and the Armenians trace their ancestry back to Japhet in one long genealogical tree. They have a tradition that the Garden of Eden was located in Armenia.

The old man likes to tell about the toughness of his youth, but if he was really tough he keeps still about it.

It would surprise a man if he knew how soon after he employs a man, that man begins to criticise his mehtods.

A Story of Gladstone.

The English press deems it an interesting coincidence that President Krueger lost a thumb by accident, while Gladstone lost a finger. It is recalled that Gladstone, in describing the amputation of his finger, once said: "The absence of pain sometimes amounts to pleasure. It was once my fate to have a finger cut off, and I recollect perfectly well that when the surgeons ceased to hack me I was more delighted than I can express. I thought I never experienced so lively a pleasure."

Worth Fighting For.

The property of the Salvation Army in this country is valued at something more than $4,000,000.

It is a peculiar fact that tramps and others who have no money with which to pay doctor's bills, never have appendicitis.

No one was ever able to fulfill the promise of his youth: youth is a promise that always goes to protest.

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. F. B. Palmer, city editor of the Oskaloosa, Ia., Times, under date of May 5th, 1895, relates the following experience: "Recently I was compelled by a serious siege of dyspepsia to leave my office work, and thought to seek relief by a month's travel on the Pacific coast. The rest and change helped me somewhat, but I could find no relief for the awful fits of indigestion. When about to return home to Iowa I entered a prominent drug store in Tacoma, Wash., and asked for something that would bring relief from my indigestion. The druggist sold me a box of Ripans Tabules for 50 cents. In less than twenty-four hours I could feel a change for the better. From that day to this I have used Ripans Tabules whenever I felt my old ailment getting in its work, and with most commendable results."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce st., New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

Let the people rule

VOL. IV. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, MAY 21, 1896. NO. 30.

Business is still waiting.

The people are moving—get out of the way.

The masses will write the populist platform.

Let us have a cathode ray on that secret bond deal.

The plutocratic plan is to borrow our way to prosperity.

The politicians are saying nothing about reducing salaries.

The Reform Press association is all right and understands its business.

The home is the sheet anchor of patriotism. The more homes, the more patriotism.

Well, yes, the transportation question is one of the planks of the people's party platform.

Congressman Loud seems to think the postal system ought to be run by private individuals.

The populists will not be diverted from their purpose by any half-way measures of reform.

Unless the government is for the benefit of the people, then the people have no use for a government.

And even the last issue of bonds has not yet restored prosperity. She must have the dumps pretty bad.

Any government that allows any class of citizens to live on the labor of another class is not a civilized government.

Tillman appears to have shaken loose an avalanche in the senate. His words have inspired lots of vigor in other speakers.

There is no reduction in congressional wages to correspond with the "good dollar" reduction in all other kinds of wages.

Iowa indorses Allison for president; and a set of wishy-washy resolutions that will suit exactly the temperament of that cat-like statesman.

Senator Cockrell says the democratic party "cannot be divided on the silver question," but the senator seems to forget that it is already divided on that issue.

If the public conscience was not seared by political prejudice there would be a political revolution in this country that would wipe out both the old political parties.

The Ohio republican platform means everything and nothing on the money question. It probably points to what the national platform will be—an evasion, or disgraceful straddle.

Weyler has proclaimed the Cubans bandits because they want to be free. Over here they call us cranks and anarchists; but if we should take up arms, no doubt they would call us bandits.

The indications are that the present congress will make the platform and nominate the candidate for the coming national republican convention. They are afraid to trust the matter to the people.

The Kansas republicans take no stand on the money question; they simply declare their willingness to take anything that comes from the national convention.

Senator Morgan says he don't want the negroes free in Cuba, and would not have them free in this country if they didn't vote the republican ticket. So that is the love of modern republicans for liberty.

The dead-lock in the Kentucky legislature, and the disgraceful scramble which characterizes it, presents an object lessons very favorable to another important demand of the people's party—elections of United States senators by the people.

If the plutocratic senators think that Ben Tillman can't see good out of one eye let them put him at the head of a populist committee to investigate that secret bond deal that Grover and "my former partner" consummated with the Morgan-Rothschilds syndicate.

Debs is vindicated. He was being tried last spring by a jury for the same offense Judge Woods sent him to jail for, when one of the jurors got sick and the case wasn't finished. Now this case has been dismissed without even going to trial again. By taking this course the government officials confess that it would have been impossible to convict him. He had committed no crime, and his imprisonment for six months in Woodstock jail was an instance of judicial tyranny worthy the dark ages. We have a government of law in this country—for some people, but not for others.—Star and Kansas.

Senator Tillman says Astor is reported to be the owner of 11,000 houses in New York city, and that congress is asked to spend a vast sum for coast defenses to make Astor's rent secure—and yet Astor has quit the country and become an English citizen. That is worth thinking about. If a hundred millions of dollars are expended on new fortifications, it is mainly to protect the property of city landlords. Only four men in a hundred in New York city own their own homes. The rest pay rent to somebody; and it is the insignificant fraction of the people who have houses to rent there that we are to be taxed to protect.—Star and Kansas.

LIMITED OWNERSHIP.

HAS A MAN THE RIGHT TO OWN A WHOLE STATE?

Getting at the Fundamental Principles of Limited Ownership—What the Great Scholar and Historian Thinks About It.

Among the profound and scholarly articles in the April Arena is one from Dr. Ridpath on the limitation of ownership of property. We present the following extract from it:

The hints of limitation are to be found alike in man and nature. Man is naturally a limited animal. There is no part of him, no element in him, that is not by nature under limitations. He is not composed of infinities but finities. His life is meted and bounded at every extreme. He begins in protoplasm and ends in dissolution. His entrance is on an ascent and his exit a tumble down. All of his powers are naturally and wholesomely circumscribed; and the limitation is not such as he himself regards as slavery.

Take the case of the senses. The sight of a good eye reaches from one mile to six miles, according to the bigness of the thing seen. The finer sounds we do not hear at all, and the heaviest cannonade of thunder, beyond the horizon of a few miles, is mere silence. No animal can feel what it does not touch, or taste what it does not feel. Round about the nature of man there is drawn such a limit that his whole world of sense is not twenty miles in diameter. He does not fly; and his swimming is a fit subject for humor; he is a walker or at most a rider. It takes time for him to go abroad, and other time most tedious for him to get home again. The young man full of hope, coming back from across the sea to the wicket gate of his adored, finds the last five miles a thousand.

She for her part, leaning out of the window, reckons the last hour to be eternity. Both are limited; not even the exulting hope and the bounding heart of youth can cancel time and space.

A large fraction of life—a third, they say, is spent in sleep; another fraction in eating and idling; another in the weakness of childhood and the weariness of old age; still another in sickness and accidents and the mistakes of avocation. A fifth fraction is expended in going about and in useful intercourse with others in like employment. The sixth and last fraction is consumed in marying and giving in marriage and in attending to the principal business of life—which in America is voting a party ticket.

Certainly these limitations, partly natural and partly artificial, are sufficient to curb life within a narrow circle of activities.

It is enough to make happy even a miserable member of human society to look around him in the world, to walk abroad, to hear the song of birds, the clamorous music of the circada, the bark of the distant squirrel: to see the flight of many creatures, the swimming of some and the scampering away of others. Though there is a limitation upon them all—a limitation drawn around all activity and power as if with a geometer's hand—yet there is no complaint, or anguish, or hunting for change or symptom of revolt. Nature and the living creatures that inhabit her domain are all visibly and manifestly meted and bounded with principles and confines which may not be passed; and yet, taken as a whole, nature is an orderly place, well fitted for happiness, given to hospitality, and pervaded with much good cheer. The only creature that seems to be disorderly, troubled, vexed with cross purposes and unsound sleep, is the principal inhabitant. What is the matter with him?

There is much the matter with him; and his ailments are hard to define. On the whole, the trouble with mankind seems to be that the limitations demanded in order that society may exist and the individual be free have not been laid with the right intent, by the right authority, in the right place. They have been laid with wrong intent, by illegitimate authority, in the very place where they ought not to have been laid at all. They have been laid by power, by selfishness, and by organized tyranny, on the weak and unorganized elements of society, where there was no need of limitation or any suggestion of it except the suggestion to enslave. So much distress, so much confusion, have arisen from the misplacement of limitation that human beings have become distrustful of the principle of limitation; and as a result they find no stable equilibrium between the extremes of anarchism and slavery.

There is, we must admit, no well-ordered, well-defined, and well-established human society in the world. Everything is slipping in the one direction or in the other. Every human being seems to be pushing his neighbor either into slavery or into anarchy. Each elbows the other into one of the extremes of unhappiness and conflict. Nobody seems to stop to consider whether it is not possible that a social state can exist in which the limitations are so laid that life in it may be as easy and natural as is the life of the irrational and unconscious orders of being that flourish around us. They live in easy perfection, and die without distemper or anguish. Why should not a man get through the world as well and as happily as a rain crow, a bass or a beaver?

That men are happier and better for possessing property, for having something of their own for getting as a reward of their toil a possession that they may enjoy, can no more be doubted than that rain refreshes the fields and sunshine makes glad the world. That property is also the beginning of that cruel strife which has converted the world into a slaughter house and ultimately made every human being so selfish that he can hardly any longer, by the utmost strain of his powers, prefer another to himself, can as little be doubted as denied. Is it not possible that the doctrine of limitations applied to property might rob it of its power to curse and promote its power to bless?

It is not property moderated and limited, but only the want of it, or the lawless excess of it, that curses the world. It is the too-much or the two-little that blasts the hopes of men. There is a vast area of intermediate possessions, between the extremes of poverty and wealth, that is almost an unmixed blessing.

We may note also that it is in this intermediate and wholesome region, between the extremes of want and surfeit, that the genius of the world and all of its saving forces are born and economized. We are acustomed to say that genius has its birthplace in poverty. This opinion prevails because in some conspicuous instances the children of the humble poor rise to the godlike stature. That any one so born should rise at all is a thing so remarkable as to attract the attention of the world and to favor the opinion that only the children of poverty can be great. In a few instances the children of the rich are born great also. But the rule is that the greatness and power of human life proceed from the intermediate condition in which there is neither abject poverty nor abounding riches. In this there is an emphatic suggestion of the principle of limitation applied to property; and here the debate properly begins. If society could agree that property shall freely exist, that every man shall have for his part all that he earns by his labor and skill, and no more, men indeed would not be equal in their possessions, but poverty on the one hand would cease, and the glut of riches on the other hand would disappear. Those who have nothing—and starve—would rise into the vast and healthy body of society composed of those who have something and live. Those who have too much—and surfeit—would be drawn back from excess, and would be absorbed in the great body from which in an evil day they were permitted to escape.

What follows? It follows as the night the day that somewhere between the right to own the valley of the Mississippi or the whole United States a line of limitation must be laid, over which no power known among men may be allowed to pass. To pass this line is to prepare the antecedents of the inevitable enslavement of mankind. It is thus perfectly clear that a restriction on land-ownership is a necessity of the situation which has supervened in human society. The principle of unlimited ownership cannot be longer admitted if civil and industrial liberty is to be maintained as a part of the rights of man. It is already absurd to speak of unlimited land ownership, or to attempt to defend it. I doubt whether any man in his senses here in the high light of the last decade of a great century will dare to champion the supposed right of an individual or of a corporate body to own the five states of our great northwestern group, or to own one of them, or a quarter of one of them. If there be such, he and I differ toto coelo and forever.

The Inter-State Commerce Law.

The best that could ever be said about the inter-state commerce law was that it was a step in the right direction. As a complete remedy for railroad evils it has been a failure. It failed of its most important purpose at the very start, in that it was intended to prevent the wrong done to short-haul shippers by preventing greater rates for short hauls than for long ones. It was supposed by our innocent statesmen that the roads would lower the rates for shorter distances. But the railroad knew a game worth two of that one. It left the short haul rates where they were and raised the rates for longer distances. The law was of no direct benefit to the farmer who was near the market and made matters worse for the farmer who was at a greater distance. Then the law has been loose and ineffective in some of its most important features and the courts have seemed inclined to protect the violators of the law even in what seemed to be its plainest provisions. And lastly the roads have not cared a continental for the law anyhow. It has been a huge joke to them, and when they wanted to ride over its provisions they have done it. Of these things congress has been perfectly cognizant all the time, but has done scarcely anything to improve the law. Congress has it within its power to protect the people from the cupidity of the railroad monopoly. It knows just wherein the law is weak, is familiar with the law-defying propensities of the roads, and comprehends the extent to which the people suffer from this corporate greed. In not doing its duty in the premises it is a participant in the robbery of the people, and the farmer who casts his vote for a man who will thus neglect the congressman's plain duty to the people, does not deserve much sympathy.—Farmer's Voice.

Watson's View of Tillman.

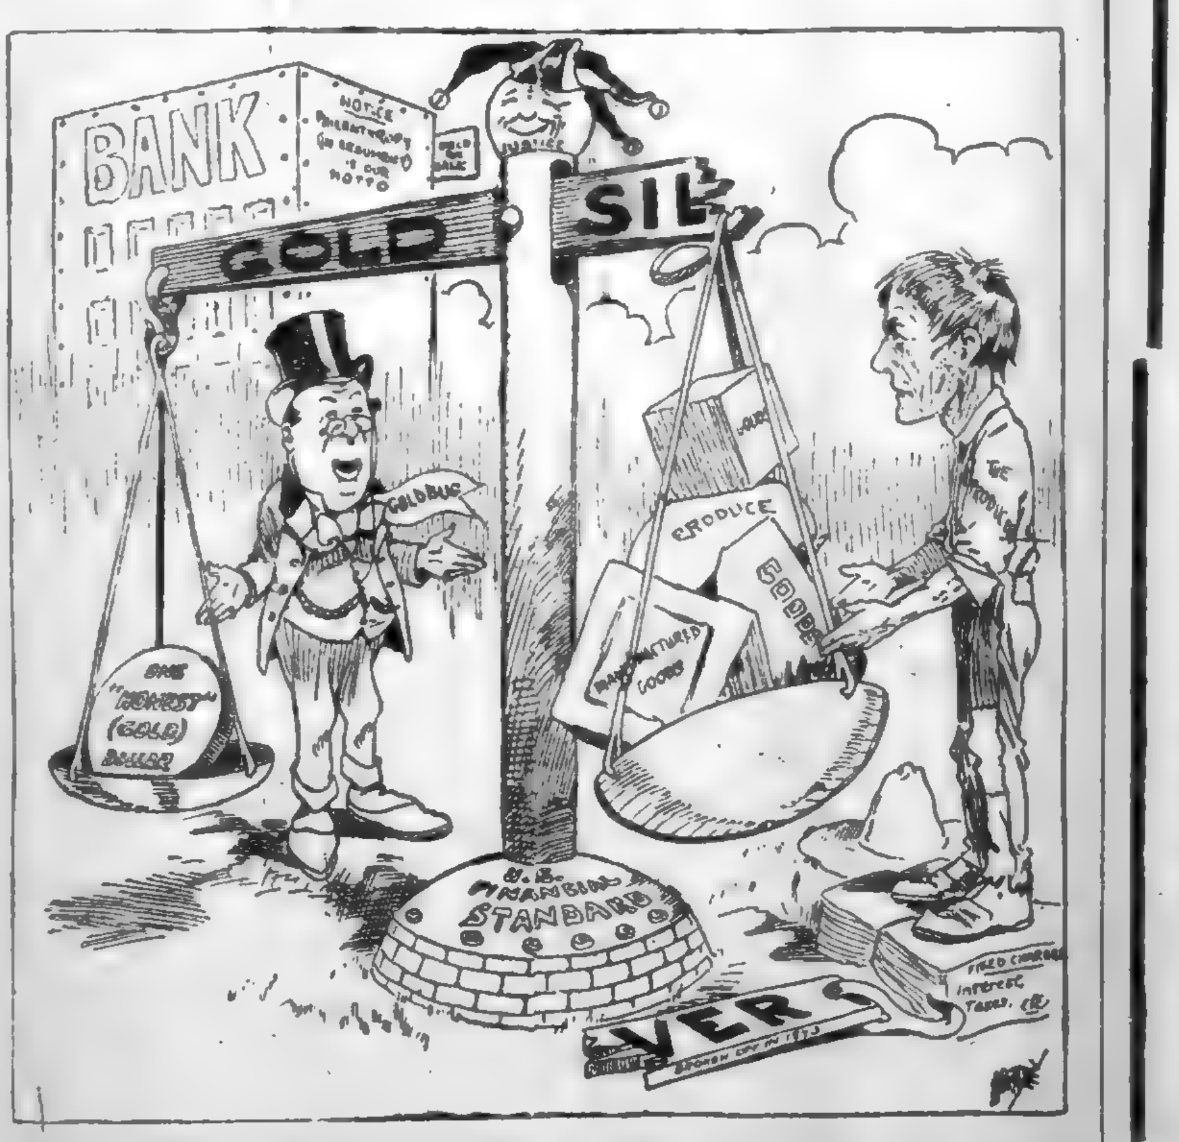
Ben Tillman is swearing around in the west, and heating the boiler in great style. Says that if the democratic national convention does not declare, unconditionally, for free silver at 16 to 1, he will take his hat and walk out.

All right, Ben; but you know you said, in 1892, you were going to walk out if they nominated Cleveland—but you didn't walk.

You knew as much about Cleveland in 1892 as you know now, but you supported him all the same.

In the meanwhile, Ben, go right ahead and heat the boiler. It's fun for the boys, and doesn't seem to worry Cleveland.—People's Party Paper.

IT AMOUNTS TO THE SAME THING.



The Capitalist—Pile in your goods, my man, if you want gold to use in paying your interest and taxes; you see the weight of the dollar has not changed.

Producer—Perhaps not, but somebody has been monkeying with the scales.—National Bimetallist.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Snap Shots at Prominent Features of the Political Parade.

Western republican papers are trying to make their readers believe that McKinley is in favor of free silver. But the following extract from a letter of John Sherman to the Brooklyn Young Men's Republican club tells a different story. "There can be no doubt as to the opinion of Major McKinley on the money question. He is committed in every form, every speech and otherwise, to the republican policy of maintaining the present gold coin of the United States as the standard of value. He, in common with myself and others believes that silver should be employed as money, always, however, to be maintained at par with gold. The convenience of silver coins for the minor transactions of life is so manifest that no sound money man would desire its discontinuance; but upon the primary condition that its coinage should be limited and its purchasing power maintained by the fiat of the government at par with gold. He believes, as I do, that a tariff should be adopted that will impartially protect all American industries from undue competition with foreign productions that can be and ought to be produced in the United States."

John Sherman's endorsement makes him solid in the east, and his own silence appears to makes him solid in the west. What cowards and dissemblers ambition doth make of Napoleons in time of peace!

The Chicago Express remarks that the Gould family have won on their plea of non-residence and are released from paying taxes on ten and a half million dollars which was assessed against them last year. The case never came to trial. A state's attorney merely dismissed the matter and abandoned the case. Five suits have been filed against the estate of Jay Gould and his sons and daughters, to enforce the finding of the commissioners of taxes and assessments. The defendants pleaded non-residence. When the case of George Gould came up for hearing before Judge Pryer, in the special term of the superior court, the corporation counsel announced it had been determined to abandon the suits. Judge Pryer thereupon gave a judgment vacating the assessments. If it had been some poor chap hauled up for not paying his dog tax or some poor girl arrested on a trumped-up charge by some blue-coated brass-button policeman, it would certainly not have been so magnanimously dropped.

The Montana republicans say that they are in favor of free silver, but that they care a great deal more for the success of their party, and "will not leave it under any circumstances." Isn't that patriotism and loyalty for you? They would rather go to hell with their party than to heaven without it.

Samuel Gompers, president of the Federation of Labor, makes the following comment on Senator Tillman's speech: "His defense of the farmer was masterful, and the ringing warning of coming events as startling as they may be truthful.... Another great light had appeared. He had spoken for a very large constituency, it is true, but for those who have to bear the severest burdens resulting from the conditions of which he so justly complains—alas! not a word.

"The men and women in the factories, shops, mills and mines, the young and innocent children whose tender years are spent in the modern hellholes, the great army of the unemployed as well as those who work on, not boss, the farm, are factors which Senator Tillman seemed to either overlook or ignore.

"The new force in industry which displaces labor faster than new industries are founded, which renders a large portion of our fellow men and women 'superfluous,' is a theme so fraught with the question of human existence that he who essays to speak in the name of the oppressed and the wronged and fails to appreciate these great factors lays himself open to the criticism of ignorance of cause and effect in the economy of life or to the alternative charge of insincerity."

Circulars are being distributed broadcast by the International Typographical Union inaugurating an active campaign on behalf of nationalizing the telegraph lines. There are only six countries in the world in which the telegraph is privately owned. These are Bolivia, Cyprus, Hondurus, Cuba, Hawaii and the United States, from which it can be seen that in this particular we rank with the least important nations in the world. In the matter of privately owned railroads we are also in the class with such countries as Cuba, Hawaii, Zululand, Venezuela and a few other countries belonging to the third class.

Well, at last we have discovered where that promised prosperity is. It is just beyant ould Oireland, on a little island called England. The last official report of England's chancellor of the exchequer shows that despite the fact that the expenditure of the last fiscal year had been larger than that of any since the last great war, the surplus in the treasury was the largest ever known, and the credit of the country was never so high. The deposits in savings banks and permanent accounts in ordinary banks had mounted to an unprecedented point. The amount of bullion in the Bank of England was £49,000,000, and the reserve fund in the bank, in proportion to its liabilities, was the highest on record. Everything, the report declared, had had an upward tendency, especially during the latter half of 1895. The increase in the value of exports, imports, railway earnings and bankers' and clearing house returns all show a continuous expansion of trade. The revenue for the fiscal year had been £101,974,000, while for the year 1894-95 the revenue had been only £94,684,000, showing an increase of £7,290,000, and making an excess of £5,812,000, over the estimates.

In England is where the democratic party restored prosperity.

Senator Teller may as well leave the republican party. It doesn't want him to stay. He gives away too much of the secret work. On the floor of the senate he has told the country how the Sherman bill became a law. He says that the free silver senators were bribed by the Sherman act to pass the McKinley act, and he was one of the members of the senate who accepted the bribe.

"The free coinage republican senators," he says, "had concluded to offer a free coinage rider to the McKinley law, and had assurances from the democratic senators that they would assist to put it on. This was made known to the managers of the McKinley bill and consternation prevailed among them. The silver republicans reckoned that the McKinley law would be worth billions to the manufacturers and they concluded that in order to get the billions the manufacturers would give the silver men millions. So a bargain was struck there and then. The McKinley senators agreed to pass the silver purchase bill in consideration of the votes of the senators from the silver-producing states for the McKinley measure."

Senator Teller was one of the guilty parties, and turns state's evidence. The statement occasioned very little excitement when delivered in the senate, however, as such trades are becoming very common with speculators in legislation.

Why Is It.

That those who raise food are starving?

That those who raise cotton go naked?

That those who raise beef have little to eat?

That those who make cloth go ragged?

That those who make shoes go barefooted?

That oil producers have sorry lights?

That coal producers have poor fires?

That gold and silver miners have no money?

That those who build mansions live in huts?

That builders of palace cars have to ride in a freight-box car or walk?

WEEKLY REVIEW OF TRADE.

The Business of the South and Southwest Remains Dull.

Bradstreet's weekly trade review says: Trade throughout the country remains quiet; wholesale merchants continue conservative, and the distribution of general merchandise is almost of a hand-to-mouth character. South and southwest business remains dull and featureless—unchanged from last week. At larger eastern centers travelers are preparing to start out, but unfavorable features in recent weeks in respect to cotton, wool, steel and iron industries show no changes. Collections continue unsatisfactory. Recent rains have had a very favorable influence on crops in Kansas and Missouri. This has tended to make the merchants regard the outlook more favorably and to stimulate purchases. In addition to a better feeling and stronger values for leather and hides, steel rail mills have sold two tons of product this year to one ton last year. The fact that fewer pig iron furnaces are turning out as much, if not more, iron this month than last, indicates that an unexpectedly large volume of contracts had been placed prior to the late nominal advance in quotations. The recent average weekly commercial death rate is continued, with a total of 265 business failures throughout the United States this week, against 267 last week, and against 210 in the corresponding week one year ago. More important changes in quotations for staples include advances for nails, cotton and oats, and decreases for pig iron, wool, petroleum, flour, wheat and pork, with steel nominally unchanged or shaded, according to the character of the sale.

BIG SHIPMENT OF STRAWBERRIES

Seven Car Loads, Their Value and Where They Go To.

Monday the shipment of strawberries from Chattanooga, Tenn., was the largest ever known from any point in the United States, seven car loads having been dispatched to Pittsburg, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Lexington and Louisville.

Two car loads were sent by refrigeration to Pittsburg. The representatives of the Pittsburg wholesale houses were on the ground at the time the berries were taken from the producers' wagons and purchased at from $1.50 to $2 per crate. The price ranged in accordance with the grade. One full car was sent to Buffalo, while the others were sent by express to points named above. Small consignments were also distributed in Ohio towns. In all there were nearly 4,000 crates.

Big Damages Recovered.

R. M. Landy, who sued in the federal court at Nashville, Tenn., got judgment Tuesday for $3,500 for injuries received on a Louisville and Nashville train. Landy was a mail clerk.

DEVASTATING STORMS.

Child Killed—Two Men Drowned—Much Property Destroyed.

A severe storm, announced by the weather bureau, fell upon St. Louis Wednesday evening. From an almost clear sky at 6 o'clock rain fell in torrents, and was carried in waves through the air by a 40-mile wind. Damage to life and property was very great.

Agnes Bolin, aged 3, was blown off a porch and killed. Two men were drowned by the swamping of boats in the river.

Louis Traffinger, wife and child, were buried in the debris of their house and badly injured.

The steeple of a church at Fifteenth and Walnut streets fell on the sidewalk, but no one was injured.

Three horses and two mules were killed by the falling of a smokestack of Anthony & Kuhn's brewery.

The smokestack of the Liberty brewery fell, but no one was injured. Incalculable loss was done to shade trees, shrubbery and light buildings.

A heavy storm swept through the Chippewa Valley, Wisconsin, doing thousands of dollars of damage. Cloudburts are reported at Bloomer and other points. Menominee suffered the worst—two railroad bridges, two wagon bridges and a foot bridge crossing Wilson creek were swept away. The loss is said to be $45,000. A mill some distance above Menominee was also swept away, which is not included in the loss named. Several trains are delayed by washouts.

Filibuster Expeditions.

The schooner Gladiator left Fort Meyers, Fla., Tuesday night with arms and ammunition for the Cuban insurgents. She also carried forty men, and will pick up more at Key Largo. Among the Americans on board were J. D. Fose, newspaper correspondent; W. R. Washburn, inventor of a rapid fire gun, and L. C. Sewart, a skilled engineer. A. H. Harris, an expert at gun powder making, was also on board. Alfonso Gonzales, a Cuban, commanded the expedition.

This is the second expedition reported within a week, the Laurada having sailed from New York several days ago, with men and munitions of war, as reported.

Weyler's Latest Edict.

Captain General Weyler has extended temporarily the operation of the last edict issued by him granting pardons to insurgents who shall surrender to the authorities within a specified time, so that it now applies to the provinces of Havana and Matanzas, as well as to the Pinar del Rio province.

THE PLATFORM.

"The People's Party of the State of Alabama, in convention assembled; recognizing the supremacy of political liberty over all the questions that can come before the people of the State for solution at the general State election, to take place on the 3rd day of August, 1896, reaffirm our allegiance to the cardinal principles of Populism as follows:

"First—We demand a free ballot and a fair count.

"Second—We believe in the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of international agreement.

"Third—We demand that miners and others like corporate labor be paid in lawful money of the United States semi-monthly.

"Fourth—We favor a tariff for revenue, so adjusted as to protect, as far as practicable the farmers, and the labour in our shops, mines, factories and mills, and their products against foreign pauper labor."

Judge Zell Gaston's amendment to the 2d section was as follows:

"We demand the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the abolition of national banks, the expansion of the currency to meet the needs of the people and the demands of commerce, free from the control of corporate influences, and we condemn the issue of interest bearing bonds in time of peace."

Next came a lot of resolutions, which passed unanimously:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that our representatives in congress be and are hereby requested to use their best endeavors to secure appropriations by the Federal Government to open the Warrier River to navigation from the coal fields to the Gulf of Mexico."

"Resolved, That our county appointing boards are hereby requested to give to the political opposition a competent inspector at every polling place in their respective counties,

GOODWYN'S challenge to Johnston has not yet been accepted. Capt. Johnston seems to be opposed to joint debates. He would not debate with his gold-bug friend Dick Clarke and he certainly is not anxious to meet Capt. Goodwyn. We, however, hope this matter will be arrayed. Let the two nominees for the governorship appear together before the people and then in August let the people honestly render their verdict as to which man they consider best represents their interest.

A FEW Populist newspapers have expressed alarm at the prospect of the free coinage Democrats controlling the Chicago convention; but if the claims of the gold bugs can be relied upon, their fears are groundless. A late, careful estimate gives the "sound money" contingent a good working majority in the Democratic convention; but even if the silver men should succeed there is not the slightest probability that Populists will go to the Democratic party with its inconsistent record and there is no reason to believe that free silver republicans will do so. The policy of both the old parties for many years has been in opposition to silver

GOODWYN'S LETTER.

Robinson Springs, Ala., May 9, '96
Hon. Joseph F. Johnston, Birmingham, Ala.—

Dear Sir: As the gubernatorial nominee of the people's party, this nomination being indorsed by the republican party, I make the following propositions to you, the nominee of the democratic party, to-wit:

That in the interest of free ballots and fair counts in the coming State election we join in a petition to the county appointing boards, asking that the two contending parties be represented among the inspectors of election at every polling place in the state; that said inspectors be nominated by the authorized county executive committees of each party respectively; that we further petition the appointing boards to promptly make public the names of the inspectors chosen, and that we petition the boards of inspectors to appoint clerks of the two opposing parties and an equal number of assistants from each party in the preparation of ballots; further, that we petition our county officers to submit the registration and poll lists to any committee that may be authorized by the aforesaid county executive committees, to the end that any illegal voters may be prevented from taking part in the state elections and that all illegal votes cast may be exposed in any contests that may be instituted. I am induced to make these propositions in view of the notorious and proven election methods that inexcusably and shamefully prevail in Alabama, knowing that the honest expression of the people can be best secured by a proper representation at the polls. Also, in view of the fact that the plank in your party platform in regard to elections is evasive and ominous, and is construed by many as favoring honest elections within party primaries only, and as condemning indirectly those frauds that compelled a democratic congressional nominee to withdraw from the contest, and those that seem to have been committed and proven against our esteemed competitor for your party nomination. All Alabamians, except a few political pensioners, will rejoice if we can so plan for the coming election that the result may be above reproach, and the inauguration of the next governor be in contrast to the last inauguration, when shotted guns disgraced our capitol grounds. The greatest curse that now afflicts our state is crime at the ballot-box and the threatening moral corruption that logically results from the toleration of such crime.

2. That you and I as candidates of opposing parties cavass the state by jointly discussing on equal and fair terms the issues of the day. Details may be arranged by chosen friends, or by direct arrangement between ourselves. An early answer is desired. Yours respectfully,

A. T. GOODWYN.

CIRCUIT COURT.

CIRCUIT COURT convened Monday morning, Judge Denson presiding, Judge Tyson having to attend his own court at Montgomery.

The following offenders were sent to the penitentiary: Robert Lee Callens (col) burglary two terms of two years each; Will Brown (col) grand larceny two years; Richard Hill (col) grand larceny two years. Nineteen cases were continued, thirteen were convicted and eight acquitted—none being of public interest.

Court adjourned Wednesday evening and all were pleased at the thought it was the last time they would have to hold court in the old court house.

AT the term of our circuit court, that ceased last Wednesday, the resolutions adopted by the Clanton bar upon the death of Chancellor Sam'l K. McSpadden, were presented by Col. Rob't H. Knox, who said:

"In presenting these resolutions I am conscious of the fact that Chancellor McSpadden needs no eulogy, but I beg to add that it was my privilege and pleasure to have known him from my boyhood, and as I recall this long period I can only think of those splendid traits of character that made him what he was in truth, one of nature's noblemen. He was a lover of truth for truth's sake. His kindly heart overflowed with love for his fellowman. He was a good man and a sincere man. He was a Christian and his end was that of the just. In every relation of life he was true—true to his state, true to his country and true to his God. Duty was to him the highest word in our language.

"Some forty years ago our dead friend was a member of the legislature of Alabama, and was an active participant in the stirring political scenes that led up to the secession of our state. Upon the declaration of war he promptly enlisted as a soldier at the first call of Alabama, and by shere force of character and merit rose to the rank of colonel of the splendid nineteenth Alabama regiment, and being brigaded with the peerless Armistead, Frank Beck, Zack Deas and Toulmin, his conduct reflected lustre upon the name of Alabama, and the brave men who were proud to be commanded by him.

"With the coming of peace he returned to his home and set about the task of rebuilding a fortune swept away by the war. With assiduous courage he went to work, and in the peaceful quiet of his home in the pursuits of his profession, he sought to pass the remainder of his days. But those who knew his worth would not permit this, and upon the demand of his fellow-citizens he was again called to the service of the state, and again entered the legislature for several terms. How well he discharged this trust, the laws enacted during these terms attest.

"Called to the office of chancellor, the bench was honored by his being upon it. During his long term in this office he endeared himself to all who came in contact with him, or had litigation in his court. His decisions ever bore upon them the impress of a painstaking sincerity and faithful regard for truth. He was a great judge, and a just one.

"But the chancellor is dead.

No guilty foeman took his life or saw him die.
Yet died he soldierly! As brave in battles past.
Closed that firm eye.

"Christian, patriot, soldier, chancellor, friend, farewell?"

A CONGRESS which continually legislates to contract the currency and lower prices, and which continually adds to fixed charges and salaries, is just such a Congress as the two old parties may be relied on to continue to give us.—People's Party Paper.

Poor Economy

By all means be economical, but don't be too economical where health or life is concerned. The matter of a few cents should never count between the old, standard and reliable preparations and the new, obscure, and in many cases, almost worthless substitutes.

SCOTT'S Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites is as much the standard for all conditions of wasting in children and adults where the lungs are weak or affected, as quinine is the standard for malarial fevers. When you go to a store to get Scott's Emulsion, don't be fooled into taking something else they say "is just as good." It isn't. Scott's Emulsion has gained its reputation by its superior merit, and nothing of its kind has ever equalled it. Your doctor will tell you that.

All druggists sell Scott's Emulsion. Two sizes—50 cents and $1.00.

Editor BANNER: Please allow me space in your columns to express my sincere and heartfelt thanks for their hearty support in the primaries of April 14 and May 5. It was much beyond my expectations as I did not canvas the county any to mingle with them during the canvas. I cannot express my personal appreciation to everyone. I will say to one and all, they have my heartfelt thanks and I appreciate their support which I shall endeavor to merit, and by no act of mine will I cause one to regret his choice. If elected in August next to the office of commissioner I will ever endeavor to perform the duties of the office to the best of my ability.

Again thanking my supporters, with great respect I am yours truly.

Burwells

On Tuesday evening, May 12, death lifted the veil that hid a brighter sphere and Miss Lucy Gentry went to her home in heaven. She was refined, gentle and true and was a friend to be cherished in life and mourned in death. Like morning dew which glitters here for a while then flies to mingle with kindred dops among the clouds her gentle soul was borne away to that glory land on the sunny side of sweet deliverence, leaving behind friends beyond number to mourn her loss. Her remains were laid to rest in the cemetery at Friendship church to await the resurrectirn of the just.

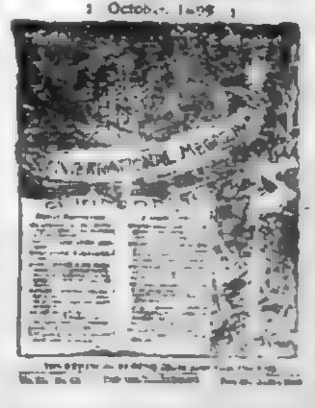
THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS

Edited by ALBERT SHAW.



THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as its name implies, gives in readable form the best that appears in the other great magazines all over the world, generally on the same date that they are published. With the recent extraordinary increase of worthy periodicals, these careful reviews, summaries, and quotations, giving the gist of periodical literature, are alone worth the subscription price.

Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the 'REVIEW OF REVIEWS,' which is a sort of Eiffel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."

The Atlanta Journal says that a syndicate of New York capitalists are about to purchase the grounds of Piedmont Park, Atlanta, on which the Exposition was held. It adds that New York capitalists already hold large interests in Atlanta, and thus New York capital is destined to cut a large figure in the bustling metropolis of Georgia. These statements, comments the New York Tribune, are especially interesting, in view of the fact that while the Fair was in progress last fall, everybody in Atlanta was predicting that Chicago capital was soon to come to Atlanta and revolutionize things, and New York was denounced as slow because it failed to appreciate its opportunity. Chicago money, however, is still far from conspicuous down there, but it should be added in fairness that the Chicago papers wrote up the Fair in fine style.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

Summary of the Week's Proceedings in Both Houses.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

A bill was passed authorizing the Sioux City and Omaha Railroad company to construct a railway through the Omaha and Winnebago reservation in Thurston county, Neb.; to pay R. J. Van Vleck $4,500 for extra work on the Sault Ste Marie canal; to establish a classification division in the United States patent office; to pay P. C. Montgomery, of Memphis, Tenn., $3,200 for the use of a steamer on the Mississippi river prior to March, 1863; granting permission for the erection of a monument in Washington in honor of Samuel Hahnemann, and appropriating $4,000 for a foundation; to authorize the investigation and payment of legal or equitable claims alleged to be due the late proprietors of the Knoxville Whig for advertising. The river and harbor bill was taken up and completed except the item of a deep sea harbor on the Pacific coast. The committee on commerce had reported in favor of locating the harbor at Santa Monica bay. Both California senators oppose this location and favor San Pedro. The question was pending when the senate adjourned.....The members of the house today voted themselves $[illegible] a month for clerk hire during the recess of congress. Under a resolution passed by the Fifty-second congress the members of [illegible] received $[illegible] a month for clerk hire during the sessions. [illegible] the allowance to members during the recess of congress came up in the form of the [illegible] resolution, adversely reported from the committee on accounts. The resolution was [illegible] and an amendment was passed. [illegible] republicans and [illegible] democrats [illegible] against it. Bills were passed to [illegible] the same at [illegible] for the [illegible] consideration, and to enable the government to issue patents on such lands; and to establish a life-saving station at Point Judith, [illegible]. On motion of Mr. [illegible], republican, of Pennsylvania, a resolution passed requesting the president to inform the house what, if anything, had been done to carry out the provisions of last year's agricultural act, directing him to negotiate with the government of Great Britain for the abrogation or modification of the existing regulations of that government which require the slaughter of imported cattle from the United States at the ports of entry. A bill was passed to appropriate $[illegible] for the deportation of the Canadian Cree Indians from the state of Montana. There are about [illegible] of these Indians. They have been in Montana since the close of the Riel rebellion. The pension bills favorably acted upon at the last Friday night session were taken up and passed. At [illegible] p. m. the house took a recess until 8 o'clock. Twenty-two private pension bills were favorably acted upon at the night session of the house. Among them were bills to pension the widow of the late Major General Thomas Ewing at the rate of $[illegible] a month, the widow of the late Major Theodore W. [illegible] at the rate of $50 a month, and the widow of the late Major General Joseph E. Carr at the rate of $[illegible] a month. The seventy-two bills favorably acted on in committee of the whole last Wednesday, were formally reported to the house. Those bills were left suspended last Wednesday. Mr. Erdman, democrat, of Pennsylvania, protested against the action tonight, and the question will probably come up on Monday. Adjourned until Monday.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

The senate passed the following bills: A bill to allow articles sent abroad for exhibition purposes to be returned free of duty. The bill for the deportation to Canada of the Cree Indians, who fled into Montana at the time of the Louis Riel raid. The bill for government participation in the Tennessee centennial in 1896. The president is authorized to appoint a government commission to have charge of a government building. An appropriation of $30,000 for a government building and $100,000 for a government exhibit was made. Appropriating $14,000 to William Moss, of Arkansas, for extra mail service. Appropriating $15,000 for a monument to General Nathaniel Green on the battle field of Guilford court house, N. C. Authorizing the secretary of war to appoint a commission to determine the cost of securing for the United States the channel in Atchafalaya bay, La. Appropriating $3,600 to C. B. Bryan & Co., of Memphis, Tenn., awarded by the court of claims. Giving to the evidence of private soldiers the same weight as that of officers in pension cases. Amending the pension law of 1890 so that the absence of an honorable discharge shall not be a bar to pension, provided there is no charge of desertion against the applicant. Amending the pension laws relative to false swearing in pension cases. Amending the pension laws so as to make mustering into service prima facie evidence of sound body and mind. Mr. White, California, concluded his argument against the location of a deep sea harbor at Santa Monica, and the question was still pending when the senate adjourned until Monday.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

The deep sea harbor question was debated at some length and went over. A substitute for the house bankruptcy bill was reported from the judiciary committee, with a minority report favoring the house bill. House joint resolution providing that the laws against the admission of contract labor immigration shall not be construed as prohibiting the entrance into the United States of mechanics, artisans and other laborers necessary for the preparation and installment of foreign exhibits at the Nashville Centennial exposition, and also providing for the admission of exhibits free of duty, was passed. The calendar of private pension bills was taken up. After about a dozen were passed further progress was blocked by an attempt of Mr. Allen, populist, of Nebraska, to have a second pension engrafted on a bill giving a pension to the mother of an officer, and at 5:35 o'clock the senate adjourned until tomorrow....Miscellaneous business was the order in the house today. More bills authorizing the construction of bridges and granting right of way over government property than of any other kind were passed. A preliminary conference report upon the Indian appropriation bill was agreed to, and further conference ordered on the items still in dispute. The resolutions of elections committee No. 1, declaring John W. Maddox, democrat, to be entitled to the seat occupied by him as representative from the Seventh district of Georgia, contested by W. H. Felton fusion, were presented, and, being the unanimous report of the committee, were agreed to. The rest of the day was devoted to the consideration of District of Columbia business. At 5:15 the house adjourned until tomorrow.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

A resolution to accept the invitation to attend the Tennessee centennial celebration at Nashville on June 1 and to appoint a committee of five to represent the senate, was agreed to. The controversy, which had gone on since Friday on the location of a deep sea harbor on the coast of California, was settled, after four hours' talk today, by a compromise in the form of an amendment to the river and harbor bill, which was agreed to. The amendment provides for a board consisting of an officer of the navy to be detailed by the secretary of the navy, an officer of the coast and geodetic survey, to be detailed by the superintendent of the survey and three civil engineers, skilled in riparian work, to be appointed by the president of the United States, to examine the two harbors, the report of the majority to be final, and it provides that whenever the board shall have settled the location and made its report to the secretary of war the secretary of war shall make contracts for the completion of the harbor as selected by the board, according to the project reported by it, cost not to exceed in the aggregate $[illegible]. An hour and a half was occupied after the opening of today's session of the house in disposing of a motion made by Mr. Perkins, republican, of Iowa, chairman of the committee on printing, to strike from the permanent records certain matters inserted by Mr. Wheeler, democrat, of Alabama, for which it was asserted by Mr. Perkins he had no permission. Mr. Wheeler contended that he had a right to insert the matter complained of, [illegible] the matter was ordered expunged. [illegible] of Illinois, [illegible] in the contested election case of Rinaker vs. Downing from the Sixteenth district of Illinois, and the arguments in the case occupied the remainder of the day's session.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

The amendment to the river and harbor bill offered by Mr. Gorman, to limit expenditures to $10,000,000, was defeated in the senate by 40 to [illegible]. The bill was then passed by [illegible]. It now goes to conference. The bill as it passed the house appropriated $[illegible] and authorized contracts for thirty-two projects involving an aggregate of $[illegible]. As it was reported to the senate the amount appropriated was $[illegible]. That sum was increased by various items put on in the senate, including the provision for the deep sea harbor in southern California. The senate at [illegible] adjourned until tomorrow.....The house was occupied today in the debate on the contested election case of Rinaker, republican, against Downing, democrat, from the Sixteenth district of Illinois. The majority report of the committee favors Rinaker. At 4:20 the house, by a vote of 159 to [illegible], recommitted the case to the committee on elections No. [illegible], with instructions to recount such parts of the vote as they deem proper. The yea vote was made up of [illegible] democrats, [illegible] republicans and [illegible] populists. This ended the long, and, in some respects, unparalleled parliamentary struggle, and at 5:45 o'clock, on motion of Mr. Moody, the house adjourned until tomorrow.

ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTIETH DAY.

Two speeches were made in the senate on the bill to restrict immigration by an educational test, one for and one against it. Caffrey, of Louisiana, addressed the senate, advocating a bill to increase the tariff on sugars imported from countries in which a bounty on sugars exported is allowed. The Dupont case was discussed for some time and laid aside. The following bills were passed: House bill to settle titles on the Arredondo grant, Fla.; senate bill for monuments to the revolutionary generals, Francis Nash and William Davidson, of North Carolina—$5,000 each. The pension bills on the calendar were then taken up and were passed very expeditiously, to the number of sixty in half an hour. Senate bill granting a pension of $75 a month to the widow of Rear Admiral Walter W. Queen and of $25 a month to the daughter of Maj. Gen. Philip Kearney were passed. After a short executive session the senate at 5:55 adjourned until tomorrow....In the house, Mr. Prince reported from elections committee No. 2 the contested case of Mr. Cheatham, republican, vs. Mr. Woodard, democrat, from the Second district of North Carolina, recommending that the sitting member (Mr. Woodard) retain his seat. The report was agreed to. The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole to consider private pension bills under the special order adopted last week. Fifty-three pension bills were acted upon favorably and reported to the house for passage, among the beneficiaries being the widows of Col. Orlando M. Poe, Gen. John J. Newton, Brig.-Gen. Charles D. Jameson, Brig.-Gen. and ex-Senator George E. Spencer and Robert Smalls of South Carolina, the famous colored pilot and ex-congressman. The river and harbor bill was received from the senate. The house disagreed to the senate amendments and ordered a conference, but afterwards reconsidered this action and the matter went over. The house then adjourned.

United States Cruiser Brooklyn.

The cruiser Brooklyn, or, as she has been more appropriately dubbed the "Greater New York," returned triumphant to her dock Cramp's ship yard Tuesday afternoon. Her journey up the Delaware from Cape's was almost one continuous ovation, every factory along the way saluting the queen of fighting craft as she passed, and flags were dipped repeatedly.

The most conspicuous object about the Brooklyn as she steamed up the river were big numerals "2107" painted in white on each side of the central smoke stack. These figures told to passing craft the story of its successful speed test. The Brooklyn has been designed as a more effective ship than the New York, being longer, heavier and possessed of supposed greater fighting qualities. Although the speed called for is the same, many of those on board are confident that she will, on her official test, accomplish twenty-two knots, or one knot more than the New York.

Scott Jackson Found Guilty.

The jury in the case of Scott Jackson, at Newport, Ky., after being out two hours and thirteen minutes Thursday morning, returned a verdict of guilty, with the death penalty.

Scott Jackson is one of the men charged with the murder of Pearl Bryan, the young woman found dead near Fort Thomas some time early in February, with her head cut off. He has been on trial for nearly four weeks. Alonzo Walling, Jackson's alleged pal, has not yet been tried.

Jackson was unmoved by the verdict. The date of his execution has not yet been fixed.

Mr. Hardtack—Well, what we want is a nightwatchman that'll watch. Alert and on the qui vive for the slightest noise, or indication of burglars. Somebody that can sleep with one eye and both ears open, and not afraid to tackle anything. See? Mose Jackson (tremulously)—I see, boss. I'll send mah wife around."—Judge.

A MOTORMAN'S LIFE.

FULL OF HARDSHIPS, EXPOSURE AND CONSTANT DANGER.

The Great Strain on a Man's Nerves [illegible] Short Time—The Experience of a Well-Known Motorman.

From the Cincinnati (Ohio) Enquirer.

The life of a motorman is not a bed of roses. He is subjected to many hardships, especially in the winter, when he is exposed to the cold and snow. Even in the summer he must bear the intense heat which beats down upon him. Considerable nerve and self possession are necessary in a good motorman, for the lives and limbs of the passengers are in his hands. One of the best known electric motormen in this city is William Frazer, who is at present running a car on the [illegible] line. He is not only well known to his fellow employes but to the people who travel on his car. Mr. Frazer is a young man about twenty-six years of age and resides with his wife and family at [illegible]. About a year ago Mr. Frazer was taken with serious stomach troubles. He ordered several kinds of medicine which were recommended to him, but none of them seemed to give him even temporary benefit. An enthusiastic admirer of the famous remedy known as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People told him to try them. Frazer was almost discouraged, but took the advice. To a reporter of the Enquirer he said:

"I can truthfully recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They are all that is claimed for them. In fact they advertise themselves better than any medicine I ever saw. I was taken some time ago with a bad attack of indigestion. My stomach hurt me nearly all the time and I could not digest my food. The pain was almost unbearable and I found nothing that would give me relief. [illegible] When I bought the first box of Pink Pills I hadn't much confidence in their efficacy because I had tried so many things without success that I was almost discouraged. Before I had taken one box I was decidedly better. Two boxes cured me entirely. While I have been under the weather from other causes my indigestion has never returned. If I ever should I know just what to do. I have so much confidence in the efficacy of Pink Pills that if I ever get to be sick again with any disorder I shall use some of them. It is a pleasure for me to assure you, to testify to the excellent qualities of these Pink Pills. They not only tone the stomach but regulate the bowels and act as a mild cathartic."

Mr. Frazer's testimonial means something. He speaks from personal experience and any one who doubts that he received the benefits stated can easily verify the assertion by calling on Mr. Frazer or seeing him some time while he is on his car.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are sold in boxes (never in loose form, by the dozen or hundred) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or directly by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

A Good Dog is Worth Looking After.

If you own a dog and think anything of him, you should be able to treat him intelligently when ill and understand him sufficiently to detect symptoms of illness. The dog doctor book written by H. It is a [illegible], handsomely illustrated book, and will be sent postpaid by the Book Publishing House, 134 Leonard St., New York City, on receipt of 40 cents in postage stamps.

A Princess Who is a Sixfooter.

The Crown Princess of Denmark is the tallest royal lady in Europe, her height being over 6 feet 2 inches. She is a granddaughter of Mlle. Desiree Clary, who was the first sweetheart of Napoleon Bonaparte. They quarreled, and Mlle. Clary married Bernadotte, who eventually became king of Norway and Sweden. Napoleon always remembered his old sweetheart with affection, and helped her husband out of one or two political snarls for Desiree's sake. The Crown Princess of Denmark is the richest as well as the tallest European princess, she having inherited a fortune of $25,000,000 from her maternal grandfather, Prince Frederick of the Netherlands, in addition to the fortune left her by her father.

A Beautiful Black Diamond.

Henri Moisson recently exhibited at the French Academy of Science a black diamond as large as a man's fist, which is valued at about $40,000. It is said to be the largest black diamond ever found, and was picked up in Brazil by a miner working in private grounds. It weighed 3,000 carats, or about twice as much as the largest stone of the kind hitherto discovered. Within a short time after its discovery, about five months ago, it lost nineteen grammes of its weight, evidently by the evaporation of water contained in it, but this loss has not ceased. Its crystalline form is nearly perfect, resembling that of the artificial diamonds formed by the crystallization of carbon in silver crucibles.—New York Tribune.

Where Comic Valentines Come From.

Fifteen million comic valentines are printed annually by a firm in Brooklyn, who virtually monopolize this peculiar business and give employment to 400 men and women the year round. Most of the caricatures turned out at this plant are drawn by a well-known magazine artist who says that he designs them only when he is out of humor. Instead of venting his anger in words he draws diabolical pictures of the person with whom he is angry, and the more horrible the picture the more fiendishly happy he is. The pretty lace work affairs that hold Cupids and hearts and arrows and carry sunshine into thousands of homes are designed by a woman, who also superintends their construction.

James Russell Lowell's Home.

There is concern in Boston about the future of James Russell Lowell's magnificent old home in Cambridge, at the gateway of Mount Auburn Cemetery. The house is the property of the poet's daughter, but the land adjoining it is in the hands of real estate agents, and the fine estate will soon be cut up into building lots unless the property is rescued.

Nobody Can Remember.

Miss Willard says it is no longer considered a breach of courtesy to decline a drink in Kentucky. When was the experiment ever tried?—Louisville Commercial.

"John," she said, rather sternly, "the coal bin is empty." "Yes," was the disconsolate reply, "it's that way most of the time. It's never of use in an immediate emergency. I'm going to change its name and call it a coal-has-been."—Washington Star.

Hoax—My wife and some of her friends are going to organize a secret society. Joax—Nonsense! The idea of women in a secret society. Hoax—Yes, I misunderstood. They are to meet to tell secrets.—Philadelphia Record.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

VOL. IV. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, MAY 28, 1896. NO. 31.

JOE CLARK'S LETTER.

M'KINLEYISM MEANS BONDAGE FOR THE PEOPLE.

This Does Not Refer to the Tariff Record of the Ohioan but to His Money Record—Has Been Seduced Already by the Wall Street Crowd.

I was surprised to read that at the late Texas state convention called to elect delegates to the republican convention, to be held at St. Louis in June, 1896, the colored members yelled, shouted, cut, slashed and voted for McKinley and "Sound Money;" McKinley, the goldbug pirate, who would put these same colored men back into the slavery from which they were emancipated thirty-five years ago.

Not only will McKinley place you there, but any goldbug nominated and elected will force you into a bondage worse than that of any coolie slave of China, who works for 10 cents a day. He is already the slave of the goldbugs.

According to the treasury department statistics for the year ending June, 1895, the United States consumed in one year 2,068,755 tons of sugar.

We imported 1,787,755 tons, for which we paid $76,162,836. This sugar cost $42 89-100 per ton, or a fraction over 2 cents per pound.

The United States purchased 281,500 tons, a fraction over a seventh part of our consumption. Excepting from Germany, the sugar imported is all from silver countries. The Hawaiian Islands alone produce nearly as much as the United States. Here is where the vast Sugar King Claus Spreckles gets his work in. Aside from the vast amount produced by himself, he controls the balance. His work is all done with Chinese and Japanese contract labor, paid at the rate of $12 per month in Mexican and trade dollars (and board themselves), which cost him but 40 cents each in gold. His sugar is exported to the United States, duty free. He owns his own ships, he has his own refineries in the United States. * * *

I mean what I say. We have millions of acres of arid lands lying idle to-day, which can be made most productive and, if properly handled, would give employment to thousands of idle, starving people.

China, Japan, Siam, Mexico and many of the silver currency countries are sugar producers. * * *

We can produce our own sugar very easily. We have the soil, the climate and the water to irrigate with. The people will do the work.

We must squelch the goldbugs, who are making other nations more prosperous by robbing us of two hundred million dollars each year by taking it to them. Vote for the bond issue of one hundred million dollars to be used for storing the vast bodies of water which come from our snow-capped mountain states. Give employment to idle men and build reservoirs. The water caught by these reservoirs would soon reclaim 50,000,000 acres of desert land, now lying idle. This land redeemed, happy homes would be found for ten millions of people. This land redeemed could produce enough beet sugar to supply 50,000,000 people. * *

Again, this system of water storage would prevent the destruction of $5,000,000 worth of property in the lower Mississippi valley every year. The hot sun, warm wind and rains resolve the snows of our mountains into water very quickly every spring; the smaller streams are swollen, the larger ones become rivers and these rivers rush into the Mississippi and carry destruction in its course to the sea. If these waters were held back by a system of artificial lakes and reservoirs it could be used on these desert lands. The money expended by the government would soon be returned by a population of tax-paying people, who would occupy the [illegible].

As I have a personal knowledge of this entire western country I will map out what I think is the natural sugar beet belt between the Missouri river and the Pacific coast. The territory includes Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, Arizona, Nevada and California. The country mentioned has an area of 848,949 square miles, an area four times greater than the German empire, which produces 1,350,000 metric tons of beet sugar.

This belt has more square miles than the republic of Mexico. There are millions of acres of arid land, parched by the hot sun, that is perfectly worthless as it is. With sufficient water which can be had from the mountain snows and springs, it can easily be made to produce from 10 to 25 tons of sugar beets to the acre. Not only beets but fruits and vegetables of the finest variety. In Utah the finest fruits and grapes and almonds are raised with but little work to tend the trees and vines. None imported are better.

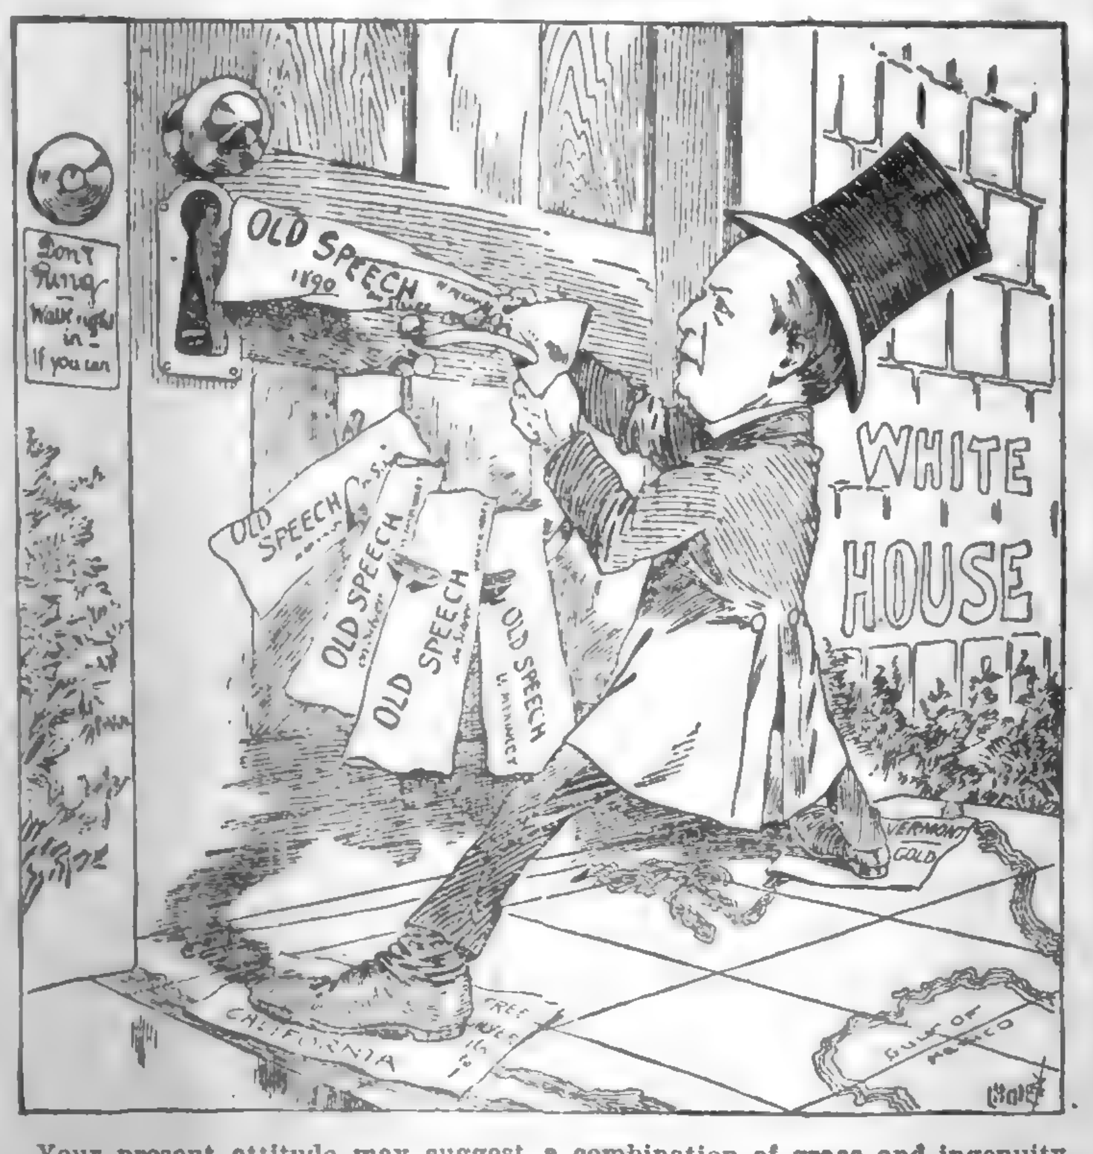
It would be impossible for me to give even a brief idea of the wonderful resources of this magnificent belt's possibilities. In detail it would make a book of one thousand pages. The great mineral wealth and the rich valleys with a proper supply of water would sustain a population greater than that of Mexico. The southern portion is adapted to sugar cane growing, and this, with the beet growth, would produce sufficient sugar to supply the United States. The sugar beet will grow anywhere in the United States. They will grow in the lower valleys of Montana, but as yet no one has tried the experiment of making beet sugar.

The world's production of sugar in 1894 was 6,801,000 metric tons of 2,204 6-10 pounds. Three million eight hundred and forty thousand tons were produced from the sugar beet and 2,960,000 from cane. This shows that beet sugar is taking precedence over cane sugar. * * *

Are we going to lose our independence now and allow the English goldbug bankers to dictate who shall govern our land? Emphatically no! Our votes should be cast for loyal men, who will not betray the trust placed in them.

JOSEPH K. CLARK,
Butte, Montana.

OH, NO WILLIAM!



Your present attitude may suggest a combination of grace and ingenuity, but it's not the combination to work that lock.—National Bimetallist.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

There is something very significant in the fact that Coxey got twenty days in jail up in Washington city for sleeping on the grass, while Miss Flagler only got three hours for killing a little negro boy. Both were sentenced by the same judge. Oh, yes, we have a country where all are equal before the law!!! It ought to make Americans blush.

A Seattle woman asked to be committed to the insane asylum, saying: "I've got sense enough to know that I haven't any." What a great pity it is that some of the voters in this country haven't got even that much; or, if they have they don't exercise it when they come to voting. The workingmen have been fighting trusts, corporations and combines for years, while they went right along and voted the same ticket that the men did who owned the combines and robbed the workingmen.

Our readers will perhaps remember that several months ago it was discovered that some rich corporations were robbing the city of Chicago of thousands of dollars worth of water by having tapped the city's water mains. If it had been a poor man that had stolen a piece of meat or a sack of flour he would have gone to jail with little ceremony; but how is it with the aforesaid rich corporation? Why, they have not even been arrested, and probably will not be. Only a few weeks ago they put a man and his wife in jail for kissing, in one of the eastern states, but they were poor and had no "pull" with the authorities.

"The sentiment in favor of the election of senators by a direct vote of the people has grown very rapidly in the last few months, and a proposition of that kind would probably receive a majority of the popular vote in every state as the case now stands.—Globe-Democrat.

All of which is due to the agitation of that question by the labor organizations and the people's party. All the people's party has got to do is to keep right on in the middle of the road and if the old parties don't do what the Omaha platform demands it will be but a short time before the people's party is large enough to do it itself.

"Figures gathered by the agricultural department show that the number of the horses in the United States have declined within two years from 16,206,802 to 15,124,057, while their value per head has fallen from $61 to $42. Since 1893 the loss on the value of horses in this country amounts to $492,000,000. As the most of this has been borne by farmers, perhaps they can get even by applying electricity to agricultural work."—Globe-Democrat.

And that is about as near as a plutocratic paper ever comes towards solving an economic question. A loss of $492,000,000 on horses, to the farmers of this country is not so small a thing as to make light of. It means a great deal to the men who are engaged in the most important business there is in this country. It means also, as prices for other things have fallen almost proportionately, that the men who hold the dollars, notes and bonds in this country have been enriched about to the extent of losses which the farmers have borne. But then, most of the farmers voted for it, and they ought not to complain.

The recent letter of Senator Wolcott advising the republicans in Colorado to stick to the party, silver or no silver, is exactly in line with our predictions all along. Senator Shoup has written a similar letter to the Idaho republicans, and Pettigrew was made to stand up and eat his own threats by the state convention in South Dakota. It all goes to indicate that so far as the bosses are concerned, no difference how much they threaten, when the time comes for them to act they usually curl up on the floor and act the part of the "yaller dog." Of course we can only predict what the rank and file will do. As a rule that element is more independent than the place hunters, although in the past it has been afflicted with the chronic weakness of following the bosses. But among the people is the legitimate place for the people's party to work, and from which it will draw its recruits. This thing of forming large and successful parties by miraculous combination is like investing most of your money in a lottery scheme—usually come out without a prize.

Now is an excellent opportunity for populists to push their demand for government ownership of railroads. The Pacific railroad companies owe the government over $100,000,000 principal and interest, which is more than the property is worth. The proposition now is to give the company nearly 100 years more in which to pay the debt. If it is paid at all the people will be taxed to do it on the rates fixed by the company. If it was some poor widow woman who owed a dollar or two delinquent taxes the government would take the last pig or chicken she had to collect. Let us insist on closing the mortgage on the Pacific roads and test the practicability of ownership.

The Grander Age recently contained an excellent article in behalf of the initiative and referendum. We take pleasure in quoting the following extracts:

Said Thos. Jefferson to the old Virginia legislature: "I can see no difference between a single born despot and 173 elected despots. The people are not self-governing unless they can vote upon every law to accept or to reject it as they see fit. The results of the representative scheme of law-enacting we are only too familiar with. The third house—the lobby—sits in every legislature today, in open defiance of the people and in collusion with those whom the people foolishly elect to pass the laws. Who don't know of the corruption, the crime, the profligacy that now exist! ! !"

Every postmaster-general, from James K. Polk's administration down to Benjamin Harrison's, has advocated the government operation of the telegraph; and though thousands have petitioned congress, and though for twenty years past eight out of every ten voters have favored this reform, yet the "corporation lobbies" at Washington have always succeeded in defeating it.

State to the people that though they favor a reform, it will avail them not at all. They are imbecile to enact. Party rules make plain the indictment against party.

Specify by figures how the thing stands.

Call their attention to these cold facts, viz: That of the thirteen million voters in the nation, seven millions are in favor of free coinage of silver, and only six millions oppose it; eight millions in favor of government ownership and operation of the railroads, and only five millions opposed; seven millions in favor of equal suffrage, and only six millions opposed; nine millions in favor of the abolition of national banks as banks of issue, and only four millions opposed. nine millions in favor of a progressive income tax, and only four millions opposed; ten millions in favor of postal savings banks, and only three millions opposed; eleven millions in favor of government ownership and operation of the telegraph, and only two millions opposed, twelve millions in favor of the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people, and only one million opposed; twelve-and-a-half millions in favor of peace and arbitration methods for the settlement of international disputes, and only half-a-million opposed, etc.

Is the people's will to mean anything or not? is the vital question of today.

Bring on the Boodle.

The campaign funds this year will be very large and will be generously distributed among the people in about a half a dozen States.—Little Rock Gazette.

Stick to the party, boys, we are going to cut a big watermelon pretty soon.

The above editorial squib was probably published to keep the boys quiet. Some of them are getting restless, and the promise that a big campaign boodle is to be distributed bye and bye, will, it is hoped, make them a little more patient.

Ah, well; poor fellows; that is the only real pay they get for supporting the two old parties.

WATSON'S BLAST.

FREE SILVER HYPOCRISY AND POLITICAL SHAM FIGHTS.

The Free-Silverism of the Two Old Parties a Pitfall and Confidence Game to Catch the Real Supporters of Free Silver.

People's Party Paper: Time and again we have warned out readers that the tremendous noise the free-silver politicians of both the old parties are making is intended mainly to lull the fool people into a state of false security.

"Give us another chance: we are going to do right next time:" —that's the oily plea of the political scoundrels who went to Congress in 1892 pledged to free-silver, and who put the finishing touch to the John Sherman policy of Contraction by closing the mints to silver.

"Just try us once more," says the Atlanta Constitution, "we are going to be honest this time."

Are you indeed? You fooled us with that pretense in 1892; you fed us on the same deception in 1894: and you mean to delude us again.

You will do anything in God's world, except quit the pie-counters of the Democratic party. You howled for free-silver in 1892, and then supported the gold-bugs. You denounced the enemies to free-silver in 1894, and then put your neck to the yoke and helped to pull them into office.

And what you did then, you will do again.

So with the balance of these Democratic free-silverites. They threaten to bolt in order to compel the party to pay them a high price not to bolt.

And they never bolt. There's that blatant person, Tillman of South Carolina. He has been cursing the Democratic party for six years. Keeps the reformers of South Carolina waiting, hoping and believing that this time Tillman is going to bolt. The state of South Carolina is ripe for revolt; has been so for four years; but the reform element does not break away from the Democratic party simply because Ben Tillman does not give the word. He is always just on the edge, but he never leaps.

In 1889 and 1890, Tillman was the Moses of the South Carolina farmers; and was leading them out of the wilderness of Democratic mis-rule. He organized a country ring as against the city ring, got the offices for his own combination, selected the best one for himself,—and there you are! Moses landed in high style in the Canaan of milk and honey, but so far as I can see the children of Israel generally,—(the rag-tag and bob tail)—are pretty much in the same fix they were before Benjamin appeared.

The free-silverism of the two old parties means worse than nothing. It is a pit-fall, a snare, a confidence game. With one accord they howl wrathfully against the gold standard candidates, but with one accord they say, "If my party nominates the gold standard candidate, I'll support him."

What have we to expect from men who have no test of truth and right save the caucus dictation of political bosses?

Not only do we find all the Democratic free-silverites saying that they will support gold standard candidates if nominated, but we find free-silverites aiding the money power in putting gold-bugs into office. Last week we showed how the free silverites of Alabama had surrendered control of the campaign machinery to the gold-bug Democrats.

Does that look like they really care for free-silver? Doesn't it seem as though the free-silver issue is merely the platform to get in on: merely the sham-fight to keep the people fooled?

But there is another piece of evidence to the same effect. It is furnished by that shifter political trimmer, Charles F. Crisp.

This interesting man recently went around over Georgia, with a palmetto fan in his hand, pretending to debate with Hoke Smith in favor of free-silver. Said a good deal against Hoke, but mightly little in favor of free-silver. Caught a sore throat and a heart failure, and meandered back to Washington, on his free pass, to rest and to reflect.

While on his way back from this free silver tour, he took occasion to send into the district of General Catchings of Mississippi, the full force of his recommendation of said Catchings,—who is an ardent gold-bug. The free silverites of Mississippi are after Catchings' scalp, and a free-silver Democrat is making the fight on him; yet Mr. Crisp goes out of his way to express the hope that the free-silver Democrat will be defeated.

In another place will be found a full account of the letters which have been written upon this subject.

Mr. Crisp's attitude toward General Catchings simply proves what we have said all along,—that, at heart he cares nothing for free-silver.

If he really believed what he has been saying in his recent speeches, he could not honorably support a gold-bug against a free-silver Democrat, when the contest between them is for the Democratic nomination.

But while we have no confidence in Mr. Crisp politically, and regard him as a man devoid of political principles, we do not claim that he is the chief of the old party sinners on this silver question. They are all alike,—these old-party politicians. They care nothing for silver itself. It's merely "stock-in-trade" to them. They use it as they would use any other popular sentiment. They mount this wagon as they would mount any other that seemed likely to carry them into office.

After all our experience with these hypocrites, who can be so silly as to heed their pledges again?

Are we forever to go on reposing the same foolish confidence in men and newspapers that deceive us in each campaign?

Can the free-silver Democrats squal any louder now than they did in 1892 Didn't they swear that they'd quit the party if the Democrats didn't give the people open mints?

And when the Democrats gave us closed mints, and out-Shermaned John Sherman in the policy of contraction didn't the last one of these free-silver Democrats say "Oh, well, Cleveland knows more about it than I do"?

Didn't the Atlanta Constitution threaten to kick out, if they didn't coin the seigniorage?

Didn't it swear they would hurt somebody, if the Sherman Law were unconditionally repealed?

Didn't it pledge itself to tear the roof off, if Cleveland issued bonds?

Didn't it hold Turner and Voorhees and Black and Lawson up to public scorn and hatred, calling them "cuckoos," and pouring out the jugs and demi-johns of editorial wrath upon them?

And didn't the same Atlanta Constitution rack right up and support all these "cuckoos" for office again?

And didn't it give in its campaign allegiance to the Democratic patriots who had refused to coin the seigniorage, refused to coin any more silver and who had sanctioned the bond issuing, gold-payment policy of Grover Cleveland?

Yet, listen at its howls,—this same Atlanta Constitution. It raves for free-silver as if it had never helped to drive nails into the coffin thereof. It moans over the dead body of bimetallism as if it had never stuck a knife to its vitals.

Out upon such hypocrisy!

Every speech and every editorial of the old party leaders in favor of free silver simply means this: "Don't quit us, don't go to the Populists."

That's all. There isn't a Republican leader living who believes for one moment that the Republican party will ever take the back track on the policy of contraction. No intelligent Democrat believes that his party will ever re-enact a free-coinage law. The gist of the whole matter is that political necessity requires that they should raise a clamor for silver to keep the voters in heart.

A sham fight must be had to keep the plain people from starting a real battle for the policy of their fathers.

To reach any other conclusion than this, you have got to forget the record of the last four years—a record black as hell with confidence betrayed and trust violated, with vows falsified and treacheries perpetrated, with campaign villainies and legislative crimes.

Railways in Politics.

A dispatch from Washington, D. C. says:

"It is asserted that the books of the Baltimore & Ohio show that the sum of $3,500,000 has been taken from the treasury of the company and spent for political purposes, and it is proposed to find out who got this money. To do this it is stated that it will be necessary to investigate the matter of the construction of the Philadelphia division of the road, the cost of which has never been made known to the general stockholders, but which has been variously estimated from $12,000,000 to $20,000,000, and it is predicted that when the report of the manner in which the Baltimore & Ohio obtained an entrance into Philadelphia is made known some very prominent politicians of that city will have reason to wish that those who are now directing the affairs of the Baltimore & Ohio had never reached that position."

This is interesting. The main argument against government ownership of railroads is the danger of the railroad power being used in politics. Yet here is one railroad under private ownership spending millions for political purposes—and there are others. Oh, no the railroads have no influence in politics under the present system.

Government Ownership.

Here is a little illustration of the effects of government ownership that is so near home that its practical working can be appreciated and the truthfulness of the statement cannot be denied. It is the annual report of the superintendent of the Dallas city water works, which is as follows:

Receipts — Collections from consumers $66,329 84
From fire hydrant rental and water 23,520 00
Total income..................$88,840 39
Expenditures—
Operating expenses $21,363 15
Interest on bonds 35,000 00
Sinking fund..... 13,220 00—$69,583 1
Net income..................$19,266 2
—Southern Mercury.

Cut This Out.

There are two classes—those who have dollars to sell for products and commodities, including labor, and those who have products and commodities including labor, to sell for dollars. We are unwilling to believe that any one no matter to which class he may belong, is so stupid as not to know that the gold standard more than doubles the wealth, or the opportunities for wealth, of the first class, and that it makes wealth, or even competency, impossible for the second class. There is here an irrepressible conflict. The gold standard takes half the products and labor from those who must buy dollars, and gives it to those who have dollars to sell. How? By making dollars dearer and products, and labor cheaper.—Iowa Plain Dealer.

BUSINESS SITUATION.

Marked Reduction of the Weekly Average of Failures

REPORTS FROM CERTAIN POINTS.

Average Movement of Merchandise Relatively Active, Collections Fair and Prospects Encouraging, But General Trade is Short of Expectations.

The reactionary tendency in prices, the shrinkage in railroad earnings, the falling off in bank clearings and the fact that the present constitutes the beginning of the between-seasons period, include the more conspicuous features of the general business situation. On the other hand, business failures have fallen off sharply.

The total number of business failures throughout the United States this week shows a marked falling off from the weekly average during the past four months, which is 216, as compared with 265 last week and 206 in the like week of 1895.

The most favorable report comes from Kansas City, where the average movement of merchandise continues relatively quite active; mercantile collections are fair, and the trade prospects were never better. Improvement is also noted on the Pacific coast, due to the weather, which has rendered crop outlook more favorable and stimulated purchases in staple lines. The boot and shoe industry is conspicuously strong in that section, having reacted sufficiently to furnish most factories with orders for some time ahead, thus stimulating quotations for hides, leather and shoes.

The iron and steel industries report a moderate increase in request for raw material, but nothing sufficient to strengthen prices. At the south the most encouraging report comes from Savannah, where excursions have resulted in an increased volume of business. Georgia, South Carolina and the general truck farmers complain that want of rain has injured the crops. Wholesale merchants at Galveston are not pushing business, and report the demand light.

General trade throughout the central west has not met anticipations. Decreases in prices of staples are for wheat flour, wheat, Indian corn, oats, lard, sugar, live hogs, petroleum and foundry pig iron.

Hagaboom's Hard Lines.

Edward Hagaboom, president of the City Savings Bank & Trust company, of Hot Springs, which recently failed with liabilities of nearly $175,000, and whose whereabouts has been a mystery, returned to Hot Springs Saturday and as soon as his presence became known he was besiged by a clamorous crowd of creditors. Depositors in the bank who had lost all their savings in the defunct institution fairly swarmed around Hagaboom's residence, and several stormy interviews between depositors and the president took place. Excitement was very high, and the opinion was freely expressed that violence would be done Hagaboom, but this is hardly probable. Mr. Hogaboom has, since his absence from Hot Springs, been spending his time quietly in a village near Memphis. He says he does not know what condition his affairs are in, but will try to straighten them out.

Progress of Our New Ships.

Chief Constructor Hichborn's latest record of the condition of the ships under construction is very gratifying. The Massachusetts is 99 per cent, and the Oregon 98 per cent. completed, while both have been tried and are substantially ready for commission and for actual service. Close upon them comes our most powerful monitor, the Puritan, which is nineteen-twentieths completed. The Brooklyn, which recently made an excellent builder's trial, and which will probably have her official speed run in July, is four-fifths done. The three gunboats, Nashville, Wilmington and Helena, are nearly four-fifths completed, and the three torpedo boats building at Baltimore about two-fifths. There are other craft of various sorts and sizes building, but the foregoing are the most advanced.

Is There Another Durant?

A horrible tragedy, in many respects similar to the murder said to have been committed by Durant at San Francisco, has been unearthed in Salt Lake city. The victims were two women. Rev. Francis Hermann is accused of the murders. The place of the crimes was the Scandinavian church, 158 Second East street. The partially burned remains of one of the women were found in the furnace of the church. The body of the other is supposed to be concealed in the basin of the church. The preacher has disappeared.

Relief for Storm Victims.

The citizens' relief committee of Dallas, Tex., on Thursday raised nearly $1,300 for the cyclone sufferers at Sherman and other Northern Texas points. An effort will be made to raise $5,000 in cash in Dallas. Liberal donations of clothing and general supplies are being made.

THE PLATFORM.

"The People's Party of the State of Alabama, in convention assembled, recognizing the supremacy of political liberty over all the questions that can come before the people of the State for solution at the general State election, to take place on the 3rd day of August, 1896, reaffirm our allegiance to the cardinal principles of Populism as follows:

"First—We demand a free ballot and a fair count.

"Second—We believe in the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of international agreement.

"Third—We demand that miners and others like corporate labor be paid in lawful money of the United States semi-monthly.

"Fourth—We favor a tariff for revenue, so adjusted as to protect, as far as practicable the farmers, and the labour in our shops, mines, factories and mills, and their products against foreign pauper labor."

Judge Zell Gaston's amendment to the 2d section was as follows:

"We demand the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the abolition of national banks, the expansion of the currency to meet the needs of the people and the demands of commerce, free from the control of corporate influences, and we condemn the issue of interest bearing bonds in time of peace."

Next came a lot of resolutions, which passed unanimously:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that our representatives in congress be and are hereby requested to use their best endeavors to secure appropriations by the Federal Government to open the Warrier River to navigation from the coal fields to the Gulf of Mexico."

"Resolved, That our county appointing boards are hereby requested to give to the political opposition a competent inspector at every polling place in their respective counties,

"And we further request the inspector so appointed to give a competent clerk and fixer at each polling place to said political opposition."

THE State Campaign Committee has made its headquarters in Birmingham, with G. B. Deans, of Shelby, as chairman, and Frank Baltzell, of Montgomery, secretary. An active campaign is being formulated and will be vigorously prosecuted.

WHAT is our Senatorial committee doing, or is it doing anything?

AGAIN we rejoice at the progress the cause of honest elections is making. The committee on elections which has been investigating the contested election case from the ninth district of Alabama has reported in favor of unseating Mr. Underwood who is fraudulently holding the seat and seating Mr. T. H. Aldrich. This gives us four congressmen, W. F. Aldrich from the fourth district, A. T. Goodwyn from the fifth, M. W. Howard from the seventh and T. H. Aldrich from the ninth.

THE Democratic nominee for the governorship, Capt. Joseph F. Johnston, has declined to meet the people's nominee, Hon. A. T. Goodwyn, in joint debate. We hope, however, that joint discussions all over the State will yet be arranged between these two candidates. We know full well that this can only redound to the benefit of our cause and evidently Capt. Johnston knows it as well as we do and consequently declines.

FROM all we can gather, the registration in our county, which closed last Saturday, is considerably greater than it was two years ago. This means that our good citizens are determined to return all our candidates in August with the biggest majorities ever known in Chilton county.

SENATOR Butler speaking in the Senate yesterday predicted there would be a Populist president elected next November.

YESTERDAY a terrible cyclone struck St. Louis and over three hundred people are reported to have lost their lives.

THE news from all directions clearly show how heartily the people all over the State are supporting the ticket.

ORGANIZED Democracy is in the tightest place it has ever got into yet.

CONGRESS is expected to adjourn about June 8.

"IF it were conceivable that a free silver candidate could be nominated at Chicago, it would be inconceivable that he could carry a single Northern state. Strong as party ties are, honest principles and the law of self-protection are stronger. Sound money Democrats would refuse to vote for such a candidate, or to indorse by their votes such a platform, in numbers great enough to swamp the party."

So says the New York World. Such a confession should teach the silver Democrats that they alone cannot carry the country for free silver, but must unite with the Populists.—Silver Knight.

PARTY machinery is destined this year to be very seriously fractured. There will be at least three strong Presidential tickets in the field. If Mr. McKinley should be nominated at St. Louis, there will certainly be a split at Chicago. The result of that split will be an extreme gold party and an extreme silver party. The Republican phalanx, on the other hand, will not split in the center. It will merely lose a part of its extreme right wing. That is to say, some Eastern business men who call themselves Republicans would rather support a candidate like Carlisle on a gold platform than support McKinley on a compromise plank. On the other hand many of the far Western Republicans, under the lead of Senator Teller and his friends, would rather support a Democratic ticket headed by a man like Governor Boies, of Iowa, on a free silver platform, than support Mr. McKinley or Mr. Allison—not to mention Mr. Reed—on such a platform as the Republicans are likely to adopt at St. Louis. As for the Populists, they are going to wait and see what happens in the Republican and Democratic conventions. It has been for some time very strongly hinted that the free silver forces of all parties may unite upon Senator Cameron, of Pennsylvania, as their candidate, and persuade him to accept the nomination. It would seem easier, however, to hold the Southern vote with a Western Democrat like Governor Boies as the pro-silver candidate. It is not impossible that the break-up of party machinery may give us four formidable tickets, but it is now practically certain that there will be at least three—From "The Progress of the World," in May Review of Reviews.

We Must Have a Library.

Clanton needs a library for its School. So does every community that has none. It is strange that our country with all its zeal and enormous annual expenditures for public education should not establish at least one library in every county, accessible to the masses of the people. Rome had no public schools but she had public libraries and from those centres of intellectual light there went forth many of her most distinguished sons, whose attainments in letters and science have found no superior, if equal, in modern times. Many of these men, Cicero among numbers, were born of poor and illiterate parents, and but for the presence of libraries their immortal words and deeds would have been lost to mankind.

A public library is a public educator and that of the highest order, and not for one session but for all time to come. There can scarcely be found any community of average population, it matters not how poor and illiterate, that has not in it some youthful genius who would gladly avail himself or herself of its advantages. The world has always presented this anomaly: Rich men's sons squandering time and money at institutions of learning, and poor men's sons thirsting for knowledge with no means of gratifying their aspirations and ambition. Native endowment and a lofty resolve to be something are not confined either to the rich or poor, and we hardly know which is more regretful for a boy who has opportunities to squander them, or for the boy who has no opportunities but capacity and aspirations to back them.

A well selected library centrally located could be a fountain whence this latter class could drink and assimilate the greatest English thought. People are now reading and thinking along every line of science as never before. The whole world seems to have entered upon another creative period. At the pace we are now traveling there is no predicting what will be accomplished within the next half-century. The standard of education everywhere is raised. You may now see in the catalogues of all reputable colleges that a pupil cannot enter the lowest class without having read and without being familiar with a prescribed number of our best English classics. Never was a better advance in education made. Our boys and girls must read—are reading wherever there is a good school—our best English authors. We cannot do this without a library. Shall Clanton lag behind, or meet the issue face to face and make at least a fair beginning?

Through courtesy of Hon. W. F. Aldrich, member of Congress from this District, our school has been furnished with eighteen volumes of the last Census Reports of the United States. These books while indeed a valuable contribution to our library, and one we appreciate very much, are not the books most needed for work in our school and for the youth of this community. We need Encyclopedia, dictionary of Biography, reference books in general and at least five hundred volumes of our best English classics annotated and adapted to our youth. Who will head the subscription with the biggest sum for a library for the University School? These books are to be kept here forever in trust for the people and especially the pupils of our Schol. I am asking nothing for myself, but for you and your children.

E. Y. MCMORRIES.

A STORY was sent out from Indianapolis, Ind., last week in which it was stated that an understanding had been arrived at whereby the Populists of every state in the union would support the candidate of the Chicago convention if nominated on a 16 to 1 platform. There is absolutely no truth in such a statement and Populists should not be deceived thereby. It was evidently started for the purpose of creating dissention in our ranks.

Editor BANNER: I wish to say to Mr. "A" that I very much appreciate the honor done me by his suggesting my name for the State Senate and I desire further to say that I am neither a candidate nor an aspirant for the office. At the request of many honest and good men I became a candidate for tax collector. My friends and myself conducted an honest campaign. We did nothing that would reflect discredit upon us, or the People's Party. But alas! we find some people running around on the day of the primary election and even before, telling that I was a morman, an infidel, and that I had whipped a woman etc. While I am defeated I am not beaten. I carried six beats with a handsome majority. Now I say once for all that I never touched a woman in malice in my life, I know nothing of mormanism and I believe the Bible from the first to the last and know more of it, or about it, than all those little fellows put together. Try me.

I shall have an appointment at many places in the county soon and vindicate myself and show the hole where the rat went out. I have never done anything in my life that is disgraceful or that I am ashamed to own to.

In conclusion I will say that language fails me to express my gratefulness to my many friends for their earnest and honest efforts for me in my race for tax collector. I shall ever feel under many obligations to them.

May God bless them and help them to even remain honest and truthful in politics as well as all other things and that they may be crowned with success is the prayer of an humble servant,

Editor BANNER: As everything seems to be moving along nicely in our State politics, I will give you a little news up here. Everybody is solid for Goodwyn and the balance of the Populist ticket. Our people have never been more united than they are at present. We are all pulling in the same direction and working to accomplish the same ends and the first Monday in August we will roll up the largest majority for our ticket that any ticket has ever got up here. We had the right to be for whom we pleased before the primary, but since the nominations have been made we are all for the ticket from top to bottom. The disorganized party here was in hopes they could have gotton up some confusion and have our people divided, but all hopes have vanished since they see how solid our people are. Well, they are completely lost, they don't know what to do, they cannot fix up any other plan. A promioent Democrat was heard to say the other day that they (the Democrats) would have to put up with Jim Cooley and the rest of the Populist ticket. But the funniest thing of all is to hear a Democrat talking in favor of inddpendent candidates for office. Aint they a set of consistent fellows? A few years ago if you would name independent to them they would throw up their hands and cry out Republican! But now their old ship is sinking and they are willing to be called anything for the sake of getting office. I heard a man say four years ago there was no difference between an independent and a Republican and he would vote for a Republican in preference. The same man said, the other day, that he was in favor of running independent candidates this time. But wouldn't it be pleasant to hear them asked why, they would draw a long breath or two, and say, to fool the people. We have registered a little over 300 in beat 2 and if the opposition gets up a ticket we only give them about 25. With much hopes of success to the Populist in county and State, I am

HEART DISEASE, like many other ailments when they have taken hold of the system, never gets better of its own accord, but Constantly grows worse. There are thousands who know they have a defective heart, but will not admit the fact. They don't want their friends to worry, and Don't know what to take for it, as they have been told time and again that heart disease was incurable. Such was the case of Mr. Silas Farley of Dyesville, Ohio who writes June 19, 1894, as follows:

"I had heart disease for 23 years, my heart hurting me almost continually. The first 15 years I doctored all the time, trying several physicians and remedies, until my last doctor told me it was only a question of time as I could not be cured. I gradually grew worse, very weak, and completely discouraged, until I lived, propped half up in bed, because I couldn't lie down nor sit up. Thinking my time had come I told my family what I wanted done when I was gone. But on the first day of March on the recommendation of Mrs. Fannie Jones, of Anderson, Ind., I commenced taking Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart and wonderful to tell, in ten days I was working at light work and on March 19 commenced framing a barn, which is heavy work, and I hav'nt lost a day since. I am 56 years old, 6 ft. 4½ inches and weigh 200lbs. I believe I am fully cured, and I am now only anxious that everyone shall know of your wonderful remedies."

Dyesville, Ohio. SILAS FARLEY.

Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Write us a letter covering these three points:

FIRST.—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."

SECOND.—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.

THIRD.—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, net, and should retail at not over 10 or 12 cents, if consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain; Zeilin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 300 or 400 per cent., instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine," which you be sure to specify, and take no other, as there is nothing else like it.

On receipt of your letter enclosing photograph, we will mail you free of charge, a $1.00 package Liver Medicine, or on receipt of letter without photograph, we will mail you a 25 cent package, free.

Her Ancestors.

A little country boy who had to go to a lady's house on business was put into a room where there were some silhouettes—portraits cut out in black paper—on the mantel-piece. The lady, noticing that the boy was attracted by them, said:

"Little boy do you know that" (pointing to one) "was my father and this was his father?"

At which the child replied, with a look of astonishment:

"Lor, mum! was he a chimney sweep, too!"

He Loved Her Dressmaker.

"Here's a bill from my wife's dressmaker. I hate to pay dressmaking bills, don't you, Larkin?"

"No; I'm very fond of my wife's dressmaker. It's a positive pleasure to pay her bills."

"Good heavens, Larkin! that would not go in my family! Who is your wife's dressmaker?"

"My wife."—Detroit Free Press.

Different Points of View.

Two girl friends met on the street and stopped to shake hands.

"So glad to meet you, Grace," said the tailor-made Alice. "Was just on my way to ask you, as my oldest friend, to be one of my bridesmaids."

"Bridesmaid! How lovely! I did not know you were engaged," replied the fin-de-siecle Grace.

"It's sudden, very sudden; but he's awfully in love, and is just too lovely to live. Will you act?"

"Act? Of course. I'll be charmed. But," moving forward and speaking in an undertone, "do come round the corner and tell me all about it. There comes that idiotic, irrepressible ass, Jim Berton. He's grinning as though he meant to stop, and I don't care to be seen talking to him."

"Jim Berton? He's the man I'm going to marry!"

SHERIFF KENNEDY ACQUITTED.

A Mexican Veteran's Death—Horrible Accident at Bessemer—Protestant Episcopal Church in Session at Selma—Struck by an Engine. Negroes Going to Africa.

Man Decapitated at Sheffield.

Will McDaniel, an employe of the Cole furnace at Sheffield, Ala., was decapitated Thursday morning by falling in front of a switch engine. His head and one arm were cut off by the engine.

Struck by an Engine.

Saturday afternoon as Mr. Eliza Cartwright, of Greenville, was trying to drive some chickens off the track in front of an approaching passenger train she was struck by the engine and received such injuries as to cause her death in a short time.

An Eye Knocked Out.

E. B. Atkinson, section boss on the Coalburg division of the Southern railroad, was struck by a freight train late Thursday afternoon and had an eye knocked out and was otherwise injured. He was carried to the Charity hospital, Birmingham, where his wounds were dressed by Dr. Copeland.

Protestant Episcopal Church.

The diocesan council of the Protestant Episcopal church is holding its annual session in Selma, Bishops Wilmer and Jackson presiding. Notice has been given of a resolution to permit women to participate and vote in church meetings. The council will hold the next annual session with St. Paul's church, Greensboro, on May 19.

Horrible Accident at Bessemer.

At Bessemer Thursday afternoon John Keller, an employe of the Bessemer pipe works, engaged in the rope making department, was accidentally tripped up and fell among the moving machinery. His head was caught between the cogs of an immense wheel and crushed to a pulp in sight of his fellow workers, who were powerless to rescue him, so quickly did the accident happen. The deceased was the only support of a widowed mother.

A Mexican Veteran's Death.

Gen. John R. Coffey died Thursday morning at his home, near Wannville, Jackson county. He was born in Bedford county, Tenn., about 86 years ago. He served as colonel in the Mexican war and afterwards brigadier-general of the Alabama militia. Mr. Coffey was one of the wealthiest and most influential men of North Alabama. He was stricken with paralysis several years ago and had been confined to his bed for a long time.

Handy for the Children.

John Latham, a 14-year-old lad, was accidentally shot by his brother Angus on Eighteenth street and Fifth avenue, Birmingham, near the Presbyterian church, about 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening. The boys were playing with a parlor rifle, which was accidentally discharged, the ball entering just below the left eye, near the nose. Physicians were called in and probed for the bullet, but did not succeed in locating it and are unable as yet to determine the nature of the wound. At a late hour the boy was reported "resting as well as could be expected."

Encouraging Them to Go.

The first direct news from the colony of negroes from about Selma, which sailed from Savannah for Liberia last March, was received Thursday. It is dated Monrovia, April 6, and states that the colonists are delighted with their new home. Another colony, numbering 400 persons, is being formed, and will leave this fall after the crops are gathered. Others will follow. The white people are encouraging them to go, believing that the thrifty northern farmers will come in and occupy the lands. The negroes are transported from Selma to Liberia for $33 a head, $17 being charged for children. They pay the transportation in monthly installments.

Boy's Skull Badly Crushed.

Hardly had the unfortunate general manager of the Dwight mills been removed to his home and made comfortable on Wednesday after the terrible accident of which he was the victim, when a lad employed at the cotton mill fell from the third story of the building and was fatally injured. The boy, it was said, was sliding down a set of bannisters when he lost his balance and fell headlong to the bottom floor of the building. Life was almost crushed out of the lad. The bleeding and mangled boy was removed to his home and he has been in a comatose condition since. His skull was found to be badly crushed, while he received other internal injuries, and his life has been despaired of.

Little Hope of His Recovery.

H. G. Nicholls, the young man who was hurt at the Dwight cotton factory Wednesday, is still in a precarious condition and there are but little hopes of his recovery at this writing (Thursday). He is conscious and says that he will soon recover.

While but a young man, he has had under his sole direction the construction of the half million dollar cotton mill at Alabama City. By his gentlemanly conduct and amiable manners he has won the warm friendship of many people in Gadsden, and his condition is greatly deplored and watched with great interest.

His friends have telegraphed to New York for an eminent surgeon of that place. It is thought if Mr. Nicholls lives until his arrival his life can be saved. His head is badly crushed and the difficult operation of trepanning will be performed.

Its First Train Unlucky.

The LaFayette railway, the new line now being constructed between Opelika and LaFayette, on Friday began the running of regular schedules between Opelika and Oak Bowery and on one of the first trips met with a serious accident. There is a side track three miles from Opelika and the train for LaFayette left the main line and ran into a flat car on the side track, badly damaging both. The engine left the track and landed about 40 feet from the main line. Several passengers were severely bruised. Mr. Eugene Lowe, the fireman, had to be carried off on a litter, and the engineer, Mr. R. B. Smith, was also seriously injured. The accident was caused by some miscreant throwing the switch. The company has no other engine and no means of getting on the one derailed.

Trial of Robert H. Kennedy.

The trial of Robert H. Kennedy for the killing of Percy Wood and shooting Mardis Wood has been on several days in Montgomery. The evidence shows the theory of the defense to be that the killing was done under temporary insanity, resulting from the destruction of the defendant's domestic peace through the abandoned conduct of his wife in connection with Mardis Wood.

LATER.—The preliminary trial of Sheriff Robert Kennedy, of Dallas county, for shooting the Wood brothers because of Mardis Wood's alleged intimacy with Kennedy's wife, came to a close at 1:50 p. m. Friday.

General Pettus was followed by Captain White for the state, and at the conclusion of the latter's speech Justice Screws discharged Kennedy without bail.

HAVOC OF STORM AND FLOOD.

One Man Drowned—A Woman Dies From Fright.

The rain, which has fallen almost steadily throughout Missouri since last Sunday, was still pouring down Thursday. At Elson, Mo., a tornado and rain storm Tuesday night caused great damage. The Congregational and Methodist churches were reduced to kindling wood, and the Christian church had the spire blown off. Three dwelling houses were totally destroyed. All the telephone and telegraph wires were down, and communication from the outside was entirely cut off. The track of the Lebanon branch of the Missouri Pacific was washed out so that there could be no trains or mail for three or four days. At Elson two women were injured mortally. A young lady was crazed by fright, and three other persons were seriously hurt.

It is estimated that the damage to property in Elson alone is $50,000, and at Chilhowee the same tornado blew down a half dozen dwellings, but fortunately nobody was seriously hurt.

At Versailles the rain fell in torrents, accompanied by high wind. Mr. James Anthony, a well-known citizen, was drowned while attempting to ford a small creek on horseback.

Mrs. J. D. Earhardt, living a few miles east of Versailles, died from fright in the storm.

In the western and southern portions of the state highway bridges are washed away by the floods. Nearly every stream is overflowed, the rain still falling, and the situation alarming. Along the Mississippi river from Burlington to Cairo preparations are being made for the annual rise. At St. Louis the river has reached the 25 foot mark, having risen 5 feet in twenty-four hours. The 30 foot danger line was expected to be reached by Friday.

CAPTURE OF DESPERADO DELK.

Thrilling Adventure—Daring Feat of Farmer McWilliams.

A dispatch from Senoia, Ga., tells of the capture of the desperado, Tom Delk, who is wanted for the murder of Sheriff Gwinn, of Pike county, Georgia. He was sitting out in the woods when T. H. McWilliams, a farmer of that neighborhood, came up and ordered him to throw his rifle down. Delk sprang behind a tree and then commanded McWilliams to throw down his pistol. This McWilliams did. Delk made him give up all his money and then began to deliberate.

McWilliams proposed that they lay in wait for a man who would soon be along with $100. While they were talking McWilliams jumped on Delk. They fought for fifteen minutes.

Delk tried to get his pistol to kill McWilliams. Finally, McWilliams snatched it and clubbed the desperado with it. Then McWilliams marched the prisoner half a mile to his own farm house and had the bell rung for help. When the farm hands came they chained Delk and started for Senoia.

Delk was chained securely to a wagon and started across the country for Atlanta, thirty miles away. They expected to reach there about 3 o'clock Thursday morning.

ANOTHER BAD DISASTER

A Building Falls, Burying a Number of People in the Ruins.

At 9:25 o'clock Thursday morning the Brown building at the corner of Main and Seneca streets which was undergoing extensive alterations and repairs, collapsed with an awful crash, burying a score of people in the ruins.

About 9:30 o'clock the walls of the section of the building on Seneca street collapsed. There was no warning of falling plaster or creaking timbers. The walls fell with a crash taking down the roof, and ceiling with them.

George Metz, 29 years of age, was taken out terribly crushed, and died at the hospital.

Two others were rescued from the debris, alive but severely injured. Three others were discovered on what remains of the second floor, but the rescuers had not been able to reach them at noon. The groans of still others were heard from under the mass of debris. The girl cashier of Steiners' barber shop had not been found.

They Quarreled About Pasturage.

A fatal quarrel occurred Wednesday afternoon two miles west of Sunset, Tex., between S. W. Boon and his son, Joe, on one side, and A. M. Ward and his son on the other, resulting in the instant death of A. M. Ward and the fatal wounding of his son by gunshots. J. W. Boon is also wounded by being shot three times in the head. The Wards are tenants of the farm of Boon, and the difficulty grew out of a disagreement about pasturing some stock.

The Laurada Landed.

News of the Laurada was received from Philadelphia by a member of one of the Cuban clubs in New York city Wednesday. According to the dispatch, a landing was effected without molestation by the Spaniards. All the men and the entire cargo were put ashore.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

Summary of the Week's Proceedings in Both Houses.

ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

Several resolutions were offered and referred or laid on the table subject to call. A resolution, heretofore introduced by Mr. Aldrich, republican, of Rhode Island, directing the finance committee to enquire whether American labor and industries are suffering from or are threatened with injurious competition through importations of Oriental products; and, if so, to investigate the causes which have made such competition possible, was taken up and agreed to with an amendment offered by Mr. Mills instructing the committee to report also the labor cost of products by the unit of quantity in both countries. The Delaware senatorial election case was taken up and debated until 5 o'clock, when a vote was taken and Mr. Dupont was declared not entitled to the seat by 31 to 30. The republicans voted solidly for his claim, and democrats and populists solidly against it. The senate then adjourned until tomorrow.... In the house the election contest of Hoge (republican) vs. Otey (democrat) from the Sixth Virginia district, was decided in favor of Otey. The house proceeded to the consideration of pension bills favorably acted on in committee of the whole heretofore, and 101 were passed. Among them were one giving the widow of the late Secretary Gresham a pension of $100 a month, and one allowing $75 a month to the widow of General Thomas Ewing, Jr. An evening session was held, but no quorum appeared and the house adjourned until Monday.

ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

A resolution by Mr. Morgan was laid before the senate and Mr. Morgan addressed the senate. The resolution was agreed to after a slight modification. The following is the text of it: "Resolved, That the committee on foreign relations is directed to enquire and report to the senate what are the rights of the United States under our treaty with Spain as to the trial of our citizens arrested in Cuba and now under condemnation and sentence to death by the Spanish military tribunals, for alleged offenses of a political or other character against the Spanish laws or government and to report on that subject by bill or otherwise." "Section 2. That the secretary of state is directed to send to the senate literal copies of the original text of a protocol or conference and declarations concerning judicial procedure, signed by Caleb Cushing, as minister of the United States and Senor Don Fernando Y Collantes, minister of the king of Spain, on January 12, 1977, as the same was executed and interchanged, both in the English and Spanish languages: and that he will inform the senate whether the established or agreed original text of said proposal is in the English or the Spanish language. "Section 3. That the president of the United States is requested, if it is not incompatible with the public service, to communicate to the senate copies of any correspondence that has taken place between the governments of Spain and the United States, respecting the said protocol and its bearing or effect upon the trial and condemnation of citizens of the United States, who were recently captured on or near the vessel called the competitor, which was seized under Spanish authority in Cuban waters or near to that island." ......The house bill relating to the supply of gas in the District of Columbia was taken up and considered until the hour when, according to previous notice, eulogies on the late Representative Crane, of Texas, were to begin. The usual resolutions were adopted, eulogies were spoken by Messrs. Mills and Chilton, of Texas, and Caffery, of Louisiana, and the senate, as a further mark of respect to the deceased, adjourned until Monday.

ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

The resolution for the appointment of a select committee to investigate the last year's election in the state of Alabama and to report whether a republican form of government exists in that state, came up in the senate. Mr. Allen, populist, of Nebraska, making a motion that the senate proceed in its consideration. There were only six votes in favor of the motion—two from populists senators, Allen and Peffer of Kansas, and four from republican senators, Chandler, Frye, Gallinger and Morrill. The vote against it numbered 41. House bill to regulate the price of gas in the District of Columbia, was discussed in the senate today for several hours, the question being whether the house bill (fixing the price at $1 per 1,000 feet) or the senate district committee amendment (making the reduction a graduated one from $1.50 down) should be agreed to. The committee amendment prevailed—31 to 14, and the bill as amended was passed. The senate, at 6 p. m., adjourned until tomorrow.... The house passed thirty-five pension bills reported from Friday night's session and, under unanimous consent, the following: Granting a site to the city of Biloxi, Miss., for a charity hospital. Incorporating the society of Collinal Dames. Authorizing the loan or donation of condemned cannon to Grand Army posts. To compel the attendance of witnesses before local land officers. Under suspension of rules bills were passed to expedite the delivery of imported merchandise by allowing the appraisement on the wharf delivery to an express company oro ther bonded carrier of packages valued at not over $500 and not over 100 pounds in weight, imported in American vessels. To allow the bottling of spirits in bonded warehouses. To provide for the registration by the patent office of trade marks on bottles, barrels and other receptacles used in interstate and foreign commerce. Adjourned until tomorrow.

ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

The senate amended the District of Columbia appropriation bill by substituting the usual specific items for the several charitable institutions in lieu of the house provision, which appropriates a sum in bulk to be distributed under contract, and passed the bill as amended. Another senate amendment provides for a joint select committee of three from each house to investigate the charity and reformatory institutions of the District and report, among other things, whether any of the appropriations made for them have been used to aid or maintain any church or denomination.... The house passed the resolution reported by elections committee No. 1 confirming the title of W. C. Owens, democrat, to the seat he occupies as a representative from the Seventh district of Kentucky, which has been contested by George Denny, Jr., republican. It also passed a resolution from the same committee providing for a recount of the ballots cast for congressmen in the Sixteenth Illinois district at the November election, 1894, in the contest of Rinaker vs. Downing, for the seat for that district. The message of President Cleveland vetoing the bill to pension Caroline D. Mowatt was laid before the house and referred to the committee on invalid pensions. The remainder of the session was taken up in argument on the several bills to restrict immigration and the bill to relieve the lake cities, especially, of the burden of Canadian competition, and the house adjourned until tomorrow.

ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-FIFTH DAY.

A conference report on the river and harbor bill was received in the senate and went over until tomorrow. The fortifications bill was passed. The senate amendments increase appropriations made by the house about $5,000,000. The motion to reconsider the vote by which the senate on March 2 passed the bill to provide for the enlistment of additional men in the navy was carried and the bill went to the calendar. Three senate bills authorizing the construction by the Mobile and Ohio railroad company of bridges across the Warrior, Cahaba and Alabama rivers in Alabama were passed. At 6 p. m. the senate adjourned until tomorrow.... The McCall bill requiring an educational qualification of immigrants was passed by the house, together with the Carlisle bill, intended to protect the lake cities from Canadian competition. Mr. Stone's consular inspection (of immigrants) bill was defeated. President Cleveland's message vetoing the bill to pension Lydia A. Taft was read and referred. She obtained a divorce from Taft fourteen years ago. Taft died five years ago in a soldiers' home. The president sees no merit in her claim to a pension under this showing. At 4:50 the house adjourned.

ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-SIXTH DAY.

The conference report on the river and harbor bill, having been sent back to the committee and the item for Brunswick, Ga., harbor reinstated, was agreed to as far as it went and a new conference ordered on the question of the location of a deep sea harbor on the Pacific coast. The conference report on the legislative bill was disagreed to and a new conference ordered. The conference report on the Indian bill went over until tomorrow and that on the sundry civil bill was agreed to. The remainder of the session was taken up in an effort by Mr. Butler, populist, of North Carolina, to get consideration of his bill prohibiting the issue of bonds without the consent of congress, and at 6:35 the senate adjourned until tomorrow.. The house passed over the president's veto the bill granting a pension of $50 a month to Francis E. Hoover, a private of Company I, Sixty-fourth Ohio Volunteers. All the populists and seven democrats voted with the republicans for the bill. Four republicans voted with the democrats against it. The house went into committee of the whole on a bill authorizing a non-partizan committee of twenty-one members to collect information and recommend legislation to meet the problems presented by labor, agriculture and capital. After an agreement to extend the time for discussing the bill until 4 p. m. tomorrow, it went over. A resolution was agreed to directing the printing of 10,000 copies of the immigration bill passed yesterday. At 5:10 the house adjourned until tomorrow.

ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-SEVENTH DAY.

The debate on the Butler bond prohibiting bill, and fillibustering measures against its consideration occupied the senate today, except when it gave way for the reception of privileged reports. The conference report on the river and harbor bill was received and agreed to.... A partial conference report on the river and harbor bill was agreed to in the house. The report on the sundry civil was rejected. A report was agreed to fixing the pension voted to Brigadier General Joseph R. West, formerly United States senator from Louisiana, at $75 a month.

MOST TRANSPARENT SCHEMES

Of Swindlers Find Simple Citizens Who Greedily Gobble the Bait.

A slick swindler, claiming to be W. H. Stewart, of Washington, D. C., fleeced some citizens of Morristown, Tenn., Wednesday, including a Southern railway agent, a prominent druggist and a wholesale grocer. He purported to be a government official representing the United States coin repository of Washington. He baited his victims by informing them that the government would shortly call in coins of certain dates and pay a premium on them, stating that all pennies would be redeemed. He possessed a paper, issued monthly, with the desired information as to dates, etc., which he sold for $1. Enough evidence has been secured to send him to the penitentiary. After sticking several citizens to the tune of a few dollars, he left for Newport, where he was arrested. He compromised by returning the money and paying the costs.

Danger Mark Touched.

A climax was reached in the local storm at St. Louis, Mo., at 6 o'clock Thursday night. The clouds that had dropped occasional showers all day centered over the city and a deluge of rain and hail fell. The hail stones were unusually large and considerable damage resulted. The river continued to rise rapidly. At 9 o'clock the water touched the 30 foot mark, a rise of 5 feet since morning, and it was advancing. The government weather service sent out warnings to property owners along the river front and hundreds of men were put to work removing the lumber and other endangered merchandise to places of safety. Every vessel in the harbor had steam up. It seems assured that the destructive flood of former years will be rivalled.

It Exploded Prematurely.

A premature explosion of dynamite, attended with fatal results, occurred at the mines of the Virginia Coal and Iron company, Middlesboro, Ky., Saturday afternoon, in which Joen K. Taggart, the general superintendent of the company, and an employe named Hardin were instantly killed. The superintendent and several workmen of the company were preparing a blast in the mines and had drilled a hole thirty feet deep, in which they placed a charge consisting of nine kegs of powder and a stick of dynamite. They were tamping the earth over the charge when it exploded prematurely. J. A. L. Minor, standing near the scene, was blown fifty yards in the air. George Glaecclack was also injured.

British Steamer Stranded.

The British steamer Glaneyron, perhaps Glenhafron, bound from Fernandina to Rotterdam via Newport News, Va., with phosphate, was stranded on the outer diamond Hatteras shoals at 9 p. m. Friday. The crew were taken off Saturday morning by the life savers and the vessel abandoned in bad condition. It will be a total loss.

Gladstone's Pudding.

Shelley once blurted out that pudding was a prejudice, but according to a contemporary, which tells the following exciting story, Mr. Gladstone merely regards the habit of eating it too hot as a prejudice. "One day, not long ago, he was going for a drive into Chester after luncheon. His pudding was very hot, so he went away from the table, changed his clothes, got ready for the drive and came back and finished his pudding, thus saving the minutes during which his pudding cooled!"

The Blue and the Gray.

Both men and women are apt to feel a little blue, when the gray hairs begin to show. It's a very natural feeling. In the normal condition of things gray hairs belong to advanced age. They have no business whitening the head of man or woman, who has not begun to go down the slope of life. As a matter of fact, the hair turns gray regardless of age, or of life's seasons; sometimes it is whitened by sickness, but more often from lack of care. When the hair fades or turns gray there's no need to resort to hair dyes. The normal color of the hair is restored and retained by the use of

START THE GIRL RIGHT.

When the girl comes to be a woman—look out. If she starts out in vigorous, womanly health then it is pretty safe to say she will be a healthy, attractive, beautiful woman.

The beginning of womanhood is the real crisis in a woman's life. Nearly always something is wrong then in the distinctly feminine organs. Maybe it isn't very serious—no matter—the time to stop disease is when it starts.

McELREE'S

will bring girls safely through the crisis. Taken at the first indication of weakness, it never fails. It regulates the monthly periods with perfect precision. Its action is direct upon the feminine organs that above all others, ought to be strong and well.

Start the girl right. Don't expose her to the dangers and tortures of dragging weakness, bearing down pains, nervous prostration and the debilitating drains so common to women.

McElree's Wine of Cardui, is a home treatment. It does away entirely with abhorrent "local examinations."

A physician in a New York town, not far from Albany, writes September 24th, 1895: "I had a case recently that will be of interest to you. Finally he came to my office. I prescribed several remedies which [illegible]. I then prescribed Ripans Tabules, which he reported gave him immediate relief, and he is now nearly cured. VOL. IV. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JUNE 4, 1896. NO. 32.

BANKER AND FARMER

E. GERRY BROWN MAKES A SPLENDID ILLUSTRATION.

How a Rustic Old Hayseed Put a National Banker in a Hole—Farmers All Understand the Great Money Question, and Will Vote Accordingly.

"Mr. Banker," said a farmer, "will you answer me some questions?"

"Certainly I will," answered the banker. "We have a league in New York whose mission it is to reward or pay editors to print our ideas on 'sound money;' but go ahead with your questions."

"What is a national banknote, for which we sell our labor?" asked the farmer.

"A national bank-note is a promise of a national bank to pay the amount named on the face of the note," answered the banker.

"Pay what—gold?" asked the farmer.

"Oh, no; lawful money," answered the banker.

"That gives you an option of paying it in silver. Do you pay out silver?" asked the farmer.

"Mostly silver, silver certificates, notes of other banks, etc.," answered the banker.

"But, Mr. Banker, if you have the option and pay it in silver, why do you claim that, if the government has the option it should pay in gold?" asked the farmer.

"Because we are on a gold basis; and if government paid out silver, confidence would be affected, and gold would go to a premium," said the banker.

"Then, if we are on a gold basis," said the farmer, "why don't you pay your notes in gold?"

"Because," answered the banker, "the law gives me the privilege of paying lawful money and we educate the people who want gold to demand gold of the government for that lawful money, and that relieves the banks of the burden of providing the gold for the gold basis."

"Then, what we get for our labor is a paper promise of a bank?" asked the farmer.

"Oh, but it is good—good all over the country," said the banker.

"What makes it good," asked a laborer.

"It is secured by United States bonds," said the banker. "For every $900 we issue in our bank notes, we deposit a $1,000 bond in Washington. The law furnishes us with $900 in bank-notes for every thousand dollar bond there deposited."

"And the bond is the property of the bank and the government is responsible for its safe-keeping, and its return to you," asked the farmer.

"Yes," answered the banker.

"You buy a bond with $1,000, and then get $900, that is good currency as that which you gave for the bond?"

"Ye-yes," hesitated the banker.

"What is a bond?" asked the farmer.

"A bond—a United States bond?" asked the banker. "Why, every one knows what a United States bond is. It is a promise of all the people that the holder of the bond shall receive interest until the bond is matured, and the principal named in the bond at maturity."

"Then you draw interest on the bond?" asked the laborer.

"Yes," said the banker.

"And," continued the farmer, "you get back $900 out of the $1,000 you paid for the bond. Then isn't it true that you are drawing interest on the full bond, when, in reality, all that you have loaned the people is ten per cent of that bond?"

"That's not the way we state it," said the banker.

"No," interjected the editor, "you don't state it in that way, but it is an exact statement of the privilege you enjoy at the expense of the wealth-producers, the bread-winners, the widows and orphans included. Tell him also that you are exempt from paying interest on the bond or the notes."

"I haven't finished asking questions," said the farmer.

"Go on," said the banker, with a "tired" look at the editor.

"I want to ask how you get your bank-notes into circulation?" continued the farmer.

"We discount notes; that is, for instance, a retailer who buys goods and hasn't the money to pay for them gives his note, his promise to pay at a certain date. The manufacturer who sells him the goods indorses the note—writes his name on the back of it—and then he brings it to our bank. We deduct the interest—discount it, and take the discount in advance—and the balance we loan him, and enter it on the deposit-book of the one for whom we discount it. When he draws a check we can give him in payment our bank notes."

"Then," questioned the farmer, "you draw interest on the bond at Washington and interest on the notes of your bank; isn't it double interest for part of your money?"

"Well, we don't state it that way," slowly answered the banker.

"No," remarked the editor, "it is not stated that way; they are too busy educating the people on honest money."

"It appears to me," remarked the farmer, "that bank-notes are a promise to pay on which the bank draws interest. The retailer pays interest on what he owes, and the bank receives interest on what it owes."

"That's it," chuckled the editor. "The bank is living on the interest of what it owes, and growing rich at the expense of the people who vote for the gold-basis that gives the bank this special privilege. This enables the banks to educate you up to a gold basis at your expense. They have the 'special privilege' of furnishing you with 'sound money.' There's so much wind in it that can make it sound like a bass-drum."

"Special privilege," exclaimed the banker, "why, any five men can take advantage of the National Banking Act. It's no special privilege."

"Of course they can," replied the editor; "and I wonder that there are so many tramps doing nothing, when they could have such an easy job, if, in 'blocks of five,' they should associate themselves and organize a bank. All they need is $5,000 or $100,000 capital. Certainly every American citizen has the chance to run a bank. It is good business. For instance: The Chemical National Bank of New York, capital $300,000. Surplus, seven million. Par value of stock, $100; market value, forty-three hundred—forty-three times as much as its par. No note circulation. Deposits thirty million, and its profit is from the credit based on about one-quarter this sum. In addition to the seven million profit represented by the surplus, its dividends have been one hundred and fifty per cent per annum and in addition to that one hundred per cent is carried to surplus. 'Our business comes from confidence,' said the president in his testimony."

"Dear me," said the minister, "I have listened to all this about a national bank and the money power and the system doesn't appear to be just right. It is a debt based on a debt; and we are doing business on the basis of our debts. To have money we must keep in debt, and pay interest on the debt forever, that we may have the evidence of a debt with which to exchange wealth. It is interest on a dollar, and another interest on something not earned, which is based on that dollar and called national bank credit. Why, a dollar printed on every fifty cents' worth of silver, seems to me, is a better dollar than a promise to pay a dollar which has only twenty cents guaranty in its possession that we shall finally promise, if we get anything. More promises to pay than there is money to redeem the promises! Dear me! The president of our national bank has donated the chapel in which I try to lead men to fear God; but I fear that the money-changers have so burdened them with supporting themselves and the banking system, that they do not come to church so often as they might if they were emancipated from this bondage. Man's body is God's temple, and the money-changers must be driven out. I must have a sermon on this."

"You'll get fired if you do," whispered a rude voice in the rear of the room; but the minister did not hear it.

These figures are from the testimony of the president of the bank to a congressional committee, 1894.

Every Man's Portion.

Every man who labors is entitled to enjoy the fruits thereof, and if he does not, there is something wrong in our economic system. A man who labors, earns an abundance of good things, and, if he does not enjoy them, some other person does. Under proper conditions every laboring man should have:

"Corn in the corn crib,
Chickens in the yard,
Meat in the smoke house,
And a tub full of lard.

"Milk in the dairy,
Butter by the load,
Coffee in the box
And sugar in the gourd.

"Cream in the pitcher,
Honey in the mug,
Cider in the demijohn,
And liquor in the jug."

The only road that leads to this condition of plenty is through a change in the conditions, and a change can only come by a change of national policy. Vote for a change!—Southern Mercury.

POWER OF WEALTH.

HOW IT IS CRUELLY ENSLAVING THE RACE.

But the Parent, Competition, Will Be Overthrown to Make Room for a Co-operative Commonweath—Plutocracy Is on Its Last Legs.

A feature of the New York World of Sunday, April 26, was a page devoted to a symposium by nine prominent economic agitators giving their views of the nation's ills, presenting at the head of the page pictures in group of the writers. Senator Stewart wrote about free silver and the goldbugs; Mrs. Mary E. Lease advocated populism; Dennis Kearney, of "sand-lot fame," played upon the old anti-Chinese string; Jacob S. Coxey talked good roads and non-interest-bearing bonds; Lucien Sanial, socialism; Samuel Gompers, trades unionism; Senator Peffer, more populism; "Coin" Harvey, more silver. The following broad survey of the industrial problem is from the pen of Eugene V. Debs:

In answer to your interrogatory as to what I consider to be "the greatest evil of the time, and what is the remedy for the complaints of the discontented masses," I have to say that I agree entirely with Senator Tillman in his terrific indictment of the money power in the Sunday World of March 1, and in declaring that power to be the monumental evil of this age, in which all others have their source and compared to which all others dwarf to insignificance. The widespread poverty, misery, wretchedness, squalor, degradation, vice and crime in all their multifarious forms, not omitting the venality, corruption and rascality among what a perverted civilization is pleased to call the "upper classes," are directly or indirectly traceable to this money power. This power, the outgrowth of aggregated and centralized wealth extorted from the producing masses by processes no less reprehensible than those employed by Captain Kidd, Jesse James and "Bill" Dalton on an incomparably small scale, makes congress and legislatures, dictates national and state legislation, appoints federal and state judges, nominates and elects the president of the United States and compels all its spineless vassals to do its bidding.

This money power has reduced the high office of the president to a marketable commodity, the supreme court to a nest of venality and the United States congress to a den of treason. Only a few days ago Prof. George D. Herron, the eminent Christian scholar, declared that Christ had no more reason to scourge the money-changers from the temple at Jerusalem that the American people have to clean out the United States senate. This money power, omnipotent and omnipresent, has even entered the church of Christ, touched the robed minister at the altar, blotched his soul and frozen his heart and sent him forth a traitor to his consecrated vows. This power grows more and more arrogant and despotic as it plunders, crushes and enslaves the people, while it builds its fortifications of the bones of its victims and its palaces out of its piracies, until purple and fine linen on the one side and rags and wretchedness upon the other side define social conditions as mountain ranges or rivers define the boundaries of nations—palaces on the hills, with music and dancing and the luxuries of all climes—huts in the valleys, dark and dismal, where the victim's of "man's inhumanity to man" crouch and shiver, and where the only music is the dolorous "song of the shirt" and the luxurious rags and crusts. This money power, this insatiate, remorseless, abnormal development of a barbarous civilization, has polluted every fountain and stream designed to bless the world.

Senator Tillman seems to believe that the money power can be dislodged, and that the vices, crimes and iniquities which it has spawned can be remedied by a change in our monetary system. In this I do not agree with him. His remedy is, in my opinion, totally inadequate. It is a vastly larger question and involves infinitely more than a change in our system of finance, radical and sweeping as they may be. It is a question of industrial revolution and social regeneration. The whole capitalistic system, which has its foundation in wage-slavery, must be destroyed root and branch. The competitive principle as applied to production and distribution must give way to the co-operative principle. The one fosters greed, avarice, cunning, cupidity, selfishness, brutality and the whole brood of vices that make men monsters and fill the world with agony and woe. The other engenders love, kindness, sympathy, mutual help; in a word, the brotherhood of man, with which earth is transformed into paradise, and the sons of God may again shout for joy.

The basic political reform is, in my opinion, embodied in direct legislation, proportional representation and the imperative mandate, and social industrial regeneration will come through the inauguration of the co-operative commonwealth.

The evolutionary processes are in operation, and the change will come as certain as the stars shine, either on peace lines or through the fiercest revolution that ever shocked the world.

The Vanderbilt Castle.

The work on George W. Vanderbilt's estate near Asheville, N. C., on which he has erected a mansion that breaks all records for residence in this country, is reported to be nearly finished. It will be known as Biltmore castle.

The estate consists of thirty thousand acres of land; which might be made into thirty-four pieces of land as large as Central Park, New York. Each member of Mr. Vanderbilt's family might, therefore, have all to himself a private playground several times as large as all the breathing spots set aside for a million and a half of New Yorkers.

The mansion stands on a spot once occupied by a mountain peak. Mr Vanderbilt had the peak cut off and carted away. In order to expedite the construction of his castle a plant was put up that turned out 60,000 bricks and 2,000 flowerpots a day, the latter to be used in a seventy-five-acre plot set aside for greenhouses and flower garden.

A railroad was built between Biltmore station and the castle for the transfer of materials, and this line will be torn up when the work is done.

There is a deer park of 3,000 acres and extensive trout ponds.

The entire enterprise, it is estimated, will cost Vanderbilt about $5,000,000.—Chicago Express.

Happy Rogues.

Willey—"I tell you it's better in the end to be honest. Did you ever know a rogue who wasn't unhappy?" Shalley—"No; but then one would hardly expect a rogue to be happy when he is known. It's the rogues who are not known who are happy."—Woonsocket (R. I.) Reporter.

"Cheap money" is the proper name for an honest money, but "sound money" is a misnomer for what the gold bugs want.

Two Negroes Have a Row.

At the Herculese Pipe works, Anniston, Wednesday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock John Little and Tom Morrison, two negroes, had a row over some shop work and Tom hit John on the arm and over the head with a piece of iron. The blow on the head knocked Little unconscious and he is still in a dangerous condition. His assailant skipped out, but will probably be arrested.

Cumberland Presbyterians.

The sixty-sixth annual session of the Cumberland Presbyterian assembly, held in Birmingham, adjourned at 12 o'clock Friday, after a most interesting session. Several important matters were passed over until the next assembly for the want of time. A resolution was adopted extending the time of future assemblies, if necessary.

The Negro Fought Vigorously.

Sheriff Knight and a Mr. Barron in attempting to arrest Mose Salter, an unruly negro, near Luverne Wednesday, met with something unlooked for. The negro fought vigorously and finally broke away and made his escape, but not until Barron had emptied the contents of his shotgun in his back. Signs left by the negro indicate that he is seriously wounded, but at this writing he has not been apprehended.

Tuskegee N. and I. Institute.

The fifteenth annual commencement of the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial institute occurred Thursday. Governor Oates attended the inaugural exercises and was the guest of the school. He made an extended address Thursday afternoon to an audience of over 5,000 people, which completely filled the great pavilion, while many listened from the outside. Five students, and George W. Lovejoy, of Mobile, a representative of the alumni, spoke. The annual address was by John J. Daney, of North Carolina. Fifty-eight graduated today.

A Monster's Crime.

A tragic story was told at Florence by parties from Stout, in the north western part of the county. The report is that Sam Crawford, a white man, met a little girl in the road, and, after enticing her into the woods on the plea of hunting flowers, assaulted her. He immediately left, crossing the county to Gravelly Springs and going west from there. He is being followed by a posse, but is thought to be far in advance. The child is a daughter of Mr. Saddlefelt, a German farmer. Crawford, her assailant, is a hunchback and a worthless character.

Sequel of the Pistol Accident.

James Hamner, the young man who was accidentally shot by Scott Morrison in Birmingham on Friday, died about 8 o'clock Saturday morning at Drs. Wilson & Brown's infirmary.

Hamner made a statement prior to his death in which he said the shot was accidental.

Scott Morrison, who gave himself up immediately after the shooting and was placed in the city jail, was carried before Judge Feagin of the inferior court Saturday morning, but no charge was preferred against him and he was discharged.

There Will Be No Strike.

There will be no strike among the 10,000 coal miners in the Birmingham district July 1, the date of the expiration of the present wage contract with mine operators. Friday the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railway company signed a new contract to run for one year from July 1, with its 5,000 miners, whereby the men are to be paid 40 cents per ton for coal mining when pig iron is selling for $8.50 per ton or less, and an advance of 2½ cents per ton in wages for every rise of 50 cents per ton in the price of iron above $8.50. The mine operators in the district are guided by the Tennessee company's action, and will immediately make similar contracts with their miners. The new scale gives an advance of 2½ cents per ton above the present contract basis.

Several College Commencements.

Governor Oates has his hands full of state institutions' commencements, and will spend the larger part of the next two weeks attending trustee meetings and listening to commencement addresses. On Monday the trustees of the Colored Normal School and Industrial institute at Tuskegee met in Montgomery. On Wednesday the exercises of the Deaf, Dumb and Blind institute at Talladega will commence. On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of the following week the commencement exercises of the Agricultural and Mechanical college at Auburn will be held, and the following Monday the University commencement will open. The governor's presence on all of these occasions is required and the chief executive will have a busy but a very agreeable fortnight's work.

Under Strong Suspicion.

A negro by the name of Brisk Smith has been jailed at Rockford charged with attempting to poison Georgia Shelton, colored, who is cooking for Mrs. Thomas in Nixburg beat, eight miles east of Rockford. It seems that the negro boy and this girl had been lovers, but had had a falling out some way and she refused to let him visit her any more, and the boy had decided to kill her by putting Rough on Rats in the water bucket. The cook used some of the water in cooking breakfast and made coffee from it, and when Mrs. Thomas and family had eaten breakfast all who drank coffee became very sick and an investigation was begun, resulting in the finding of the poison in the water bucket. Fortunately it did not result seriously with any of them. The negro denies his guilt, but circumstantial evidence is very strong.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

The boiler in the new saw and planing mill of the Jordan Lumber company in Mobile exploded a few minutes after noon Saturday, demolishing the boiler house and injuring more or less seriously all the six employes of the mill and two women who were there with dinner for two of the men.

One of the women, Minerva Williams, died from the effects of her injuries shortly after being removed to her home, while the fireman, Henry Williams, who was working in the place of the regular fireman, is at the city hospital, scalded and injured fatally, and will die.

No cause for the explosion is assigned, but it is thought that when the fireman closed down the engine for dinner he had too much fire under the boiler. The greater part of the exploded boiler went into the river, about 100 feet distant.

Death by Lightning.

Thomas L. Hutchinson, of Anniston, a Western Union telegraph lineman, while putting in an instrument at Seddon, was struck and instantly killed by lightning Tuesday afternoon shortly after 1 o'clock. He had arranged two wires coming down over head and was working with a ground wire which he had in his hands, and when he leaned over, accidentally touched his temples with the wires hanging from over head and thus forming a circuit, the fatal bolt came. A blackened spot on Hutchinson's temple was the only mark of disfigurement. Two other men were in the room at the time, but neither was injured. The lightning came from a small cloud which had gathered almost unnoticed. In Anniston, Tuesday afternoon fire from lightning also did considerable damage. Two cottages in Rutledge, a suburb, one of which was struck, were destroyed by the flames. The Georgia Pacific passenger depot was also struck and set on fire, but the flames were extinguished before much damage was done. Several trees and telephone poles were also struck, but no one was injured.

Shot by an Assassin.

Near Mayo, LaFayette county, Florida, Friday night Mr. and Mrs. G. B Dixon were fired upon while sitting on their front porch. Mrs. Dixon was shot through both thighs and may die. Dixon was only slightly wounded. Daniel Dixon and James Sparrow, brother and brother-in-law of G. B Dixon, have been arrested charged with the shooting. The trouble grew out of a family feud.

THE CONDITIONS OF TRADE

As Observed and Reported by Dun's Weekly Review.

MARKETS WEAK, NOT STAGNANT.

Failures for the week have been 230 in the United States, against 219 last year, and 20 in Canada, against 34 last year.

Continued exports of gold are recognized as natural results of the borrowing and importing early in the year, but caused no serious apprehension. Markets for products are weak rather than stagnant. The business done is small, but largely governed by the belief in large crops and insufficient demand. Many cotton mills have stopped and many more have reduced hours or looms, and yet the market for goods is lifeless, a reduction in indigo blue prints of half a cent off, the lowest on record, being the chief feature. Wool sales, exclusive of a few speculative transactions based on extremely low prices, are less than 40 per cent of a week's fair consumption. Boot and shoe shipments, 6 per cent larger this year than the largest on record, indicate that in some branches makers are catching up with their orders and many are discharging cutters. Yet many others have orders for months ahead and sales still run large for the season and manufacturers quite generally insist upon a slight advance in prices, which buyers do not yet pay.

The iron and steel markets are weak, with lower prices, because the demand for finished products is entirely inadequate, though prices of these are higher. Pig iron has fallen off 5 per cent since April 1, but the average of finished products have been advanced 3 per cent. Lower quotations for Bessemer and gray forge and local coke at Chicago, with a stoppage of two-thirds of the furnaces in Virginia, some in Pennsylvania and others in the Mahoning and Shenango valleys, result from inability of manufacturers to sell at prices which their combinations demand, Bessemer billets being undersold by open hearth bars and nails by new concerns, which are rapidly putting in machines. Plates weaken and there is no improvement in sheets or rods, but beammakers have raised the price $2 per ton, making a slight advance in the average of all prices for the week. It is possible that rebuilding after the disaster at St. Louis may effect the iron and steel markets extensively.

A White Fiend at Large.

A dastardly assault was made about 11 o'clock Saturday morning upon Mrs. F. S. Grimes, a sister of Mrs. C. W. Hagerman, of Pensacola, Fla. Mrs. Grimes had driven Mr. Hagerman down town to his business and was returning home in the suburbs. When within a short distance of home a masked white man jumped into the buggy from behind, clapped his hands over the lady's mouth and attempted to drive the horses into the bushes near by. The lady succeeded in getting out of the buggy and was followed by the villain and dragged into the brush where a terrific struggle ensued, during which a passing farmer was attracted by the cries of the lady and rescued her. The villain escaped into the brush and searching parties are after him.

Relieved of Command.

Passengers by the Mascotte arriving Saturday at Key West report that General Arolas, in command of the military line, supposed to have Maceo hemmed in, has been relieved of his command and sent to Spain. Large quantities of ammunition have been discovered at a cafe in Havana near a boat landing opposite the postoffice.

THE PLATFORM.

"The People's Party of the State of Alabama, in convention assembled, recognizing the supremacy of political liberty over all the questions that can come before the people of the State for solution at the general State election, to take place on the 3rd day of August, 1896, reaffirm our allegiance to the cardinal principles of Populism as follows:

"First—We demand a free ballot and a fair count.

"Second—We believe in the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of international agreement.

"Third—We demand that miners and others like corporate labor be paid in lawful money of the United States semi-monthly.

"Fourth—We favor a tariff for revenue, so adjusted as to protect, as far as practicable the farmers, and the labour in our shops, mines, factories and mills, and their products against foreign pauper labor."

Judge Zell Gaston's amendment to the 2d section was as follows:

"We demand the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the abolition of national banks, the expansion of the currency to meet the needs of the people and the demands of commerce, free from the control of corporate influences, and we condemn the issue of interest bearing bonds in time of peace."

Next came a lot of resolutions, which passed unanimously:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that our representatives in congress be and are hereby requested to use their best endeavors to secure appropriations by the Federal Government to open the Warrior River to navigation from the coal fields to the Gulf of Mexico."

"Resolved, That our county appointing boards are hereby requested to give to the political opposition a competent inspector at every polling place in their respective counties,

"And we further request the inspector so appointed to give a competent clerk and tixer at each polling place to said political opposition."

SENATORIAL CONVENTION.

The Senatorial Convention of the 15th district is called to meet at Clanton on June 16th, at 10 a. m. A full delegation from each county is requested to be present.

ON Monday two negroes were lynched in the city of Columbus, Ga. One was taken from the court room where he was about to be tried and the other taken out of the county jail. Both were hanged on one tree in the heart of the city and their bodies riddled with bullets. Wednesday morning Governor Atkinson offered a reward of $50 each for the first ten men arrested and convicted of complicity in the lynching.

THE monetary planks in the State platforms this year are very different from those of former years, for they are no longer timid and ambiguous, with the exception of one or two adopted very early in the season. The most oracularly meaningless of all was that which the Ohio Republicans adopted; and this fact more than anything else has endangered Mr. McKinley's nomination. It is asserted in behalf of Mr. McKinley that he was in no wise responsible for the phrasing of the Ohio platform; but it would have been far better if his own State had taken as clear a stand as the Republicans of Indiana and Illinois have assumed.—From "The Progress of the World," in June Review of Reviews.

THE State campaign committee has arranged dates and places for public speaking, commencing on Saturday next at Pratt City Jefferson county. On Tuesday next Hon. A. T. Goodwyn and others will speak in Birmingham.

"If Captain Goodwyn was sincere in his proposition for a joint debate," says the Montgomery Journal, "he would now write such a challenge as Captain Johnston would accept." The Tribune hereby challenges the Journal to prepare a challenge after its own heart, submit it to Captain Johnston for his signature and present it to Captain Goodwyn as a mutual friend of both or at least as a person anxious to serve pulic justice. That is what a man can dare do. Do it, if you dare! Correct, revise, amend, prefix, affix upon Goodwin's original challenge republished on this page to-day. The Tribune predicts upon the evidence, that the only kind of joint debate Captain Goodwyn will obtain from the Johnston men in this campaign will not involve Captain Joe Johnston's presence on the scene. He will not be there.; he cannot be there; he'd bust before he would be there. They will bring a fresh man to every encounter with Goodwyn, but the honest voters care nothing for such villians.—People's Tribune

When Sherman said that he would take the last shirt off the backs of the people of the United States, he knew whereof he spoke, for the damnable gold standard inaugurated by the goldbug treachery has left the average citizen with but one shirt; but, be it said to Sherman's credit, the gold standard system leaves each laborer idle half the time, which gives him a chance to lie abed while that solitary shirt is being washed.—Silver Knight.

THE Chicago labor unions put in nomination as the labor candidate for President of the United States Eugene V. Debs. Mr. Debs is reported to have declined the nomination, stating that politics and labor do not go well together and that he would not give up labor, and that he believed he was of more use in labor.

Editor BANNER: Who, who will fail to come to the rescue? Life is too short to lose a moment in the battle for justice. There is much waste of time just now in trying to pull down the name and character of officials. Does it look manly? Does it show a principle of brotherly love? Does this work parallel with the Golden rule? Is it admired by all good people? Echo answers no! Party strife makes a bad record which lasts for generations. Why not all come to understand that the present struggle is for all, and not for a few. It is for prosperity we ask. How long O Lord how long will it take the people to find out their duty and perform it. How does a family or community quarrel look to the better thinking people? All say it looks ugly. Now we have a national quarrel. Can any one tell who is in fault? It is the money sharks who want money and office and distinction. They want the earth and the masses will not agree to it. So they go, sink or swim, they are going to keep up the strife and see if they can get the earth with a wire fence around it. This is very much the way the matter looks to those in hearing and seeing distance, as shown by the sling and slang we see in the papers, regardless of truth and a true sense of propriety. In the deformer we see degeneracy. He takes a long backward step which after proves more disastrous to himself than his victim. Then why not lay this all aside, and come to the rescue as brothers of one great family. The motives of all are closely watched by all the members of the family. As we said life is too short to attempt experimenting on falacies and uncertainties. We deplore the present condition in our once prosperous country. The consequences are swinging in the balance. O father shine in light in the darkest places of earth and bring out the slanderer before he receives a mark similar to that of Cain. Let him have an opportunity to work in the great cause which claims his puriest best thought. Now right now, is the time to come to the rescue. Patriotism demands every effort without delay. The eyes of the country are upon you, and "Thou God seest us."

EDITOR BANNER:

I believe it is generally understood that Chilton has the right of naming the candidate to represent the 15th district in the next legislature. This being the case, allow me to place before the delegates and the voters of said district the name of Mr. L. B. Pounds, of Strasburg. In doing so I do not hesitate to say in behalf of Mr. Pounds that no better man can be found in the three counties. He is a good speaker and eminently qualified to make us a first class representative. His character is without stain or blemish. A man of integrity, truth and honor and in every way the highest type of a gentleman. To know him means to love and esteem him. A reformer to the core and will be to a finish, and so strong are his convictions in the people's cause that no man need have any fears of risking our interests in his hands.

We have a number of good men in Chilton who would make as good and faithful representatives. Such as Farley, Hogan and Wise and others, but I do not know that they have any desire for senatorial honors.

And now, gentlemen, the name of Mr. L. B. Pounds is before you. I commend him to you as worthy of your confidence and will say to one and all that if you desire to work and vote for a sober man, an earnest Christian man, a faithful man, a man who will never leave or forsake you; then I ask you to give him your hearty support.

THE prohibition national convention, which was held at Pittsburg, Pa., last week, was a stormy affair. Joshua Levering, a wealthy goldbug of Baltimore, Md., was nominated for president and Hale Johnson, of Illinois, for vice-president. The platform adopted is a compromise between the "narrow-gauge" and "broad-gauge" factions and declares for the absolute prohibition of the liquor traffic, full legal tender money and free silver.

DEAR SIR: I take my pen in hand to tell you what I did in the Dishwasher business. This spring I saw a Dishwasher advertised and sent and got one. A. B. Dawson, Columbus, Ohio, said he would exchange my dishwasher for the Queen if I would put it in my kitchen and show my neighbors how it washed dirty dishes, vegetables, silverware and clothing in one minute without putting my hands in the water. They all saw it was the best machine and I sold three the same day. The whole neighborhood is worked up over the success of the Queen and I want any of your readers who have not made a success of the Dishwasher business to know what I have done. I can make easy $21 a week, $84 a month, for five years to come with the Queen, as everybody wants one. My sister got a sample Queen free and she is doing as good as I have. Mr. Dawson referred me to the Cardington Bank, the Mt. Gilead Bank and the Quaker City Bank, which shows he is responsible. Anyone who wants to make money should write to the address as above.

From LaGrippe.

How Dr. Miles' Nervine Restored One of Kentucky's Business Men to Health.

NO DISEASE has ever presented so many peculiarities as LaGrippe. No disease leaves its victims so debilitated, useless, sleepless, nerveless as LaGrippe.

Mr. D. W. Hilton, state agent of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Kentucky, says: "In 1889 and '90 I had two severe attacks of LaGrippe, the last one attacking my nervous system with such severity that my life was despaired of. I had not slept for more than two months except by the use of narcotics that stupefied me, but gave me no rest. I was only conscious of intense mental weakness, agonizing bodily pain and the fact that I was hourly growing weaker.

When in this condition, I commenced using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. In two days I began to improve and in one month's time I was cured, much to the surprise of all who knew of my condition. I have been in excellent health since and have recommended your remedies to many of my friends."

1000 WAYS TO CURE A COLD!

Quinine, aconite, hot tea, onion syrup, whiskey and quinine, rock candy and rye, a "sweat," foot bath, starvation feeding, wrapping your hose around your neck, cod liver oil, and old hundreds cough cure, these and over 900 other ways are used by the human race to cure a cold. The best way is to make CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER your daily companion and you will never catch cold.

A man must be miserable indeed who is laid up with a bad Cold, Catarrh, Headache, unable to breathe without pain, his throat sore and his head throbbing, when one little product in the market called CUSHMAN'S INHALER will give him instant relief.

RELIEF EASY TO GET!

He may go on and on, sneeze his head off for that matter, snuffle and snort around to everybody's discomfiture. His eyes may become inflamed, his head and ears ache, and his throat so sore he can hardly swallow. Patient he must be to endure it all when for 50c. he can buy CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER and restore himself to his normal condition.

Cushman's Menthol Inhaler a Jewel!

A woman will sit around prostrated in nerves, feeling desperate over loss of sleep, head and eyes racked with pain, cold settled in every bone, so miserable that life seems a blank, but if she would make the marvelous little instrument known as CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER her daily companion, her headaches would come less frequent, she would never have a cold, and sore throat and catarrh would have no terrors.

NEVER NEGLECT A COLD OR COUGH

Neglect a Cold or Cough and if La Grippe don't get you, Consumption will. CUSHMAN'S INHALER cures colds and all diseases of the breathway passages. You lose dollars in doctor bills in not keeping CUSHMAN'S INHALER handy to drive off a cold or cough or sore throat at its very first approach.

The Greatest Authority in the World.

DR. BROWNE.

DR. J. LENNOX BROWNE, F. R. C. S. Ed. Senior Surgeon to the Central London Throat and Ear Hospital, says: "The vapor of Menthol checks in a manner hardly less than marvelous, acute Colds in the head. For all forms of nasal diseases, causing obstruction to the natural breathway, I prescribe CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER to the extent of hundreds per annum."

(Is not this recommendation sufficient that all who read may profit by it!)

Brings sleep to the sleepless. Cures Insomnia and Nervous Prostration. Don't be fooled with worthless imitations. Take only CUSHMAN'S. 50c. at druggists, or mailed, postpaid, on receipt of price. Write for book on Menthol and testimonials.

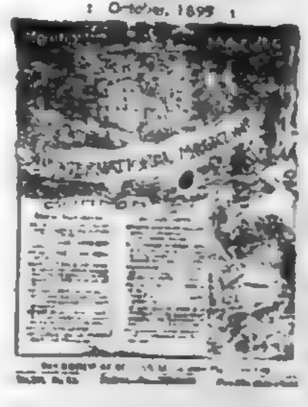
THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS

Edited by ALBERT SHAW.



THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as its name implies, gives in readable form the best that appears in the other great magazines all over the world, generally on the same date that they are published. With the recent extraordinary increase of worthy periodicals, these careful reviews, summaries, and quotations, giving the gist of periodical literature, are alone worth the subscription price.

Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the 'REVIEW OF REVIEWS,' which is a sort of Eiffel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."

Hops in Washington.

There will be a great decrease in the production of hops in Oregon and Washington this year. The hop industry in previous years has been one of the largest in these States, but overproduction has brought the price down to an unprofitable figure, and in the last year or two insect pests have caused great loss to the growers. A great many hop fields in various parts of the two States have been plowed up, and it is reported that this spring more will be turned under.

Chinese Quail in Maryland.

Frank T. Redwood is interested in the increase of wild fowl in this country, and has an idea that Chinese quail may be successfully introduced. A friend brought him six of these birds a year ago. They were liberated in Talbot County, and flew off in the woods as naturally as though in China. But that was the last ever seen of them. They have disappeared entirely, so far as Mr. Redwood or his friends have been able to discover. Mr. Redwood is still firm in his faith that this species of bird will flourish in America, and to this end has arranged to have twenty pair brought over from China and let loose in the woods of Maryland. —Baltimore American.

DEATH AND DESTRUCTION

Sweep Over East St. Louis in Storm and Flame.

DEVASTATION IN ST. LOUIS.

Seven Hundred People Swept Into Eternity—$3,000,000 of Property Destroyed—Track of the Storm. Cyclone in Michigan—Terrible Calamity at Victoria.

St. Louis was struck by a cyclone of frightful fury at a late hour Wednesday afternoon. Hundreds of people were killed and the property loss is beyond estimate.

At 5:30 p. m. the clouds that had covered the city since noon broke into a furious storm. Within ten minutes the wind reached a velocity of eighty miles an hour, sweeping with it dense waves of rain. The highest speed of wind previously recorded in St. Louis was seventy-two miles an hour in August, 1878.

From reports received from Missouri, Indiana and Illinois cities the destruction and extent of the appalling cyclone are shown.

The storm began its work of devastation and death near Moberly, in Randolph county, in the northeastern part of Missouri. It then passed southeast into Audrain county, where the school house at Rush Hill and its occupants were victims. The cyclone moved slightly north into Pike county, Mo., and then the ladies' seminary at Drake, in Green county, Ill., was stricken by the tornado, which then passed south and east, following the Illinois river until it joined the Mississippi, the greatest point of destruction being reached at St. Louis, East St. Louis and East Carondelet.

The direction of the windstorm from that cluster of stricken cities then appears to have been in a southeasterly line through Illinois, but no news of destruction has been received from Illinois towns east of the big river. The cyclone reached the Ohio river and struck Evansville in the southwestern corner of Indiana. Later news indicates that the great storm tore a path through the heart of Indiana in a southeasterly direction.

The latest reports compiled from the scene of destruction in three states point to the loss of over 700 human lives, and the probabilities are that later reports will swell the total death list to enormous proportions.

According to reports received the death roll is divided as follows: In St. Louis, 300; East St. Louis, 300; Drake, Ill., 80; Rush Hill, Mo., 10; Rennick, Mo., 5; Labbadie, Mo., 10.

Some of the terrible details of the storm are given in the dispatches, from which the following are culled:

Rennick, Randolph county, Mo., was blown away and several persons were killed.

Lebaddie, Mo., was also destroyed. Ten persons were killed at the latter place.

It is reported that eighty children were killed in a school house at Drake, Illinois.

The village of Rush Hill, Mo., twelve miles from Mexico, in Audrain county, was destroyed. The cyclone struck the town a few minutes before 5 o'clock and blew down the school house, crushing its inmates. The report was to the effect that fifty pupils had been killed and a number injured.

AT ST. LOUIS.

At 7:30 p. m. the rain, which had ceased for a time, began afresh, and fell in torrents. At 8 o'clock the eastern sky was aflame with the light of fires in East St. Louis. The metal roof of the Merchants' exchange was rolled up like a scroll and fell into the streets.

Lightning struck the Standard Oil works and flames were soon pouring from a dozen buildings. The fire department was utterly powerless to cope with the conflagration, and it is feared nearly the entire business and a great portion of the residence section will be destroyed by the flames, if not already so by the wind. Among the principal buildings already in ruins are the National hotel, the Standard Oil work, East St. Louis Wire Nail works, the Crescent elevator, Hezel elevator, all the freight depots and stores and residences on St. Clair avenue.

The Louisville and Nashville eastbound local passenger train had just reached East St. Louis when the storm struck that city. The train was overturned, but miraculously only a few passengers were injured. They were taken from the cars by railroad yard men.

The Chicago and Alton eastbound local passenger train, which left St. Louis at 5 o'clock, was on the east span of the bridge when the wind picked the cars up and turned them over on their sides. The iron spans and trusses held the cars from toppling into the river, 100 feet below. The passengers were thrown into a confused mass. The net work of wires made rescue difficult and dangerous, but it is thought all will be gotten out uninjured. The east span of the Eads bridge is so badly wrecked that it will take three days to allow trains to pass.

The middle span of the roadway above the railroad tracks on the Eads bridge was blown completely away. It is not known whether any persons lost their lives while crossing the bridge.

The plant of the flour mills and the works of the St. Louis Iron and Steel company were destroyed and the big Couple's block of buildings was partly destroyed.

The dead and injured are being taken from the ruins of the various buildings and manufactories.

In addition to the river disasters noted later reports add to the losses. All the wharf boats on both sides were swept away and sunk. The steamers Medill, City of Pittsburg, Belle of Calhoun; City of Providence were all driven on the Illinois shore and wrecked. Eleven of the vessels' crews tried to swim ashore, but were caught in the eddy of the Pittsburg dyke and drowned. The river front is a mass of wreckage. From the Eads bridge south for two miles every building is damaged that is not in ruins. The loss to shipping is estimated at $400,000.

The damage to property in St. Louis is estimated at $1,000,000, and the loss in East St. Louis is already $2,000,000, and the fire is still raging.

There were really two cyclones. One came from the northwest and the other from direct west. Both met on the Illinois shore of the Mississippi river and joined in a whirling cloud of death and destruction. The list of dead in St. Louis is beyond present computation.

ANOTHER STORM.

A terrible cyclone, by which probably over 100 lives were lost and fully 100 persons injured more or less seriously, swept over Oakland, Lapeer and Macomb counties, Mich., Monday evening. The towns struck, so far as meager telegraphic and telephone communication can ascertain, are Ortonville, Thomas, Metamora, Mount Clemens, Oakwood and St. Claire. The town of Ortonville reports a list of dead that aggregates seventeen. The towns of Thomas, Oakwood and Ortonville were almost wiped off the face of the earth. At Mount Clemens fully thirty people were injured, but only four seriously hurt. Thomas was practically and Metamora was partly destroyed. No complete list of names has yet been obtained, but forty-two bodies of the dead have been found in the storm's track.

A DIRE CALAMITY.

An electric car fell through Point Ellice bridge, Victoria, British Columbia, at 4 o'clock Tuesday evening. There were eighty persons aboard and sixty-one are known to have been drowned. The car was taking the passengers to view the sham battle at Macauley Point in celebration of the queen's birthday and fell 75 feet.

Throughout the sorrowful and sultry night and far into the morning thousands of anxious watchers surged about the approaches to Point Ellice bridge, the scene of the disaster. As body after body was brought to land and tenderly laid upon an improvised bier an eager crowd would crush about the remains, hoping, yet fearing, until a shriek or sob would announce that a dear one had been recognized and the name of another identified victim would be placed upon the bulletin board and flashed by wire to the sorrowing friends. When the sixty-first corpse had been brought to the surface the rescuers announced that they could find no more bodies under the wreckage. Still nearly thirty people are missing, whose fate may not be known for days. It is possible that many bodies have been carried out by the strong tide.

HAVOC OF WIND AND FLOOD.

In the Michigan storm of last Monday there were killed at Ortonville, 14; Oakwood, 8; North Oxford, 6; Thomas, 2; Thornville, 3; Metamora, 2; Fair Grove and Munger's Station, 1 each.

AT CAIRO.

Monday's storm struck Cairo, Ill., about 8:30 o'clock and several large buildings were unroofed. The ferry boat Katharine was capsized and of sixteen persons on board only three were saved.

AT M'GREGOR.

A fatal cloudburst devastated McGregor, Ia., and county Sunday night. For ten miles everything is in ruins. All the afternoon the clouds were gathering and about 1 o'clock the storm burst in its fury, soon deluging the valley. It swept everything before it. A small stream called Bloody Run passes through the town. Some of the unfortunate victims are supposed to have been carried out into the Mississippi river, into which the Bloody Run empties at North McGregor.

The bodies of seven people have been recovered; also those of six canvassmen attached to Kirkhart & Ryan's circus. The canvassmen had entered a box car preparatory to accompanying their show to Winona, and were caught in the car when the storm came. The most conservative estimates place the loss of life at North McGregor at twenty-seven.

After the water from Bloody Run began to rise on Sunday night the cries for help from the terrorized and helpless people living upon the lowlands were heartrending, but little could be done by those on the bluffs nearby, as all were compelled to flee for their lives to the high grounds.

On one box car as it floated by was seen two men, supposed to be tramps, who were calling in piteous tones to be rescued. They could be seen jumping from one car to another as they proceeded toward the Mississippi.

The houses of two families, one numbering six persons and the other five, floated by and the screams of the women, the wails of the children and the cries of men were heard above the din and roar, but all who heard and saw the awful sight were powerless to rescue them.

CAREFUL ESTIMATE OF KILLED.

The following was sent out from St. Louis on Thursday: It will be several days before definite information can be obtained as to the loss of life and injury of the unfortunate people who happened to be in the path of the cyclone which swept over portions of Missouri and Illinois Wednesday afternoon. In addition to the killed and injured in East St. Louis, the cyclone mowed down many in adjacent localities. Appended is a table showing a careful estimate of the killed and injured, based on the dispatches:

	Killed.	Injured.
St. Louis	175	250
East St. Louis	215	150
Near Centralia, Ill	42	125
Breckinridge, Ill	2	...
Near Mt. Vernon, Ill	5	30
Near Vandalia, Ill	13	15
Near Mexico, Mo	15	84

The number of killed will not be far from 400 and of the injured about 600.

Estimates of property losses range from $15,000,000 to $30,000,000.

THIEVES GATHER AT ST. LOUIS.

Four hundred of the Missouri National Guard, in addition to the same number of St. Louis police force, are patroling the storm-swept district. This is in accordance with an order issued by Mayor Walbridge Thursday evening, and is done to protect the exposed property, which has attracted the criminal element from all over the surrounding country. Both police and militia have received strict orders to arrest every suspicious character found.

Two companies of the Illinois National Guard have been ordered under arms and directed to proceed to East St. Louis at once. These soldiers will act under the direction of the mayor of the city and do police duty. Governor Altgeld came down from Springfield Thursday and consulted with the local authorities concerning the influx of thieves and suspicious characters. He decided to send the militia to help preserve order.

ECHOES OF THE GREAT STORM.

At 1 p. m. Friday the list of dead at St. Louis numbered 182. Of these 161 are identified and twenty-one unidentified. In East St. Louis at the same hour the police records show 138 identified and three unidentified dead, making a total of dead in both cities thus far of 323.

At New Baden, Ill., almost every building in the town was destroyed, there being nothing to be seen but wreckage at every turn. Ten persons were killed and a large number injured.

The little town of New Minden, a few miles from Nashville, Ill., was almost totally destroyed. Seven people were killed and forty or fifty injured. Scarcely a house was left standing.

Mayor Walbridge, Health Commissioner Starkoff and Chief of Police Harrigan, of St. Louis, completed a tour of the devastated streets at 4 o'clock Friday morning. In addition to gathering data on sufferers needing immediate relief, they made estimates of the losses. The mayor's tour of inspection has been thorough, and without hesitation he places the property losses in St. Louis at $20,000,000. This does not include damage to shipping nor collateral loss by suspension of business, but is placed upon the property wiped out by the storm. While these figures were startling they convey to the outside world probably the true character of the disaster in more convincing form. These losses in seven-tenths of the cases are irreparable, as they fall upon those unable to recoup themselves.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

Summary of the Week's Proceedings in Both Houses.

ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-EIGHTH DAY.

A motion by Mr. Sherman to take up the filled cheese bill was carried. Among the amendments offered was one by Mr. Allen, populist, of Nebraska, to impose an additional tax of $1 per barrel on beer, ale and porter manufactured in the United States. On motion of Mr. Sherman the amendment was tabled. Yeas: republicans 24, democrats 11; total, 35. Nays: republicans 5, democrats 13, populists 4; total, 22. Mr. Gray, democrat, of Delaware, offered an amendment for an import duty of 10 cents a pound on tea. This also was tabled. Yeas: republicans 26, democrats 7, populists 4; total, 37. Nays: republicans 2, democrats 17; total, 19. At 2 o'clock the cheese bill gave place to the regular order—the bond bill. Mr. Allen continued his speech, but gave way after two and a half hours, and the bill to incorporate the National University was taken up and passed. Several pension bills were passed. Mr. Cockrell, democrat, of Missouri, stated that the speech of Secretary Carlisle before the working men of Chicago had been printed as a public document, and asked that Governor Altgeld's reply be also printed. Several senators pointed out the bad precedent the printing of the two speeches would set and expressed the hope that no such requests be made in the future. Mr. Cockrell's request was granted. Bill to authorize the re-orgrnization of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad company under its present charter; to refer the claim of the owners of the Brig Tally-Ho, sunk by the United States warship Pinta in 1894, to the court of claims were passed. At 5:50 p. m. the senate adjourned.... The house session opened with a sensational attempt by Mr. Howard, populist, of Alabama, to secure consideration of a resolution to impeach President Cleveland on eight counts, but he was promptly suppressed by an almost unanimous vote of the house. His charges were as follows: "I do impeach Grover Cleveland, president of the United States, of high crimes and misdemeanors, on the following grounds: 1. That he has sold, or directed the sale of bonds without the authority of law. 2. That he sold or aided in the sale of bonds at less than their market value. 3. That he directed the misappropriation of the proceeds of said bond sales. 4. That he directed the secretary of the treasury to disregard the law which makes the United States and treasury notes redeemable in coin. 5. That he has ignored and refused to have enforced the 'anti-trust' law. 6. That he has sent United States troops into the state of Illinois without authority of law and in violation of the constitution. 7. That he has corrupted politics through the interference of federal officeholders. 8. That he used the appointing power to influence legislation detrimental to the welfare of the people, therefore be it Resolved, by the house of representatives, That their committee on judiciary be directed to ascertain whether these charges are true, and if so, to report to the house such action by impeachment or otherwise, as shall be proper in the premises. And said committee shall have authority to send for persons and papers." On the question of consideration only two or three ayes were heard. The remainder of the session was devoted wholly to the consideration of conference reports. The final report of the river and harbor bill, carrying the compromise proposition relative to the rival Santa Monica and San Pedro harbors, California, was adopted without division. The bill now goes to the president. As finally passed, it carried $12,850,000 in direct appropriations and authorizes contracts to the extent of $59,649,000. The final report on the executive legislative and judicial bill was also adopted. The bill as it goes to the president carries $23,520,000, $370,000 less than the bill of last year. The sundry civil and Indian appropriation bills were sent back to conference. By a vote of 154 to 22 the house insisted on its provision in the latter bill relating to sectarian schools. Eleven republicans, ten democrats and one populist voted against insisting. At 5:30 the house adjourned until Monday.

ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-NINTH DAY.

The senate spent the day in considering the deficiency appropriation bill, which was passed, with amendments increasing the total appropriations made by the house $6,000,000. The bond bill, which was the regular order, was informally laid aside in order to get the deficiency bill through.... The house, after disposing of some District of Columbia matters, went into committee of the whole on the bill to repeal the free alcohol clause of the existing tariff law, the consideration of which occupied the house until 5 o'clock. Some routine business was then transacted and the house adjourned.

ONE HUNDRED AND FORTIETH DAY.

The filled cheese bill being before the senate, Mr. Dubois, republican, of Idaho, offered an amendment providing for an additional tax of 75 cents a barrel on beer, ale and porter. Mr. Sherman moved to table the amendment. The motion was lost. Yeas 25, nays 30. The bill was laid aside and the bond bill discussion resumed. This motion gave way to the final conference report on the legislative appropriation bill, which was agreed to. A partial report on the sundry civil bill was agreed to and a further conference ordered. A bill to give Mrs. Spencer, the widow of General and Ex-Senator Spencer, of Alabama, a pension of $75 a month was passed. At 6:15 p. m. the Senate proceeded to executive business, and soon afterward adjourned until tomorrow.... With an amendment the house today, by a vote of 165 to 69, passed the bill to repeal section 61 of the Wilson tariff law of 1894, which provides for free alcohol in the arts and manufactures. Mr. Daniels, republican, of New York, reported the resolution adopted in committee in the contested election case of Truman H. Aldrich, republican, vs. Underwood, democrat, from the Ninth Alabama district, in favor of Aldrich. The house adjourned until tomorrow.

ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-FIRST DAY.

A partial conference report on the naval bill was made in the senate and agreed to. A further conference was ordered. An executive session was held, after which the filled cheese bill came up. The amendment providing for 75 cents a barrel additional tax on fermented liquors was defeated by 37 to 34. Notices of other amendments were given and the bill went over and the prohibitory bond bill was resumed and was pending when, at 5:45, the senate adjourned.... A conference report on bill to relieve settlers on the Northern Pacific railroad indemnity lands was agreed to in the house. Consideration of the conference report on the general deficiency bill was resumed. The senate amendment appropriating a sum to pay French spoliation and war claims, was agreed to after a warm debate. A supplemental conference report on the sundry civil bill then came up and was pending when the house adjourned until tomorrow.

ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-SECOND DAY.

The free alcohol bill was received in the senate from the house and referred to the finance committee. The conference report on the Indian bill was taken up and considered until 2 o'clock, when it gave way to the bond bill. A concurrent resolution was passed authorizing the secretary of war to furnish tents to the victims of the great disaster at St. Louis. The bond bill went over, representatives to the Tennessee centennial were appointed and the senate adjourned until tomorrow... In the house resolutions were passed authorizing the secretary of war to send tents and other relief to the homeless victims of the cyclone at East St. Louis, Ill., and St. Louis, Mo. Consideration of the conference report on the sundry civil bill was resumed. A further conference was ordered. An election contest from South Carolina was then taken up and was pending when, at 5:15, the house adjourned until tomorrow.

ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-THIRD DAY

The senate passed the free alcohol bill and the bill extending the provisions of the internal revenue laws, as to brandy distilled from fruits, so as to include brandy distilled from pears, oranges, pineapples, apricots, berries and prunes. The conference report on the Indian bill was discussed, but went over until Monday. A private pension bill returned with the president's disapproval was referred to the committee on pension. The prohibitory bond bill was discussed and went over, an executive session was held and the senate adjourned until Monday....In the contested election case of Johnston, republican, vs. Stokes, democrat, from the Seventh South Carolina district, the minority resolutions declaring Johnston elected were defeated by 105 to 95 and the majority report declaring Johnston not elected was carried by 103 to 99; yet the matter went over without final action. A partial report on the naval appropriation bill was agreed to and further conference ordered on the matters still in dispute. The president's veto of the river and harbor bill was received and referred to the committee on rivers and harbors. An evening session was held for the consideration of private pension bills and the house adjourned until Monday.

Death of Kate Field.

The Chicago Times-Herald has received a cablegram announcing the death of Kate Field at Honolulu on May 19th, of pneumonia.

The latest previous advices received by the Times-Herald from Miss Field stated that she had made the perilous ascent to the crater of the active volcano, Mauna Loa, where no white woman had trodden before, and that she had been benefited in health by the trip. The letter was dated May 4.

Miss Field was born in St. Louis in 1854. Her father, Joseph Field, and her mother, who was Eliza Lapsley Riddle of Philadelphia, were able to give her rare educational advantages, and through them she inherited brilliancy and versatility, her mother being a charming actress. Kate was educated in Boston, Italy and England and traveled all over the world. She made several long visits to Europe, and during her stay abroad became correspondent for the New York Tribune, Philadelphia Press and Chicago Tribune, besides doing work for periodicals. In 1874 she appeared as an actress in Booth's theater, New York. Since leaving the stage she has devoted her talents and energies to lecturing and journalism. Last fall Miss Field was sent to the Hawaiian islands by the Times-Herald as special correspondent and was so engaged when removed by death.

Weyler to be Reinforced.

A Madrid correspondent says: The public is disappointed at Captain-General Weyler's little progress, and the government will get 50,000 men ready to embark at the end of September, when it also expects to send to Cuba several gunboats, two cruisers and eight trans-Atlantic steamers, each of them armed with sixteen heavy guns. The cabinet has received an assurance that the opposition will vote for an unlimited credit for the operations in Cuba.

RENEWED HIS YOUTH.

A TALE FROM OLD ST. LAWRENCE COUNTY.

It Sounds Like a Miracle of Old—An Aged Man Made Young by the Use of a Simple Remedy—He Tells How His Youth Was Returned.

From the Courier and Freeman, Potsdam, N. Y.

St. Lawrence County has a national reputation as the banner county of the Empire State. Men reared in old St. Lawrence have achieved notoriety as consuls, governors and renowned jurists, and have distinguished themselves and the land of their nativity in every walk of life. There is an indefinable something that lends strength to manhood there, and gives him the tone and sinew and the mental energy that brings success in life. The winds, first blowing from the majestic St. Lawrence River, and then from the pine and spruce-covered mountains of the Adirondacks, give a richness to the atmosphere. The outdoor life in this climate gives a man a strong and sturdy physique, and his free and independent mode of living gives him a rugged character.

John Henry Henderson was a man that enjoyed all these sturdy characteristics. He was always a strong man and had never had a fever or other serious illness. Brought up in a prosperous farming community he became one of its mentally and physically strong citizens and gained a livelihood at carpentry, as did Joseph in the Bible days. But at last a break came that threatened to forever wreck his health and happiness and end his days of usefulness and activity.

"I had spent two years in Minnesota and the same length of time in Oregon, but the summer of '94 found me back at my old St. Lawrence County home, in the town of Hopkinton, working industriously at carpentering. My home and shop were on a farm, and my income was derived from repairing and building for my farmer neighbors.

"It was on a hot July afternoon in the summer of '94 that one of my neighbors sent for me to come out to his hay field. He had broken the reach to his wagon and wanted it repaired at once so that he would not be delayed in his haying. To fix the wagon I had to have a long, heavy plank, and the nearest I could find was a mile and a half distant."

Many a man would shrink from shouldering a heavy plank on a hot afternoon and walking a mile and a half, but Mr. Henderson said: "I didn't think much about it; I had always been strong and so I carried the plank into the field and mended the wagon. Before the afternoon was over I found that I had done wrong, that I had hurt my back and had to lie down, while sharp pains darted through my back, head and neck.

"That was the beginning of my trouble. I found that I couldn't straighten up after that and I had to quit work. The pains troubled me almost constantly, and after sitting still a few moments I would have to get up and move around in hopes of finding relief. I became useless and life became a burden to me, and I couldn't even write so badly was I affected.

"When I tried to work my nose would bleed freely and I would be dizzy. Frequently I felt so badly that I had to lie down. Liniments were no good, and nothing gave relief until I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I had suffered nearly five months when I read one of Dr. Williams' advertisements and bought some of the pills, which I commenced using, and after I had used two boxes I felt better in every way. Five boxes freed me from the burden I had borne and I was no longer troubled with my complaint."

To-day Mr. Henderson is a well man, strong, erect, broad-shouldered and with a ruddy complexion, notwithstanding his sixty-eight years of age. He worked steadily all the summer and fall and said that his health was much better than men of his age generally. "People remark that my health and appearance seem to be better than in years. My blood circulates better, my hands feel warm, and what is unusual in a person of my age, my nails are soft and grow like a young person's."

Pink Pills were truly a God-send to Mr. Henderson, and he thoroughly appreciates the fact and wants his friends to know how wonderfully they have benefited him. He now enjoys the vigor of youth, and hard work has no terrors for him. He says: "I can work all day planing and sawing without feeling any of that lameness that used to bother me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, all forms of weakness either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 (they are never sold in bulk, or by the 100), by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. A. W. Burch, an attache of the Rome, N. Y., Sentinel, writes September 5th, 1895: "In conversation with one of our merchants a few days ago, I learned that his wife, who had been in very poor health, was regaining her health and strength, and that she attributed her recovery to Ripans Tabules. I requested an interview, which was granted, and the lady cheerfully gave me the inclosed testimonial: 'For a long time I have been interested in the advertisements of Ripans Tabules, which I have seen in the Rome Sentinel and the leading magazines. The advertisements seemed to be honest and I grew to believe them. I tried to obtain some of the Tabules, but found that none of the druggists in this city kept them. I was determined to give them a trial, and at last procured a box by sending to Utica. I had suffered from indigestion, sour stomach, heartburn and distress in my stomach after eating. I began by taking a Tabule after my breakfast and supper and experienced immediate relief, and in a few days the distressing symptoms had entirely disappeared. Now when I eat anything that usually disagrees with me I take one Tabule and avoid unpleasant consequences. I have also found in them a very agreeable relief for constipation. (Signed), MRS. C. H. RUDD, 420 Liberty St., Rome, N. Y.'"

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce st., New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

MUST BE OWNERSHIP.

HOW INTERSTATE COMMERCE LAW WORKS.

Under Government Control the Railroads Generally Do the Controlling—A Good One from the Chicago Ex-Broad.

We have what is called an "Inter State Commerce Commission" whose business it is, or is supposed to be, to see that railroad companies comply with the laws, do not form pools and other combinations, or otherwise band together to cheat shippers, especially small shippers.

It's a nice thing—on paper.

This Commission was provided for by Congress, with the consent of the principal railroad companies, if not at their suggestion, to pacify and conciliate the demand of the people for government ownership of railroads.

This law was to be "government control" of railroads, you understand.

This Inter-State Commerce Commission, so it was given out, was to be clothed with the authority to bring any railroad up standing for transgressing the laws regarding railroad traffic; that is, the commission was to act as a spy on the railroad business, file information and institute legal proceedings against railroad companies, and then the injured public could have the blessed privilege of going to law in the United States courts, presided over by ex-railroad attorneys acting as judges, most of which judges received their appointments from either Harrison or Cleveland, both ex-railroad attorneys.

Let's see how it works.

There is a law prohibiting railroad companies from charging more for hauling a quantity of freight a short distance than for hauling the same quantity of freight a long distance.

The enforcement of this law devolves upon the Inter-State Commerce Commission.

When prosecutions for violations of this law were first made, it was found that to secure conviction it would be necessary that the books of the company showing shipments of freight be produced in court.

This the railroad companies refused to do, on the ground that they did not propose to furnish evidence tending to criminate themselves.

Now, there don't seem to be any difficulty in making an ordinary business man or merchant produce his books in court in the progress of an ordinary lawsuit. Not only that, but instances have been known where officers of the law have broken into a man's private desk and produced in court evidences tending to prove the guilt of the owner under charge of violating the law.

But to thus serve a great monopoly—whose influence makes laws, appoints judges, makes and unmakes presidents—would be little short of sacrilege!

So an accommodating ex-railroad attorney, serving as administrator of justice for the people (!), decided it was unconstitutional to thus compel delivery of the books and papers of a railroad company to be used in court against said company, and another ex-railroad attorney, serving as judge of the highest tribual of the land, sustains his decision, and since then the prosecutions of railroad companies for violations of law have been little more than a farce.

But these commissioners want to make a show of earning their salaries, and the railroad monopoly and the old parties supporting them want to make it appear just before election that "government control" is not altogether a failure, so an accommodating ex-railroad attorney, serving as judge in the supreme court, has handed down an opinion on the "long and short haul" clause of the law, that at first glance seems to be more in favor of small shippers, particularly farmers.

Commenting on this decision, Charles A. Pillsbury, manager of mills in Minneapolis that produce one-fifteenth of the flour made in the United States, is reported as saying:

"No matter what the decision of the courts may be, railroad companies have it in their power and it is to their interest to ignore the law relative to long and short haul. If they don't dodge it one way they will another.

"I can deliver a barrel of flour from my mills to Philadelphia or in France for fifty cents, and that is what I would have to pay to have it delivered at my residence only two miles away."

There is the whole policy of plutocracy in a nutshell.

The Pullmans and the Pillsburys, the railroad monopoly and every other monopoly, "have it in their power and it is to their interest" to run their business to suit themselves, and our laws are such that they can snap their fingers at their employes, or the government of the United States, or any other power on earth that may object.

And though they may not express it in words, their acts virtually and insolently ask the question, "What are you mudsill people going to do about it?"

In brief, we predict that this long-suffering and monopoly-ridden people will pay the extortionate demands and submit to the tyranny of plutocratic railroad combines but little longer before they will arise in their might and wipe from our statute books every vestige of law authorizing the existence of a railroad corporations, and in its stead will write in bold letters which cannot be erased—

"Government Ownership of Railroads!"

Supreme Court Justices may continue for a time to smirch their judicial ermine through unjust decisions; railroad corporations may brag and bluster and mock at the law of their own making; the old parties may hedge and dodge the issue before election, and prate about fanaticism and socialism after election; populist "leaders" may seek to exclude the demand from the "great popular platform" they are going to get up if—but it's bound to come, and that right speedily—

Government Ownership of Railroads.

No truer statement is contained in that grand document, put forth at Omaha four years ago—which all true populists swear by and all monopolists and platform trimmers swear at—than this:

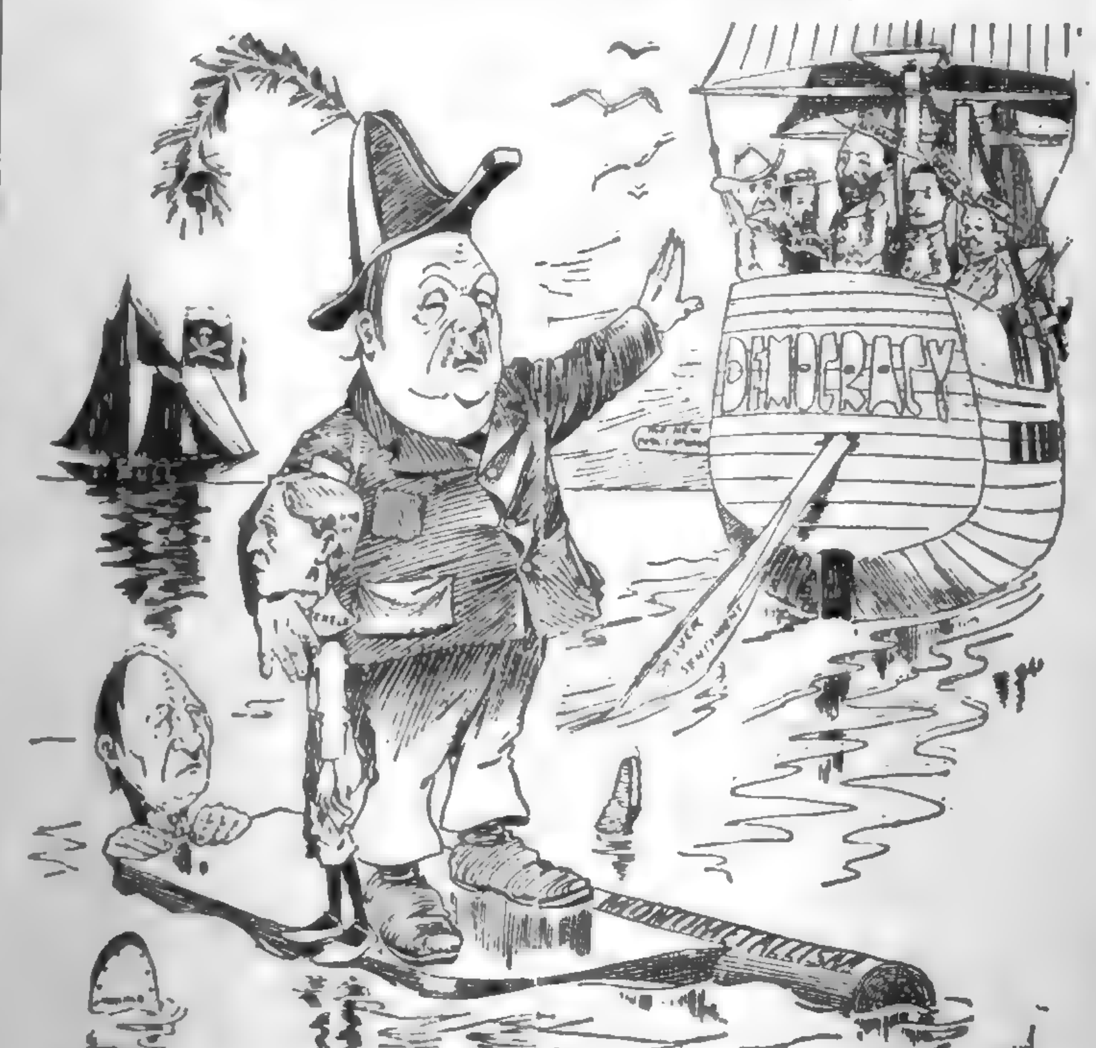
"We believe that the time has come when the railroad corporations will either own the people or the people must own the railroads."

When this question is settled there will be but one result:

Government Ownership of Railroads!

And that is what the people are going to do about it.

HE STILL CONTROLS THE RUDDER.



Captain Cleveland: "Hi! Come back here! (a pause) All right, then, go! For I will be obeyed."—National Bimetallist.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

Snap Shots Taken at the Passing Procession.

The democrats in Tennessee have come as near adopting a populist platform as the gold element and a proper respect for the seventh commandment would permit them. They declare, in their state platfrom, for a rigid restriction of the federal power, for the largest measure of individual freedom; for local self-government; for free silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 regardless of the action of any other nation; that both gold and silver shall be a legal tender from Dan to Beer Sheba; against the issue of interest bearing bonds; against payment in gold of government obligations; for the repeal of the 10 per cent tax on state banks; opposition to national banks and so down to 19thly.

That is to say they get on nineteen sides of the dear people in one platform and not a breath of suspicion of "ism" in it. In the populist platform proper there are about nine distinct demands or propostions, and we are accused of wanting the "earth and the fulness thereof." But this Tennessee platform outreaches us at a ratio of 19 to 1 regardless of all that has been said heretofore. And not a hint, not a horn tooted in favor of trimming it. And now the question arises: how would the populists look trotting along side of such an imposing structure with a little bobtailed platform that didn't have anything in it that wasn't in the democratic platform, and with an apology on their lips from bringing that out in the race for political pie?

And the Arkansas democrats are going to follow now in a few days. They will not be a whit behind their brethren in Tennessee in building their platform. They have got up their free silver steam, and will have their anti-bank and bond pitchforks on hand. If they will take a pointer from us we'll tell them how they can discount the Tennessee fellows and take all the wind out of the populist sails. Declare for the referendum. Of course they won't know what that means but most of them will likely be too drunk to ask any questions, and if they do they can be told that it is a new kind of ballot box that will withstand the X rays of populist investigation. Just do this boys and make the Tennessee democrats mad with envy. Of course it don't make the least bit of difference what you promise, you don't intend to perform it anyway.

Old Uncle Ben Colvin lives at St. Charles, Michigan. He is an old greenbacker, one of the anti-fusion and anti-compromising kind. He has held his town in line against both old parties for twenty years. Some one wrote and asked him to give the difference in the cost of a $100 bank bill for 20 years. Here is his reply:

"A national bank $100 for 20 years costs the people $230 to keep it afloat, while the government $100 costs the people nothing but the printing of it to keep it afloat for 20 years. Now to prove: The bond under the bank drawing 4½ per cent in twenty years would be $90 without compound. A banker never loans his money below 7 per cent. That would be $140 in 20 years without compound; adding that to the $90, there is a clean robbery of $230 drawn out of the people and handed over to the banker. That same $100 government bill is the redeemer of the national bank bill. Why not the government issue the money and save that to the people?

The union carpenters of Cripple Creek have given an example of what some people will call foolishness, but the more thoughtful will characterize as an aunusual example of the spirit of fairness to and consideration of their fellow men in distress, which should, but does not, find imitators in other callings. After the recent fire had destroyed the greater part of that city the Carpenters' union met in special session and resolved that the question for an advance of wages, which had been under consideration before misfortune had overtaken the city, should be indefinitely postponed; and that no advance on the old rate of wages would be asked pending the rebuilding of the burned district. Those having stocks of lumber, hardware and other building material on hand were not so thoughtful of their unfortunate neighbors who were burned out. The business men took advantage of the prevailing distress and extraordinary demand for building material and provisions and advanced the prices of everything exorbitantly. There was none of that "fellow feeling that makes us wondrous kind" to be found among the business men.

There are many examples of this kind occurring every day that prove a more sympathetic feeling among the alleged lower walks of life than there are among the pillars of the commercial world. It is true that the rich and powerful stand together better than do the working classes, but then it is for the purpose of more easily robbing the weak and unprotected. They are not producers and their whole time is given to the study of the science of fleecing their fellow man without running the risk of getting into the penitentiary. And this is called business. Collis P. Huntington secures an extension for the payment of the Pacific railroad debt and the right to fleece the people for another long term of years. It may have cost him several million dollars. What is that to him? The people pay the freight. The people are controlling the railroads, you know. The burning of towns and disasters of cyclones don't disturb Huntington and his class.

The Star and Kansan says:

"Up at Leavenworth last week there was a destitute woman with nine young children, who had to be provided for the by charitable people there. Her husband was in jail for defrauding the United States government. Ignorant of wrong he had used a cancelled two-cent stamp in mailing a letter; and for this crime he was sentenced to the federal penitentiary for two years! That is the same sentence the republican state treasurer of South Dakota received for stealing $350,000. Think of it. A poor man with a large family dependent upon his labor for support, and our wise and just and humane government gives him two years in prison for robbing it of two cents. Carnegie cheats the government out of hundreds of thousands by furnishing defective armor plate, and President Cleveland remits most of the fine imposed on him. But the poor man who defrauds Uncle Sam of two cents is left to rot in jail, while his family starves. A beautiful system, a noble civilization and a grand government, surely! Can't we improve upon such methods and punish the big thieves a little more and the small ones a little less. Can't we approximate a little more closely to justice and reason in our penalties? If we can't, it's about time to conclude that the experiment of human government is a failure. "By their fruits ye shall know them." A social system based on the ideas of interest, rent and profit for idlers, at the expense of the toilers, can't work out any better, though. It is the worst imaginable form of anarchy.

A Mistake.

Railroads in Russia are almost entirely under control of the government which is a great mistake, for it prevents private companies from exercising in that country the great American privilege of robbing the people. See?—Coming Nation.

If you want the rich to bear their share of the burdens of taxation, vote the People's party ticket; it is the only party that favors making them do it.

FROM TAUBENECK.

HIS REPLY TO THE JOLIET NEWS EDITOR.

The Position of the Populist Party Clearly and Patriotically Put—Fusion With Old Parties Would Be an Impossibility.

National Chairman Taubeneck has sent the following letter to Jas. H. Ferris, editor of the Joliet (Ill.) News. It speaks for itself:

Jas. H. Ferris, Joliet, Ill.

My Dear Sir:—Yours of the 20th inst., enclosing clipping from the "Chicago Record" containing press dispatch from Indianapolis, dated May 19, giving what is supposed to be the proceedings of a conference between the Indiana populists, bimetalists and silver democrats, received yesterday. In reply will state, that so far as headquarters and the national committee are concerned, there is not one word of truth in the report. It is a deliberate falsehood and fabrication from beginning to end. If Indiana populists have gone into a combination of this kind, they have not taken anyone in other states into their confidence. No populist, bimetalist or silver democrat, has ever mentioned a single word to me about a combination as stated in the dispatch. You must accept, with much allowance, anything that comes from Indianapolis. Twice before, and within the last year, have fake statements and dispatches, in which populists have figured, emanated from that city. I repeat, as I have a hundred times before, that no union of the reform forces can ever be perfected in either of the old parties. I have spent too much time and labor to get people to leave the old parties and I shall not advise them to go back regardless of what their respective parties may do. Populist editors and populists in general must realize that we cannot control the columns of the old party press. We have no way to prevent them from publishing fake statement. Anything that appears along those lines, especially now when there seems to be a break-up in the ranks of the old parties, must be accepted with much allowance. It matters not what the democratic party may do at Chicago, or what the bimetallists may do at St. Louis, or whether they meet us at all, the people's party will hold a national convention July 22, make a platform and nominate candidates for president and vice-president. Our convention will be controlled by populists, and whatever is done at that convention, will be the word of the representatives of the people's party elected by the members of that party throughout the United States.

This report from Indianapolis, in regard to the populists endorsing the nominees of the Chicago convention, is on a par with the statements made about a one plank platform, or a single silver plank platform. There isn't a populist in the United States, so far as I know who has ever advanced a one-plank platform, still less a single silver plank platform. I never did, and do not now, favor such a platform. It is no credit to a gentleman or a populist paper, to misrepresent the views of others. The talk of selling out, controlling state conventions and state delegates, is a down-right insult to every populist in the land. As though populists could be persuaded to do something against their convictions. It is humiliating to the people's party to have populist papers publish such nonsense. If I had no better opinion of the average populist than these papers express, I would certainly give up the contest as hopeless. I know the populists are honest, and at our national convention, they will do that which is best for the party and our country. Every populist in the United States has a right to express his opinion as to what the platform should contain. He also has a right to work and vote to select delegates who will represent his views in the national convention. Anything short of this means to throttle free thought and free speech. The delegates to the national convention will do that which is best for the party and our country as the conditions confront us in 1896. That is, they will do that which is best for the people's party, and not for either of the old parties. Whether the silver organizations througout the United States meet with us at St. Louis or not, will not in the slightest degree deter us from pursuing some course as though they had not called a convention for the same date and place as ours. Nor will the people's party ever surrender the principle that the government alone has the right to issue the money, whether is it gold, silver or paper, and that all money must be a full legal tender and not redeemable in coin. Let the populists throughout the United States elect good, honest, true, cool and deliberate men as delegates to the national convention, and we need not have the slightest fear as to the result. The people's party at its national convention will take care of itself regardless of what the democrats may do at Chicago. I have no time to enter into a controversy with any member of our party; no good can result from this. Dissention in our ranks is the last argument to win recruits. I am axious that our national convention should be a success in uniting all the elements opposed to present conditions. We need every voter who is dissatisfied with the old parties. I repeat again, that so far as the national committee is concerned, this report from Indianapolis is a deliberate falsehood, manufactured for the purpose of creating dissention in our ranks. And, if it does create any dissention, the populists will be responsible for it. We ought not to let these reports interfere with what is our duty towards our party and our country. Nothing would suit the republicans and democrats so well as dissention in our ranks; especially now when they know we will receive a large following from their ranks in the south and west.

Yours for our cause,
H. E. TAUBENECK.

M'KINLEY'S ON SILVER.

This Declaration Was Printed Last Spring and Denied.

Chicago, Ill.—The Times-Herald prints this conclusive statement as to Major McKinley's position on free coinage:

"A year ago in Thomasville, Ga., Major McKinley, when offered the delegates of the three Southern states if he would declare for free silver, said in the presence of the editor of this journal:

"'If the Republican platform declares for free coinage, I will not be a candidate. I would not run on a free-coinage platform.'"

The editor of the Times-Herald, it will be remembered, is H. H. Kohlsaat, one of Mr. McKinley's most intimate friends, and who, next to Mark Hanna, is generally understood to be most competent to speak for the Ohio statesman.

PLUTOCRATIC METHODS.

This one issued by an agent of London capitalists to New York capitalists in 1862:

The Hazzard Circular.

Slavery is likely to be abolished by the war power and chattel slavery destroyed. This, I and my European friends are in favor of, for slavery is but the owning of labor, and carries with it the care for laborers, while the European plan, led on by England, is for capital to control labor by controlling wages. This can be done by controlling the money. The great debt that capitalists will see to it is made out of the war, must be used as a measure to control the volume of money. To accomplish this bonds must be used as a banking basis. We are now waiting to get the Secretary of the Treasury to make this recommendation to Congress. It will not do to allow the greenback, as it is called, to circulate as money for any length of time, for we cannot control that.

The Bank Circular.

Dear Sir: It is advisable to do all in your power to sustain such prominent daily and weekly newspapers, especially the agricultural and religious press, as will oppose the issuing of greenback paper money, and that you also will hold patronage or favor from all applicants who are willing to oppose the government issue of money. Let the government issue the coin and the banks issue the paper money of the country, for then we can better protect each other. To repeal the law creating the National Bank notes or to restore to circulation the government issue of money will be to provide the people with money, and will therefore seriously affect your individual profit as bankers and lenders. See your Congressman at once and engage him to support our interests that we may control legislation.

The Panic Bulletin.

Dear Sir: The interests of the National Bankers require immediate financial legislation by Congress. Silver, Silver Certificates and Treasury notes must be retired, and the National Bank notes upon a gold basis made the only money. This will require the authorization of from $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 of new bonds as a basis of circulation. You will at once retire one-third of your circulation and call in one-half of your loans. Be careful to make a money stringency felt among your patrons, especially among influential business men. Advocate an extra session of Congress for the repeal of the purchase clause of the Sherman law and act with the other banks of your city in securing a large petition to Congress for its unconditional repeal. Use personal influence with Congressmen and particularly let your wishes be known to your Senators. The future life of National banks as fixed and safe investments depends upon immediate action as there is an increasing sentiment in favor of government legal tender notes and silver coinage.

Rich Thieves.

The rich thieves of the Union Stock Yards who stole water from the Chicago city water works, by connecting the water mains with pipes that run into the packing and fertilizing manufacturing establishments of that nest of millionaire anarchists, have not yet been made even to pay for the water that they stole, and no effort has been made to indict them for the crime they committed. Chicago is pretty steadily engaged in hanging friendless and obscure men who commit murder; in imprisoning little boys who, from their environments are led into little pilfering; in punishing men who sometimes steal to keep their children from starving, and men who steal a coat to keep them from freezing in winter; but a millionaire Stock Yards thief, perhaps a prominent member of the church and a star in the social circle is permitted to go unwhipped of justice. We have changed our mind in regard to a standing army. This country ought to have millions of men under arms, for as sure as the sun shines and the seasons come and go, there will need to be a soldier with fixed bayonet on every third yard of our territory if this monstrous perversion of justice goes on. Talk of anarchy; talk of punishing it; talk of its impracticability and its folly. It is the millionaire thieves who can steal and plunder and yet be safe from the clutches of the law, while the little thief is roaded to prison, who make anarchists and create the spirit of anarchy even in ordinarily loyal hearts. In the name of justice and our civilization we demand that the rich thief shall take his place in the dock beside the ragged violator of law who has stolen a loaf of bread or a pig's foot at the Stock Yards, to feed his starving children.—Farmers' Voice.

YOU ARE TO BLAME.

The Man Who Takes a Kick Deserves It.

There is no sense in workingmen finding fault with their surroundings as long as they are content to stand idly by and let monopolists work their own sweet pleasure. The man who is robbed is just as much to blame as the man who robs him if it is in his power to prevent the robbery. Instead of whining at their position workingmen should realize that it is their own fault if they are imposed upon. They constitute the great majority of the voters of the country, and at every election they bob up serenely and deposit their ballots to perpetuate the very state of affairs they declaimed against. If they are in favor of this kind of thing, and they generally vote as if they were, they should be manly enough to brace up and take their gruel like men and do less whining. When the masses really mean what they say they will tell the robber he has gone far enough and must go no farther, and they will vote in such a way as to show that they mean business. The man who is always running down the professional politician and then votes for him on election day is a pretty contemptible individual and worthy of no consideration at the hands of his fellows. To abolish robbery and poverty, and one always follows the other, it is necessary for labor to change its diet and take a good-sized dose of common sense, then it will talk less and do more. You cannot kill monopoly by supporting its ticket. You must get a hustle on and do a little voting for yourself, and until you are sensible enough to do so you will get what you deserve—the bone, with all the meat scraped of.—Industrial Banner.

Plenty of Money.

One of our Chicago dailies declares that there is plenty of idle money in the country, that is anxiously seeking investment, and that anybody who has good collateral can get all the money he wants. That sort of argument is wickedly misleading. Of course there is idle money in the country, and of course it can be borrowed on good security. Thousands of farmers could get money by mortgaging their farms, and when they had got it the farms would practically belong to the money loaners. The farmer does not want to borrow money. He wants simply to sell his products at living prices. That he cannot do. Why? Because business is paralyzed; and what paralyzed it? The legislation of Congress that established the single standard and the calling in of their loans by the banks a few years ago. Business is afraid to go ahead on borrowed capital. It is afraid that it will be crushed almost without notice by the people who loan it money. The farmer has products to sell. He has wheat in his bins, corn in his cribs and stock in his fields and yards. But he can get nothing for them; and he has no money. The public wants his products, but the people have little money with which to buy, and hence consumption is limited and prices are necessarily low. The banks and the Shylocks are masters of the situation. With less than one-half the per capita circulation that we need, they are able to hoard this money and drive the people to despair. Enlarge the circulating medium and they cannot hoard the money; they cannot build a wall between their vaults and the people by demanding usurious interest or unusual security. It is a crime to put all the industries of the country into the grip of the money owners, and that is what Congress has done. All the money in the world will do us no good as long as it is locked in bank vaults. What we want is to make money so plenty that the vaults will not hold it.—Farmers' Voice.

Workingmen.

Don't go into polictics. You will only be skinned. Only demagogues and agitators want you to go into politics. This is the advice of the men who have been getting the benefits of your votes all your lives. They have grown fat and domineering on your votes. They have sold your votes to corporations at so much a head. All bad laws in favor of the property class attest this fact. You are in politics now. You are in politics at every election. You can't keep out of politics. The men who want labor unions to avoid politics are in the pay or friendship of the people who now fatten off your votes. They want you to remain ignorant so they can the unions if they vote to discuss politics themselves and don't want you to see how you are being used. They fear it will injure the unions! They are the men who will try to break up the unions if they vote to discuss politics. Members of unions who think more of party prejudice than unionism are the bane of organized labor. Labor unions can control politics in their own interest, but they must discuss politics to learn how to do it. Why ask laws of old party hacks? Why not elect men who want these laws without being asked? Every enemy of the laboring men, every monopolist and employer, advises laboring men to remain ignorant and vote as they have in the past. Wake up, you sluggards.—Coming Nation.

Did it ever occur to you, honey, that you can't put down monopoly by voting for the parties that create it?

Relief for the Tornado Victims.

A St. Louis dispatch says: The general relief fund for the tornado sufferers foots up $191,000. There were many independent relief undertakings that would swell the amount to $220,000.

A meeting was held by the Emergency Building and Loan company Thursday evening and reports of solicitors showed that over $100,000 had been subscribed. The purpose of the projectors is to incorporate a loan society. They will loan money on destroyed property up to its former value, charging no interest for four months and taking second deeds of trust for security.

Improvement in East St. Louis is marked. Mayor Bader and the relief committee, of which he is chairman, are untiring in their work. The amount received in money from outside sources Thursday was $19,500 and half as much more in food and clothing. The city council's appropriation of $25,000 is now available.

Dislike Their German Officers.

A dispatch from Shanghai says that since the return of the viceroy, Lui Kun Yeh, to Nankin the German officers who were sent to China by Germany to drill the Chinese troops have been repeatedly insulted, the hope being entertained that they would resent the insults by resigning. This practice not having the desired result, the Chinese have resorted to violence, ending in the murder of a German officer named Krause by the Hunan body guard of the viceroy, and the German squadron has been ordered to proceed to Nankin forthwith. It is believed, the dispatch says, that all of the German officers in the Chinese service will resign.

Bad Indian—One Less.

General Wheaton was notified yesterday that Massia, the renegade Apache chief, had been slain in southern Arizona by Indian scouts. Massia killed three scouts before he was killed. He was one of Geronimo's braves and succeeded to that chief's authority among the renegades. Massia's specialty was attacking remote ranches, slaughtering white men and women and driving cattle over the Mexican border. He was captured with Geronimo in 1886 and started for Vernon Barracks, Fla., where, by order of the president, the band was to be confined. At St. Louis Massia escaped from the train and was never recaptured.

The Color Line in Chicago.

There is a lookout at the works of the Illinois Steel works, Ashland avenue and Thirty-second street, Chicago, and nearly 1,500 men are thrown out of employment thereby. The order closing the entire plant was issued by Superintendent Walker last evening. By 7 o'clock the fires had been drawn from under every furnace and the army of men had slowly filed out of the immense buildings and yards of the company. The men claim the color line was the cause of the lockout, although officers of the company do not admit it. They charge it entirely to a question of labor.

Mills Running Full Capacity.

Snodgrass & Field, lumbermen, Chattanooga, say business is entirely satisfactory in volume and has been ever since January 1, the only objection being low prices and rather small profits. They are running full capacity of 35,000 feet per day. They have logs to run them a month now on the ground, and are expecting an additional supply with the June tide, sufficient to complete the season. They have about 6,000,000 feet of lumber now on their yard.

Helps the Boiler Makers.

As a result of the recent award of sugar bounty under the contest that was being made over it, the Walsh & Weidner Boiler works, Chattanooga, Tenn., received several ordrs for new boilers from sugar manufacturers and refiners. No doubt this same cause contributed largely to the increased "music" to be heard at the other boiler establishments in that city.

THE PLATFORM.

"The People's Party of the State of Alabama, in convention assembled, recognizing the supremacy of political liberty over all the questions that can come before the people of the State for solution at the general State election, to take place on the 3rd day of August, 1896, reaffirm our allegiance to the cardinal principles of Populism as follows:

"First—We demand a free ballot and a fair count.

"Second—We believe in the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of international agreement.

"Third—We demand that miners and others like corporate labor be paid in lawful money of the United States semi-monthly.

"Fourth—We favor a tariff for revenue, so adjusted as to protect, as far as practicable the farmers, and the labour in our shops, mines, factories and mills, and their products against foreign pauper labor."

Judge Zell Gaston's amendment to the 2d section was as follows:

"We demand the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the abolition of national banks, the expansior of the currency to meet the needs of the people and the demands of commerce, free from the control of corporate influences, and we condemn the issue of interest bearing bonds in time of peace."

Next came a lot of resolutions, which passed unanimously:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that our representatives in congress be and are hereby requested to use their best endeavors to secure appropriations by the Federal Government to open the Warrier River to navigation from the coal fields to the Gulf of Mexico."

"Resolved, That our county appointing boards are hereby requested to give to the political opposition a competent inspector at every polling place in their respective counties.

"And we further request the inspector so appointed to give a competent clerk and fixer at each polling place to said political opposition."

SENATORIAL CONVENTION.

The Senatorial Convention of the 15th district is called to meet at Clanton on June 16th, at 10 a.m. A full delegation from each county is requested to be present.

L. H. REYNOLDS, Ch'm'n Com.
JOHN W. PITTS, Sect'y.

THE Senatorial convention meets at Clanton next Tuesday.

Now, the proposition we wish to direct special attention to is, that in the election of our State officers there should not be that doubt about who are elected that does exist in regard to our present State officers. The elections should be so conducted as to remove all doubt upon matters of such importance And here we would suggest to the Governor, whose duty it is to see that the election laws as well as other laws are faithfully executed, that in some counties in Alabama, especially Lowndes, Dallas, Macon, Autauga, Perry and Hale, the probate judges, sheriffs and clerks of the circuit court, refused to appoint one inspector of election from the opposition party to the Democratic party as was shown by proof in the contested election cases in the House of Representatives, in the cases of Goodwyn vs. Gobb, W. F. Aldrich vs. Robbins and T. H. Aldrich vs. Underwood. Of this wilful violation of their duties under the law, it does seem that our Governor should take some notice. He should cause the matter to be investigated and instruct the Attorney General to file impeachment proceedings against the guilty parties. If the Governor has any doubt about an impeachment being sustained in a case of this kind, we will, if he requests it, undertake to furnish him the written opinion of so distinguished a lawyer as the late D. C. Troy, of Montgomery, who investigated the question with a view of resorting to this means to correct the evils of ballot box stuffing in the county of Montgomery and one or two others in the fall of 1894. Troy was of the opinion that the appointment of ignorant men like John Washington and "Old Peg" as the only representative of the opposition was such a violation of duty as would sustain an impeachment against the officers appointing them.—Birmingham Times.

THE State-Herald gets more venomous every day. The fact that a majority in congress voted to unseat Col. Elliot, fraudulently returned to congress from South Carolina, and seated in his place a negro who was honestly elected, is regarded by that paper as evidence in all cases and under any circumstances Congressman Goodwyn prefers the negro to the white man. The State-Herald neither believes this to be the case or expects anyone else to believe it, but hopes it may possibly injure Goodwyn. However, the State-Herald is doing itself and Johnston more injury than it is anyone else.

CANDIDATES before the recent primaries are respectfully reminded that some of them have forgotten to pay their pro rata for election tickets. Mr. Miller, chairman of the County Executive Committee, made himself responsible for the amount, and we are satisfied that the candidates only need this reminder to at once release him from the obligation. Some have paid and some have not paid, we will get the particulars together before next week's issue and can publish a list of those who have not paid so that there can be no mistake.

COL. Hodgson, for twenty-two years register in chancery at Mobile, has found it advisable to throw up that office and go West. The Mobile Register says he "made the mistake of investing certain of the funds in the hands of the court contrary to the instructions of the Chancellor." Ballot-box stuffers, when they are in office, make these little mistakes.

THE National Republican Convention meets at St. Louis next Tuesday. Telegrams this morning show that all the McKinley delegates from Alabama, with the exception of the ninth district, will have seats in the convention.

DELEGATES to the Senatorial convention to be held next Tuesday should obtain their credentials from the managers of the last primary in their respective beats.

ON Tuesday Truman H. Aldrich was sworn in as Congressman from the ninth Alabama district, and another Democratic politician returns home in disgrace.

HON. Sam Adams will speak at Collins Chapel next Saturday morning.

Headquarters U. C. Veterans.

New Orleans, La., June 1, '96.

Editor BANNER: Gen. J. B. Gordon, Commanding United Confederate Veterans, respectfully requests that you will aid the patriotic and benevolent objects of the United Confederate Veterans by publishing in your next issue, date Reunion is to take place at Richmond, Va., on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 30th, and July 1st, and 2nd, 1896. Also to urge Ex-Confederate soldiers and sailors everywhere to form themselves into local associations, and apply to these Headquarters for papers to organize in time to participate in the great Reunion, and thus unite with their comrades in carrying out the laudable and philanthropic objects of the organization.

Business of the greatest importance will demand careful consideration during the Sixth Annual Reunion—such as the best methods of securing impartial history, and to enlist each State in the compilation and preservation of the history of her citizen soldiery; benevolent care through State aid or otherwise of disabled, destitute, or aged veterans and the widows and orphans of our fallen brothers-in-arms; the care of the graves of our known and unknown dead buried at Gettysburg, Fort Warren, Camps Morton, Chase, Douglas, Oakland Cemetery at Chicago, Johnson's Island, Cairo and at all others points; to see that they are annually decorated, the headstones preserved and protected, and complete lists of names of our dead heroes with the location of their last resting places furnished to their friends and relatives through the medium of our camps, thus rescuing their names from oblivion and handling them down in history; to participate in laying the corner-stone of the Jefferson Davis monument at Richmond, Va.; the consideration of the different movements, plans and means to complete the monument to the memory of Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederate States of America, and to aid in building monuments to other great leaders, soldiers and sailors of the South; and as there is no relief or aid for our veterans and their families, outside of ourselves and our own resources, to perfect a plan for a mutual aid and benevolent association; to make such changes in the constitution and by-laws as experience may suggest, and other matters of general interest.

Total number of camps nows admitted 833, with applications in for nearly one hundred more. Following is list of camps by States:

Texas 213, Alabama 87, South Caaolina 71, Missouri 69, Mississippi 60, Georgia 54, Louisiana 51, Arkansas 50, Kentucky 37, Florida 30, Tennessee 29, Virginia 27, North Carolina 24, Indian Territory 9, Maryland 6, Oklahoma 5, New Mexico 3 Illinois 2, Montana 2, West Virginia 1, Indiana 1, California 1, District of Columbia 1.

Very respectfully,
GEO. MOORMAN,
Adj. Gen. & Chief of Staff.

G. W. COBURN, Chairman.
Verbena, Ala., May 23, 1896.

THE last address of the national silver party, issued by J. J. Mott, declares that "upon the action of the convention of the party to be held at St. Louis, July 22 and the action of the People's party convention to be held at the same time and place, depends the vital question as to whether we can have a just settlement of this money issue in our generation.

means the prevention of scores of cases of colds, coughs, bronchitis, pneumonia, and consumption. Wet feet do not directly make the germs of consumption appear in the lungs; but they do cause coughs and colds and inflammation of the throat and lungs; weaken the whole system. In this condition the germs of consumption find just the soil in which to work.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is a most valuable remedy for restoring the system to health before these germs get the upper hand.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been endorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

Jemison, Ala., June 8, 1896.

Editor BANNER: The Democratic papers are publishing over the State a letter written by Mr. Oates in answer to Mr. Whiteheads criticisms of his and Jones' administration, but he admits the facts that they have got the State of Alabama $500,000 in debt and made a poor effort to sustain himself and Jones in the reckless manner in which they have spent the people's money, and he trys to justify himself by citing the Populist party to the administration of the Republicans in 1868 to 1874. Why, bless your life, Mr. Oates, we oppose such administration and all extravagance as much as any party on earth. The Populist party deserves just as much credit for getting Alabama from under this rule as Mr. Oates and the little remnant of party that he has left. But aint it strange they will try to saddle the Republican failure of 1868 on our party now? They are so near out of soap that they have to go back 20 years to get up anything. I wish every honest man in Alabama could read Mr. Oates' piece. Listen, Populites, how he closed. Here is what he said, speaking to Mr. Whitehead, "this shows what a jackass of a pecksniff a genuine Populist is and how little appreciation he has for the reputation of his state or the dignity of its Governor." I am sorry Alabama has got so low in morals as to elect a man Governor who thinks everybody that don't agree with him is a jackass. Yes, he calls all true Populists a jackass. He is trying to get himself up a boom to get silver votes in the next legislature to send him to the United States Senate, but after he has presented his name and the vote has been taken and he sees how far he has been beaten he will feel like a cut jackass himself

Fellow citizens, let us elect a man Governor who has better morals than to call white men such names. They are anxious to have our votes, but yet just think of their opinion of us. I think in August we will know them no more.

Respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phœbe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had Consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 139 Florida St., San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching Consumption, tried without result everything else then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in Coughs and Colds. Free trial bottles at J. S. Jonson, Jr., Drug Store. Write us a letter covering these three points:

FIRST.—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."

SECOND.—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.

THIRD.—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, net, and should retail at not over 10 or 12 cents, if consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain: Zeilin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 200 or 400 per cent., instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine," which you be sure to specify, and take no other, as there is nothing else like it.

On receipt of your letter enclosing photograph, we will mail you free of charge, a $1.00 package Liver Medicine, or on receipt of letter without photograph, we will mail you a 25 cent package, free.

"Moral courage," said the teacher, "is the courage that makes a boy do what he thinks is right, regardless of the jeers of his companions." "Then," said Willie, "if a feller has candy and eats it all hisself, and ain't afraid of the other fellers callin' him stingy, is that moral courage?"—Atlanta Constitution.

Compliment to a Soldier.

During the siege of Paris Marshal Canrobert found himself for a moment in the presence of a party of ladies. They were very much agitated. "What is the matter, ladies?" the marshal asked.

"The matter?" said Madame Brohan, in whose house the people were assembled. "Why, we are on the eve of battle, and I suppose fear affects us."

"Fear?" echoed the marshal, looking about with a puzzled air.

Madame Brohan rang her bell.

"Marie," she said, when the maid appeared, "bring a dictionary for the marshal!"

A Two-Acre Fish.

There was once an English nobleman who told at a dinner of a tiger he shot. It measured twenty-four feet, he said, from snout to tail-tip. Everybody looked a bit astonished, but nobody insinuated disbelief the story—nobody but an old Scotchman, who told a story of a fish he once caught. He had been unable to pull it in alone, but with the aid of six friends, he managed to land it.

"It was a skate," he said, "and it covered two acres."

The nobleman looked at the Scot through his monocle, and left the table. Others followed. After a while the host returned.

"Sir," said he to the Scotchman, "you have insulted my lord, and you must apologize."

"I dinna insoolt him," said the Scot.

"Yes, you did, with your two-acre fish story. You must apologize."

"Well," said the braw and wary Scot, "tell him if he'll take ten feet off that tiger, I'll see what I can do with the fish."

Decided by Jury.

It is not uncommon for an English judge to try to raise a laugh—and strange to say, he usually succeeds—by affecting an infantile ignorance of all things but purely judicial matters. Sir Henry Hawkins not long ago asked in court, "What is hay?"

A correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger says that in a recent libel suit a strange affectation of judicial ignorance was evinced by Lord Russell. Sir Edward Clarke read, from a book of the plaintiff's, a description of Chopin's "umber-shaded head."

"What shade?" asked Lord Russell.

"Umber," replied Sir Edward.

"Yes, but what is that?" persisted the chief justice.

At this point the feelings of the jury were too much for them. With a unanimity reminiscent of the "Pirates of Penzance," they chanted in expostulatory chorus: "Brown, my lord, brown," and the trial went on.

EVENTS IN ALABAMA

Carefully Collated and Condensed for Our Readers.

Postoffice Moved.

Mountainboro postoffice, Etowah county, has been moved to Carlisle Station, on the Tennessee and Coosa railway, and Logan J. Lisenby has been appointed postmaster.

Behind With Orders.

The Daniel Pratt Gin company closed down their shop a few days last week to repair the water wheel. They have recently begun to work their men eleven hours per day on account of being behind with orders.

Alabama Iron Goes to England.

The British steamer Huntcliffe cleared Wednesday at Mobile for Manchester, England, direct with a full load of cotton, etc., including 250 tons of Alabama iron, the first shipment of Alabama iron from Mobile to England direct.

Huntsville's Big Mill.

All arrangements are about completed and work is expected to begin in a few days on Huntsville's merchant flour mill. The mill will be up to the latest stage of the art, with a daily capacity of 100 barrels of meal and flour each.

Disastrous Hail Storm.

A dispatch from Rogers says: The cotton crop in this section is ruined. The plants are flat on the ground and in many instances are entirely stripped of their leaves. Corn is also damaged to a great extent. All owing to half an hour's severe hail storm.

Visited the Pest House.

There were two more cases of smallpox reported last week at Tuscumbia, and one death. The cases occurred in the family of a negro who it appears had clandestinely visited the pest house. It is thought now that the disease will be stamped out.

Cotton Seed Oil Company.

Articles of incorporation of the Birmingham Cotton Oil company have been filed in the probate office. Messrs. Robert N. King, of Dayton, O.; John W. Taylor, of Atlanta, Ga.; John O'Brien, of Montgomery, and W. N. Malone of Birmingham, are the incorporators, and the capital stock is $100,000.

Two Prisoners for the Mines.

Special Agent T. C. Nelson, of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad company arrived in Birmingham at Midnight Wednesday night from Covington county with two negro prisoners for the mines. One of them, Andrew Searcy, goes up for life for murder, and the other, Will Washington, is a short term man.

Going to Another Field.

Messrs. M. C. Williams and R. J. Saywell, until recently superintendents of the rolling mills and blacksmith and machine shops departments of the United States Car company, at Anniston, have gone to Rome, Ga., having leased the cotton tie factory at that place, which has been idle for quite a while. They will operate it to its full capacity and intend to get it going in about two weeks.

Industrial—Birmingham.

The car wheel works on Avenue E and Twelfth street, Birmingham, fired up Thursday. They will use 100 tons of iron a day—almost the output of a furnace. The works will make trucks as well as wheels. They will furnish railroads with the trucks ready for the bed of the car. Many skilled workmen are employed. This is one of the most important industries that has recently been started in Birmingham.

The Law's Troublesome Memory.

George Baty was arrested a few days ago on a bill found by the grand jury in 1890. In that year Baty and a man by the name of Tom Precise had a duel, on the streets of Scottsboro, in which a horse was killed by the former, though neither of the principals were hurt. Baty soon left the country and returned only a few days ago. He is quite broken up over the affair and says he did not know there was a warrant for him. He was unable to make bond and was lodged in jail.

Watermelons Have Come.

There are watermelons in Birmingham. A car load of them, the first of the season, arrived Thursday afternoon over the Louisville & Nashville railroad from Florida, and tonight will be seen at almost every stand in the city. The melons this season are a little ahead of those that arrived last season, and the crop will be every bit as heavy as it was last year. The Louisville & Nashville railroad on Thursday evening carried forty cars of bananas through Birmingham en route to Cincinnati and other points.

Slashed Across the Throat.

On Thursday night at New Castle Pink Scarver, colored, was carved to death. On examination of the body at the inquest held by Coroner R. E. Jones on Friday two gashes, one on each side of the throat, either of which would have caused his death, were found. Several other knife wounds on different parts of the body appeared. One Jim Johnson, colored, was arrested, charged with the crime, and conveyed to jail. It appears from the evidence before the coroner that another negro, who has not been arrested, is implicated.

Seem's He'd Been Drinking.

An unfortunate occurrence took place in Selma Friday night, which may result in the death of one citizen at the hands of another. It seems that Mr. Ed Molette had been drinking and went to the room of Mr. Llewelyn Bitts. All that is known is that a difficulty occurred and both men drew and emptied their pistols. The shooting attracted attention and persons who rushed into the room found the form of Mr. Molette lying on the floor with an ugly wound through the abdomen. It is thought the wound fatal.

The Engine Struck Her.

At Liberty Park station, on the Ensley Dummy line, a negro woman stepped from a dummy train Wednesday morning on the track of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company. Hardly had she done so when a freight train on that line came in sight. The engineer blew his whisle and reversed brakes, but the woman failed to leave the track and the engine struck her, hurling her from the track. When picked up it was found that both legs and her hips were crushed. She was taken to a house close by, and it was learned she died shortly afterward.

Can't Subsist On Glory.

A good deal of kicking is being indulged in by the First regiment of the Alabama state troops, in camp of instruction at Mobile, on account of the fact that the soldiers will be required to pay for what they eat during the encampment. It is, unfortunately, true that the state will not be able this year to defray all of the expenses of the encampment. Transportation and all of the other camp expenses other than providing for the rations of the troops will be paid by the state out of the $15,000 appropriated by the legislature for that purpose. If after the encampment any surplus of this $15,000 is left it will be prorated among the regiments and applied to the grub fund. Only one company in the First regiment, however is said to have threatened to bolt the encampment.

Colored Teachers' Association.

The Colored State Teachers' association met in Anniston Wednesday night in annual convention to be in session three days. Addresses of welcome were delivered by Hon. Francis M. Hight, mayor, and Judge William I. Johnston, chairman of the board of education. The response on behalf of the visiting teachers was made by Booker T. Washington, who for six years has been president of the association, and who founded and is at the head of the big negro school at Tuskegee, which has achieved a world-wide fame under his management. His speech, after thanking the city for the welcome extended, continued with good advice to the negroes and sound truths as to existing conditions, and it is said to have been the finest, most sensible and most practical discourse ever listened to by those who heard it, the audience including a great many white people.

Executive Clemency.

Will Smith, colored, was to have been hung Friday at Birmingham. On Thursday his attorney returned from Montgomery bearing the following order;

State of Alabama,
Montgomery County. }

The death sentence of Will Smith, to be executed by hanging on Friday, the 5th day of June, 1896, is hereby commuted to imprisonment at hard labor in the state penitentiary during his natural life.

Wm. C. Oates,
Governor.

Smith was convicted, with three other negroes, of the murder of Deputy Sheriff A. T. Wood, at Brookside last July. Since his conviction circumstances have come to the knowledge of Judge Greene and Solicitors Bradley and Furguson, who represented the state in the trial, that moved them to recommend the commutation of the death sentence. Sheriff Morrow, G. R. Easlel foreman, and F. F. Norton, a member of the jury of trial, also commended the commutation.

Limestone Circuit Court.

An extra term of circuit court commenced at Athens Tuesday, Judge Speake presiding. The object of this special term is the closing of the criminal docket. Three murder cases are embraced, chief among which is the case against Annie Mahone for the killing of T. Redus Westmoreland, both of Elkmont, Ala., on November 5, 1895. In this case the state will be assisted by Messrs. McClellan & Sanders of this place, while Judge William Richardson of Huntsville, and J. E. Fussell, of Columbia, Tenn., will represent the defendant.

It is set for Thursday next.

Perhaps more interest will be taken in this trial than in any ever held in this county since the Townsend-Binford case of ante-bellum days.

The next in importance, doubtless, is the case against Lorine Wynn, as the instigator, or particeps criminis, of the Upshaw-Smith murder, for which two young negroes are now under sentence of death.

The other the State vs. Sam Williams for the killing of Mr. Brooks and seriously wounding another of the Brooks boys at the same time and place, on December 25, 1893.

Distinguished Soldier Dies.

General Rafael de Quesada died in his apartments in the hotel Endicott, New York, Saturday. The immediate cause of his death was blood poison, following an operation on his throat. By his death Cuba loses one of her best and ablest friends. Quesada seems to have been somewhat a soldier of fortune. We first hear of him fighting under the Mexican flag against the French under Maximillian. Returning to Cuba he shared the dangers and toils of his countrymen in their ten years' struggle with their oppressors. Upon the success of the Spanish arms, he again sought distinction under a foreign flag, and, joining the National Guard, of Venezuela, became Crespo's chief of staff. He resigned this office and came to New York to devote himself once more to the cause of Cuban freedom. He was a native of that unhappy isle, having been born in the province of Puerto Principe in 1837.

Business Block Burned.

The Booth block, the largest business block in New Britain, Conn., was damaged by fire Saturday to the extent of $65,'00. The origin of the fire is not known, but the police are at work under the belief that it was incendiary.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

Summary of the Week's Proceedings in Both Houses.

ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-FOURTH DAY.

The conference report on the Indian appropriation bill, after two hours discussion of the provision imposing citizenship on the Indians of the five civilized tribes, went over. The joint resolution appropriating $6,000 for the completion of the historical frieze in the capitol rotunda, after some discussion, went over. The conference report on the fortification bill was agreed to. The private pension bill vetoed because of imperfect description of the beneficiary was reported with that defect corrected and passed. Three vetoes of pension bills were received, two of which were based on imperfection in description and the other on the fact that the beneficiary was a widow who had forfeited a pension by remarriage, the children of the deceased soldier having enjoyed a pension until the youngest arrived at the age of 16. The prohibitory bond bill was discussed and went over. The senate adjourned until tomorrow.....In the contested election case of Johnson vs. Stokes, from the Seventh South Carolina district the house decided that there had been no legal election, and that, therefore, a vacancy exists. The bill authorising the appointment of a labor commission of twenty members to investigate the relations of labor and capital and report to congress, was passed. A supplemental conference report on the sundry civil bill was made and agreed to. The house adjourned until tomorrow.

ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-FIFTH DAY.

Mr. Morrill, of Vermont, addressed the senate on the Dingley tariff emergency bill. Discussion of the conference report on the Indian appropriation bill followed, until 1 p. m., when the bill to prohibit the issue of bonds without the consent of congress was taken up and, after debate, passed. The senate then adjourned.....The house adopted a rule making 11 o'clock the hour of meeting for the remainder of the session. The report of the committee on rivers and harbors, recommending the passage of the river and harbor appropriation bill, the objections of the president to the contrary notwithstanding, was presented by Mr. Hooker, republican, of New York, chairman, and read. Mr. Hooker called for the previous question on the motion to pass the bill, and the previous question was ordered by yeas 179 to nays 60. The bill was then passed without debate by 220 yeas to 60 nays. The rest of the session mainly was taken up with the argument on the contested election case of Mitchell vs. Walsh from the Eighth New York district and voting upon it. The report of the majority of elections committee No. 2 recommending the seating of Mitchell, republican, in place of Walsh, democrat, was agreed to—yeas 162, nays 39. By this action the democratic strength of the house was reduced to ninety-seven and that of the republicans increased to 249. Conference reports on the naval appropriation bill and the bill making appropriations for fortifications and coast defenses were presented and the former agreed to. The latter was the final report of the conferences and provided for the expenditure of $7,377,888 and authorized contracts to the amount of $4,195,076. The lack of a quorum prevented the adoption of the report and at 5:46 the house adjourned.

ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-SIXTH DAY.

A partial conference report on the naval appropriation bill was made to the senate and went over until 1 p. m. tomorrow, when a vote will be taken. The river and harbor bill was passed over the veto by 56 yeas to 5 nays. The senate then adjourned.....In the house, the general deficiency bill being under consideration a motion to strike certain names from the list of alleged victims of the Ford theater disaster, was carried and the bill went over. A contested election case took up the remainder of the session and the house adjourned until tomorrow.

ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-SEVENTH DAY.

In the senate a partial conference report on the naval appropriation bill was agreed to and a further conference ordered. The conference report on the Indian appropriation bill was agreed to as to provision imposing citizenship on the Indians of the five civilized tribes, and destroying their tribal relations. A further conference was ordered on the senate amendment to continue contract schools to July 1, 1898. The filled cheese bill was passed after two hours' discussion, yeas 37, nays 17. It now goes to the president. A final conference report on the general deficiency bill was agreed to. A bill for the scientific investigation of the seal fisheries was passed, and the senate then adjourned.....In the house the contested election case of Murray, negro republican, vs. Elliot, democrat, from the Seventh South Carolina district, was decided in favor of Murray by 153 to 33, and Murray was sworn in amid the applause of the republicans. The final report of the conference on the general deficiency bill was presented and agreed to, and the following bills were also finally disposed of: To pension Mrs. Mary C. Gregg, widow of Major-General John Irwin Gregg, at $50 a month; to pension Mrs. William Loring Spencer, widow of Ex-Senator and Brigadier-General George E. Spencer, of Alabama, at $50 a month; authorizing the restoration of John N. Quackenbush to his rank and place as commander of the navy and his retirement by the president. As finally agreed upon, most of the claims inserted in the general deficiency bill were stricken out, including those of the Richmond Locomotive & Machine works, on account of the construction of the battleship Texas, $69,000. Adjourned.

ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-EIGHTH DAY.

In the senate Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, spoke on his resolution offered on Tuesday requesting the president to communicate to the senate the facts and proceedings relative to the men captured on the Competitor and held by the Spaniards in Cuba. His address occupied the time until the morning hour expired, when the resolution went to the calendar. The proposed constitutional amendment providing for the election of United States senators by the people of the states instead of the legislatures was taken up informally and discussed. It was advocated by Mitchell, republican, of Oregon, Perkins, republican, of California, and Palmer, democrat, of Illinois. Hawley, of Connecticut, and Chandler, of New Hampshire, republicans, opposed it. A joint resolution for final adjournment on Monday at 3 p. m. was offered and referred to the committee on appropriations. The senate then adjourned.....In the house the contest of Martin, populist, vs. Lockhart, democrat, from the Sixth North Carolina district, was decided in favor of Martin by 113 to to 5 (less than a quorum) and Martin was sworn in. In the case of Rinaker vs. Downing from the Sixteenth Illinois district, which had been sent back to the committee for a recount of ballots, Mr. Moody, republican, of Massachusetts, reported a resolution, from the committee, declaring Rinaker entitled to the seat by a plurality of 5. The face of the returns gave Downing a plurality of 40 and he had received the certificate of election. Mr. Moody was of the opinion that Downing was entitled to the seat, but the other republicans of the committee did not accept his view of the law. So Downing, democrat, was turned out and Rinaker, republican, turned in by the adoption of the resolution by yeas 189, to nays 51. Evans of Kentucky, Moody of Massachusetts and Sherman of New York, republicans, voted no, with the democrats. At 4:55 the house adjourned.

COLLISION JUST FOR FUN

Draws a Big Crowd, But Results Badly for One Spectator.

The presence of 25,000 people in Buckeye Park, south of Columbus, O., on a recent afternoon to see two monster locomotives deliberately put in terriffic collision, bore evidence to the natural love of destruction in the average human being. The collision was arranged by the Hocking Valley Railway company as a means of drawing people to their new park to pass the holiday. The machines were old-fashioned and worn out. Neither had been used for some time and both were early candidates for the scrap pile. A small expense put them in safe condition for the purpose.

A special track a mile long had been prepared and the locomotives, with four old freight cars attached to each and under full steam, was started, one from each end, at precisely 4:25 p. m. It is estimated that they were going at the rate of forty-five miles an hour when they met. The crash was heard for miles. The two monsters were of about equal weight, and when they struck they mounted up in the air fully 25 feet. The freight cars piled up in a wreck under them and the wreck of the engines fell back upon them, a hissing, smoking mass. Dummy brakemen and engineers had been placed on the trains to make it all the more realistic, and many women fainted, supposing they were real men and could not get off.

Chief Clerk Thomas Peck, of the general ticket agent's office, was the victim of the only accident. A bolt from the wrecked engine flew about 100 yards to where he was standing and striking him on the leg, broke it in two places.

Austin Corbin Dead.

Austin Corbin, the multi-millionaire of New York, died at 9:43 o'clock Thursday night from injuries received by the running away of the horses attached to his carriage. The accident occurred about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, while Mr. Corbin was driving from his estate to the game preserves, two miles from Newport, N. H., accompanied by his grandson, Edgell Corbin, and the latter's tutor, Dr. Kunger. The driver was John Stokes. When coming out of the entrance gate the horses shied and in the fright dashed across the road, colliding with a high stone wall. The carriage was overturned sufficiently to eject with great force all its occupants, with the result that one of Mr. Corbin's legs was broken in two places and the other wrenched, while his head was terribly bruised. The driver was injured internally and died at 6 o'clock. Edgell Corbin had one leg broken, besides other injuries, while the tutor escaped with a severe shaking up.

Spanish Generals Quarrel.

During a recent discussion of affairs in Cuba between General Martinez Campos, the predecessor of General Weyler as captain general of Cuba, and General Borrero, the argument became so animated that the discussion developed in a hot quarrel and a duel was arranged. The matter was conducted with the greatest secrecy, but in some manner the authorities received information of the intended duel between the generals a few minutes before they were to meet on the Primo rivers. The captain general of Madrid proceeded with haste to the spot, arriving just as the principals were being placed in position, and it was only with the greatest difficulty that he succeeded in stopping the affair before either of the combatants was wounded. Generals Campos and Borrero were finally disarmed and sent to their respective residences under arrest.

Assassins in Milwaukee.

A trolley car was ambushed Wednesday night at a point two miles south of Milwaukee, Wis., and fully twenty shots were fired into it. Mortorman John E. Breen received a bullet in the abdomen and will die. Conductor Schwartz was shot through the legs. The spot where the shooting was done is densely wooded, and the murderers escaped. They are supposed to be sympathizers with the strikers. At night cars were stoned on the south side, and several times shots were fired between officers and rioters. South of the city, in the suburb known as Silver City, attacks were made on several cars. Several arrests were made in that locality.

Builders Criminally Unscrupulous.

As a result of the coroner's inquest into the cause of death of four persons killed in the collapse of the Brown building, Buffalo, N. Y., last month, the brunt of blame has been laid on the owners of building as represented by their agents, Chas. R. Hastings and Edward P. Thayor. They are charged by the jury with culpable negligence and unscrupulous methods pursued unmindful of the advice and opinion of reliable men. The contractor, W. M. Luther, is also found to have contributed to the cause of disaster by his incompetence and gross negligence.

Chip From the Same Block.

Carroll Sagely, a young white man, who was carried to Jackson, Miss., from Lamar county, Ala., on requisition and charged with stealing $15 and a gold watch from a Jackson suburban merchant, waived examination Thursday morning and was returned to jail in default of $250 bond. Sagely is from Rube Burrow's neighborhood, and is related to that notorious outlaw. The watch was found on his person, and he is certain of a term in the penitentiary.

The Russian Plain Disaster.

The Eclair, a Paris newspaper, asserts that 3,874 persons perished and that 4,000 were injured in the crush on Khodjiskoje Plain, outside of Moscow, Russia, on Saturday morning last.

Pill Clothes.

The good pill has a good coat. The pill coat serves two purposes; it protects the pill, enabling it to retain all its remedial value, and it disguises the taste for the palate. Some pill coats are too heavy; they will not dissolve in the stomach, and the pills they cover pass through the system as harmless as a bread pellet. Other coats are too light, and permit the speedy deterioration of the pill. After 30 years exposure, Ayer's Sugar Coated Pills have been found as effective as if just fresh from the laboratory. It's a good pill with a good coat. Ask your druggist for

RIPANS TABULES

August 8, 1895. In an interview with Mr. Chas. E. Johnson, manager gents' furnishing goods department, "The Fair," Seventh and Franklin avenues, St. Louis, he said: "Several years ago I was troubled with an aggravated case of Dyspepsia, and of course the first thing I did was consult a physician. As I had always enjoyed the best of health I was worried a good deal over this, my first illness—that is, the first I could remember since the ailments common to childhood—and my only desire was to get well as speedily as I could. I took regularly all the medicines as my doctor prescribed them. I must say that in a short time I felt all right, thought I was cured, and stopped taking the medicine. But it wasn't long before I was feeling as badly as ever, and again I had recourse to the doctor. This kept up for some time, and the last time I made up my mind I would quit doctoring and try some of the remedies I saw advertised from day to day. Well, this was more than ever, and in the most cases I didn't even get temporary relief. So I didn't know what to do, and made up my mind that I would have to pass the remainder of my days in suffering. Well, to cut a long story short, I had read so much of Ripans Tabules that I concluded I would give them a good trial. It said, 'one would give relief,' and I thought it about time for some good wholesome relief might cure me. I purchased two boxes from a druggist for one dollar, and when I had finished them I was a better man than I had for years. I continued to use them, and to-day believe I am a well man. Once in a great while I do have a slight touch of the old malady, but a few of the Tabules fixes that all right. I generally keep a box in my house."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce st., New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

WOMEN SHOULD KNOW

That the Disorders commonly called "Female Diseases" are the Foundation of nearly all the Troubles from which they suffer.

Whites, Chlorosis, Falling of the Womb, Painful and Irregular Menses are caused by derangements of the organs of menstruation. Headache, Backache, Dizziness, Eruptions of the Skin and Fainting Spells are also symptoms of the same diseases. Being only symptoms, their temporary relief does not cure the disease.

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI CURES FEMALE DISEASES

THE BANNER.

Let the people rule

VOL. IV. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JUNE 18, 1896. NO. 34.

Even the water is monopolized in Arizona.

When money and debt prosper, industry languishes.

The golden calf will be killed when the prodigal son gets home.

Ignorance and the taking advantage of ignorance is what destroys republics.

No country ever prospered under a dear dollar, or where the bankers controlled the currency.

Anything to hold the Democratic party together is now the main question with the politicians.

It is much easier to find fault with the Omaha platform than it is to prepare an argument against it.

This government is being run according to a very few men's liking, not saying anything about fools.

The money question is the paramount issue, and who shall issue it is the paramount part of the question.

A man who bolts either old party usually has sense enough to join the other one—unless he is a gold-bug bolter.

Promises and soup make a pretty thin diet, but there are lots of men who are getting ready to vote for it again next fall.

During the panic in 1893, no man ever rushed to the postoffice to have a money order cashed, for fear the government was going to suspend.

"We believe the time has come when the railroad corporations will either own the people or the people must own the railroads."—Preamble to Omaha platform.

Heart failure is said "to be the reason Speaker Crisp abandoned his silver campaign in the South. At heart he is a gold-bug, which may also have something to do with the case.

The corporations that are spending money for McKinley expect to get it back in case he is elected. They don't spend money for nothing. The people finally pay the campaign bills.

There seems to be little doubt now that the Democratic national convention will declare for free silver—but such a declaration coming from such a party will not mean free silver.

When any party abandons its principles there is no obligation upon the part of its members to remain in the party. Both old parties have abandoned the principles upon which they were founded.

The Associated Press report that Texas and Georgia Populists were preparing to fuse with the Republicans was simply a lie. Don't believe anything you see in old party papers about Populists is a good rule.

The greatest defect in our financial system is the control which the banks have over the money. Let the government issue all the money and control its volume. When it begins to hoard and prices go down increase the volume.

Congress is but a stage play of politics. Nothing is being done for the people. Vote out the lawyers and vote in workingmen and farmers, with a fair representation of all classes of business men, and something will be done.

The whole theory of "sound money" in a nutshell is, to make the rich man's dollar so good that it will require twice as much of the poor man's labor to get it. But the funny part of it is that so many poor men are such fools as to be caught in this trap.

Is is said that President Cleveland is "surprised" at the strength of the free silver craze, as revealed by the meeting of the Democratic party national committeee. It will be remembered that he was also surprised the first time he crossed the Alleghany mountains, to find how big a country he was president of.

The free silver men in the Democratic and Republican parties are picturing the horrors all brought on by the gold standard, yet they say if their party so decides they will vote to continue these horrors. If a party was guilty of nothing else but such an iron-bound rule as that it ought to be condemned forever. Think of it. A party that has by custom established a rule that you must vote the ticket if doing so ruins the business of the country and brings starvation to thousands of people! Bah!

Don't Perform Their Proper Functions

Ex-Governor William Larrabee, in his great work on "The Railroad Question," says:

"As long as the railroads are permitted to be managed as private property and are used by their managers for speculative purposes or other personal gain, or as long even as they are used with regard only for the interest of stockholders, they are not performing their proper functions; and they will not serve their real purpose until they become in fact what they are in theory, highways to be controlled by the government as thoroughly and effectually as the common road, turnpike and ferry, or the postoffice and the custom house."

MEMORIAL ADDRESS.

EXTRACTS FROM A SHORT SPEECH OF A. PUCKETT.

Delivered on Memorial Day to the Old Soldiers at Hardy, Arkansas—Battles Still to Be Fought—Evils That Grew Out of the War.

You old soldiers doubtless wonder what a young man knows about war, anyway—and I wish to admit in the beginning that he doesn't know much—and that little has been gained by reading. I have no reminiscences to relate of the war but what have been related before. The past is interesting only as it contributes to the present. Now is ever the time for all patriotic and pure thoughts. If the past records mistakes, the present and the future must correct them. We cannot go back. Forward is the command of duty and progress. If I had been old enough, I might have been a rebel, as my father was—but living now, I am an American citizen proud to live in a united country. Though an orphan of the rebellion, I feel no resentment against the Union soldier. The effect of my widowed mother's tears has been to create in my mind a horror of all war.

War makes widows and orphans on both sides—and these are all human beings. Religious and political views are of no moment in the presence of human suffering. There the heart speaks. The heat of the hardest battle ever fought on American soil never so hardened the heart of a good soldier on either side but that he would give up the last drop of water in his canteen to the dying soldier of the other side. Sword, shot and shell cannot sever the tie of brotherhood by which human hearts are bound to each other in times of suffering.

God never created men to butcher each other. Christ came to earth to preach "peace on earth, good will to men." The true honor of a nation is to be found only in deeds of justice and in the happiness of its people, all of which are inconsistent with war. Senator Plumb said of Grant that his greatest honor was that he, a soldier, opposed war. Sherman pronounced war a failure—and even the great warrior brigand Napoleon said, while in exile at St. Helena, that the more he studied the problem the more he became convinced of the inability of war to create any permanent good.

Owing to the weakness of man, war sometimes seems a necessity—but that is no justification for its crimes and desolation. War is a terrible thing, however you may consider it.

Slavery was wrong—but more money was spent in the war than would have been required to purchase and liberate every slave in America—and the lives lost were of more value than all the gold and silver that was ever mined since Judas betrayed Christ for thirty pieces of silver until America was mortgaged to Baron Rothschilds for gold.

But let us grant that the war could not be avoided, that it was settled right and that all bitter feelings are now dead.

There are still evils growing out of that war that affect us all to-day. There were men who did not respond to their country's call—men who hired substitutes—and one of them is now president of the United States.

I wish to read a prophecy of Abraham Lincoln. This letter was written to Uncle Danny Hanks, who was an early day partner of Lincoln in rail splitting in Rock creek township, Sangamon river bottoms, Macon county, Illinois, at the close of the war in 1864:

Uncle Danny Hanks lived until September, 1890, and gave out this letter for publication. This letter was only one of a number Uncle Danny received from him during the war. This letter read:

"I see in the near future a crisis approaching that unnerves me, and causes me to tremble for the safety of my country. As a result of the war corporations have been enthroned, and an era of corruption in high places will follow and the money power of the country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people until all wealth is aggregated in a few hands and the republic is destroyed. I feel at this moment more anxiety for the safety of my country than ever before, even in the midst of the war."

You know how much of Lincoln's prophecy has already come true. This is perhaps not a proper place for me to enter upon the discussion of a subject that is now agitating this country from center to circumference—the money question. Lincoln foresaw the struggle the country was approaching, and warned us.

The circular which I shall now read is said to have been sent out to American bankers during the war by an agent of the Bank of England, and is known as the Hazard circular:

"Slavery is likely to be abolished by the war power, and chattel slavery destroyed. This, I and my European friends are in favor of, for slavery is but the owning of labor, and carries with it the care of the laborer; while the European plan, led on by England, is capital's control of labor, by controlling wages. This can be done by controlling the money. The great debt that capitalists will see to it is made out of the war, must be used as a measure to control the volume of money. To accomplish this the bonds must be used as a banking basis. We are now waiting to get the Secretary of the Treasury to make this recommendation to Congress. It will not do to allow the 'greenback,' as it is called, to circulate as money, any length of time, for we cannot control them. But we can control the bonds, and through them the bank issue."

Whether this circular is genuine or not I do not know. But I do know, and you know, that an immense debt was made out of the war and that Wall street now controls the volume of money. You also know that this great debt was made after the war was over by issuing bonds and burning up the greenbacks—the money that fought the war.

Hon. Robert Toombs said:

"When Pendleton got up his agitation in Ohio in 1867 and 1868 by declaring that the bonds ought to be paid in greenbacks, because they were bought in greenbacks, the bondholders got frightened and said we must get rid of these greenbacks. They went to work and had their value destroyed—they demonetized them and got them out of the way by an adjudication of the supreme court. Then the increasing production of the mines in this country came in to swell their fears, and so they determined that as their bonds said they were payable in coin, gold and silver, or its equivalent at the present standard value, they must get rid of silver."

John G. Carlisle, once the able champion of the people and an honest Democrat, in a speech in congress in 1878, denounced the conspiracy which, he said, seemed to have been formed here and in Europe, to destroy by legislation and otherwise from three-sevenths to one-half the metallic money of the world as the most gigantic crime of this or any other age. Said he: "The consummation of such a scheme would ultimately entail more misery upon the human race than all the wars, pestilences and famines that ever occurred in the history of the world." Now, Carlisle is a gold-bug—but he has not yet succeeded in answering his own speeches.

But here I go drifting off onto the money question. It is mighty hard to make a speech even to a Sunday school class nowadays without bringing up the story of the golden calf.

I take it as a good sign that the people are waking up, thinking and preparing to throw off the yoke of an English financial system in America.

The agitation of the money question is to-day as bitterly sectional as the slavery question in 1860. It is Wall street against the rich Mississippi valley, the glorious wide West and the Sunny South—gold gamblers against a nation of seventy million useful people. The East threatens to secede. Well, turn about is fair play—the South will save the Union this time—but not with sword and gun. We will shell the plutocrats from the American fortress of Liberty—the ballot box.

There is work for the young men of to-day—yea, and fighting, but not with firearms, let us hope—as great as any work our forefathers have done.

There are problems as grave confronting us as confronted our forefathers.

This is a government of the people, and the people are responsible. Every one of you here present is responsible for his part of the government, and it is cowardice and treason that refuses to-day to uphold every principle of the Declaration of Independence.

Such people as we here assembled constitute the United States of America, and our actions help decide the destiny of a great nation.

It is the personal duty of each one of us to see that his part in this grand people's government is the part of an honest, intelligent, progressive manhood.

Washington and Jefferson and Lincoln were great—because they represented great principles.

The principles are greater than the men, because they live forever, and are eternally right.

Truth and justice are greater than statesmen, kings or countries.

And government for the people now on earth is the noblest study of mankind.

Let me close with a quotation from Abraham Lincoln's speech at the dedication of Gettysburg:

"In a larger sense we cannot dedicate—we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our power to add or detract. It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

O North! O South! O East! O West!
Away with jealousy, suspicion, hate!
Joint heritors are ye of one estate,
Forevermore to hold—
Ample and broad, so fill'd with bread and meat,
The recompense of honest toil,
That ye might welcome all the world to eat.

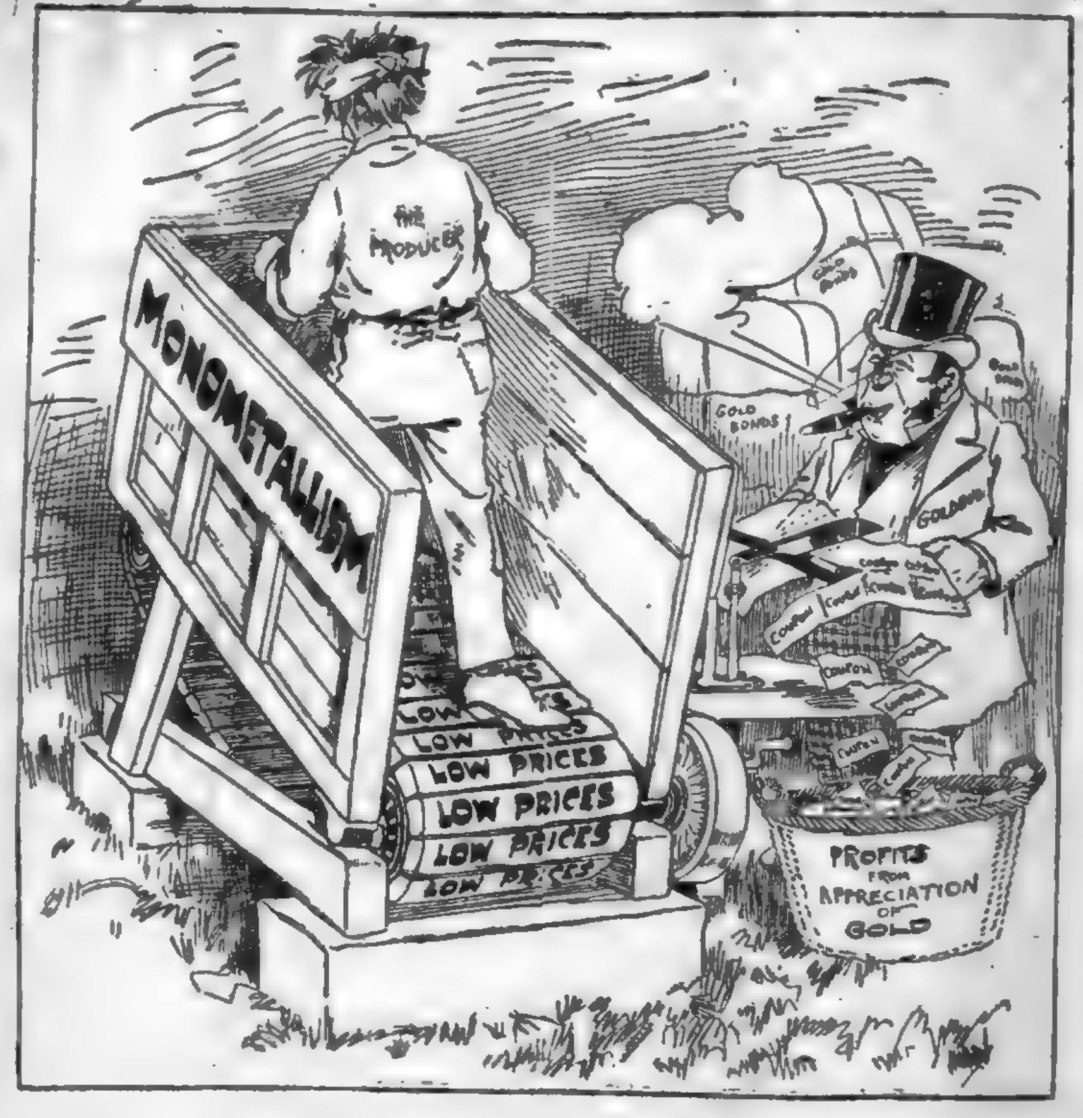
Let the dead past, and all its curse and scorn,
Be buried, with no resurrection morn!
Stand forth, O land, in unity and might,
Loving the true, and valorous for the right!
Down to the unreturning depths be hurl'd
All things by God abhorr'd,
And stand thou ever forth a blessing to the world—
To the glory of the Lord!



A LONG HILL TO CLIMB.

A KANSAN TALKS.

WANTS THE OMAHA PLATFORM IN ITS ENTIRETY.

A Delegate to the National Populist Convention Tells Why He Thinks We Should Adhere to the Omaha Platform.

The proposition that the People's Party attempt to make the coming national campaign upon the single issue of free coinage involves the very existence of our organization. Populism was born of the dire necessities of the great common people. It voices the protest of millions against a long series of oppressions and usurpations, that, if continued, will compass the disruption of the republic, the downfall of self-government, and the destruction of constitutional liberty.

Like all great reforms, it sprang from the so-called sub-stratum of our social fabric, those who from long suffering have developed a marvelous power to feel rather than to reason—to see rather than to grope blindly. The so-called higher classes—the rich and educated, with here and there a rare exception—are conservative. Favorites of fortune and the recipients of countless unearned blessings, they desire no change. They are above the terrible grasp of extreme necessity or the appalling sense of utter destitution that burns like a consuming fire into the very vitals of the suffering poor. They realize little, and many care less, of the burdens that gall and bow and crush our common people till the pathos of their heart cries becomes the fountain of a peaceful but far-reaching and utterly resistless tide of reform, or the bitterness of their indignant protests crystallizes into curses that form the battle cry of bloody revolution.

The Omaha platform was evolved from such conditions. Its preamble voices the dire extremity of millions who have suffered till they feel and know. Its demands embody the highest wisdom born of the terrible experiences of adversity and intuitively and unerringly grasp the solution of problems that have baffled the most profound philosophy. It is not a mistake. It is not an accident. It is the vox populi that will be written as the voice of God in American history. It must be heeded in its entirety and without one jot or tittle of diminution. To ignore it is to turn back for half a century the hand of political progress upon the dial of reform. To cast away all but one of its sacred principles, and that by no means the most important one, is a surrender that will be stigmatized as cowardice or treason by an indignant and outraged people. A victory at such a cost would be but a disastrous defeat—a degrading and despicable scramble for spoils. It would result in the utter disruption of our party and its absorption by the old parties, that would then, as now, be under the complete domination of the enemies of actual reform.

What has the Democratic party ever done that we should consent to be swallowed up by it, or any part of it, and become the mere tool of tricksters and spoilsmen who would sell the people's birthright for political pottage? Why should the silver kite, with its ponderous tail of old party prejudices temporarily concealed by a free-coinage attachment, expect the Populists to furnish string with which to fly it to victorious altitudes, merely for the sake of routing an enemy that is no more wicked and not as despicable as we would be after discarding all our principles but one, at the dictation of political leaders who have always denounced us as either fools or fanatics?

The single plank advocates tell us Napoleon always whipped his enemies in detail. True; but was he ever guilty of the supreme folly of surrendering every strong, strategic position to the foe on the eve of a great battle? Free coinage is important as an index that an obstruction has been thrown across the destructive current of contraction, but the people demand more than this. They demand justice, and justice requires not only that contraction cease, but that expansion begins. The disease that has prostrated the nation requires stronger and more active remedies than free coinage—certainly more immediae in its effects.

When a cord is drawn so tightly around a human throat that death is imminent, it is not enough that it be drawn no tighter; it must be loosened, and that quickly.

The nation is being strangled with a contraction cord in the hands of the thugs of Wall Street. It is also being held up by brigands that monopolize public utilities. Its life blood is being drained by the vampires of usury. Its domain is being wrested from its legitimate owners and turned over to aliens.

The confidence game worked on depositors by criminal or incompetent bankers whereby the people are robbed of millions annually still goes on. Does any one suppose that the coinage of a few silver dollars will remedy all these evils? Will the output of our mints run to their full capacity loosen the contraction cord that is strangling our people soon enough to avert financial death?

Is such coinage of more importance than the saving to the people of $500,000,000 annually through government ownership of telegraph, telephone, and er significance than the saving of an equal amount through government ownership of tlegraph, telephone, and express lines? Is it of greater significance than the demand that the people own and operate the trusts and not the trusts own and victimize the people? All these things have the people demanded. All these reforms do they expect from the hands of the young and vigorous party that stands to-day as firmly for free coinage as for any other tenet of its political faith. Those who bear the burdens have intuitively grasped the remedy. They have spoken in language as solemn and sublime as the Declaration of Independence, the Sermon on the Mount, or the Decalogue given amid the clouds and thunders of Sinai.

Let there be no trifling with things that are sacred. Let there be no barter and sale of principles for temporary victory. Woe to the leader, and woe to the convention selected to uphold this modern Magna Charta who shall dare barter its grand principles for a single plank platform, or worse still go over to the Democracy.

How Control Work.

Texas has been experimenting with a rather expensive State appendage known as the Railway Commission for several years, and results are by no means satisfactory. The fact that this machine was rigged wrong in the beginning is now quite apparent. It was hoped that through the instrumentality of a commission the people would be relieved of much of the tax upon their industries, which was being consumed by the "infernal corporations." This hope has never been realized. We are paying more to-day for transportation than we did twenty years ago, when railroads were comparatively unknown in this country. As proof of the injustice and discrimination practiced upon us compare rates paid here in Texas on cotton shipments with those of less favored States. Georgia has less railroad mileage than Texas and raises considerably less cotton, yet the average freight rate paid on cotton in Georgia for 140 miles and over is 1.84 cents while Texas is forced to pay 2.95 for like service. Even little South Carolina, with her 2,500 miles of railway gets 1.11 cents better rate than Texas with her 10,000 miles.

The magnificent corn crop of Texas last year is lying in bins and barns—being eaten up by weevils and other vermin because of the confiscatory freight rates to the seaboard—and the monumental stupidity and inefficiency of the majority of the present State Commission. The fact is, the Commission "as it is" is a kind of political infirmary in which are ensconced two superannuated gentlemen—one being over eighty years of age and the other far past the years of mental activity—and one, live, energetic, efficient officer; but one man can not do the work of three; hence the failure. If Texas is ever to be benefited by her railroad commission, she must place on it men of practical railroad experience and skill in handling details; men in the prime of mental vigor; men who have the interest of the common people at heart; men who cannot be swerved from justice and right, though the heavens fall. Has Texas such men?—Southern Mercury.

The latter part of a wise man's life is taken up in curing the follies, prejudices, and false opinions he had contracted in the former.

AGRICULTURAL.

UTILIZING SKIM MILK.

A Swedish process for utilizing skim milk for cattle feed is described in a report to the State Department by United States Consul Boyesen at Gothenberg. He says the inventor claims that the process is worth millions of dollars, but as he failed to secure a patent for it, he has given the process to the public. In brief, it consists in causing chopped straw to absorb large quantities of skim milk, previously sterilized and curdled with renet, and then feeding the mixture to cattle.

TIMOTHY FOR LAWNS.

Timothy grass is reckoned rather coarse for lawns, but it makes a sod so much quicker than do the finer grasses that it should always be sown to hold the soil while the other grasses are coming in. By cutting frequently with the lawn mower the timothy will be kept from growing too rank. In a year or two under such treatment the timothy will have run out, and the lawn will be much better than as if it had not been sown at first. It is very hard to get lawn seed that is free from seeds of weeds, while it is not difficult to secure pure timothy seed.

A BANK FRUIT AND VEGETABLE CELLAR.

The accompanying illustration shows how a bank cellar can easily be constructed for the storing of fruits and vegetables. An excavation is made into the bank the size desired, the earth being thrown out at the sides, where it can be used for still further banking the walls. The latter are of rough stones laid up in lime, sand and cement, with roofs and gables of wood. A tile drain should be laid outside the base of the wall, extending around to the front, to discharge down the slope. This cellar has no window, but may have double doors, one containing sash in the upper panel. Such a building can be very cheaply constructed, and in many localities and under many conditions may be found the most practical method of securing a frostproof storage for fruit and vegetables.—New York Tribune.

GOATS.

Having had eight years' experience with this kind of stock, I propose to make your readers better acquainted with them. Their milk, all medical and scientific men agree, is the most healthful and nutritious of that of any of our domestic animals, and especially for delicate women and children. My opinion is that the lives of many feeble ones would be saved by a diet of goat's milk. Experience has created this opinion.

Goats will give from two to three quarts daily. It makes as much difference in feeding milking goats generously as in feeding cows. There are a thousand families in every city that could make no better investment than buying a goat. The flesh of a fat young goat is most delicious eating, far preferable to any wild game, and when properly cooked makes a dish fit for a king. It will be remembered that Rebecca, who knew the nearest way to a man's heart was by his stomach, did not make that recorded meal of boned turkey and oysters and fancy pastry, but of a "savory kid." And since I have had goats to kill and eat I have had a greater respect for Rebecca's good judgment.

The skins, when tanned, make beautiful rugs, coverings for chairs or lounges, lap robes or coats, and, as buffalo have disappeared, the best substitute I know of for their robes are goat skins.

My experience is that I can raise meat for the family cheaper from goats than any other animals kept on the farm. They are very prolific, usually raising two kids a year. I have one nanny that in five years has brought forth and raised ten kids. They are less liable to disease than other animals. Tuberculosis is never known among them. They will thrive in large herds and live to as great an age as a cow. They appear to crave coarse feed, weeds of all kinds, and do well in a brushy pasture, in fact they appear to me to be nature's scavengers in the vegetable kingdom. There is no green plant or weed that I know that they refuse; pieplant, tobacco, horseradish, milk weed, burdock, thistles, especially the Russian, seem to be choice delicacies. I believe a few goats among horses and cattle is conductive to the health of such animals. They are very intelligent and appreciate kind treatment.

Of the different breeds I have tried only the native and Angoras. The natives are more hardy and prolific, and far better milkers, and I have no doubt with care given to breeding for milk that has been given to dairy cows four or five quarts of milk daily could be assured. There are plenty of goats in Germany, Denmark and Switzerland that do better than that. The Angoras are more delicate, not so good mothers, and require more care, but their fleeces will shear three or four pounds, the price of which, in Boston, ranges from twenty-five to sixty cents a pound.—Farm, Stock and Home.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

Graft over into desirable varieties all apple trees of both wild and cultivated sorts that are not now profitable.

There is no need of run down farms where those in charge grow clover liberally and rotate with good judgment.

Put the chicken coops on a southern slope where the youngsters can catch the benefits of the glorious sunshine.

Remember, to grow bone, muscle, feathers and flesh a varied diet is necessary, and the food must be of the best, whatever is used.

Be sure to have suitable gutters around the upper side of the coops that will prevent all possibility of water running in the coops during heavy sudden showers.

Train your young horses from the time they are colts. The best all-round gait a horse can have is that of the brisk walker. While the colt is running beside its mother this brisk walking gait can be begun.

Glass Resists Heat.

It is said that a new glass has been manufactured, that, while it allows the free passage of light, is a decided check to heat. In an experiment it was proven that a glass plate four-tenths of an inch thick allowed but four and one-tenths per cent. of radiant heat to pass through it. Ordinary window glass lets eighty-six per cent. of heat through. A very thin slab of this glass allowed less than one per cent. of heat from gas to pass through it, although it permitted the transmission of twelve per cent. of heat from sunlight. This would seem to be a discovery that would revolutionize building and many other of the arts. The glass contains iron in the form of ferrous chloride.

Solvents in the Eye.

The moisture of the eye is genuine solvent. Many persons have gone to bed troubled with a foreign substance in the eye and have waked in the morning to find it gone. In many cases of this kind the foreign matter has been dissolved by the moisture of the eye.

THE PLATFORM.

"The People's Party of the State of Alabama, in convention assembled, recognizing the supremacy of political liberty over all the questions that can come before the people of the State for solution at the general State election, to take place on the 3rd day of August, 1896, reaffirm our allegiance to the cardinal principles of Populism as follows:

"First—We demand a free ballot and a fair count.

"Second—We believe in the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of international agreement.

"Third—We demand that miners and others like corporate labor be paid in lawful money of the United States semi-monthly.

"Fourth—We favor a tariff for revenue, so adjusted as to protect, as far as practicable the farmers, and the labour in our shops, mines, factories and mills, and their products against foreign pauper labor."

Judge Zell Gaston's amendment to the 2d section was as follows:

"We demand the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the abolition of national banks, the expansion of the currency to meet the needs of the people and the demands of commerce, free from the control of corporate influences, and we condemn the issue of interest bearing bonds in time of peace."

Next came a lot of resolutions, which passed unanimously:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that our representatives in congress be and are hereby requested to use their best endeavors to secure appropriations by the Federal Government to open the Warrier River to navigation from the coal fields to the Gulf of Mexico."

"Resolved, That our county appointing boards are hereby requested to give to the political opposition a competent inspector at every polling place in their respective counties,

"And we further request the inspector so appointed to give a competent clerk and fixer at each polling place to said political opposition."

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

Hon. M. W. Howard, M. C., Hon. D. B. Anderson and other distinguished speakers will address the voters of Chilton county on Friday, June 26, at Clanton.

15th SENATORIAL CONVENTION

The 15th Senatorial Convention met at Clanton last Tuesday and was called to order by L. H. Reynolds. Major J. H. Pitts was made temporary chairman and Frank Ghrichton temporay secretary. Major Pitts addressed the convention and on motion appointed a committee of three on credential and permanent organization. The committee appointed was Judge Campbell of Shelby, Lee Hayes of Chilton and Tyler Goodwyn of Elmore. The following were appointed Committee on order of business: H. R. Golson of Elmore, L. B. Pounds of Chilton, W. A. Tallant of Shelby.

The committee on credentials made the following report:

We your committee on credentials and permanent organization report as follows: We find Elmore entitled to thirteen delegates—seven present; Chilton seven delegates—five present; Shelby nine delegates—four present. We recommend that each county cast its full vote in this convention. We recommend that the temporary organization be made permanent.

The committee on order of business reported. Then nominations were opened for Senator from the 15th Senatorial district and Mr. H. R. Golson of Elmore nominated Hon. G. B. Deans of Shelby and on motion of Mr. Tyler Goodwyn the nomination was made by aclamation. Mr. Deans addressed the convention thanking them for the honor and pledging himself to do all in his power to further the interests of our State and district.

Next in order was the election of the Senatorial district committee. Mr. Lee Hayes moved that two committeemen be elected from each county but the motion was not carried.

A motion by Judge Campbell that one member be elected from each county was adopted and the following elected.

Chilton—J. J. L. Stewart; Elmore—C. K. McMorris; Shelby—John A. Campbell and on motion of Mr. Tallant, Mr. H. R. Golson was added as chairman of the committee to represent the district at-large.

Mr. Campbell moved the committee be allowed to fill all vacancies which may occur from any cause whatever, and the convention adjourned.

THE Republican national convention now in session at St. Louis, has adopted an out and out unmistakable gold and protective platform and from all appearances will nominate Mr. McKinley for president.

WE are pleased to welcome another new Populist paper, the Talladega Reformer, to our exchange list and hope its career will be long and prosperous.

HON. G. B. Deans, our nominee for Senator, is chairman of our State Executive committee and also chairman of the State campaign committee.

Birmingham, Ala., June 16, '96.
To Chairman County Ex. Committee

This Committee is very anxious to secure uniformity in the county organizations of the People's Party of Alabama, and respectfully urges each County Executive Committee to add to their committees a sufficient number, so that each beat will have three members, who can also act as the Beat Com-

We would also suggest that each county select, of its county committee, three or five of its most efficient members to constitute a central campaign committee.

This kind of organization is imperatively needed for good reasons and it is hoped that every county will adopt this suggestion at once.

Please report the names and addresses of all members of each committee to these headquarters.

G. B. DEANS, Chairman.
FRANK BALTZELL, Secretary.

Nearly every Democratic paper in the State is teeming with appeals to prejudice against the negro, because they cannot control any of their votes. There have been times when they were not so violent in their denunciations of the "brother in black;" but that was when they were trying to inveigle him into the support of the Democratic ticket, and hoped to secure his aid to maintain the continued control of the Democratic party.

Nearly every one of these papers is denouncing Goodwyn because he said at Mt. Carmel, in a joint debate with Captain Johnston and others, that he would vote for an honest negro in preference to voting for a ballot box stuffer. A ballot stuffer steals votes. That makes him a thief. It is immaterial how well dressed he may be, it is of no importance that he may occupy a high social position. He is a lawless person and a thief.

But why do these Democratic papers rave so violently over what they call "voting for a negro," when it was right and proper so to vote? Did not Senator John T. Morgan vote to confirm the appointment of Fred Douglass, a negro, as Marshal of the Dictrict of Columbia?

Did not the head of the Democratic party, President Grover Cleveland, not only approve Fred Douglass, a negro, but invited him to accept of his hospitality at his reception when he was married? And did not Fred Douglass and his wife attend the reception, and receive the same social attention accorded other guests on that august occasion?

Did not Henry Clay Smith, a negro, formerly of Birmingham, receive the endorsement and recommendation of nearly every leading Democrat in Alabama, who showed more than was involved in rendering a verdict on the law and evidence in a case upon which they were called upon to decide as a juror—they sought to select, and secure the appointment of a negro from Alabama, when there were seventy thousand white hungry Democrats needing and wanting a good, fat office, and endorsed Smith for appointment to a consulate. President Cleveland appointed the negro, these white Alabama Democrats had selected to the position, of consul, to Santos, Brazil, a position held under his former administration by a white Democrat of Alabama. This office was accorded to Alabama, and these leading Democrats had the selection of the man to fill it. Their choice was shown for a negro over at least twenty thousand eligible white Democrats in the State. Does any body suspect that Senators Morgan and Pugh voted otherwise than for this negro; for they could have defeated him if they had opposed his confirmation. That was a clear case of the Democratic leaders in Alabama absolutely selecting and electing a negro to a fat office over at least twenty thousand eligible and capable Democrats.

A negro named Taylor, from Kansas, was selected and appointed Recorder of Deeds for the District of Columbia, by President Cleveland and confirmed by a Democrat Senate. This negro has a score of white ladies employed as clerks and copyists in his office. The negro is of notorious bad character and has been involved in several disreputable escapades; yet President Cleveland and the Democratic party have not only elected him over a million good, competent white Democrats, but keep him in one of the best offices in the government.

At the last State Convention of the Democrats of Alabama, that body passed a resolution endorsing President Cleveland's appointment of Southern men to Federal offices, including negros, which shows that the party not only does what the Democrats of Alabama wants, but that the Democratic party of Alabama and the convention which nominated Captain Jos. F. Johnston for Governor want.

Let these Democratic papers that have been throwing stones from glass houses lay the flattering unction to their souls that these facts on their black record show, and be easy and "if they can't be aisy, be as aisy as they can."

Children's Day at Rocky Mount.

For encouragement and to the honor of Rocky Mount Sabbath-school, let us say the second Sunday in June, '96, will be pleasantly remembered by hundreds who witnessed the recitations, solos, sweet songs, sweet music, marching and the whole make-up of exercises which made us feel that we were making a Sabbath day's journey Heavenward. The comrades presented ten beautiful banners with mottos, thus, Home Guards, State Protectors, Church Defenders, Anti-saloon Cadets, Good conduct Band, Good Citizenship brigade, Loyal American League, Conquering Legion, and Student Recruits.

The accompanying speeches to each motto almost took our breath, while we felt that angels were hovering around with extatic admiration. We felt a willingness to go on home with the angels. The exercises of that sweet hour showed much ability on the part of superintendent, teachers and commander-in-chief, Rev. M. Green, with his badge designating his royal duties

On second Sabbath in June, '97, will be Children's Day at this place again. May Heavenly grace be with them till we meet again.

Blood and Brawn

Impoverished blood means loss of strength. Probably seventy-five per cent. of the diseases with which mankind is afflicted are caused by impure blood. Very many diseases—such as tetter, eczema, scrofula, erysipelas, etc., could not exist if the blood were perfectly pure. V. V. V. makes pure blood. It is composed of natural vegetable remedial agents skillfully compounded in the exact proportions to secure right results.

V. V. V.

thoroughly cleanses the blood, tones up the whole system and brings back health, strength and happiness.

A purely vegetable compound and a wonderful specific, not only for all blood and skin diseases, but for rheumatism, catarrh, liver and kidney complaints, dyspepsia, malaria, etc. Sold by all dealers in medicine, or sent by mail on receipt of $1. A book of value mailed to anyone on request.

100 Pictures of the Great St. Louis Cyclone in which 250 Lives were Lost, and $20,000,000 of property destroyed.

These views are all taken from actual photographs, and show more plainly than in any other way the terrible destruction left on the track of the storm. It is in book form, printed on fine paper so as to be easily preserved, and should be in the homes of all. It is not likely America will ever again be visited by so disastrous a Tornado. Hence actual photographs of the scenes will be a curiosity for years to come. Nothing like this book has ever been issued in so short a time. It contains pictures of all the principal scenes, taken the next day after the storm, before the work of rebuilding had commenced. This magnificent book will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of 30 cents in stamps or silver. Don't let this opportunity pass of securing the only complete and authentic photographs of the Greatest Storm ever known to have visited America Address,

I might add that I am a druggist and have sold and recommended your Heart Cure, for I know what it has done for me and only wish I could state more clearly my suffering then and the good health I now enjoy. Your Nervine and other remedies also give excellent satisfaction." J. H. WATTS.

A POEM.

BY W. C. CARTER.

I sent some lines to the printer,
Dull lines from a frozen pen;
For my thoughts were chill as winter,
When the birds are flown from the glen

Perhaps I should say, "Pardon!
I do not wish to intrude;
But a poem, Sir, is a garden,
And rich and rare is its food."

And if you've lofty reaches
For the good and the beautiful fair,
You will buy my Hopeful Peaches,
They are but a nickel a pair.

And take them to poor Mary,
To the cot by the side of the lea,
For the moments pass full weary
To a maiden faint as she.

Just look at my poem a minute!
Here are eyelids heavy and red,
And a thousand prayers are in it,
And some of them offered for bread.

Here's a picture, Sir, of the morning,
For the night is passing away,
And the birds that sang in the gloaming
Exult in its beautiful May.

You'll buy this picture, stranger,
Suspend it on memory's wall;
'Tis the Light that sprung from the Manger,
And brightly shines for all.

And when the tides of sorrow,
Like wrathful billows roll,
You'll look on the bright to-morrow;
And strive for its blessed goal.

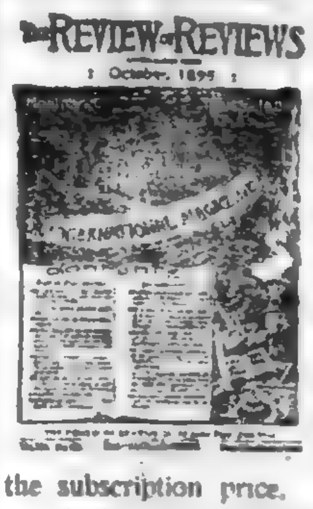
THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS
Edited by ALBERT SHAW.



THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as its name implies, gives in readable form the best that appears in the other great magazines all over the world, generally on the same date that they are published. With the recent extraordinary increase of worthy periodicals, these careful reviews, summaries, and quotations, giving the gist of periodical literature, are alone worth the subscription price.

Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the 'REVIEW OF REVIEWS,' which is a sort of Eiffel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."

An Aged Jewess.

A Jewess named Caroline Levy, now in the Bethnal Green infirmary, proves in a curious way that she is 110 years old. She was born in 1786, and since 1846 has drawn a pension from Baroness Rothschild's aged widows' charity fund, which is strictly confined to widows over 60 years of age. Before granting pensions the trustees make careful investigations as to the age of the applicants, and on their books it is shown that Mrs. Levy proved to their satisfaction that she was 62 years old forty-eight years ago.

An Accurate Diagnosis.

Children are, after all, your true impressionists, with undimmed perspicacity in taking original views of things. Small and hungry Julia climbed to her seat at the tea table the other evening and exclaimed in most eager, delighted, caressing tones: "Oh, gelatine! We are going to have gelatine—I just like gelatine—but, mamma, what makes it so nervous?"

Teacher—Can any little boy tell me which is the longest day in the year? Billy—Some fellows say the day before Christmas is, and some say the day before the Fourth of July.—Harper's Round Table.

Shaving in All Ages.

The confessor of Francis II. of France refused him absolution until he had completely removed his beard.

An ancient German was, by tribal custom, not allowed to cut off his flowing beard until he had killed his first man in battle.

About the year 200 B. C. the Roman Emperor Scipio Africanus inaugurated the custom of shaving among the Roman nobles.

Henry I. of England wore a beard until a courageous preacher leveled his eloquence at him to such good purpose that he submitted to be shaved.

From the time of Julius Caesar until the advent of William the Conqueror the Britons wore mustaches, but the clergy, after the conversion of the islanders, were forced to shave by law.

One of the early Popes established the shaving of Roman Catholic priests to distinguish them from the patriots of Constantinople. The priests of the Greek church still wear beards.

Peter the Great of Russia laid a tax on beards, and delinquents were forced to have their faces shaved with a blunt razor or to have the hairs pulled out with pincers. So everybody shaved.

The first shaving was done by order of Alexander the Great, who forced the Greek warriors to cut off their beards, as he found them awkward impediments in the hand-to-hand contests at that time.—Mail and Express.

Stage Morality of Paris.

A Parisian combination of Anthony Comstock and Dr. Parkhurst, Senator Beranger, has been protesting against the cafe concerts and the plays on the French stage before the "Society for the Suppression of Objectionable Scenes in Public." Matters now are worse, according to him, than they were under the empire. The restoration was laughed at for trying to regulate the length of ballet dancers' skirts, but now there are no skirts to regulate. A man cannot take his wife even to the Theater Francaise, far less his children. Living pictures and objectionable costumes are seen at the opera. The cafe concerts and all places open for entertainment in the evening are instruments of vice.

Forger Brought Back.

Officer Culpepper returned Saturday from Louisville, Ky., with Harris, the man who is charged with having forged and cashed an order on a citizen of Birmingham. He is now in custody, and it is understood will waive examination at the preliminary hearing.

Blue Spring Cotton Mills.

The work of erecting the buildings for the Blue Spring cotton mills, just south of Oxford, has been begun and will be rushed forward to completion. A plant is making brick right on the grounds. It is intended to have the mill in operation by the time cotton is harvested.

Child Fearfully Scalded.

At Eastaboga, Friday morning the 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cawhorn pulled a large pot of hot coffe from the breakfast table. The pot overturned and the boiling coffee covered almost her entire person. She was fearfully scalded and it is feared that she is fatally injured.

A Splinter Causes Lock Jaw.

The sad news came Thursday afternoon that the little 6-year-old daughter of Mr. John Killin of Lee street Montgomery, was suffering from lock jaw at the residence of her uncle, Mr. William Killin, near Perry's mill. She had stuck a splinter in her foot while playing. Dr. Hill and her father left Montgomery on the first train in response to a telegram calling them to Perry's mill.

Bad Effect of Red Hat Lining.

J. W. Kennedy, of Sioux City, a few days ago bought a big straw hat and had his wife to line it with red calico. Afterward he was out in the rain. The water soaked through his hat and lining and ran down over his face and in his eyes. It was thought for a while that he would lose his eyes from the poison of the chemicals used in the coloring of the red calico, but they are improving now.

Cyclone Victims Provided For.

The destitute families, sufferers from last Tuesday's terrible cyclone in Marshall county, have been provided for by the public-spirited citizens. Everything possible has been done for their relief and they are in almost as good condition now, financially, as they were before the storm. All the injured are getting along nicely and it is thought none of them will die. It is miraculous how any of the inmates of the wrecked buildings escaped alive for the houses are now only piles of broken and splintered lumber. Wyeth City presents a pitiable spectacle where the cyclone occurred.

A Vindictive Father.

A special from Greenville tells of the murder, early Saturday morning, eight miles from that place, of George Hunter, a young farmer, by Dennis Atkinson, his father-in-law. There were parental objections to Hunter marrying Atkinson's daughter, but one night last week the couple eloped and went to Luverne, Crenshaw county, where they were married. They did not return to Hunter's home until Friday night. Atkinson appeared there shortly after daylight next morning and a quarrel arose between him and Hunter over the elopement, which ended in Atkinson shooting Hunter dead with a shotgun. Atkinson escaped. The young wife witnessed the tragedy.

The Jackson Murder Case.

Warrants were issued Monday morning for the arrest of J. W. Vest, S. A. Vest, Jasper Hardwick and Ben Segars, charging them jointly with the murder of Monroe Jackson near Hartselle on the 13th instant. At 11 o'clock the state announced ready, when Arthur B. Brown, attorney for defendants, moved for a severance and announced ready in the case against S. A. Vest. A large number of witnesses, both for the state and defense, have been summoned and answered when their names were called without exception. Seven witnesses were examined and their testimony taken down by Mrs. Thompson, stenographer. Court adjourned until 10 o'clock Monday.

Homicide at Hartselle.

On Saturday, about 5 o'clock p. m., Ben Segars and Monroe Jackson got into a quarrel in J. W. Vest's saloon, at Hartselle. He ordered them out, and they commenced to fight. Vest went out to part them, when he became involved in a difficulty with Jackson. Vest drew his pistol and Jackson a pocket knife. He cut Vest twice on the right arm and once just above the hip. The wounds are only flesh ones and are not serious. Vest shot Jackson three times. One ball entered the right side 3 inches below the right nipple, going clear through the body and coming out 4 inches below the left arm pit. The second ball entered just above the right hip and lodged in the bowels. He also shot Jackson in the back, 1½ inches to the right of the backbone, opposite the kidney. The ball went through the body and was cut out 1 inch to the right of the naval. Jackson died almost instantly. Vest's wounds were dressed and he was carried to his home in the country. Both men were farmers, and leave large families. Jackson leaves a wife and ten children, and Vest has a wife and six children. The difficulty was simply caused by the use of too much liquor.

Vice President Stevenson.

Vice President Adlai Stevenson arrived in Birmingham Monday at noon via the Southern railroad. He came in a private car and under the personal charge of J. S. B. Jackson, assistant superintendent of the road. He was met at the union depot in this city by a committee composed of members of the Phi Delta Theta society and leading citizens. A carriage was in waiting and the honored guest, accompanied by Capt. Joseph F. Johnston, Hon. John W. Tomlinson and Chancellor Cobbs, was driven to the Morris hotel, where he sat down with a distinguished company of Birmingham's leading citizens to a bountiful repast. At the conclusion of the luncheon a reception was held in the parlors of the Morris, when quite a number of citizens, ladies and gentlemen, had the pleasure of meeting and shaking hands with the vice president. Col. A. B. McEachin of the committee on reception at Tuskaloosa met the vice president in Birmingham and escorted him to the Druid City, accompanied by a special committee of citizens of the latter city. Tuskaloosa did herself proud in the grand ovation which she gave Vice President Stevenson on his arrival in the afternoon. Long before the arrival of the train with the vice president and his party a vast throng had gathered at the station of the Alabama Great Southern railroad, and when the train pulled into the station the crowd gave vent to its enthusiasm in prolonged cheers. A long procession of citizens in carriages, headed by the local military, escorted the vice president up Market street to a point near the court house, where the formal reception took place. Upon a platform elaborately decorated with the national colors appeared the vice president, Governor Oates and his staff, Congressman Bankhead and Stallings and Mayor Jemison. The governor and Mayor Jemison made eloquent speeches of welcome, which were happily responded to by Mr. Stevenson. Congressmen Bankhead and Stallings were also called upon for speeches.

ALABAMA POLYTECNIC INSTITUTE.

Annual Commencement—Governor Oates Attends.

The annual commencement exercises of the Alabama Polytecnic Institute, at Auburn were opened on Sunday last in Langdon Hall by the Rev. J. B. Hawthorne, the well known Baptist divine of Atlanta, Ga., who preached the baccalaureate sermon. Governor Oates arrived at 1:15 p. m., and was met at the depot by the battalion of cadets and escorted to the hall. On Wednesday the commencement address was delivered by H. T. C. Bush, of Anniston, after which the graduates received their diplomas at the hands of Dr. William Leroy Broun, the president. The roll of graduates shows, from Georgia six, Tennessee one, Florida one, Alabama twenty-six. Total, thirty-four. Five students in the electrical course received certificates of proficiency. The Degree of Master of Science was conferred on two postgraduates, H. H. Pevy, of Madison county, and H. H. Smith, of Lee. The degree of Electrical and Mechanical Engineer was awarded to three post-graduates. One received the degree of Pharmaceutical Chemist and one that of Mining Engineer.

J. Bull Makes a "Request."

Col. Volney Ashford was convicted by the Hawaiian military commission of treason. The evidence was that he had advance knowledge of the outbreak. His sentence was imprisonment for a year and a fine of $1,000. After a few weeks he was given suspension of fine and imprisonment on condition that he leave the country never to return.

Lately it was reported that the British government had demanded of the government at Honolulu permission for Colonel Ashford to return. Later news confirms the report. The Doles government, it is said, has received a request—that being the diplomatic form for a demand—from the British goverment that a pardon be granted to Colonel Ashford with permission to return to Honolulu, unconditionally.

It is stated by the Honolulu Star that the republic declines to accept the British foreign office's view of this case, refuses to grant the pardon to remove the ban, and adds that if Ashford is landed under British or other auspices or protection until there has been an extended and complete review of the case, the action will be at least protested.

High Education at Harvard.

Three thousand Harvard men, encouraged by the phenomenal event of a Harvard victory, fought 100 policemen in the streets of historic old Cambridge Wednesday night. It was the biggest riot that the university has ever seen. Many policemen and students received wounds.

Finally the police were victorious, and three students were dragged into the station house and heavy doors were slammed in the faces of the howling mob. For an hour 3,000 mad students surrounded the station, clamoring for the release of their comrades. The chief of police and prominent citizens admonished the students and urged them to disperse. The students paid little attention to the officers and refused to disperse until the three men who had been arrested had been released on bail. They then departed, cheering as they left the police station, the three "heroes" mounted high on the shoulders of the mob.

Cubans Use Dynamite.

Two bridges and the pipes on the aqueduct, upon which the city of Havana is dependent for water supply, were partially destroyed by dynamite Saturday night about 9 o'clock. There were two separate explosions. The windows in many houses in the city were shattered and some market structures badly damaged. The greatest consternation prevailed throughout the city until morning, as further explosions were expected.

Express Train Held Up.

The westbound express on the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad was held up between Cotton Hill and Kanawha Falls, West Va., at 12:45 o'clock Friday morning by three men who, after a short fight with the train crew, made their escape without securing any booty. Jack Maynard, of Scary, W. Va., L. M. Martin and George F. Stringer, of Richmond, Va., were subsequently arrested near the scene of the attack and are in jail at Montgomery, W. Va.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

Summary of the Week's Proceedings in Both Houses.

ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY NINTH DAY.

In the senate the vice-president announced his signature to several bills, including the general deficiency and filled cheese bills. Mr. Allison presented a partial conference report on the sundry civil bill, explaining the house conferees refused to agree to any increase of the limitation of cost of public buildings; to appropriations for such buildings at the capitals of the new states, Idaho, Wyoming, Utah and Montana; and to senate amendment appropriating $15,000 for a postoffice building at Fortress Monroe. The senate refused to recede from its amendments and a new conference was ordered. The final conference report on the Indian appropriation bill was agreed to. House bill to expedite the delivery of imported parcels not over $500 in value, was passed, after being amended. A conference report on the naval appropriations was presented and a further conference ordered. House bill to constitute a new division of the eastern judicial district of Texas, and for other purposes, was amended and passed. The senate adjourned until Monday noon.... In the house a senate bill to regulate fourth class mail matter was passed. The president's veto of the general deficiency bill was sustained by 170 to 39. A revised bill, omitting the French spoliation claims, the Chouteau claim, the Bowman act war claims and several individual claims, was then passed. A report on the sundry civil bill was presented and agreed to. A further conference was ordered on the items for public buildings and on the naval bill. A partial report on the postal bill was agreed to. A final agreement of the conferences on the Indian bill was received and rejected. A further conference thereon was ordered. A bill was passed extending the jurisdiction of the United States courts over crime committed in the Indian territory and providing for the leasing of mineral, farm and grazing lands. Speaker Reed announced the appointment of Messrs. Evans of Kentucky, Russell of Connecticut and McMillin of Tennessee as members on the part of the house of the joint congressional commission provided for in the bill to repeal the free alcohol clause of the Wilson tariff law, to investigate and report whether or not it be possible to frame regulations under which alcohol for use in arts and manufactures may be admitted free without danger to the customs revenues. At 7:25 o'clock on motion of Mr. Dingley of Maine the house took a recess until 10 o'clock Monday morning.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTIETH DAY.

The senate passed the new general deficiency bill without amendment. A conference report on the postoffice bill was agreed to, and partial reports upon the Indian and District of Columbia bills, upon which further conference was ordered. A bill was passed to pay the Richmond Locomotive Machine Works $89,550 for damages and losses in the construction of the battleship Texas, and a bill appropriating $350,000 for a public building at Oakland, Cal. Adjourned.... The house sat eight hours today in continuation of Saturday's session. The following measures were passed: House bill directing the construction of a federal prison at Leavenworth, Kas., to cost not exceed ing $150,000. House bill making further appropriations ($58,000) in all to pay deficiencies for the current fiscal year. Senate joint resolution directing the secretary of the treasury to order a scientific investigation of the Alaskan fur seal fisheries. Senate bill re-enacting and amending the law of 1889 for the protection of the salmon fisheries of Alaska. Amending the law relating to the employment of sailors. Abolishing imprisonment for violation of contract and the system of allotments of seamen's wages, and improving the quality and value of the ration provided for them. House joint resolution clothing the purchasers of the Northern Pacific railroad in the foreclosure sale next month with the rights and privileges of the original corporation and imposing the same obligations. House bill establishing a new division of the eastern judicial district of Texas, and providing for semi-annual terms of court at Beaumont. Senate amendments were agreed to to the house bill to expedite the transportation of important packages valued at not exceeding $500 and not more than 100 pounds in weight. Conference reports were presented and agreed to on the following appropriation bills: Postoffice (final), Indian and District of Columbia. In order to maintain the presence of a quorum the house adopted resolutions offered by Mr. Dingley, republican, revoking all leaves of absence except those granted on account of illness, and directing the sergeant-at-arms to telegraph all other absent members that their presence here is necessary to the transaction of public business. A motion to take up the contested election case of Aldrich vs. Underwood, from the Ninth Alabama district, was pending when a recess was taken until tomorrow.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-FIRST DAY.

Final conference reports on the naval and Indian appropriation bills were presented in the senate and agreed to. The naval bill provides for three battleships and directs that no contracts be made for armorplate until the secretary of the navy shall have inquired into the cost of such plate and reported to congress. The question of contract schools in the Indian bill, was compromised on the basis of allowing their continuance during the fiscal year 1897 where there are no other schools to take their place. A supplementary deficiency bill appropriating $40,000 for compensation and mileage of new members was passed. Adjourned.... In the house the contested election case from the Ninth Alabama district was decided in favor of the contestant Aldrich, republican, by 116 to 107, and Aldrich was sworn in. The final reports on the naval and Indian bills were agreed to. They voted to insist on its disagreement to the public appropriations in the sundry civil bill, except as to that for the building at Savannah, Ga. The house disagreed to the senate amendment to the urgent deficiency bill providing for the payment of a month's salary to all employes of the government discharged since December 2 last. The bill to put in operation the recommendations of the international marine conference for preventing collisions at sea was passed. A resolution was agreed to authorizing the speaker of the house appoint a committee of five to investigate, during the recess of congress, the management of the Leavenworth soldiers' home, and appropriating $3,000 for the expenses. A recess was taken until tomorrow.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-SECOND DAY.

The bill to define and regulate the power of United States courts in cases of contempt was passed by the senate. It divides contempt of court into two classes—direct and indirect. Direct contempt is where the offense is committed in presence of the court and may be punished summarily. Indirect contempt includes all other cases. The bill provides that the accused, in cases of indirect contempt, shall have reasonable opportunity to purge himself of such contempt, and shall have the privilege of trial by jury. The differences between the two houses on the District of Columbia bill were compromised by continuing the appropriation for sectarian charities, but declaring that no further appropriations shall be made for this purpose after June 30, 1897. The conferees on the sundry civil bill reported the recession of the house from its disagreement to the public building appropriations. The following bills were passed: Increasing the pay of letter carriers; to prevent the transportation of spirituous liquors under false names. The bill increasing the pension of Francis E. Hoover was passed over the president's veto. A concurrent resolution for final adjournment tomorrow at 4 o'clock was agreed to, and at 6:40 o'clock the senate took a recess until 9:30 this evening. At the evening session a motion was entered by Mr. Hale, of Maine, to reconsider the bill increasing the pay of letter carriers. Just before 11 o'clock the sundry civil bill and several minor bills were received from the house and signed by the vice-president. The senate then adjourned.... Under suspension of the rules the house passed the following: House bill to protect the timber on the public domain and forest reservations from the ravages of fire, caused by malicious or careless campers or others. Joint resolution extending the scope of the good roads investigation now being conducted by the agricultural department. Forbidding the landing upon the shores of the United States of a foreign submarine cable without the consent of congress. Setting aside the Pacific forest reserve on Mount Tacoma for a public park, to be known as Washington National park. Opening national cemeteries to the burial of army nurses. To protect public forest reservations. Appropriating $300,000 for the benefit of the Omaha exposition. Amending the shipping laws by providing still further for the comfort and well being of sailors. Forbidding the transportation of liquor under false brands or names. Concurring in the senate amendments to the sundry civil bill appropriating $900,000 for public buildings at Bois City, Ida., Cheyene, Wyo., Salt Lake City, Utah, and Helena, Mont. The concurrent resolution for adjournment tomorrow at 4 p. m was received from the senate and agreed to. At 7:30 a recess for two hours was taken. The house reassembled at 9:30, and no quorum appearing, took a further recess of one hour. At 10:30 the enrollment of several bills was reported and Speaker Reed signed them. At 10:50, when the sundry civil bill was signed, there being only about twenty members present, the house adjourned.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-THIRD DAY.

The vice president signed the District of Columbia appropriation bill and it was sent to the president. House bill to pension the widow of Gen Wm. H. Gibson, of Ohio, at $50 a month was passed. A brief executive session was held. At 1 o'clock, on motion, the vice president designated Senators Sherman and Smith to wait on the president and ascertain if he had any further communication to make to the senate. Senators Harris, Faulkner and McMillan were named as a committee to ascertain the extent of sectarian control of charities of the District of Columbia for which appropriations are made. At 1:20 a recess was taken until 3. At that hour the session was resumed and the senators appointed to wait on the president reported that he had no further business to communicate to congress. The usual resolutions of thanks to the president pro tem of the senate and the vice president were passed. The vice president responded briefly, and, at the conclusion of his remarks, declared the first session of the fifty-fourth congress adjourned without a day.... In the house the speaker, in pursuance of a resolution, appointed a committee of three to act in conjunction with a like committee from the senate, to wait upon the president, inform him that congress was ready to adjourn and ascertain if he had any further communication to make. A resolution of thanks to Speaker Reed was passed and emphasized by a standing vote. A senate bill for the relief of the administrator of Henry Van Vleck, involving an expenditure of $4,500 was passed. The house took a recess until 2 o'clock. On reconvening the president's signature to the two appropriation bills last passed was announced. Several private pension bills were passed, among them one granting Louis Keiser, a private soldier residing in Nebraska $72 per month, and one to pension Mrs. Sarah Parker, a widow of a captain in an Alabama volunteer company that took part in an Indian war. The committee returning from the White house informed the house that the president had nothing further to communicate. As the hands of the clock pointed to the hour of four, the speaker arose and, after thanking the house for courtesies extended to him, declared the house adjourned without a day.

ALL PAID THE FINES

Like Little Men, but Naughty Rhodes Wouldn't Promise to Behave.

The fines of £25,000 sterling each, which were imposed upon the Johannesburg reform committee leaders. Phillips, Farrar, Rhodes and Hammond, were paid last Thursday and Phillips, Farrar and Hammond signed a compact pledging themselves to abstain from interference in the Transvaal politics, after which their banishment was cancelled, Colonel Rhodes refused to sign the agreement to abstain from interference in politics and was banished for life. He started for Cape Town that night. Hammond, Phillips and Farrar left in the afternoon for Johannesburg.

Abduction or Elopement?

B. B. Kerr was arrested Friday night at Murfreesboro, Tenn., on the charge of abduction. Robert Atkins and Wm. Mercer, also of Murfreesboro, are under arrest on the same charge. The case is a sensational one.

The three men went to the house of F. G. Pearson, who was married two weeks ago in North Nashville, and enticed his wife away. They went to the court house and asked for a marriage license, but their actions being suspicious it was denied. Kerr and Mrs. Pearson then drove through to Murfreesboro in a buggy.

Two Men Foully Murdered.

At Tunis, ten miles from Caldwell, Tex., Jerry Massey and J. T. Chance, both white, were foully murdered Saturday night about 9 o'clock by unknown parties. Massey received twenty-two buckshot and Chance twelve. No clue to the murderers, and indignation runs high.

Serious Complications.

From the Star, Portsmouth, Va.

An experience that is seldom recorded by any newspaper is that of Mr. Gabriel Levy, of 621 Crawford Street, Portsmouth, Va., who, at one time, was a sufferer from a complication of almost incurable diseases, and by the use of a very simple remedy to-day is rendered fully capable of attending to his duties and is as strong as ever.

Following is what Mr. Levy says: "Yes, it is true that not long since I was a sufferer from seven different diseases, either one of which has proved fatal in many cases. I was laid up in bed for months, not able to do the slightest thing for myself, as many well known physicians who attended me can attest. To-day I am well and hearty, as you can see.

"I was in Columbus, Ga., when first attacked, and went to the city hospital for treatment, I felt some little improvement, but not enough to warrant me in doing manual labor. My limbs were so weak that I experienced great difficulty in getting about. I grew rapidly worse and at times would experience tingling sensations through my limbs, the nature of which I cannot describe. The pains were terrible, and relief I sought in every conceivable shape. I tried physicians, who were eminent in their profession, without avail, and finally began to lose hope, when Dr. Mitchell, of Columbus, Ga., advised me to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

"Having taken so much medicine without receiving any benefit I was loath to take such a simple thing as pills. However, after being persuaded I resolved to give them a trial. Within a few days I began to feel a little better. As time went on I gradually improved, and to-day I am as healthy and strong as any one. I attribute my complete cure to the free use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

Mr. Levy also says that he believes if he had not used the pills he would never have been able to reach his home in Portsmouth, that they proved a blessing to him. He cheerfully recommends them to the public.

To confirm his statement beyond all doubt Mr. Levy made the following affidavit:

"I swear that the above statement of my case and the use of Dr. Williams' Pills to be true."

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

To develop muscle,

if that is what you're doing the washing for, perhaps the old way of washing with soap—rubbing the clothes up and down over a board—may be pretty good. It can't be healthy, though, to breathe that tainted, fetid steam, and you'd better take your exercise in ways that are pleasanter.

But if you're washing clothes to get them clean, and want to do this disagreeable work easily, quickly, and safely—do it with Pearline. And one of the strongest points about Pearline's washing is its saving—its economy.

VOL. IV. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JUNE 25, 1896. NO. 35.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

Wm McKinley, of Ohio, and Garrett A. Hobart, of New Jersey,

ARE THE STANDARD BEARERS.

Leading Features of the Declaration of Principles Which the Republican Party, Through Its Delegates in Convention, Submits to the People.

TEMPORARY ORGANIZATION.

The republican national convention met in St. Louis, Mo., on Tuesday. At 12:30 Senator Carter, chairman of the republican national committee, called the convention to order. By this time all the seats of the delegates and nearly half of the gallery space had been filled.

The chaplain, Rabbi Sale, opened with prayer, the whole assemblage standing as the chaplain invoked the divine benediction. At the close of the chaplain's prayer Chairman Carter said:

"This convention is assembled in compliance with the terms of the call issued by the national committee on the 14th of December, 1895, which call the secretary will now proceed to read."

WILLIAM M'KINLEY.

The secretary did so in a voice which was inaudible at 10 feet distance and amid frequent cries of "louder."

Chairman Carter said: "Gentlemen of the convention, by direction of the national committee I present for your approval your temporary chairman, Hon. Charles W. Fairbanks of Illinois."

Mr. Sutherland, on behalf of the New York delegation, moved that the selection of the committee be approved, and this was carried without a dissenting voice.

Mr. Fairbanks came forward and addressed the convention.

Temporary secretaries and other officers were named and approved.

The rules of the last convention were adopted and the usual committees appointed.

At 1:40 p. m. the convention took a recess until 10 a. m. Wednesday.

COMMITTEE ON RESOLUTIONS.

The committee on resolutions when the convention adjourned proceeded to organize by electing Mr. Foraker of Ohio as chairman. On motion the chair appointed a sub-committee consisting of Messrs Foraker of Ohio, chairman ex-officio; Lodge of Massachusetts, Merriam of Minnesota, Fessenden of Connecticut, Teller of Colorado, Warmouth of Louisiana and Patterson of Illinois. After some discussion Burleigh of Washington, and Lauterbach of New York, were added to the committee. The sub-committee consists of seven gold men, one sound money man and one silver man.

A motion to adjourn until 8 o'clock p. m. was carried, the understanding being that the sub-committee would meet at 3 and begin at that time the formulation of the platform.

PERMANENT ORGANIZATION.

The convention was called to order Wednesday morning at 10:43 and Rev. Dr. W. G. Williams offered prayer. Unanimous consent for the committee on rules to report at this time was asked and refused.

A motion that the report of the committee on permanent organization be received was agreed to and the report was read. It named Senator J. M. Thurston of Nebraska as chairman, made all the other temporary officers permanent and named a vice chairman for each state. The report was adopted. Senator Thurston was conducted to the chair and addressed the convention. At the conclusion of the chairman's address a recess was taken until 2 p. m. At the evening session the report of the committee on credentials was received and adopted. It seated the Higgins delegation from Delaware and the Texas delegates headed by Grant, and made the list of delegates and alternates prepared by the national committee the permanent roll of the convention.

The report of the committee on rules was received and adopted; and at 5:07 the convention adjourned until 10 a. m. Thursday morning.

THE PLATFORM.

At 10:30 Thursday morning the convention was called to order and Rev John Scott, colored, offered prayer.

The chairman of the committee on resolutions then reported the platform the declarations of which are, briefly stated as follows:

Allegiance to the policy of protection is renewed and emphasized.

Renewal and extension of reciprocity is demanded.

Such protection as will lead to the production on American soil of all the sugar which the American people use is favored.

Hemp, wool and the finished products of woolen mills are promised ample protection. Discriminating duties for the upbuilding of our merchant marine.

THE FINANCIAL PLANK.

The republican party is unreservedly for sound money. It caused the enactment of the law providing for the resumption of specie payments in 1879. Since then every dollar has been as good as gold. We are unalterably opposed to every measure calculated to debase our currency or impair the credit of our country. We are, therefore, opposed to the free coinage of silver, except by international agreement with the leading commercial nations of the world, which we pledge ourselves to promote, and until such agreement can be obtained the existing gold standard must be preserved. All our silver and paper currency must be maintained at parity with gold, and we favor all measures designed to maintain inviolably the obligations of the United States, and all our money, whether coin or paper, at the present standard—the standard of the most enlightened nations of the earth.

Control of the Hawaiian islands by the United States.

The building of the Nicaraguan canal, its ownership and operation by the United States.

The purchase of the Danish islands for a naval station in the West Indies.

The Monroe doctrine is reaffirmed

AS TO CUBA.

The government of Spain, having lost control of Cuba and being unable to protect the property or lives of resident American citizens or to comply with its treaty obligations, we believe that the government of the United States should actively use its influence and good offices to restore peace and give independence to the island.

We favor the continued enlargement of the navy and a complete system of harbor and coast defenses.

Prescribing an educational qualification for immigrants.

The enforcement and extension of the civil service law.

The creation of a national board of arbitration.

Mr. Teller, of Colorado, made a minority report recommending, as a substitute for the financial clause, the following: "The republican party favors the use of both gold and silver as equal standard money and pledges its power to secure the free, unrestricted and independent coinage of gold and silver at our mints at the ratio of 16 parts of silver to one of gold." It was laid on the table by ayes 818½, nays 105½. A call of states was ordered on the financial plank and resulted in its adoption by 812½ yeas to 103½ nays. On the adoption of the platform as a whole there was but one no.

THE NOMINATIONS.

The candidates named for the presidency and the vote given to each appear in the announcement of the chairman at the conclusion of the ballot, which was as follows: Wm. McKinley, 61½; Thomas B. Reed, 84½; Senator Quay, 61½; Levi P. Morton, 58; Senator Allison, 35½, and Don Cameron 1.

On motion the nomination of McKinley was made unanimous. The convention then proceeded to the nomination of a candidate for vice president. Hon. Garrett A. Hobart of New Jersey, was nominated on the first ballot, which was as follows: Hobart, 533 1-2; Evans, 208 1-2; Bulkeley, 39; Lippett, 8; Walker 24; Reed, 3; Thurston, 2; Frederick Grant, 2; Depew, 3; Morton, 1; absent, 23.

Committees were appointed to notify the nominees, resolutions of thanks to the officers of the convention were adopted and the convention, at 7:55 p. m. adjourned without a day.

HON. GARRETT A. HOBART,

The Republican Nominee for the Vice-Presidency.

Garrett A. Hobart, nominated by the republican party for the vice-presidency of the United States, was born at Long Branch, N. J., in 1844. He graduated from Rutgers College before he was 20 years of age, and studied law with Socrates Tuttle, at Paterson, being admitted to the bar in 1866.

In 1872 he was elected a member of the New Jersey house and was reelected and chosen speaker. He declined an election in 1873, and in 1877 he was elected senator from Passaic county. He was re-ected to this position and served in the office from that time until the expiration of the year 1882, being chairman pro tem. of the body for the last two years of which he was a member.

In 1884 he was nominated by the republican caucus of the legislature for United States senator, but was not elected, as the legislature was democratic, and John R. McPherson was chosen. In 1884, he became a member of the republican national committee.

In business life he has been active and energetic. He is the president of the Passaic Water company, the Acquackanonk Water company, the Paterson Railroad Company's Consolidated Lines, the Morris County railroad and the People's Gas company. He is a director in several national banks, including the First National Bank of Paterson, and the Paterson Savings institution. He is also on the directory boards of the New York, Susquehanna and Western railroad, the Lehigh and Hudson River railroad, the Barbour Flax Spinning company, the Pioneer Silk company, the Edison Electric Illuminating company, the American Cotton Oil company and some forty or more additional corporations. With many of these concerns he holds the position of legal adviser.

Mr. Hobart is a resident of Paterson where he has a beautiful home, which is the centre of the social amenities of the city.

A Chicago paper editorially announces that "fashion has decided against the bloomers."

HURRAH FOR BRYAN.

BILLY TAKES PEN IN HAND FOR CARLISLE.

And Writes the "Judas of Kentucky" a Letter Composed Principally of Interrogations of a Staggering Nature—Let Silver Men Solidify.

Hon. John G. Carlisle, Secretary of the Treasury:—Dear Sir: You have changed your position upon the paramount public issue and are now defending a financial policy which you once denounced. The advocates of free and unlimited coinage at 16 to 1 admit your right to change your opinion, but contend that you owe it to the public to answer the arguments which you yourself made in 1878, before attempting to answer the arguments of others. You then used the following language: "If the execution of this measure (the Bland act) could be entrusted to a public officer whose opinions on the subject were in accord with those of the great majority of the American people, and whose sympathies were with the struggling masses who produce the wealth and pay the taxes of the country, rather than with the idle holders of idle capital, the provision alluded to (the senate amendment) would be of little consequence because he would coin the maximum instead of the minimum allowed by the amendment."

You then accused John Sherman, who was secretary of the treasury at the time, of being in sympathy with the capitalistic classes and hostile to the struggling masses. Do you now believe that your accusation was true? If your accusation against him was then true, how did you and he succeed in getting together? Whose sympathies underwent a change, yours or his? If you did him injustice at that time, when did you make the discovery, and have you ever apologized to him publicly or privately? Do you still believe that, on the money question, the interests of the "idle holders of idle capital" are antagonistic to the interests of "struggling masses?"

In the same speech, after complaining that the secretary of the treasury would not coin a dollar beyond the minimum and that, therefore, the people would not obtain all the relief needed, you said of the Bland bill:

"But it will certainly afford some relief. It will reverse the grinding process that has been going on for the last few years. Instead of constant and relentless contraction, instead of constant appreciation of money and depreciation of property, we will have expansion to the extent of at least $2,000,000 per month and under its influence the exchangeable value of commodities, including labor, will soon begin to rise, thus inviting investments, infusing life into the dead industries of the country and quickening the pulsations of trade in all its departments."

Why have you ceased to describe the "relentless contraction" of the currency as a "grinding process?" Why do you now avoid any mention of the "constant appreciation of money and depreciation of property?" When did you discover that the laboring men would suffer under a financial policy which would raise "the exchangeable value of commodities, including labor," "thus inviting investments, infusing life into dead industries of the country and quickening the pulsations of trade in all its departments?"

In the same speech you said: "The struggle now going on cannot cease, and ought not to cease, until all the industrial interests of the country are fully and finally emancipated from the heartless domination of syndicates, stock exchanges and other great combinations of money grabbers in this country and Europe." Have the "industrial interests" been "fully and finally emancipated?" Or have you found that they were never under the "heartless domination of syndicates, etc.?"

What do you now think of the "stock exchanges and other great combinations of money grabbers in this country and in Europe?" Do they improve on intimate acquaintance? Is it not true that the capitalistic classes prevailed upon the President to veto the Bland act which you supported? You and they are now together, did they come to you, or did you go to them?

It 1878 you denounced the conspiracy to destroy silver as a "gigantic crime." Did you ever withdraw that language before entering the cabinet? You then said that "the consummation of the scheme would ultimately entail more misery upon the human race than all the wars, pestilences and famines that ever occurred in the history of the world." Do you now think the free coinage of silver could do any more damage than that? Your record challenges you to joint debate, will you accept? Are you willing to take up your speech of 1878 and answer it, one proposition at a time? If you are, you will silence those who doubt your sincerity and question your motives. If you are not willing to face your own arguments and overcome them, you cannot complain if your opponents adopt the philosophy of Shakespeare and attribute your cowardice to a guilty conscience. Yours truly,

W. J. BRYAN.

POLITICALLY DEAD.

Kentucky's Silver Victor Lays John G. Carlisle on the Shelf.

A prominent, plutocratic now-you-see-it-now-you-don't silver democratic organ of St. Louis bewails the passing of John G. Carlisle in the late silver tidal wave in Kentucky. It assigns as the sole cause of this, "the first conspicuous defeat in his remarkable career," the fact that he refused to indorse Blackburn's candidacy for the United States senate after that gentleman had been named for the place by a caucus of democrats.

This cool assumption that the late fight in Kentucky was entirely void of the elements which generally characterize a political struggle for principle, and that its result contains no other lesson except one inculcating fealty to caucus demands, is a trait peculiar to men and organs that, pretending to favor certain ideas, yet hasten to belittle their triumph by ascribing the victory to some trivial or contemptible cause. This disguised organ of the gold bugs knows full well that the victory won by Carlisle in the Kentucky convention last summer, "notwithstanding the tremendous odds against him," was not an evidence of the will of the people of Kentucky, but a plain indication of the baneful power which the hope of public patronage may be depended on to exercise when wielded by unscrupulous men.

There may be something mournful in Carlisle's eternal exit from political life, just as there were pathetic features attendant upon the acts by which Benedict Arnold and Judas Iscariot forever closed the world's doors against themselves, but the men or the organs who attempt to make him an object of pathos on the ground that he made a mistake in withholding his indorsement from some other partisan at a certain critical period, not only write themselves down as hopeless ignoramuses or wilful deceivers, but as insulters of the people as well.

Mr. Carlisle was deservedly shunted into political oblivion because, after having been trusted and honored by the people of his state as men seldom are, he permitted the dross in his nature to get the upper hand and consented to stoop from his pinnacle of fame to the dirty work of corrupting a Kentucky convention in the interest of conscienceless gold bugs.

Carlisle has had his day, and though sentiment may be permitted a tear over his taking off, yet remorseless progress, firm-featured and dry-eyed views his wreck with the same passive indifference which it accords to any other rubbish that seeks to block its inexorable way.

The Way to Unite.

The St. Louis Evening Journal estimates there are 7,100,000 voters in this country who would vote for a reform ticket, made up as follows:

Voters favoring government ownership of railroads, telegraphs, telephones, etc.	2,500,000
Single taxes	600,000
Greenbackers	1,000,000
Free silverites	3,000,000

As neither of the old parties favor these reforms, or any of them, it does seem that these forces could be combined on a ticket, even if they should not agree on a platform. It is certain none of them will ever be attained by voting the democratic or republican ticket and as the populist platform embraces the most, if not all of these reforms, the logic of the situation points to a unification of all these elements in the not distant future.—People's Messenger.

Last Thursday and Friday the rainfall in the vicinity of Marion was terrific, and the damage to the crops and to the lands will be incalculable. Friday for five hours together the rain came down in torrents, washing away bridges, overflowing all the ditches and making gullies everywhere.

Farmers Despondent.

A dispatch from Union says: Farmers are very despondent over the crop outlook. It has rained nearly every day this month. There has been very little work done. Corn has been blown down in many fields so badly that it cannot be plowed. Cotton is badly in the grass and has the rust. So a full crop of either is impossible.

Death by a Foolish Act.

The death of a negro at one of the furnaces in Bessemer Thursday is reported. He was employed in a switch crew, who had as their duty the looking after hot pots. He was standing on a side track as a locomotive came along, and in attempting to step on the foot railing misjudged the distance and fell in front of the engine, and the wheels, passing over his body, cut it in two.

Mr. Nicholl's Case Hopeless.

To Buy Alabama Lands.

A St. Louis special to the Montgomery Advertiser says: General Alger, of Michigan, and associates will go to Alabama shortly. They are about to purchase the Duncan plantation, near White Hall, Lowndes county, owned by parties in Montgomery. The timber is to be utilized for shipment to England and the lands to be cultivated by tenants. The land tract will be sold in forty-acre lots to purchasers on installments. The deal is made by Ben DeLemos, representing the emigration department of the Louisville and Nashville railroad.

Thirty-two Indictments.

The two weeks of circuit court are just over at Bangor. The grand jury was in session during the whole of the time. They investigated forty cases and returned thirty-two indictments, of which it is supposed twelve are against whitecappers who whipped an old negro a few months ago. There were five murder cases on the docket, of which four were continued. In the other the State vs. Winca Chyle, colored, the defendant had killed his wife with a razor. By arrangement with the solicitors he pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree, and was sentenced to the penitentiary for thirty-five years.

Turbulent Negro Killed.

Sunday night as an excursion from Anniston to Montgomery was returning a drunken negro named Mitch Johnson, who had been employed at the Shelby Iron works, was shot and almost instantly killed by some unknown party on the train near Verbena, Chilton county. A little negro boy had stolen Johnson's hat. He claimed that some white man was the thief and made many ugly threats, accompanied by waves of a pistol and flourishes of a knife. Finally he swore that he was going to shoot some d—d white man, and, drawing his pistol, started across into the next car, which was filled with whites, as if to put his threat into execution. Three unknown white men were standing near the door of the other car and one of them said: "Let's kill that — — —." The other two agreed and they went forward. Pretty soon a pistol shot was heard, but nobody seems to have seen the weapon or know who fired it. At the shot, however, the turbulent negro fell and died shortly afterwards. There came near being further shooting then. Pistols were flourished, ugly looking knives cleaved the air, and those who did not relish that sort of excitement wished heartily that they were anywhere else. No further bloodshed resulted, however, and the body was brought up to the Shelby furnace. The train remained there two hours waiting for a coroner to come and hold an inquest, but none came.

TERRIBLE MARINE DISASTER.

A Steamship Sinks—Of 350 Passengers Only Three Survive.

The British steamer Drummond Castle, which sailed from Table bay May 28 for London, England, with 350 passengers on board, has been sunk near Ushant, the most western of the islands off the coast of Brittany, France. The Castle Line Steamship company has issued the following bulletin, received from the light house keeper at Ushant: "The steamer Drummond Castle was wrecked at midnight on June 16. A survivor of the disaster named Merwerk is at Ushant and two others are at Ile de Molen. Six bodies have been recovered, including that of Officer Gill. About six bodies have been placed in a special house. The ship sank in ten minutes." The following dispatch was received this evening by the Castle Steamship company from the British consul at Brest: "The Drummond Castle stauck the rock west of Ile de Molene at midnight on the 16th and sank immediately. There was no time to take out the boats. Present information is that one person was saved at Ushant and two other survivors are at Ile de Molene. Their names are not given. A government tug is carrying on a search."

OUR COUNTRY'S TRADE.

In Some Lines Improvement in Prices and Demand Appears.

SHOE TRADE MOST PROSPEROUS.

No Gain in Textiles—Large Sales of Bleached Shirtings at Lowest Prices Yet Reached—Iron and Steel Average Lower, With Demand Weak.

Failures for the week have been 276 in the United States, against 229 last year, and 28 in Canada, against 31 last year. There are continued signs that a gain in business has begun. Stocks have gone higher than they were before the artificial break ten days ago, and wheat and cotton are in better demand. There is more confidence in monetary circles, and the tendency towards shrinkage in great industries seems in some measure, at least, to be checked. While the outcome of the democratic convention is uncertain and the great crops are not yet wholly beyond danger, a sure and strong improvement could hardly be expected, but the tone in business circles has grown distinctly more hopeful.

The boot and shoe industry not only holds its place as the most prosperous of the great industries, but reports some gain both in orders and in prices.

Textile manufactures do not gain. The only change in cotton is a reduction in bleached shirtings in standards to the lowest price ever reached, though the change discloses no new weakness, but a belief that the time has come when sales can be affected by reduction, and large sales are now reported. Stocks of dealers are so low that replenishment would now make a great change in the condition of the industry.

The waiting in iron and steel brings a slightly lower average of prices, the lowest since April 1, and only 1.8 per cent above the lowest of the year, though the combinations made no change in quotations. Beams are quoted delivered instead of at mill, but numerous contracts are kept back; consumption of wire nails at current prices has so declined that American wire rods are offered at competing prices in England; scarcely anything is done in iron bars because steel bars are 1.1c. The billet pool is still undersold about $1 by middlemen, while many works are putting up steel plants of their own. Plates are weak, and also sheets, and orders for rails, though numerous, are not large. Southern No. 1 is offered $1 below Pennsylvania pig, and gray forge is 10c lower at Pittsburg. Since coke was advanced to $2 per ton the ovens at work have decreased 32 per cent and the weekly output is 60,463 tons or 36 per cent.

Gen. Bradley T. Johnson Safe.

Gen. Bradley T. Johnson has returned from Matanzas. He was one of the passengers on the railroad train which the insurgents recently dynamited near Bedavides and fired upon for ten minutes. The balls shattered the windows of the cars and went through the cars themselves. The passengers hastily vacated their seats and lay on the floor until all danger was past. General Johnson's seat in the car was shot through and two bullets passed through his coat. He says he will not travel any more on the railroads on this island, as it is too dangerous. He contended, however, that the marksmanship of the insurgents is bad.

Cuban News Via Havana.

Large bands of insurgents under the leaders, Diaz and Bormudez, on the 14th instant attacked a party of volunteers near Ygguas, in Pinar del Rio province, wounding a lieutenant and killing a sergeant. A column of government troops came to the assistance of the volunteers and the fight was continued, resulting in the loss by the Spaniards of one lieutenant and six privates of the regulars and one officer and three privates of the volunteers. The rebels lost thirteen killed. A band of 700 rebels attacked Paso, in the same province, but were repulsed.

THE PLATFORM.

"The People's Party of the State of Alabama, in convention assembled, recognizing the supremacy of political liberty over all the questions that can come before the people of the State for solution at the general State election, to take place on the 3rd day of August, 1896, reaffirm our allegiance to the cardinal principles of Populism as follows:

"First—We demand a free ballot and a fair count.

"Second—We believe in the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of international agreement.

"Third—We demand that miners and others like corporate labor be paid in lawful money of the United States semi-monthly.

"Fourth—We favor a tariff for revenue, so adjusted as to protect, as far as practicable the farmers, and the labour in our shops, mines, factories and mills, and their products against foreign pauper labor."

Judge Zell Gaston's amendment to the 2d section was as follows:

"We demand the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the abolition of national banks, the expansion of the currency to meet the needs of the people and the demands of commerce, free from the control of corporate influences, and we condemn the issue of interest bearing bonds in time of peace."

Next came a lot of resolutions, which passed unanimously:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that our representatives in congress be and are hereby requested to use their best endeavors to secure appropriations by the Federal Government to open the Warrier River to navigation from the coal fields to the Gulf of Mexico."

"Resolved, That our county appointing boards are hereby requested to give to the political opposition a competent inspector at every polling place in their respective counties,

"And we further request the inspector so appointed to give a competent clerk and fixer at each polling place to said political opposition."

FIVE good Democrats are put up for slaughter on the first Monday in August.

WE understand the Republicans at their meeting at Lomax on Saturday will endorse the Democratic nominations.

THE Democrats of Chilton county held a meeting at Clanton Tuesday and nominated Prof. Hicks for representative in the general assembly, C. J. Stewart for sheriff and W. L. Sampey for treasurer.

W. F. Claughton and E. Eddings were nominated for commissioners. The meeting was good enough to endorse the candidacy of A. C. Mims for assesor, T. J. Hubbard for collector and R. C. Riggins and J. Goodman Smitherman for commissioners.

WE called in at Populist headquarters the other day wishing to refresh our memory with a glance at some of our Populist newspapers, but to our surprise found there were very few on hand. We hope our brethren of the reform press will remedy this state of affairs at once and mail a copy every week.

ORGANIZED Democrats and Republicans together make a most horrible mixture and yet there are some among them who complain of two Republicans with out and out Populist proclivities being placed on the Populist ticket.

St. Louis, Mo., June 20.

The Republican party cannot secure a single elector in any State west of the Mississippi River if the silver Republicans and Populists combine on a national ticket, which I have no doubt they do.

The silver Democrats cannot carry more than half of the Southern States without the aid of the Populists and silver Republicans.

The moment the Chicago Convention declares for silver, 16 to 1, the Democrats will lose at least 20 per cent. of their strength, which is the sound money element, who will vote the Republican ticket or remain at home on election day.

With a loss of 20 per cent. the States of Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia will give their electors to the Republicans. The same loss in Texas, Alabama, Georgia and North Carolina will give these States to the Populists.

In all the old Rebublican States west of the Mississippi River, with the exception of Iowa and California, the Democratic party is the insignificant third party, while the People's party is the strong second party. The Democrats cannot secure a single elector from any of These States without co-operating with the Populists, nor can they elect their State ane Congressional tickets.

No President who favors the free coinage of silver 16 to 1 can be elected in 1896 without the assistance and undivided support of the People's party.

H. E. TAUBENECK,
Chairman People's Party, National Committee.

All State, County and Local Committees and members of the party everywhere, are urged to organize clubs to bring as many people to the convention as possible, especially from the states within a radius of two hundred miles of St. Louis. Tickets to the convention will be furnished to the editors of all reform papers attending the convention and they are requested to do all in their power to make this convention a grand success, by assisting to bring as many Populists to St. Louis as possible. All letters which refer to the details of the convention should be addressed to Hon. J. H. McDowell, room 525, Commercial Building, St. Louis, Mo.

The Peform Press Association will hold an important meeting in St. Louis on July 20th, just prior to the National Conventio, which promises to be largely attended.

Accessions to the Populist ranks from the free silver republicans are reported daily, in almost every state in the union.

It is a notable fact that little discussion has thus far been heard throughout the country regarding candidates for Presidential and vice-Presidential nominations, by the Populist National Convention. The people are evidently trusting to the logic of events to bring forth their standard bearers.

Birmingham, Ala., June 16, '96.
To Chairman County Ex. Committee

This Committee is very anxious to secure uniformity in the county organizations of the People's Party of Alabama, and respectfully urges each County Executive Committee to add to their committees a sufficient number, so that each beat will have three members, who can also act as the Beat Committee.

We would also suggest that each county select, of its county committee, three or five of its most efficient members to constitute a central campaign committee.

This kind of organization is imperatively needed for good reasons and it is hoped that every county will adopt this suggestion at once.

Please report the names and addresses of all members of each committee to these headquarters.

Chilton County Institute met at Clanton June 19, 1896. House called to order by J. W. Moore; Institute opened with prayer by L. B. Pounds. Maj. Harris gave an eloquent address on the political evils of the day and was followed by Rev. P. M. Guthrie. A committee was appointed to draft resolutions on the death of Bro. H. W. Strock. The following resolutions were then read and adopted:

WHEREAS in the Providence of Almighty God, death has visited and removed from our midst our brother and fellow-teacher, Hollis W. Strock and whereas in his death we have lost from our community a high-toned Christian gentleman, a good citizen and an earnest faithful teacher. Therefore be it resolved 1st That we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who is too wise to err in judgment and who is incapable of doing wrong. 2d That in the death of Bro. Strock the cause of education has lost an ardent supporter and the school-room an efficient teacher. 3d That a copy of these resolutions be furnished to the bereaved family and also that a copy be furnish our county paper with the request that they be published therein. Respt. Submitted,

J. G. LOWERY, G. L. SPEER, J. W. MOORE.

WHEREAS our 3d quarterly teachers' Institute has convened at the progressive town of Clanton under the auspices of the faculty of Clanton High School, and whereas we have felt highly benefitted in matters pertaining to our profession, and whereas we have been ably assisted by the presence and lectures of our worthy State Superintendent also by Maj. J. G. Harris of Montgomery, and whereas we have been so hospitably entertained and cared for the by the good citizens of this community; therefore be it resolved 1st that we return our thanks to Prof. E. Y. McMorries and his faculty for their courtesy and consideration shown us. 2d that we thank Maj. J. G. Harris and Hon. J. O. Turner for their presence and their able lectures and words of encouragement. 3d that we thank the good citizens of Clanton for their kind hospitality while in their town. 4th that a copy of these resolutions be sent the BANNER for publication.

The weather has been delightful with showers, some farmers are getting a little tangled in grass but we are glad to say not hopelessly. Gardens are more manageable and are fine.

Mr. Reeves Dudley of Calwert Texas is visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Gorden is visiting her old home here.

The young people enjoyed Miss Bessie Savage's Leap-year party immensely.

Mrs. Claude Paisley's friends are glad to have her home again after her pleasant visit to Selma.

Miss Owens and Miss Jones of Centreville have been visiting Mrs. A. S. Foshee.

We are sorry to say that Mr. George Foshee is quite sick.

The good people here were treated to an all-day singing by Mr. Goodman Smitherman and his class. Our church was crowded by a very respectful audience; many were here from the adjacent towns.

Mrs. Burke and Mrs. Bradford with their families have move in for the summer.

Jemison, Ala., June 23, 1896.

Editor BANNER: As I together with Mr. Gentry and Mr. Tom Hand have just returned from Mobile, Ala.; I thought would give the people of Chilton a little history of what we saw on our trip. We landed at Dale, about 23 miles this side of Mobile, and were met at the depot by Jim Hand, his wife and sister. We went down and beheld the biggest mill we ever saw. Well, a sixty foot log and three feet thick is no more than a pole to our mills here. The whole thing was a show to us, so well arranged we could have stayed all the evening and looked at it. We drove to Baymi nette, there we found a nice little place. We were carried six miles out in the country, not a field to be found, not a hill to be seen, and if you had a lazy horse you would travel a half day before you could find a hickory. There is no undergrowth, but the prettiest grass from 4 to 12 inches high. It is a country of pine timber and it is the finest timber you have ever seen. For fifteen miles you can travel and nothing to be seen but pine trees, and to our surprise it is the best country for farming you ever saw. But the citizens there have not got any get up about them. Four or five acres is as much as you ever see in one place, but when once developed it will be among the garden spots of the world. Corn without any fertilizer will make from 20 to 35 bushels to the acre. Saturday morning we went over to see where Railroad Bill killed Mr. Stewart. It was in an old barn and several men had him hemmed in but they missed him and he shot Stewart and got away. At 12 o'clock we took the train for Mobile. Well, you cannot see that country for water. Water looks mighty plentiful to one that was raised in Dry Valley. We went across the bay and spent Saturday night. Fish! fish! fish! It was fish three times a day. We went down to Point Clear hotel and the place is beautiful. Every thing was grand. Sunday evening about night the boat landed us back to Mobile. We went out to Morrows park the prettiest place you ever saw, but to our surprise when we got within hearing the band was playing, and such yelling you never heard. You could see nothing that made it look like Sunday.

A little politics and I will close. It is a common saying that Goodwyn will be the next governor of Alabama. It is a common saying that we have had enough of the Democratic party and again they say that they hold the people of Alabama they could not elect Johnston. They say he is crying fair elections and they are going to let him have one fair election. Well, if he does get a fair election won't he be left out in the cold?

With many thanks to Mrs. Hand and Miss Mattie for it was through their kindness and hospitality that we are indebted largely for the pleasure of our trip I will close.

Respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor at Rives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at J. S. Johnson, Jr. Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

West Chiton Warbings.

The health of West Chilton is very good at present, but during the spring months the dysentery and flux raged to an alarming extent. West Chilton has been very wet all the year farmers have had a hard fight with the grass but crops are extra good. The oat crop was very good, but owing to so much rain it was a difficult matter to save them. On the afternoon of the 18th we had a waterspout or cloud burst; it rained for two hours without ceasing as hard as it could pour down, doing great damage to land and crops, washing up and blowing corn and cotton helter skelter in ever direction.

Miss Lula Rasbery ank Miss Anna Palmer of Maplesville attended church at Valley Creek church the second Sunday.

Mr. Lawson Walker of Dallas county will take a school at Valley Creek the first Monday in July.

Plantersville has another doctor now—Mr. Moore from Camden, Ala., a fine young man.

The milling crop will be very short this year owing to the extreme rains and the fruit crop is very near a miss in those diggins.

A Queer Deposit.

Julius Howe has a peculiar deposit on his farm in East Brookfield, Mass. It covers about an acre and lies at the bottom of a ravine in a bog. It is about one and one-half feet thick and is twelve inches below the surface. It has been analyzed and found to consist of the petrified shells or bodies of minute flies or beetles. Upon being burned it crumbles into a white powder, valuable for scouring metal.

How Insects Multiply.

The power of reproduction in insects is one of the most wonderful parts of their economy. On beheading a slug a new head, with all its complex appurtenances, will grow again; so will the claws of a lobster. The end of a worm split produces two perfect heads, and if cut into three pieces the middle produces a perfect head and tail.

One Correct Answer.

An amusing litle story was told a good many years ago in connection with Gov. Mattox, of Vermont. At one time he was chairman of the committee appointed to examine candidates for admission to the bar of Caledonia County.

He reported that one of the candidates was, in his opinion, unqualified, having answered correctly but one of the questions put to him.

"Only one? Well, what was that?" asked the presiding Judge.

"I asked him what a freehold estate is," replied Mattox.

"Important question," said the Judge. "And what was his reply?"

"He made it without the least hesitation," said the Chairman, with a twinkle in his eye. "Of course that fact is in his favor."

"Well, what did he say?" asked the Judge, with some impatience.

"He said," returned the Chairman, "that he didn't know."

Electric Lights for Tigers.

A sportsman of Calcutta has employed the electric light with success in hunting tigers by night among the jungles of the Sunderbunds. It is usual to set a bait for the tiger—for instance, the body of a cow or other animal—and watch for him from a raised platform or machan close by. Instead of the blue light hitherto burned to illuminate the tiger in order to aim well, the gentleman in question has rigged up a sixteen-candle-power electric lamp, fed by a portable battery of thirty capo-farad cells, carried in his belt. The lamp, fitted with a reflector, is suspended from a tree over the bait. A switch beside the hunter enables him to start the light when the tiger is engaged in devouring his prey.

DR. CURRY'S LETTER.

An Able Paper From the Pen of the Great Educator.

ALABAMA'S RATING VERY LOW.

Goodwyn and Johnston, as the Representatives of the Two Great Parties Are Addressed in Behalf of Education as the Best Means of Promoting the Public Welfare.

To the Hon. Joseph F. Johnston and Hon. Albert T. Goodwyn—

Dear Sirs: I address this open letter to you as the accredited represenatives of the two great parties seeking to control the government of the state. I need make no apology for my interest in Alabama or the cause which I seek to bring before you.

With the issues that divide the parties I have no concern in this letter. The subject of this communication is higher, far more important, more paramount than all the issues, federal and state, which divide parties, local or national. It involves vitally every county, neighborhood, family and citizen. It is not of temporary, but of permanent interest. It affects the people individually, socially, intellectually, and materially. All patriots should combine and labor incessantly until there be permanently established and liberally sustained the best system of free schools for the whole people, for such a system would soon become the "most effective and benignant of all the forces of civilization." Such a cause should enlist the best and most practical statesmanship, and should be lifted above and out of mere party politics, which is one of the most mischievous enemies of the public school system.

Mr. Jefferson is quoted by both parties on fiscal and currency and constitutional questions. Let us hear what he says on the education of the people. In 1786 he wrote to George Wythe: "I think by far the most important bill in our whole code is that for the diffusion of knowledge among the people. No surer foundation can be devised for a government instituted for the preservation of freedom and happiness." To Washington he wrote: "It is an axiom in my mind that our liberty can never be safe but in the hands of the people themselves, and that, too, of the people of a certain degree of instruction. This it is the business of the state to effect, and on a general plan."

The best test of a country's civilization is the condition of public instruction, said a French statesman. Tested by that standard, what is the rank of Alabama among civilized people? The total population of Alabama over 10 years of age by the last census is 1,069,545, and of these 107,355, or 19.2 per cent, of the white people are illiterate, and 331,160, or 69 per cent, of the negroes are illiterate. Of 540,216 children between 5 and 18 years of age 301,615, or 55.80 per cent are enrolled in schools, leaving only two states in this particular below her. In 1891-92 the percentage of school populption, (5 to 18 years) in attendance was 33.78 per cent with four states below. The average school term or session was seventy-three days. The diagram shows graphically the rank of each state and territory according to the rates of illiteracy in 1890:

Nebraska	3.1	N Hampshire	6.8
Wyoming	3.4	Pennsylvania	6.3
Iowa	3.6	California	7.7
Kansas	4.0	Missouri	9.1
Oregon	4.1	Rhode Island	9.8
South Dakota	4.2	Nevada	12.8
Washington	4.3	D Columbia	13.2
Idaho	5.1	Delaware	14.3
Colorado	5.2	West Virginia	14.4
Illinois	5.1	Maryland	15.7
Ohio	5.2	Texas	19.7
Connecticut	7.3	Kentucky	21.6
Oklahoma	5.4	Arizona	23.4
Maine	5.5	Arkansas	26.6
Montana	5.5	Tennessee	26.6
New York	5.5	Florida	27.9
Utah	5.6	Virginia	30.2
Michigan	5.9	N Carolina	35.7
Minnesota	6.0	Georgia	39.9
North Dakota	6.0	Mississippi	40.0
Massachusetts	6.2	Alabama	41.0
Indiana	6.3	New Mexico	44.5
New Jersey	6.5	S Carolina	45.0
Vermont	6.6	Louisiana	45.8
Wisconsin	6.7

This beggarly array does not fill up the dark outlines of the picture. These short schools are in many cases inefficient and inadequate, and the graduates of high schools, even, are three years behind the German graduates in the amount of knowledge acquired and in mental development. This inferiority is largely attributable to the shorter terms of school years, to the want of professional teachers and to the small enrollment. In Prussia, under a compulsory law, 91 per cent are instructed in the public elementary, or people's schools, or only 9 per cent of the children subject to the law were unjustly withheld from school. It is lamentable that in many cases a teacher in primary schools need not know much more than he is required to teach, and that knowledge may be confined to the text book. This deficiency in teacher training is, with political and sectarian influence, the most vulnerable point in our school system. The lack of proper supervision and inspection of schools is traceable to this same pestiferous influence, and hence the officers charged with this duty remain too short a time in their places to be qualified for their work. Rotation in office, narrow partisanship, inefficiency, are the direct fruits of making school offices not places of trust, but spoils of political victory. Our system of public instruction has acquired such dimensions, ramifies so minutely into every family and neighborhood, concerns so greatly every interest of the state, that its administration should be vested in officers of the highest intelligence and patriotism, of administrative skill and ability, of thorough acquaintance with school and educational questions. The state superintendent should remain in office long enough to be thoroughly familiar with the duties of his exalted position, and should be an expert, capable of advising executive and legislature, and school officers and teachers, and in full and intelligent sympathy with the educational problems that are so imperative and numerous. Greatly blessed is a state and are the children who have at head of school affairs such men as Mann, Sears, Dickinson, Draper, White, Ruffner and our peerless Harris.

The statistics of defective schools and consequent illiteracy teach their own sad lessons. The calamities which, in the inevitable order of events, must result from having so large a portion of the people in ignorance, need not be elaborated, but they should fill every patriot with alarm and impel to the adoption of early and adequate remedies as an antidote for what is so menacing to free institutions and to general prosperity. While ignorance so abounds, how can we hope for purity in elections and safety from demagogism, immorality, lawlessness and crime? "Whatever children we suffer to grow up amongst us we must live with as men; and our children must be their contemporaries. They are to be our co-partners in the relations of life, our equals at the polls, our rulers in legislative halls, the awarders of justice in our courts. However intolerable at home, they cannot be banished to any foreign land; however worthless, they will not be sent to die in camps or to be slain in battle; however flagitious, but few of them will be sequestered from society by imprisonment, or doomed to expiate their offenses with their lives."

Perhaps the argument most likely to reach the general public is the close relation between public free schools and the increased productive power of labor and enterprise. The political economy which busies itself about capital and labor, and revenue reform and free coinage, and ignores such a factor as mental development, is supremest folly, for to increase the intelligence of the laborer is to increase largely his producing power. Education creates new wealth, develops new and untold treasures, increases the growth of intellect, gives directive power, and the power of self-help, of will and of combining things and agencies. The secretary of the board of education of Massachusetts, in his last report, makes some valuable statements and suggestions. No other state is giving as much education, and yet each inhabitant is receiving on an average nearly seven years of 200 days each, while the average given each citizen in the whole nation is only four and three-tenths of such years. While the citizens of Massachusetts get nearly twice the average amount of education, her wealth-producing power, as compared with other states, stands almost in the same ratio. This increased wealth-producing power means that the 2,500,000 people produce $250,000,000 more than they would produce if they were only average earners. And this is twenty-five times the annual expenditure for schools. The capacity to read and write tends to the creation and distribution of wealth and adds fully 25 per cent to the wages of the working classes. It renders an additional service in stimulating material wants and making them more numerous, complex and refined. We hear on every hand louder calls for skilled labor and high directive ability. It is a lack of common business sagacity to flinch from the cost of such a wealth-producing agency. This question is not how can we afford to do it, but can we afford not to do it.

All experience shows only one means of securing universal education. Private and parish schools educate only about 12 per cent of the children, and if they could educate all there would remain insuperable objections to them in the way of management, classification, efficiency and support. Our institutions and rights demand free schools for all the people, and they must be established and controlled by the state, and for their support combined municipal, county and state revenues are needed. Eighty-seven per cent of the children of the union are now in public schools. In 1890 the entire costs for school purposes were estimated at $143,110,218, toward the payment of which the local school tax contributed $97,000,000. While furnishing education is a legitimate tax on property, whether the taxpayer takes advantage of the public schools or not, the history of education in the United States shows that with state revenues should be combined local taxation. This insures immediate interest in the schools, better supervision, greater rivalry, and on the whole better results.

The schools in Alabama are handicapped by a clause in the constitution limiting local taxation to an extremely low figure. If, by general agreement among the friends of education, the removal of this restriction could be separated from party politics and local taxation could be brought to the support of schools, there would soon be an era of educational and material prosperity. What a commentary it would be on the capacity of our people for self-government, on their catholic patriotism, on the subordination of private wishes to the public good, if, under the advice and leadership of those selected as fittest persons for the executive chair, the whole subject of free and universal education should be elevated to the plane of organic law, and be as sacred and irremovable as any of the fundamental muniments of liberty.

Yours truly, J. L. M. Curry.

IMPORTANT BATTLE IN CUBA.

In Which the Spaniards, as Usual, Claim a Victory.

The Spanish forces under General Castellanos, comprising 2,114 men, 342 horses and five field guns, left Puerto Principe to attack the position of Gomez at Najasa. On the 9th, after exchanging shots with skirmishers sent forward by the Cuban commander, they went into camp at a cattle ranch, intending to attack the Cuban forces next day. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon General Castellanos was surprised by furious and persistent charges of Cuban cavalry. The fighting continued until the morning of the 11th when the arrival of a Spanish reinforcement of 2,500 men led by General Godoye enabled Castellanos to withdraw and march back to Puerto Principe. Accounts of the affair from Spanish and Cuban sources are conflicting. The Spanish report puts their loss in the thirty-six hours fighting at four killed and thirty-one wounded, and say the rebels had already inaugurated a retreat on Godoye's approach

Reports from Cuban sources say 350 wounded Spaniards were carried back to Puerto Principe, and one report puts their loss at 1,000, killed, wounded and missing. Certain it is that it was so great that, although so strongly reinforced, the Spanish general deemed it prudent to abandon his plan of attacking Gomez in his encampment at Najasa. The Cuban forces engaged numbered less than 3,000, and they admit a loss of eleven killed and forty-nine wounded.

Uncle Sam's Treasury.

The treasury gold reserve at the close of business Wednesday stood at $193,200,194. The day's withdrawals were $53,900. All the gold due under the last bond issue has been paid into the treasury. It amounted to $111,355,612, of which $100,000,000 was principal, $11,166,246 premium and $189,365 interest. Of the total sum $65,642,667 was paid into the sub-treasury at New York, $14,078,791 at other sub-treasuries, and $31,634,152 in national bank depositories. Since January 6, the date when bids for the last bond issue were invited, there has been withdrawn from the treasury $77,333,339 in gold, as follows: For export, $34,643,798; not for export, $40,089,282; jewelers' bars, $2,607,239.

Lifted His Gun by the Muzzle.

Robert Long was seriously injured at Lake Wildwood, near Cleveland, Tenn., Thursday. In company with a party of friends Long was out in a boat fishing, and upon effecting a landing endeavored to lift out a loaded gun, muzzle foremost. The hammer struck a thwart and the gun exploded, a portion of the charge striking Long in the face and injuring him very badly. He was thought to be fatally hurt, but will recover.

Great Men Fun-Makers.

At the recent centennial celebration of the Hasty Pudding Club at Harvard, Lloyd McK. Garrison read an historical sketch which was received with great applause, especially his allusions to past members of the Hasty Pudding Club who are now before the public eye. "We have laughed," says Mr. Garrison, "at the stage pranks and drollery of Senator Lodge, Minister Lincoln, Prof. Lane, James C. Carter, and other great personages. We have seen the famous surgeon, Dr. McBurney, black with cork, dance a plantation clog, and Aqueduct Commissioner George Walton Green in tinsel and blue gauze. Thou may'st have been thrice Governor, William Russell, but once thou wast a breech-clouted peasant in the chorus."

British Development of India.

India is a wonderful example of the energy and enterprise of the British race, says Pearson's Weekly, an English publication. At the beginning of the last century, before the British became the ruling power, the country did not produce $5,000,000 a year of staples for exportation. During the first three-quarters of a century of our rule exports slowly rose to about $50,000,000 in 1834. Since that date the old inland duties and other restrictions on Indian trade have been abolished. Exports have multiplied six-fold. In 1880 India sold to foreign nations $830,000,000 worth of strictly Indian produce, which the Indian husbandman had raised, and for which he was paid, and in that year the total trade of India, including exports and imports, exceeded $610,000,000.

AYER'S ARGUMENT.

If there is any reason why you should use any sarsaparilla, there is every reason why you should use Ayer's. When you take sarsaparilla you take it to cure disease; you want to be cured as quickly as possible and as cheaply as possible. That is why you should use Ayer's: it cures quickly and cheaply—and it cures to stay. Many people write us: "I would sooner have one bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla than three of any other kind." A druggist writes that "one bottle of Ayer's will give more benefit than six of any other kind." If one bottle of Ayer's will do the work of three it must have the strength of three at the cost of one. There's the point in a nutshell. It pays every way to use

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

HON. FRANK BURKITT OPENS CAMPAIGN IN ARKANSAS.

Finance, Transportation and Land the Three Great Distinctive Principles of the People's Party—History of Political Parties.

The following are extracts taken from the speech of Hon. Frank Burkitt, ex-candidate of the people's party for governor of Mississippi in 1895. The speech was delivered at Hardy, Ark., May 30, 1896.

Fellow Citizens: When four thousand men own more than half the property of a nation of seventy millions, when two men are the proprietors of 14,000,000 acres of land, when corporations and foreign syndicates have been given or permitted to grab land enough in this country if in a body to make four such states as Arkansas, when fifty-two per cent of our entire population are tenants; when of 2,277 heads of families in ward 1 in the city of New York only 19 own their homes unencumbered; when heartless millionaires like Pullman exercise the power to reduce arbitrarily the wages of their employes three times in one year, at the same time declaring the usual dividends; when federal judges at the bidding of corporations enjoin men from doing what they never contemplated, and imprison them for failure or refusal to commit the crime charged; when the same tools of plutocracy attempt to compel workingmen to submit to the exaction of railway magnates or be punished for refusing to work; when the President of the United States will at the behest of soulless corporations invade a sovereign state over the protest of a governor and in defiance of the constitution and law of the land; when a servile congress farms out the right to issue, expand and contract the currency of a great nation at will and pleasure of 3,756 national bankers; when an incompetent and corrupt secretary of the treasury dickers in secret with the old clients and partners of the president in the sale of bonds at a price that enables the purchasers to reap a profit of millions of dollars; when a supreme court solemnly declares that the rich and powerful may escape taxation, while the products of farm, mine and factory do not yield a sufficient profit to the producers to decently feed, clothe and educate their children; when soup houses are regarded as necessary institutions in our cities, when the highways of this, the greatest nation on earth, are thronged by 2,000,000 human beings, who, like the Son of Man, are houseless and homeless, with not where to lay their heads, I assume that you will agree with me that there is something wrong in this country.

To right the wrongs from which people suffer, after earnest, prayerful efforts to induce the democratic and republican party leaders to cease to foster monopoly and adopt as a policy "the greatest good to the greatest number," many good and true men, more patriotic than partisan, feeling that nothing would be done by either of the old parties to restore to the country much needed prosperity, resolved upon the organization of a new party which would embody in its declaration of principles the republicanism of Jefferson and Lincoln and the democracy of Jackson and Calhoun, and they christened it with the identical name which Jackson's party assumed in 1828—The People's Party.

We hear democratic speakers often boast that Thomas Jefferson was the founder of the democratic party. Permit me to say for the benefit of the young men of the country, that Thomas Jefferson died years before there ever was a party organized in America bearing the name of democrat. It is true that Jefferson laid down certain great and fundamental principles of government, which were afterwards adopted by the democratic party under the leadership of Andrew Jackson, but in truth and fact Jefferson's party was called the republican party, and it is a fact of history that Abraham Lincoln and his followers claimed—and with more reason and greater consistency than the modern democracy—to be the disciples of Jefferson. A resume of political parties in the earlier days of the republic discloses the interesting fact that the people's party of today was organized under precisely the same conditions, and for precisely the same purposes, that called the democratic party into existence, as I have already stated, years after the demise of the author of the first declaration of American independence. So if principles rather than name can properly fix political status, the middle-of-the-road populist is the truest democrat in the land, if Jefferson and Jackson were democrats, and judged by the same standard the honest populist is the purest republican in America today, if Lincoln was a republican.

In the earliest days of the republic there were Shylocks as now, and the grasping greed of the money devil was almost as arrogant and aggressive under the administration of Washington as of Grover Cleveland. Always taking advantage of the misfortune of mankind, the money leeches seek to fasten themselves upon a people impoverished by war, and hence the patriot fathers of the revolution became the victims of these scavengers of civilization, and suffered in part the same outrages which we now endure.

In 1796 congress under the influence of Alexander Hamilton passed the United States bank bill, which conferred upon the incorporators similar powers and privileges as those now enjoyed by the national bankers. The charter of the bank was for twenty years, just as the present national banks, but there was no clause in the bill as in the national bank charters, reserving to congress the power to change, alter, amend or repeal the charter of the U. S. bank at will and pleasure. In that day and time the courts held more tenaciously to the doctrine of "vested rights" than now, and statesmen as well as the people recognized the fact that the bank was a fixture until 1816. Jefferson was an uncompromising enemy to the bank and he declared "banks of issue are more dangerous to the liberties of the people than standing armies." He proclaimed the doctrine that the right to issue money must be taken from the bank and restored to the government (the people) to whom it belonged, and he proposed that when the government should stand in need of money it should issue its own bills of credit (treasury notes, greenbacks), bottomed on taxes. Although Mr. Jefferson recognized the fact that the act of 1796 conferred upon the U. S. bank the power to control the currency of the country until 1816, he knew it was necessary to educate the people to secure its overthrow and to this task he set himself, and in the year 1800 he organized his party, which he called the republican party. In that day nominating conventions were not the fashion. A man declared himself a candidate for the presidency as one of "the boys" would do now, who wished to be constable of his beat, and he wrote a letter to some friend avowing his principles, which served the purpose of the latter day convention platform. Mr. Jefferson's letter set forth conspicuously two planks: The first was opposition to the U. S. bank—uncompromising hostility to the idea of congress farming out the right to individuals or soulless corporations to control the currency of the country, and the second was opposition to federal interference in the local affairs of the states. On his declaration of principles Jefferson was elected president in 1800 and again in 1804 as a republican. Madison was elected his successor in 1808 on the same platform and again in 1812. But the war of 1812 having afflicted the country and produced much financial embarrassment, the money sharks took advantage of the situation to importune congress to re-charter the bank, which was done in 1816 and Madison in defiance of his pledges, approved the bill, which act rendered him almost as despicable in the eyes of the people as the present occupant of the White House.

Realizing that the country had been duped by the money-changers and betrayed by their representatives, the people were disgusted and ceased to agitate the financial question for a time. Monroe was elected twice, without opposition, but in the campaign of 1824 the bank question again became a leading issue. Four candidates for president entered the race. John Quincy Adams, the federalist and a U. S. bank advocate was one, Henry Clay, who represented that wing of the old party of Jefferson that had made friends with the bank was another, and Andrew Jackson, representing Jefferson's ideas on the question of banks of issue and state rights was another. Wm. H. Crawford, of Georgia, was I believe, the fourth candidate.

It will be observed that the republican or Jeffersonian party had divided on the money question just as the democratic party is now divided on the same question. There was no election by the people, and the choice of a president was relegated to the lower house of congress. In the contest the friends of Adams and Clay, under the influence of the bank combined, and Jackson, the real representative of the Jeffersonian policy was defeated. Adams, the federalist, became president, and Clay, whose position was analogous to the gold-bug democrat of the present day, was made secretary of state, and thus it was the "bargain intrigue and corruption" charge, which prevented "Harry of the West" from ever being president, originated.

Mark you, fellow citizens, no democratic party had up to that time sprung into existence. The party of Jefferson (who died July 4, 1826) was still called the republican party.

Adams served his term of office and old Nick Biddle, president of the bank, was the power behind the throne. Senators and congressmen were seduced and corrupted by the liberality of the bank in lending money and other methods so well known among financiers. An era of corruption never surpassed, perhaps, until the infamous national banking system under which we suffer, held high carnival, dictated the policy of the government and robbed the people unmercifully. But the end came, for in 1828 Jackson again took the field as a candidate for president, and allow me to say that he did not call himself a democrat nor his party the democratic party. He was elected as "The People's" candidate on a platform of principles practically the same as those promulgated at Omaha in the second declaration of independence, July 4, 1892. I hold in my hand a photographic copy of the ticket voted in Ohio in 1828. It is headed people's (not democratic) ticket. It has for its motto, "Gratitude, glory, patriotism," and its candidates, for president, Andrew Jackson; for vice president, John C. Calhoun. And I affirm, fellow citizens, here and now, that up to that time there was no organized party in this country known as the democratic party. In this campaign of 1828 the name of Locofoco democrats was given in derision to Jackson's followers, just as the name populist or populite has been given to the members of the people's party by our enemies. Afterwards the name democrat was accepted and adopted by the Jackson party, just as we have accepted the name populist, but "Old Hickory" was first elected as a people's party man under precisely the same conditions and for precisely the same purposes that inspired honest, patriotic members of both the old parties to assemble at Omaha, Feb., on independence day, 1892.

Our opponents of both the old parties, while virtually admitting the identity of our position with that of Jefferson and Jackson on the financial question, usually ignore the land plank and pour out their vials of wrath upon government ownership of the means of transportation and communication. That they have little or nothing to say in criticism of the populist on the land question I attribute in part to the fact that the doctrine we preach was first proclaimed by Jefferson and is therefore older than the democratic party, and because of its popularity with the masses, was championed by democratic press and orators whenever there was a chance to secure political advantage in their contention with the republican party from '68 to '84, and in part to the fear that the party's record on this subject vital to the homeless majority of our people, would not bear close inspection.

Answering the assertion, ridicule and abuse of the tools of plutocracy who denounce the transportation plank of our platform, populists maintain that the principle is as old as the government itself.

It may be found in the declaration of the founders of the republic, that public highways are and shall be the property of the people. Navigable streams could not be owned in whole or in part by individuals, corporations, or by states even, but should forever remain the property of the general government.

Railroads are nothing more nor less than public highways, and to permit private ownership is a dangerous innovation on the doctrine so clearly, as I conceive, laid down in the case of dirt roads and navigable streams.

Benjamin H. Harrison was offered $10,000 by a certain New York paper to write for it a gossipy letter of not less than 100 words each day from the reporters' gallery in the republican national convention. There are thousands of honest, sober, industrious laboring men engaged in producing wealth in this country who would gladly bind themselves to their masters during the remainder of their natural lives if their masters would agree to secure them in the possession of a job which would average them $300 per year.

Put these two facts together and then consider some other things in connection with them.

Ten thousand dollars at the above rate would hire a man to grub, plow, hustle lumber, shovel coal, or do any other "unskilled" labor—which, by the way, is always cheaper than "skilled" labor, though it is the humble mudsill upon which the latter depends for its support—thirty-three years and four months, at the end of which time the unskilled laborer, if he had not died sooner, would be ready to fill a pauper's grave.

Ten thousand dollars will buy, and pay cash for, one of the finest 160-acre farms in the grandest agricultural state in the Union; it will buy and pay cash for two stores better than the average stores of the country; it will buy, and pay cash for, ten of the average blacksmith, wagonmaker or carpenter shops of the country. At 6 per cent interest $10,000 will produce an annual income, without the slightest exertion on the part of its owner, as great as two of our unskilled laboring men can earn in the production of wealth by a hard year's work and be just as fresh at the opening of its second year as it was at the beginning of its first.

But what is perhaps more suggestive, $10,000 would have hired one hundred better, brighter and brainier men than Ben Harrison, either of whom would have sent better "copy" to the paper employing him than Harrison could.

Then who or what is Benjamin Harrison, that he should be thus favored above other men?

Physically he is a little, short, pudgy fellow, a good deal after the style of "Punch" in Punch and Judy, gray-bearded and gray haired and over 60 years old.

Mentally he is cunning enough to "keep his plate right side up when it rains porridge" and to espouse the best paying side of any question in which he may be interested. It goes without the saying, since he has never produced a dollar's worth of wealth in his life and is a corporation lawyer ever ready to defend corporate interests, right or wrong, that he is a plutocrat of the plutocrats; that he is not a multi-millionaire comes, not because he is troubled with the least qualms of conscience about the morality of the business of appropriating to his own use the wealth created by the working bees in the industrial hive, but solely because his cunning falls short of the degree necessary to make the opportunity of its acquirement a perfectly safe one.

Strange as it may seem in a country where the majority is said to rule and where the humble producers outnumber the leeches in the proportion of a hundred to one, this cold-blooded parasite, who glories in the ability of capital to crush the life out of labor organizations, has been general in the army, governor, United States senator, and president of the United States by virtue of votes cast by men whom and whose calling he holds in utter contempt, and it is because of the hope that the notoriety he has thus gained may be made to redound to its private gain that a plutocratic paper made him the offer noted above.

Such men and such papers are fit representatives of a Christian (?) civilization which differs from the barbarism of the dark ages chiefly in the fact that it has transferred the right of man to possess himself of his neighbors' property from his physical to his mental ability to do so. However, the day is not far distant when theft, whether accomplished at the end of a gun-barrel or the end of a contract, will be recognized for what it really is. Then the history of such men as Harrison and such offers as the above will be objects of a great curiosity and wonderment as the strangest relics of an earlier barbarism now is.

A Mistake.

"Perhaps the populists would accomplish more if they would drop the gold bug for the present and devote their energies to the chinch bug."—New York Press.

There you are all wrong. The chinch bug works only in patches; and it does not touch the potatoes, or the cattle, or the pigs, or the chickens, or the horses; but the gold bug devours them all. And then everybody says, "Good!" if we kill the chinch bugs, but there would be a terrible uproar if we killed the gold bugs. And certain kinds of weather produce spores that fasten on the chinch bugs and destroy them by the millions; but there is nothing that seems to have any effect on the gold bugs—they are as salubrious as bed bugs and as procreative. If we put corrosive sublimate on a gold bug, the daily papers of the whole country would shriek as if we had run a lancet into their vital parts; and the army and navy and the courts would all be put into operation to defend him.

Chinch bugs, indeed! Why, they are quiet, pleasant and harmless little chaps compared with the gold bugs. If we could get clear of the gold bugs the chinch bugs would not bother us.—Representative.

Fallen! Fallen!

Populists are sometimes twitted with being a set of financial ne'er do wells, who, having miserably failed to get rich themselves, naturally grumble at the fellows who have been luckier.

Now the shoe is on the other foot. The Republican party, that tremendous machine controlled by the Money Power, will soon put a candidate in the field, Maj. McKinley, who failed in business a year or two ago, and came out of the catastrophe owing $100,000 more than he had cash to meet.

A number of wealthy manufacturers kindly made up a pony purse to put the major out of debt. These men, together with others of the same class, have been furnishing funds to help Mr. McKinley secure the nomination for the presidency—as Senator Wm. Chandler boldly charged some time ago.

Soon we shall have the humiliating spectacle of a bankrupt candidate who is to cure hard times, and whose nomination has practically been bought by a set of men who expect to be greatly benefited by the particular kind of legislation of which said candidate is the avowed champion.

To such a depth of degradation has the party of Lincoln fallen!—Nevada Director.

EVENTS IN ALABAMA

Carefully Collated and Condensed for Our Readers.

DROWNED IN THE ALABAMA RIVER

Work to Begin on Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo—Collision on the L. & N.—A Life Crushed Out—Wreck on the Southern. Smallpox at Stevenson.

Steam Boiler Explodes.

The locomotive boiler of the log train at Mr. Ehrman's saw mill, near Clanton, exploded last Saturday evening, killing McCall, the engineer. The boiler had recently been overhauled and repaired. The explosion is said to have resulted from the engineer's allowing the water to run too low.

State Capital Affairs.

The governor has appointed A. B. Jones Notary Public and Ex-Officio Justice of the Peace, beat 13, Mobile county. The following tax collectors have made final settlement with the state; H. C. McCollum, Fayette county; A. J. Wood, Washington county; B. F. Chastain, Elmore county; R. J. Jones, Bibb county; M. V. Gibson, Pike county.

A Life Crushed Out.

Tom Reynolds, an intelligent young white man in the employ of the Smith-Dimmick Lumber company, was killed near Brewton, Ala., Thursday while endeavoring to break a jam of logs. He was standing on a large log when it turned with him, throwing him among the jammed timbers, which crushed his life out.

Smallpox at Stevenson.

Dr. Rorex, the county health officer of Jackson county, says there are six cases of smallpox at Stevenson, three of which are new cases developed within the last few days. He also reports another very suspicious case which he thinks will prove to be smallpox. Dr. Rorex has been authorized by Probate Judge Bridges to establish quarantine regulations at Stevenson and see that they are enforced.

Prattville—Progress—Crops.

The population of Prattville is at least 500 more than it was this time one year ago. The demand for property is increasing every week. Prattville will be in the near future one of the best manufacturing towns in the state.

The farmers of the surrounding country report splendid crop prospects so far. In fact, they say it has never been better. But as it is now raining a great deal it is not easy to say what the prospects will be in ten days.

Girl's Industrial School.

At last work will begin on the industrial school. The executive committee of the board of trustees has advertised for architects to meet them in Birmingham on July 8 to submit plans for the buildings, which they propose to erect at once. A full meeting of the board was asked for by the executive committee, but after consultation with the governor and a majority of the board it was decided such a meeting was not necessary, as they were fully authorized to go ahead with the work.

Collision on the L. & N.

Shortly before midnight Saturday night freight trains Nos. 71 and 72 on the Louisville and Nashville road, collided near Newcastle, eight miles north of Birmingham. Just before the trains met both engineers and firemen jumped and escaped with their lives.

John Marshall, of Birmingham, who was stealing a ride on the brake rods, was crushed to death. Both engines and six cars were demolished, causing a loss of $30,000. It is said that the collision was caused by an operator failing to deliver orders.

Negro Excursionist Killed.

An unknown negro was killed on an excursion train on the Kansas City, Memphis & Birmingham railroad Thursday, one and a half miles east of Carbon Hill, and about fifty-eight miles west of Birmingham. The train was passing through a bridge, when the negro, who was standing on the platform, put his head so far out that it was struck and his skull broken. Who the negro was cannot be learned, nor was there any one on the train who knew him. The remains were left at Carbon Hill and buried by the company.

Drowned in the Alabama River.

About 11 o'clock Monday morning Ernest Westcott, aged about 15 years, the youngest brother of Mr. Charles R. Westcott, was drowned in the Alabama river just above the ferry at Montgomery. The unfortunate young man was out in a boat with eight or ten companions, and the boat was turned over. All the occupants of the boat could swim except him, and they managed to escape. One of the boys in the boat made a noble, but unsuccessful, effort to save his companion. Up to a late hour the body had not been recovered.

Attempted Assassination.

George Washington, a negro, worked on the farm of James Malone, a prominent citizen of Duck Springs. A few days ago he fell out with a white man on the place and asked Mr. Malone to discharge the white man or he would quit. This Mr. Malone refused to do, and the negro became very angry. Tuesday night while the Malone family was at supper Washington came up, and resting his shotgun on the fence, fired at Mr. Malone. Some of the shot entered the palm of Mr. Malone's left hand and the arm of a Mr. Blanchard. Washington escaped.

Thrown From a Bicycle.

Mr. John Ellis, who with his brother, conducts the Birmingham and state agency for the Tennent-Stribbling Shoe Company, with an office in the Hood building, met with a serious accident at a late hour Sunday night out on the Fifth avenue road, Birmingham, on his wheel. He was near Thirty-eighth street and ran over a piece of banana peeling. His wheel ran from under him and he fell on the side on his head, striking against some hard substances. He was picked up by some wheelmen who happened to be passing and Warner-Smiley's ambulance was called. The injured man was carried to the Davis' Infirmary on the Southside, where his injuries were attended to. There is a severe cut on the side of his head and one of his ears is badly bruised.

The Adkinsons Bound Over.

The preliminary trial of T. D. Adkinson and his son, Lucien, charged with the murder of George Hunter, was set down for a hearing at Greenville Wednesday before Hon. Zell Gaston, sitting as committing magistrate. Considerable interest was aroused in the case, a large number of witnesses had been summoned and there was a large crowd present to witness the trial. Some surprise was, therefore, manifested when the defendants waived their preliminary examination and were bound over to await the action of the grand jury. This disposes of the case until the fall term of the circuit court.

Big Time in Athens.

Three lodges of Masons celebrated Wednesday in Athens. Besides, the corner stone of the new chapel was laid. A splendid barbecue and picnic was held on the college ground. A thousand people were present and the day was a red letter one in Athens. Dr. Anson West, of Decatur, made a great speech on the occasion. Some think it the finest speech of the kind ever delivered in the county. Doctor Parker, president of the college, took a collection and secured nearly $2,000 for the college improvement.

Proposed Warrior River Canal.

The Birmingham News prints the following:

That the government has not forgotten about the preliminary survey of the proposed Warrior river canal is evidenced in the following letter:

United States Engineer Office,
Cor. St. Joseph and St. Francis Sts.,
Mobile, Ala., June 19, 1896.

To the Honorable Mayor, Birmingham, Ala.:

Sir—I would respectfully request to be furnished with the height above sea level of the cities of Birmingham and Bessemer, Ala.

This information is desired in connection with preliminary examination authorized by the honorable secretary of war to be made between the Warrior river and Five-mile creek.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
William T. Rossell,
Major of Engineers.

The desired information was given.

Wreck on the Southern.

There was a very dangerous wreck on the Southern railroad near Heflin, twenty miles east of Anniston, Sunday morning. Lee Hopkins, a negro brakeman, and a tramp, whose name is unknown, were killed and three other unknown tramps dangerously injured. A freight car which was standing on a siding at the top of a hill got loose in some way and dashed out on the main line at the rate of fifty miles an hour. A freight train was coming west just beyond the siding and a terrible collision resulted. The engineer and fireman, by some miracle, escaped unhurt, and those who were killed and injured were on the fifth car. The road was blocked for several hours and passenger trains yesterday morning between this city and Atlanta had to go and come by Rome.

Death by Dynamite.

At Branco, Ga., Tuesday evening, while some men at work on the Chattanooga Southern railroad were blasting rock, Frank McWhorter was fatally injured by the premature explosion of a stick of dynamite. He was thrown some distance into the air and his body horribly mangled, his left hand and left leg being torn entirely off. Death soon came to his relief.

OUR COUNTRY'S COMMERCE.

The Waiting Condition Still Prevails in Most Lines.

TEXTILE MANUFACTURIES CLOSE.

Woolen Mills Act Without Concert But Fourteen Have Closed—Combinations Control the Iron Market And Lower Prices Are Expected to Follow.

The monetary outlook is not yet clear to some. The strength shown in recent conventions by advocates of silver coinage, and the expectation that all the elements favoring that policy may yet be concentrated, incline them to a waiting attitude. Their uncertainty retards improvement, notwithstanding the more widely prevalent feeling that the monetary action of the St. Louis convention will be sustained by the people. But many mills have waited as long as they can with safety, and signatures have been given by enough cotton mills of Fall River to insure a temporary stoppage, it is stated, the nature of which is now under discussion in conference with the Providence manufacturers. Meanwhile the Pacific of Lawrence and the Naumkeag of Salem have closed for a time, and practically all the southern cotton mills will be represented at a meeting on Monday with the same object. Woolen mills are acting without concert, but fourteen are mentioned in dispatches as having closed this week. There is no similar movement in other industries, though the period of summer closing is at hand in many of them, and important controversies as to wages of iron puddlers and other hands make it likely that the annual stoppage in that industry may last longer than usual.

The great combination which, the Iron Age wisely reasons, tends to cause disastrously low prices hereafter still controls the markets both for material and finished products of iron and steel, though it is reported that lower prices will soon be made for coke, owing to better utilization of by-products, and for nails owing to the heavy decrease in consumption. The billet pool reports no large sale, but middlemen or outsiders continue to undersell it. The new demand for finished products is very light, and while quotations average a shade lower, most of them are cut to secure business. Bessemer pig is a shade lower at $12.25 at Pittsburg. The textile manufacturers, as has been said, are generally devising curtailment of production, and the only change in prices is downward.

EXPLOSION OF BLASTING POWDER

Man and Boy Killed—Woman Perhaps Fatally Hurt.

A terrific explosion of blasting powder occurred at Petros, Tenn., a railway station for the state convict mines at Brushy mountain Thursday afternoon. It demolished the general store and hotel kept by Sam Joyner.

Several kegs of powder which were stored in the building were evidently ignited by Willie Joyner, a little son of the proprietor, who was burned to death.

A stranger named Maiden was killed and a number of persons in the building seriously injured.

Mrs. Eliza Schubert, manager of the hotel, was perhaps fatally hurt.

Disastrous Cloudburst.

A disastrous cloudburst passed over the vicinity of Marietta, O., Wednesday afternoon, doing untold damage. Railroad traffic in the Muskingum valley is entirely suspended by washouts. The Ohio River road cannot be operated east of Parkersburg. The main oil line of the Buckeye Pipe Line company had a section washed away back of St. Mary's on Moss Run, about eight miles from Marietta. The Muskingum river is out of its banks and full of debris. A frame building which had been a grocery store, surrounded by boxes of merchandise, floated away. No lives are reported lost, though the exact extent of the damage cannot yet be told.

THE PLATFORM.

"The People's Party of the State of Alabama, in convention assembled, recognizing the supremacy of political liberty over all the questions that can come before the people of the State for solution at the general State election, to take place on the 3rd day of August, 1896, reaffirm our allegiance to the cardinal principles of Populism as follows:

"First—We demand a free ballot and a fair count.

"Second—We believe in the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of international agreement.

"Third—We demand that miners and others like corporate labor be paid in lawful money of the United States semi-monthly.

"Fourth—We favor a tariff for revenue, so adjusted as to protect, as far as practicable the farmers, and the labour in our shops, mines, factories and mills, and their products against foreign pauper labor.'t

Judge Zell Gaston's amendmen' to the 2d section was as follows:

"We demand the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the abolition of national banks, the expansion of the currency to meet the needs of the people and the demands of commerce, free from the control of corporate influences, and we condemn the issue of interest bearing bonds in time of peace;"

Next came a lot of resolutions, which passed unanimously:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that our representatives in congress be and are hereby requested to use their best endeavors to secure appropriations by the Federal Government to open the Warrier River to navigation from the coal fields to the Gulf of Mexico.".

"Resolved, That our county appointing boards are hereby requested to give to the political opposition a competent inspector at every polling place in their respective counties,

"And we further request the inspector so appointed to give a competent clerk and fixer at each polling place to said political opposition."

POPULISTS of the Fifth congressional district of Illinois have instructed their delegates to place Eugene V. Debs in nomination for president and to "vote for him first last and all the time." C. O. Sherman, organizer of the American railway union, was nominated for congress by acclamation.

REPUBLICANS (not of Chilton county, because practically there are none) held a mass meeting at Lomax last Saturday. Col. Knox was chairman. As a representative meeting it amounted to nothing—absolutely nothing. Such as it was, however, knowing the futility of such a proceeding, it put out no ticket, but contented itself with endorsing the nominees of the Democratic party. We would hardly take the trouble to mention the proceedings were it not for the mendacious report sent to the Montgomery Advertiser, and for the evidence it presents of the strenuous efforts being made by the Democrats to create confusion in the county. Just for a moment look at the condition of politics in Chilton. The Populites have nominated a ticket which every man in the county knows will be elected in August. The Democrats, recognizing their inability to accomplish anything, held a meeting last Tuesday and nominated a partial ticket and at the same time endorsed the remainder of the Populist ticket. Now the Republicans hold a meeting and simply endorse the Democratic nominees, half of whom are Populites. The result is the few unfortunate Republican negroes are expected to cast their votes for some Populites and some Democrats in the vain hope that some Populite candidate will get left. What any Democrat or any Republican hopes to gain from these proceedings is a mystery.

The resolutions introduced were the veriest nonsense, and are not worth discussing.

CONGRESSMAN Howard and Hon. T. H. Powell, of Cullman, addressed a large audience in the court house at Clanton last Friday. Considering how busy all our people are at this season so large an attendance was extremely gratifying to the distinguished orators. Mr. Howard was in his happiest vein and discussed the political situation so clearly and fairly that even the most prejudiced Democrat could find nothing to cavil at. Some of them (organized Democrats, aided by our one Republican) made several abortive attempts to confuse Mr. Howard by asking questions, but in each and every case were so completely answered by that gentleman they immediately collapsed. No matter what question was put to him he at once demonstrated that their inferences were erroneous and their deductions incorrect. One and all—Populite and Democrat—acknowledged it was one of the finest speeches ever made in this section, and we are satisfied from what we have since learned was undoubtedly a vote maker for Goodwyn and the Populite ticket. We hope to see Mr. Howard here again.

MISSISSIPPI passed a law prohibiting foreign printers from making contracts for public printing with the county officers in that State. Messrs. Barnard & Co., of St. Louis, Mo., one of the foreign printing firms which has grown rich at the expense of the Southern people, have sought by means of injunctions through several courts to set the law aside, but without avail. We hope when the Populist legislature meets next December in Montgomery a similar law will be passed in this State. No county official has the least right to send away county work when it can be done as well and at lower prices at home than it can by sending it to Missouri or elsewhere.

ANY assertion or intimation that Goodwyn's friends are contemplating taking him down as candidate for Governor is a wilful and malicious lie.—Tribune

Birmingham, Ala., June 16, '96.
To Chairman County Ex. Committee

This Committee is very anxious to secure uniformity in the county organizations of the People's Party of Alabama, and respectfully urges each County Executive Committee to add to their committees a sufficient number, so that each beat will have three members, who can also act as the Beat Com. We would also suggest that each county select, of its county committee, three or five of its most efficient members to constitute a central campaign committee.

This kind of organization is imperatively needed for good reasons and it is hoped that every county will adopt this suggestion at once.

Please report the names and addresses of all members of each committee to these headquarters.

G. B. DEANS, Chairman.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

Stanton, Ala., June 27, 1896.
To the People of Chilton county.

My friends have been wanting to know why my name was on the call for the mass meeting on the 23 inst. I will tell you. The position was presented to me at Stanton as I was leaving the place. I did not understand the call, so I told Mr. J. Griffin to investigate the thing and if it was alright to sign my name to it. He did so.

I suppose he thought it alright.

I do not indorse the move at all, am a reformer strictly.

Respectfully,
J. E. McCULLOUGH.

To the People's Party, and especially my friends:

I wish to call your attention to a democratic trick that has been played in our ranks. We made a friendly call to all to vote with us in our primaries that would support the nominees of our party. Now I find from good authority that the democrats accepted the call just simply to defeat myself and others and not intending to support the nominees of the People's Party, their object being to create discord in our party. I wish to say that Mac Hicks is one of the grand workers in this discord for he urged all his friends to vote that he could see and all those he could not see he sent them word to vote with the People's Party as I said to defeat myself and others. We now find him a candidate in opposition to the very man, no doubt, that he voted for in the primary.

After seeing a man work such tricks, can any man in the People's Party vote for him. I say no; if he regards the principles of his party he can not vote for him. Friends, I am not doing this or making this statement through malice or anything of the kind, but it is because I want harmony in our ranks. Now let me beg you all to turn out on the first Monday in August and snow under what happened here on the 23rd, ult., so deep that it will never be resurrected. I find some of our people say I was one of the getters up of this so called mass meeting. I wish to contradict that statement, and say that I knew nothing of it whatever until Saturday before the meeting on Tuesday.

Now, Mr. Editor, if this will suit your paper better than the waste-basket, I hope to see it in your next issue.

Editor BANNER: Being a backwoods Pop I rise to ask some information regarding the great moral(?) wave that has struck Chilton county to wit. If the signers of the call to the "White Voters of Chilton county." were honestly in favor of nominating "good and capable" men for the offices to be filled in this county next August had no dull axe to grind, or ring to serve, why did they not participate in the late primaries of the White Reformers of this county? Do they feel above the average reform white voter of Chilton county or are they afraid of the honestly expressed will of the White Reformers of Chilton? They, by enlisting in the reform army, would have had full and equal rights with any other voter as to running himself, or suggesting another for office, subject to the approval of the white voters of the reform party of Chilton Co. as expressed in a primary, not mass meeting or convention, and every intelligent voter of the county knows the reformers comprise about three fourths of the white voters of the county. Again I would like to ask how many of the signers of that call, and participants at that meeting were active participants four years ago in the primaries in this county and afterwards took an active part in purging the ticket and committee that grew out of that primary, and requiring all voters to endorse a certain able and patriotic administration or else be denominated negro conglomerates &c &c. If they did participate in that primary and failed to stand by its results then, can they be trusted now if they don't get what they want? Again I would like to ask why this action was so suddenly taken by these reformers (?) so soon after the meeting behind closed doors of the Organized Democratic State Executive Committee and what connection this call for a mass meeting has with the meeting of the Organized Democratic State Executive Committee. To this old Pop it looks very much like the Organized Democratic "cat in the meal tub." Watch where they land at. They don't want office oh not they thank the Lord they are not like that other fellow &c. Why were they not more explicit and state who those "bad and incapable extravagant men" are that have held and are now wanting office so bad, call them by name. Are they not all of the Populite variety? Don't all speak at once, but some one will please enlighten us on the subject, cover the whole ground and oblige.

THE PLATFORM.

"The People's Party of the State of Alabama, in convention assembled, recognizing the supremacy of political liberty over all the questions that can come before the people of the State for solution at the general State election, to take place on the 3rd day of August, 1896, reaffirm our allegiance to the cardinal principles of Populism as follows:

"First—We demand a free ballot and a fair count.

"Second—We believe in the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of international agreement.

"Third—We demand that miners and others like corporate labor be paid in lawful money of the United States semi-monthly.

"Fourth—We favor a tariff for revenue, so adjusted as to protect, as far as practicable the farmers, and the labour in our shops, mines, factories and mills, and their products against foreign pauper labor."

Judge Zell Gaston's amendment to the 2d section was as follows:

"We demand the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the abolition of national banks, the expansion of the currency to meet the wants of the people and the demands of commerce, free from the control of corporate influences, and we condemn the issue of interest bearing bonds in time of peace."

Next came a set of resolutions, which passed unanimously:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that our representatives in congress be and are hereby requested to use their best endeavors to secure appropriations by the general government to open the Warrior river to navigation from the coal fields to the Gulf of Mexico."

"Resolved, That our county appointing boards are hereby requested to give to the political opposition a competent inspector at every polling place in their respective counties.

"And we further request the inspector so appointed to give a competent clerk and there at each polling place to such political opposition."

POPULISTS of the Fifth congressional district of Illinois have instructed their delegates to place Eugene V. Debs in nomination for president and to vote for him first last and all the time." C. O. Sherman, organizer of the American railway union, was nominated for congress by acclamation.

REPUBLICANS (not of Chilton county, because practically there are none) held a mass meeting at Lomax last Saturday. Col. Knox was chairman. As a representative meeting it amounted to nothing—absolutely nothing. Such as it was, however, knowing the futility of such a proceeding, it put out no ticket, but contented itself with endorsing the nominees of the Democratic party. We would hardly take the trouble to mention the proceedings were it not for the mendacious report sent to the Montgomery Advertiser, and for the evidence it presents of the strenuous efforts being made by the Democrats to create confusion in the county. Just for a moment look at the condition of politics in Chilton. The Populites have nominated a ticket which every man in the county knows will be elected in August. The Democrats, recognizing their inability to accomplish anything, held a meeting last Tuesday and nominated a partial ticket and at the same time endorsed the remainder of the Populist ticket. Now the Republicans hold a meeting and simply endorse the Democratic nominees, half of whom are Populites. The result is the few unfortunate Republican negroes are expected to cast their votes for some Populites and some Democrats in the vain hope that some Populite candidate will get left. What any Democrat or any Republican hopes to gain from these proceedings is a mystery.

The resolutions introduced were the veriest nonsense, and are not worth discussing.

CONGRESSMAN Howard and Hon. T. H. Powell, of Cullman, addressed a large audience in the court house at Clanton last Friday. Considering how busy all our people are at this season so large an attendance was extremely gratifying to the distinguished orators. Mr. Howard was in his happiest vein and discussed the political situation so clearly and fairly that even the most prejudiced Democrat could find nothing to cavil at. Some of them (organized Democrats, aided by our one Republican) made several abortive attempts to confuse Mr. Howard by asking questions, but in each and every case were so completely answered by that gentleman they immediately collapsed. No matter what question was put to him he at once demonstrated that their inferences were erroneous and their deductions incorrect. One and all—Populite and Democrat—acknowledged it was one of the finest speeches ever made in this section, and we are satisfied from what we have since learned was undoubtedly a vote maker for Goodwyn and the Populite ticket. We hope to see Mr. Howard here again.

MISSISSIPPI passed a law prohibiting foreign printers from making contracts for public printing with the county officers in that State. Messrs. Barnard & Co., of St. Louis, Mo., one of the foreign printing firms which has grown rich at the expense of the Southern people, have sought by means of injunctions through several courts to set the law aside, but without avail. We hope when the Populist legislature meets next December in Montgomery a similar law will be passed in this State. No county official has the least right to send away county work when it can be done as well and at lower prices at home than it can be sending it to Missouri or elsewhere.

ANY assertion or insinuation that Goodwyn's friends are contemplating taking him down as candidate for Governor is a wilful and malicious lie.—Tribune

Birmingham, Ala., June 26, '96.
To Chairman County Ex. Committee:

This Committee is very anxious to secure uniformity in the county organizations of the People's Party of Alabama, and respectfully suggests each County Executive Committee to add to their committees a sufficient number, so that each beat will have three members, who can also act as the Beat Committee.

We would also suggest that each county select, of its county committee, three or five of its most efficient members to constitute a central campaign committee.

This kind of organization is imperatively needed for good reasons and it is hoped that every county will adopt this suggestion at once.

Please report the names and addresses of all members of each committee to these headquarters.

G. B. DEANS, Chairman.
FRANK BALTZELL, Secretary.

Thinness is often a sign of poor health. A loss of weight generally shows something is wrong. If due to a cough, and any lung trouble, or if there is an inherited tendency to weak lungs, take care!

Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is a fat-food and more. It causes such changes in the system that the gain is permanent and improvement continues even after you cease taking it. Sound flesh; rich blood; strong nerves; good digestion; aren't these worth a thought?

Stanton, Ala., June 27, 1896.
To the People of Chilton county.

My friends have been wanting to know why my name was on the call for the mass meeting on the 23 inst. I will tell you. The position was presented to me at Stanton as I was leaving the place. I did not understand the call, so I told Mr. J. Griffin to investigate the thing and if it was alright to sign my name to it. He did so. I suppose he thought it alright. I do not indorse the move at all, am a reformer strictly.

To the People's Party, and especially my friends:

I wish to call your attention to a democratic trick that has been played in our ranks. We made a friendly call to all to vote with us in our primaries that would support the nominees of our party. Now I find from good authority that the democrats accepted the call just simply to defeat myself and others and not intending to support the nominees of the People's Party, their object being to create discord in our party. I wish to say that Mac Hicks is one of the grand workers in this discord for he urged all his friends to vote that he could see and all those he could not see he sent them word to vote with the People's Party as I said to defeat myself and others. We now find him a candidate in opposition to the very man, no doubt, that he voted for in the primary.

After seeing a man work such tricks, can any man in the People's Party vote for him. I say no; if he regards the principles of his party he can not vote for him. Friends, I am not doing this or making this statement through malice or anything of the kind, but it is because I want harmony in our ranks. Now let me beg you all to turn out on the first Monday in August and snow under what happened here on the 23rd, ult., so deep that it will never be resurrected. I find some of our people say I was one of the getters up of this so called mass meeting. I wish to contradict that statement, and say that I knew nothing of it whatever until Saturday before the meeting on Tuesday.

Now, Mr. Editor, if this will suit your paper better than the waste basket, I hope to see it in your next issue.

Editor BANNER: Being a backwoods Pop I rise to ask some information regarding the great moral(?) wave that has struck Chilton county to wit. Fence the World in 20 Days.

In the sale of the "STAR" Machine, as shown below we have done more in recent years to enable the farmers of this country to get their fencing at the actual cost of the wire than all other fence manufacturers in the United States, because we figure and show how cheap the various styles of fence can be made, or what the actual cost of the wire is to make them, while those who make and sell the fence must add the cost of labor to manufacture and their profit to the actual cost of the wire. We can sell you a Machine and enough wire to make 100 rods of the Best Woven Wire Fence on earth, horse high bull strong, pig and chicken tight for the same money that will buy 100 rods of any good woven wire fence now on the market. In one case you have the fence alone. In the other you have not only the fence but a machine which enables you to be your own fence manufacturer and with which you can make over 50 styles, including several styles of Ornamental yard or lawn fences. To show how the farmers of this country appreciate this machine it is only necessary to say that if all the machines sold by us were run for twenty days, each machine making 40 rods per day, they would make enough fence to go around the world, being an average of 400,000 rods or 1,250 miles per day. If all of the machines were run only 60 days during the year, making 40 rods per day each, they would make a grand total of 24,000,000 rods, which would make an average of 76,800 rods or 240 miles for every working day in the year. The combined product of all the Loom Fence Factories of the United States would not equal this. One cent isn't much. Invest it in a postal card and send for our Large Illustrated Catalogue, telling all about fencing. It may save you many dollars. Sent Free for the asking. Address, Kitselman Bros., Box 1004, Ridgeville, Indiana.

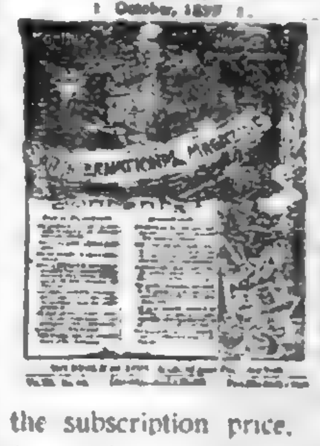
THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS

Edited by ALBERT SHAW.



THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as its name implies, gives in readable form the best that appears in the other great magazines all over the world, generally on the same date that they are published. With the recent extraordinary increase of worthy periodicals, these careful reviews, summaries, and quotations, giving the gist of periodical literature, are alone worth the subscription price.

Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the 'REVIEW OF REVIEWS,' which is a sort of Eiffel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."

True happiness is of a retired nature, and an enemy to pomp and noise; it arises, in the first place, from the enjoyment of one's self, and in the next, from the friendship and conversation of a few select companions. False happiness loves to be in a crowd, and to draw the eyes of the world upon her. She does not receive any satisfaction from the applause which she gives herself, but from the admiration which she raises in others.

The dispatches tell of a Pennsylvania man who committed suicide to oblige his wife. There is such a thing as being too much of a good fellow. No one can afford to do that oftener than once in a lifetime.

Men who see into their neighbors are very apt to be contemptuous; but men who see through them find something lying behind every human soul, which it is not for them to sit in judgment on or attempt to sneer out of the order of God's manifold universe.

THE STATE NORMAL COLLEGE, FLORENCE, ALA.

This institution has made wonderful success of doing exactly the work assigned to it by the state, viz: Training teachers for the public schools. The catalogue is one of the very best that comes to this office. The outline of the work under the head of "Departments" is almost equal to a Manual of Methods on the subjects covered. Every teacher should have one.

A strong feature of the college, not shown by the catalogue, is the aid and encouragement rendered struggling young teachers who enter. Indeed it is said that all really worthy young people who enter manage sooner or later to complete the course.—Florence Times.

One hundred dollars will defray a year's expenses, including board. Fall term opens September 15, 1896. Send for a Trained Teacher or a catalogue. James K. Powers, Pres.

THE NEED OF THE HOUR

Is Better Educational Facilities in Alabama.

FAVORS COMPULSORY EDUCATION.

An Able Paper from the Pen of Prof. Edward L. Patton, in Which he Urges Statesmen to Step Forth and Help to Accomplish What we Need so Badly.

Professor Edward L. Patton, of Eutaw, is furnishing the Eutaw Whig and Observer with a series of able articles on "Alabama Educationally Considered," which we will publish in behalf of the cause of better education in the state. The following is the first of the series:

That our state is behind in educational matters is a fact that all must concede.

When we look at the census of 1890 we find that Alabama nearly heads the list for illiteracy. The per cent. that cannot write is 50.9, a fraction over half of our population. Those that cannot read is 43.5, making an average of illiteracy of 47.2. This is a bad state of affairs, and our intelligent citizens should rise in their might against this large per cent. of illiteracy. Some may say that a large portion of our population are negroes, but the per cent. refers to our white people as well. There are about 400,000 of our white population that are illiterate. It is no use to deny these facts, but to remedy it must be the object in view, with our citizens, with our statesmen, with all who have the best interest of our state at heart. While the remedy cannot be applied to our adult population, we can use it for the youth of our state. There are so many, yes, such a large portion of this illiterate population who do not favor schools. They are careless and indifferent in regard to their children obtaining even the merest show of going to school.

A trip through some sections of the state would simply astonish people to know that such dense ignorance prevails. In many places parents do not even wish their children to attend school, not even when favorable opportunities are given. They are so indifferent to the necessity of educating their children that they will not permit them to attend. Not fifty miles from Montgomery there are fathers who keep their small children at work earning a few dollars while they loaf and spend time in talking politics. These men are illiterate and their children are growing up in illiteracy. Not thirty miles from Birmingham a teacher was dismissed for using too much chalk, as the trustees and the people said. It was from ignorance and illiteracy that this was done; of the three trustees only one could write his name. Go to the United States court, that convenes in Montgomery, Birmingham or Huntsville, and see how much ignorance and illiteracy there is among the timber depredators and those charged with other offenses. You will be appalled to find out that people with so much uncouth illiteracy, that some of them live so near the Capital City. Go out just a few miles from one of our most noted seats of learning and great will be your astonishment that ignorance so gross exists. I do not write to condemn one thing our superintendent of education is doing, for he works faithfully, but the causes of which I speak are beyond his control, nor can he remedy the defects, but it must be done by our people as a whole. By the votes, by the legislators. I do not say we have not advanced some in educational matters, but not one-tenth of what remains to be done. Other states are far ahead of us, yet a large majority have not natural advantages that our great state has. In view of the many facts that I know of Alabama's illiteracy, and how so many feel in regard to educating their children, how utterly indifferent a large number of our people are, I am forced to the conclusion that we should have a compulsory educational law. After being in different parts of the state and knowing whereof I speak, I do not believe we will rise very fast from our present state of illiteracy unless we adopt a compulsory educational system. Some may object for the reason that we have not the funds to maintain such a law. But with the plan I shall suggest, I think we could have a six month's school in all school localities. There are two things necessary:

1. We must pray the federal government to donate all public lands in the state for common school purposes.

2. Some of our school laws, they must be either changed by amendment, or by the adoption of a new constitution by having a constitutional convention. Some may object to the plan proposed, but suggest a better one. Surely no broad-minded, liberal person who has the interest of the youth of our state at heart will object to a feasible plan for their good. Statesmanship will not lower itself, not to acquiesce, but will aid, while the hands of partisanship will work against the uplifting and upbuilding of human nature. No true man, but that will do all he can to take our state from its present low state of illiteracy and place it upon a higher plane of general education.

I have failed to obtain the exact number of acres of public lands in the state, but it is estimated at 800,000 acres. This land, at $2 per acre, would be worth $1,600,000. The timber alone on most of this land is worth $2 per acre. Now, some laws must either be amended, or changed by a new constitution. The laws where fees are now made by officeholders, must be changed so that the fee system shall continue, but the officeholder shall receive a salary, while the difference obtained in fees shall go to an educational fund. The following statement may not be exactly correct, but I do not think I miss it very much, any way, it will serve as a guide. Any one thoroughly informed may make the correct deductions. I base my figures upon averages, and estimate that way. In the state we have the following officers:

There is still another field to save money for the state. It is the office of magistrate. It is well known that that office affords practice for iniquity and large burdens are each year placed upon the state by the many of these officers. The state is frequently defrauded of her just dues by the avariciousness of many magistrates. I am satisfied that this is another office that should be placed upon a salary basis and a better qualification either for election or appointment should exist. I firmly believe that $500,000 annually could be saved the state if this office was better regulated. This, with the amount we already had, making over three million dollars for a school fund, or rather the basis for three million dollars for this fund, as all of it would not be in actual cash but it would furnish a capital of that amount to work upon. This would give us ample funds for a compulsory educational law, and no state in the union needs it more than Alabama. I have stated the figures as a basis to work upon, it may be less, possibly more, but at any rate let all who are interested in the educational progress of our state study the question thoroughly and see if we have not a feasible plan to work upon. Let our thinking men, our legislators, our statesmen, our editors, and all who are interested in the cause of education go to work in this matter and lift our state from its present low scale of illiteracy.

We have a grand total of $3,169,500 as capital. Following the plan suggested to obtain a cash basis for our school system, we have the following table:

Interest from $1,600,000 at 4 per cent..........................	$64,000
Amount saved by officials placed upon salary list estimated (low estimate, perhaps more).....................	319,500
Taxes from Hundley amendment....................	400,000
Magistrates' office made to pay into educational fund.	500,000
State appropriations.........	350,000
Poll tax list.................	200,000
	$1,833,500

Here are nearly two million dollars. A fund that would give our state ample facilities to improve our common school educational system. Let us have this matter thoroughly discussed, and if we have any statesmen in Alabama worthy the name, let them step forth and help to accomplish what we need so badly.

EDWARD L. PATTON.

New England Cotton Mills.

It is estimated by gentlemen interested in the short time movement that 5,000,000 cotton spindles in New England will be idle during July and August. The estimate is based upon an actual stoppage of four weeks. Mr. Curry, treasurer of the Fiskdale mills, in attendance at the meeting of the Arkwright club to consider the question of curtailing New England cotton production, said: "Although no decision has as yet been reached, it is my opinion that the New England cotton mills will today decide on a partial shut down, say from one to two months, to exhaust surplus stocks, the surplus being so greatly in excess of the demand."

Killed by Concussion.

A terrific storm of wind, lightning and rain passed over Kender, ten miles north of New Orleans, Tuesday morning about 8 o'clock. R. W. Cartehay, telegraph operator, was standing in the front doorway at his boarding house, watching the storm, when a bolt of lightning struck the casement of the door and knocked Cartehay back into the hall, where he fell dead. He was not struck, but was killed by the terrible concussion of the lightning, which struck within a foot or two of him. The unfortunate man is a stranger and, except a sister living in Montana, whose address is unknown, he has never spoken of his relatives.

Supposed Counterfeiters Caught.

For several days spurious coin has been turning up in various parts of Nashville; at the same time advices were received from Birmingham to be on the lookout for shovers of the queer. At 10 o'clock Thursday night J. B. Chodrick was arrested. Several spurious dollars were found on his person and his room on High street was searched and thirty-five bad dollars were found together with $25 in small good coin, evidently taken in as change. Some implements for counterfeiting were captured. G. S. Scott was later arrested. Both men claim to be from Birmingham and say they ran a boarding house and got the queer coin in pay for board.

A Gushing Oil Well.

The gushing well that was struck Tuesday on the Beatty farm, near Burrville, Tenn., as reported in the Chattanooga Times, is owned by Mr. Dana, of Pennsylvania, and a syndicate. Oil was struck at 285 feet. The well is in the river bottom on the east fork of the Olney river. Oil men pronounce the oil of excellent quality, probably superior to that at Bob's Bar. There are two other wells in the vicinity, one drilled by the Wile-Block company and the other by A. J. Appleby, which are expected to "come in" in a day or two. Four other wells are under way.

Cuban Expedition Nipped.

Key West, Fla., was thrown into a fever of excitement Friday evening by the arrival of the steamer City of Richmond, with all passengers and a prize crew from the revenue cutter Winona on board. At 10 p. m. the steamer Three Friends was coming up the harbor with an officer from the cutter on board. No particulars were obtained, as no one was allowed on board. The failure of the expedition is due to the prompt action of the customs officials.

Found Dead on the Track.

The remains of a negro were found on the railway track Tuesday morning between Merristown, Tenn., and Alpha, and it is thought that he was killed and his body placed there to hide a crime. Two strange negroes have been arrested on suspicion. Nothing was found whereby the body could be identified, for it was literally cut to pieces and scattered over a considerable distance.

The holders claim that the interest on the stock is a first lien on the gross receipts of the company, and will ask the courts to compel the receivers to pay it.

CHASING A FILIBUSTERER.

The McLane Overhauls the Commodore, but Releases Her.

When the steamer Commodore left Port Tampa Thursday afternoon she was followed by the revenue cutter McLane, the latter having orders to stop the suspected filibuster. When Captain Morton of the Commodore saw the McLane in pursuit he crowded on steam and a lively race began. As the Commodore gained the McLane sent four solid shot after the filibuster and the latter came to. The McLane's commander searched the Commodore, but nothing contraband was found. The Commodore was allowed to go and the McLane started back to port. Six miles down the bay, however, the Commodore came to and was approached by three schooners. Nearly 100 men and scores of boxes of arms and ammunition were transferred from the schooners to the Commodore. The McLane's commander saw the transfer by means of his glasses and again pursued the Commodore. The McLane gained at first and fired on the Commodore repeatedly, but the shots fell short. The powerful engines of the Commodore soon told, however, and she began to forge ahead. When the boats passed St. Petersburg the Commodore was leading the McLane six miles. As the McLane has no coast pilot she will have to lay to during the night, and this will enable the Commodore to make good her escape.

Filibustering Expedition.

Another alleged filibustering expedition succeeded in starting to Cuba from Key West Tuesday night. A large amount of merchandise, practically heavy cases, were put aboard the steamship City of Key West, while the Cuban band gave a concert which was largely attended. The concert was given to attract the crowd and thus enable the members of the expedition to put the cases on board the steamer without attracting much attention. The City of Key West put to sea before day with a party of Cubans and thirty-six men on board in addition to the cases supposed to contain arms and ammunition. It is supposed here that the City of Key West will meet the steamer Three Friends outside the three mile limit and transfer to her the passengers and cargo. The expediton is in charge of a young American who is an experienced filibusterer.

Badly Hurt in a Runaway.

At Summertown, Lawrence county, Tennessee, a horse ran away today with a buggy containing B. T. Bobert and his wife, an aged couple. They were thrown out and fearfully injured, though it is hoped not fatally.

IT SOUNDS LIKE A MIRACLE.

ONE OF THE BRAVE BOYS IN GRAY RELATES A REMARKABLE STORY.

Mr. C. L. Farris, While a Member of the 38th Mississippi Infantry, Contracts Disease and Suffers for Years—He Finally Recovers, and Tells the Story of His Cure.

From Commercial-Appeal, Memphis, Tenn.

What in many respects is a remarkable cure has been effected in Hinds County, Miss., near the thriving little town of Utica.

Mr. C. L. Farris lives at Duke, a postoffice seven miles from Utica, and at the present time he is an object of considerable curiosity throughout the community, for it was he who was cured of a chronic case of rheumatism of over thirty years' standing.

A Commercial-Appeal reporter having been detailed to see Mr. Farris, drove out to his store at Duke. Mr. Farris, who is postmaster, was busy working up the mail, but as soon as he had finished he acceded very cheerfully to an interview.

Mr. Farris is 62 years of age, but one would never suspect that he carries so many years upon his shoulders, for he is as erect, his step is as springy and his eye as bright as if he were only half that age. He is a perfect picture of hearty old manhood.

"To begin with," said he, "I suppose you want to know how I was cured of rheumatism? Well, it was remarkable. I had almost given up all hope of every being cured. Why, sometimes I couldn't walk for weeks at a time. I suffered constantly and was never entirely free from it.

"I had tried two specialists in New Orleans, one in Vicksburg, one in Atlanta and two in New York and never gained anything more from them than temporary relief, sometimes not that.

"One day I was reading a newspaper—I forget now which one—and my attention was attracted by an article on Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. It stated that they were good for rheumatism and I determined to get some of them and see if there was any virtue in them. I went to Vicksburg two days later and purchased six boxes, and after taking the pills according to directions, the severe attack of rheumatism I was then suffering from vanished, and I have never felt a twinge of it since, and that has been over a year ago.

"Write you a letter for publication? Why certainly, with pleasure. It will be nothing more than common humanity to sufferers from rheumatism to let them know how they can be cured."

Mr. Farris went to his desk and after writing a few minutes handed the reporter the following:

DUKE, HINDS CO., MISS., Jan. 2, '96.

"This is to certify that I contracted rheumatism during the war, in 1862, while a member of the Thirty-eighth Mississippi Infantry, C. S. A., and up to a year ago I was a constant sufferer from it, sometimes being unable to walk. The first attack confined me to my bed for three months.

"About eighteen months ago I saw an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which stated that they were a sure cure for rheumatism. I decided to get some of them and so the next time I went to Vicksburg I bought six boxes. I began taking them according to directions and by the time I had taken the six boxes the rheumatism went away and I have never felt a particle of it since.

"I know that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are responsible for the cure. It has been over a year since I took the pills and I firmly believe I am permanently cured.

"I take pleasure in recommending them to all who suffer from rheumatism, and feel confident that if taken according to directions, they will cure any case of the kind. I have taken probably a barrel of medicine and have tried every specialist of note in New Orleans, Vicksburg, Atlanta and New York and have been kept poor scratching around to get money to pay them with, and I never got any relief until I used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. C. L. FARRIS."

Messrs. Terrell Bros., druggists, of Utica, corroborate in every detail the statement and letter of Mr. Farris, and added that since his wonderful cure their sale for Pink Pills had been something phenomenal and a number of people had used them not only for rheumatism, but for extreme nervousness, and a number of other disorders, and all had derived great benefit from them.

Dr. G. W. Ellis and Messrs. S. E. Dudley & Son, the other druggists of Utica, gave substantially the same testimony as the Messrs. Terrell, and all spoke very highly of Mr. Farris and his standing in the community. Every one of them said that Mr. Farris's statement would sooner be accepted by the people of Utica and the surrounding country than any one else they knew of.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 (they are never sold in bulk, or by the 100), by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. Washing windows is another one of the things that Pearline (use without soap) does best. With that, the glass is never cloudy—is always clear and bright. Washing it is less trouble, of course—but that is the case with everything that is washed with Pearline.

And about the sashes and the frames; remember that Pearline, when it takes the dirt off, leaves the paint on. Haven't you noticed that certain imitations are not so particular about this? 497

VOL. IV. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JULY 9, 1896. NO. 37

MR. PEFFER SPEAKS.

CHARGES THAT BONDS WERE ILLEGALLY USED.

Stands for a Paper Money That Needs No Redeemer And That Will Be Good as Long as the Republic Lasts.

Senator Peffer addressed the senate May 28 on the Butler bond bill, and the following appeared in his remarks:

The discussion that has followed the introduction of the bill has taken a very wide range. Silver in all its phases has been discussed ably. Gold monometallism has been treated with considerable ability. Both sides of almost every economic question have been considered. But the only argument which has been presented in opposition to the passage of the bill was that of the senator from New York, Mr. Hill, which was that it is a popular measure.

It appears that the time has come in our history when in the American senate the merits of a measure are to be determined by the politics of the senator who proposes it. I ask if that is democracy, if that is republicanism, that because a senator who is the equal of all his colleagues introduces a bill touching upon a particular line of [illegible] politics it must be discarded, it must be hounded and beaten and abused and ridiculed without touching the merits of the subject involved?

"I assert, Mr. president, that in all of our eventful history no president before the year 1894 ever undertook to sell a government note or a government bond without express authority of congress before that time enacted.

"This bill has been treated by senators as if were the first of the kind ever proposed. But that is error. We—and when I use the word 'we' I do not use it editorially, but I mean those of us who are charged with the paternity of bills of this kind—have not been derelict in our duty. The senator from North Carolina, Mr. Butler, coming here nearly two years after the bond-trading business began, very properly seized the first opportunity to press the subject on the attention of the senate, and it is greatly to his credit that he has been able to accomplish so much this soon. I allude to the matter only for the purpose of calling attention to the fact that early, even before the first sale was made, immediately, the next day after the proposition to sell was made, I offered a resolution reciting the facts and asserting as the sense of the senate that the whole proceeding was in violation of law. The next day I addressed the senate on the subject. A few days later the senator from Nebraska, Mr. Allen, delivered a forcible argument to show that such issue of bonds is illegal, and we have not lost an opportunity from that time until the present to denounce the whole proceeding as a grievous usurpation of power.

"Not only have the bonds been illegally issued, but there was no necessity for their issue, because there was an abundance of funds in the treasury at the time of the sale of the bonds to pay every debt that was due from the United States, whether we paid it in gold or in silver. There was an abundance of coin in the treasury with which to redeem all the greenbacks which had been offered at that time, so that, absolutely and positively no necessity for the issuance of bonds existed, except only to accommodate the speculators in New York and London.

"In proof of that—it is not a mere idle assertion—I took occasion in a speech, delivered by me January 15 last, to collect the figures from the treasury. It appears that, beginning in 1879 with $128,000,000, we go on down to 1894, when there was $154,000,000. In 1889 there was $229,000,000; in 1890, $249,000,000, the largest amount in any one year. Then we come down to the last of January, 1895, with $51,000,000. On the last of January, 1894, when the first of the last three issues was made, there was $65,000,000 of gold coin lying in the treasury.

"It may seem almost revolutionary, and I have no doubt that if my good friend the senator from Connecticut, Mr. Hawley, were here he would regard it as revolutionary, as infamous, and anarchistic, but I yet insist with all candor, with all earnestness, and with a patriotic devotion which I do not believe any senator will doubt, that there was no other demand upon the treasury at the time when the bond issues were made, except alone, from the speculators in Wall street, New York, and their confreres in the city of London, on the other side of the Atlantic. I have asserted again and again that the United States government has been forced into partnership with these men, that we are in fact the silent partner. We are expected only to tax the people and raise the money that these men want.

The only need that the government has for money is to pay its debts. We promised to pay our debts in coin, and I have shown by the figures that we had an abundance of coin to do it.

"The only trouble—and the president of the United States is right about it—comes from the demand for gold, and it is not because the people of the United States demand gold—I mean the great body of the people of the country. They are not asking for gold. They care nothing about gold coin. Probably ninety-nine out of every hundred would be unable to distinguish at first sight between a quarter eagle and a half eagle in gold coin. The demand for gold comes from one class exclusively, and that is the speculative class—the money changers, the bankers, and, it is an ugly term to use, the gold gamblers. I can not think of a better word to use, because it is gambling, the same as gambling on a stock exchange or a race course.

"The object of the pending bill is to stop that kind of work, to tie the hands of the president, if he cannot use them in accordance with the law which he has held up his hand and sworn before God faithfully to execute. We—perhaps I had better speak for myself—I denounced it upon this floor as a usurpation of authority for which, if it had been perpetrated in the better and earlier days of the republic, the guilty one would have been impeached for high crimes and misdemeanors. I heard a democrat senator say on this floor, 'why do you not impeach him?' This is not the place to impeach him. At the time the bonds were issued the president was democratic, the senate was democratic, the house of representatives was democratic by a large majority, and there is the place to begin impeachment proceedings.

"But it is said, and that comes chiefly from this side of the chamber, from old veteran Republicans, that this bill is opening up the avenue to repudiation, that it means repudiation. I appeal to senators, especially to Republicans, a class of men with whom many of the best years of my life were spent, and not until the last six or eight years did I feel it to be my duty to separate from them on account of the tendency of that great organization toward the policy we are now pursuing. They charge me, and they charge the rest of us in this chamber who are Populists, with attempted repudiation. No, Mr. President, the legislature that sent me to this body was composed almost wholly of men who had been Republicans within two years. There were ninety-five Populists in the house of representatives. Every one of them voted for me. Out of the ninety-five populists eighty-three had been active, earnest Republicans up to and after the year 1888. They and I all voted for Benjamin Harrison. Out of those eighty-three old Republicans forty-one had spent from two and one-half to three of the best years of their lives in the Union army, in our great struggle to suppress the most tremendous rebellion known in human history. All of my ambition is to serve this great country. There is nothing that I venerate more highly, more intensely than I do the flag of our country. The great body of the Populist party in the Northern and Western states were Republicans only a few years ago, and there are more old Union soldiers in our party to-day in proportion to the aggregate membership than there is in the great organization of Republicans.

"I resent that imputation indignantly. It is unworthy of the senator from Connecticut (Mr. Hawley) and the other senators who have uttered the sentiment upon this floor. I have said, and I do now say, that you men who are insisting upon this policy will drive the people to repudiation in the end. I would stop repudiation; I would stop all dishonor; I would stop all revolution, by taking from the hands of the usurpers the power they are improperly exercising. That is the object of the bill. I have said upon the public platform, in the presence of the people, as I say here in the senate, that this proceeding is not only without authority of law, but it is one of the most dangerous proceedings, the most dangerous exercise of power that has ever befallen the American people.

* * * * * * *

"Populists want no reserve fund to redeem their money—no redemption fund for the benefit of stock brokers and banking syndicates. We believe government paper is a safer money than metal of any kind. We want government paper, not bank notes; we want money that is as good as the nation's credit—money that needs no redeemer; money as good in the hands of the poor as in the tills of the rich; money worth its face in the products of labor; money that will not slink away when trouble comes; money that speculators cannot corner; money that will pay debts and taxes; money based on the people's property and the public credit, money that the government will receive at par; money that will be good as long as the republic endures."

They Are.

The Hartford Courant says: "Connecticut capitalists have one hundred million dollars loaned in the west, and don't propose to have it paid back in 53c dollars," and then it threatens, for said capitalists, that it won't lend any more. Is the Courant aware that according to the republican platform of 1880 "the dollars" these same capitalists loaned were only "35c dollars?" Is it not also aware that the purchasing power of the dollar these capitalists have been getting in interest on this hundred million is more than double the dollar they loaned? They demand a dollar with 200 cents in it in pay for the 35c dollar they loaned, and then console themselves with the idea that they are "honest," and that these wicked farmers out west are trying to cheat them.—Daily Citizen, Naugatuck, Conn.

The National Game.

The game of baseball was fifty years old last week, the first match game having been played at Hoboken, N. J., on June 19, 1846, between the Knickerbocker and New York clubs Previous to that time townball had been the great game, but some of the devotees got their heads together and evolved a series of rules which changed the sport so materially that they decided to call it baseball. The first team was organized on Sept. 23, 1845, but it was not until the following June that a match game was played.

SURRENDER TO ENGLAND.

The Republican national platform endeavors to tire the reader with a lot of rot about tariff and reciprocity, and then shows the dominating influence behind the once great party of Abraham Lincoln when it says in substance: "The Republican party is unreservedly in favor of English money and against American money. It caused the establishment of the English system by the act of 1873, and since then every American dollar has been as hard to get as an English dollar. We are unalterably opposed to every effort to turn the silver in American mines into money; we prefer to borrow of England. We are therefore opposed to free coinage except by the consent of England. All our money must be as good as gold, notwithstanding the fact that that form of money has given to the world such monstrocities among nations as Turkey, Persia, Arabia, Egypt and Greece, whose people have long since been enslaved, and notwithstanding the fact that Italy, Austria, Germany, Russia, England, France and the United States are marching toward the same sad destiny. In short, we want a currency system that will make paupers by the millions and millionaires by the score."

TREASON OF 1896.

Article I. Section 3 of the United States Constitution says: "Congress shall have the power to coin money and regulate the value thereof." Notice that it says, "regulate the value." Now the republican platform says that the constitution is all wrong and that congress cannot and shall not "regulate the value" of money. Nowadays it must be done by international agreement only. Shades of Washington. Jefferson, Jackson and Lincoln behold the fruits of Yorktown and New Orleans. Behold the deadly treason to a constitution baptized by the blood of countless heroes and sustained by the blood of martyrs; behold the realization of William Pitt's prophecy in the English parliament 108 years ago that "America would be more profitable as a financial dependency than as a political dependency." Are the American people going to support such a treasonable platform? The man who can see it in any other than a treasonable light must be an idiot. If the spirit of '76 is sufficiently strong there will be another Yorktown in November.

COST OF A CAMPAIGN.

TO CONDUCT A PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN NOWADAYS.

Where the Money Comes From—Who Pays It and What They Pay It For—Why So Much Money Is Used.

Topeka Co-Operator: Although most of us have an idea that millions of dollars will be spent in electing the next president of the United States, few can say definitely where the money is to come from, who will collect it and how it will be spent. The record of these transactions is not kept for obvious reasons, but it can be dispensed with. Methods do not vary.

When the national committees of the two old parties assemble after the conventions make the nominations, the first thing to be done is to estimate the expense of managing the campaign. These expenses run into a fortune.

Therefore they will make a list of the very rich men whose interests are most affected by the result. To these men the chairman sends personal letters asking for subscription.

The Twentieth Century says William C. Whitney is expected to contribute $50,000 to his party fund, or his backers do it for him. But the most expedient method is to have the trust magnates from a pool and make the raise by themselves in one great amount. The Pennsylvania manufacturers, led by Tom Dolan, will organize a committee and agree to raise a million among themselves for the Republican fund. John Wanamaker raised $400,000 all by himself in 1892.

As a rule the tariff barons are expected to hand over two millions, because they are great beneficiaries when the Republicans are in office. The different trusts are then dealt with separately. For instance, the sugar trust will pay half a million to the national committee, receiving in return a pledge not to be interfered with should the party attain power. A concern like the sugar trust pays money to both the old parties and then does not bother its head about the result of the campaign.

But sometimes two trusts find their interests opposed. Thus the beef trust cannot contemplate without a shiver some legislation which the sugar trust wants. Thereupon the two bid against each other, for the support of the party most likely to win. That is why the Republicans have so much money just now. There is a general impression that the next president will be a Republican, and all the corruptionists are hastening to secure the friendship of that party.

Here we have the real explanation of the growth of civil service reform. In former years the parties found their chief revenues in struggles for office. The only rewards of victory were the emoluments of office and the opportunities of robbing the treasury. But with the growth of trusts, the creations of vast monopolies and the necessity of securing the franchises, the politicians began to find that the rank and file of the offices were poor gain. What the politicians found important was the possession of the executive and legislative branches of the government. Therefore the clerkships and inspectorships and the police and postoffice positions have been allowed to pass under civil service regulation. They do not yield the rich rewards to be gained by betraying the people to the capital.

Many people do not understand this and are ill-informed enough to imagine that politicians want the offices. What politicians want is power. Some of our most influential politicians care very little whether they are in office or not.

When the vast campaign fund has been collected it is distributed among the doubtful states. A good organizer forms a campaign club. He inveigles a lot of young counter skippers and ill-informed wage earners who are given uniforms and torches or gewgaws of the kind and are sent parading and attending mass meetings in order to catch voters as addle-headed as themselves. The politicians pay for the noisy work, such as printing, music, hall hiring and so on, but their chief expenditure is in the bribing of voters.

It is getting to be difficult, however, to bribe voters owing to the great improvement of late years in our election laws. Consequently most of the money goes to individuals who control voters, to saloon keepers, to stump orators and to the general run of shady characters so numerous during a presidential year. The papers are heavy subsidies. This money is never paid out openly as a bribe. It takes the form of payment for advertisements, of purchasing stock, of purchases of whole campaign editions and of the bills contracted in collecting "campaign material." The wonder is that many newspapers have any influence at all upon voters, but for some unfathomable reason they do.

In round numbers the political parties spend about twenty million dollars, directly or indirectly, in electing the president. That is little more than a dollar and a half for each voter in the land. When the campaign is over we poor, idiotic citizens of the United States wonder why the country seems to belong to the plutocrats. The country belongs to the plutocrats because they have bought it and paid for it.

Strikers Replaced by Machinery.

Promoters of strikes argue to their comrades that unsuccessful efforts are nevertheless ultimately beneficial; but study of the subject has led me to take the opposite view, viz.: that all strikes of skilled workmen are, in the end, harmful to the participants. No one single cause has done more, in my opinion, to hasten the introduction of entirely automatic machinery in operations where a certain degree of skilled labor was considered indispensable than strikes on the part of such skilled employes. Numerous instances might be recalled where large manufacturers have, on account of strikes, cheerfully expended immense sums of money in perfecting automatic machinery, not primarily to effect economy in wages, but as an assurance against future danger from such causes. A notable instance of this nature occurred a few years ago at one of the largest iron and steel works in the world. In a certain department specially skilled men were able to make wages which now seem incredible. They were, however, paid a percentage upon the tonnage and, owing to enormous output, the profits of these operatives exceeded in some years that of many successful manufacturers having large capital at stake. These men considered themselves indispensable and struck, not for higher wages or shorter hours, but at the dictation of outsiders. When work was resumed they found their occupations gone forever. Automatic machinery had supplanted the former skilled labor.—Popular Science Monthly.

Homes and Patriotism.

Before the French revolution 12,000 men owned all the land of France. Now she numbers 3,222,000 free holders. In England 180,000 persons own all the land, and the proportion of paupers is 23 per England to one in France. If our people desire to save themselves from the fate of English pauperism they will have to begin the work of salvation by adopting the New Zealand graduated land tax laws, which will speedily emancipate them from extortionate land rents, and give every industrious prudent man a chance to secure a holding somewhat larger than a cemetery lot—a home the great incentive to patriotism.—The Call.

A Village Rising Bell.

For more than twenty years Bowmansville, Pa., has had what is known as a village bell. It is swung between two high upright poles and was paid for by public subscription. Every day the bell is rung three times—at 5:30 o'clock a. m., 11 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The leading object of its ringing is to announce to farmers and other working people the time of day. The first bell in the morning at Bowmansville is the signal for the people to arise and in the summer most of the residents are out that early. The 11 o'clock bell announces that it is time to leave the fields and prepare for dinner. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon they prepare for supper.—Correspondence Philadelphia Record.

Lumber Fire at Brewton.

The dry kiln of the Harold Mill company, at Brewton, together with a considerable quantity of lumber was destroyed by fire Tuesday. The loss will be about $50,000; no insurance.

Cherokee County Items.

The residence of E. Hooke, of Mento, and contents were destroyed on Tuesday by fire. A fine mare belonging to Charles Canin, while plowing got her hind leg tangled up in a barbed wire fence and almost severed it from the body.

Tuscaloosa News.

The residence of G. A. Reveire was partially destroyed by fire, caused by a defective flew.

Sam Little, colored, aged 10 years, was drowned in the Warrior river yesday by his playmates. They ducked him until he was strangled to death.

Two Residences Burned.

Opelika was visited by a destructive fire Friday night. The residence occupied by Dr. A. B. Bennett and Patrolman John Graves were consumed. The buildings were among the most attractive in the city, and the loss will aggregate about $3,5oo, with insurance for two-thirds their value.

Dog—Wagon Spoke—Dead Negro.

On Thursday James Jackson, colored, killed another negro, Ed Blanch, by hitting him on the head with a wagon spoke at Tom Peacher's store in one of Montgomery's suburbs, Boguehoma, all about a dog. Jackson was caught and jailed. He is reputed to be a hard case. His brother is serving a life sentence in the coal mines for killing a negro woman in Montgomery some years ago.

Hit by a Posse.

John Holman was shot at and, it is said, hit by a posse under Bailiff Teel in the south end of Tallapoosa county Friday. They failed to get him. He had his gun and fired back, it is said. Trouble has been brewing for some time, and news of a more serious nature may be looked for. Houses have been burned and other violations of the laws committed, and much ill-feeling is engendered.

Coming Back to Alabam'.

A large number of laborers from Gualan, Guatemala, where they have been working on a railroad, arrived at Mobile Wednesday night on the steamship Nicaragua. They deny that the railroad laborers down there have been ill-treated, but state that the country is very unhealthy and that large numbers of laborers are coming back home because the contractors have been forced to reduce expenses on account of a recent revolution among the people down there.

Unfortunate Rencountre.

A dispatch from Huntsville says news has been received there that Burt Hubert was perhaps fatally stabbed last Sunday by his brother-in-law, Tobe Connally. Mrs. George Hubert had loaned Connally her horse and buggy, which angered Burt, as he wanted them himself. An altercation resulted next day, during which Hubert started at Connally with a fence rail, and the latter stabbed him near the heart. The parties live near Moore's mill in the southeast corner of Madison.

Barnes Bound Over.

Rufus E. Barnes, the young white man who shot and killed the negro Crawford at Hall's commissary, Montgomery, Saturday night, was released on bail in the sum of $1,000 after a full and complete investigation before Justice Stokes. The magistrate, after hearing the evidence, ruled that he could not under the testimony discharge the defendant, yet he felt that the charge would not be of sufficient gravity to confine him in jail, so bail was fixed at $1,000. Barnes is a son of Detective Barnes, formerly of the Louisville and Nashville road, with headquarters in Birmingham. Mr. Barnes was present at his son's trial.

Public Spirited Negroes.

Whitfield & Williams, two enterprising and public-spirited negroes, of Scottsboro, who are in the saw mill lumber business there, have very generously offered Professor Council a car load of lumber toward the erection or rebuilding of Palmer hall at the State Normal and Industrial colored school near Huntsville. The losses from the burning of the building of Palmer hall have been adjusted and were placed at $5,338.81, which is on the building alone and does not include the worth of the many valuable books of the library. The trustees will now proceed to the work of erecting the new building.

Reports as to Crops.

Reports from Lawrence county leave no doubt that the crops are highly promising.

In Calhoun cotton is reported finer in the valley than for years and if seasons continue with no disaster the yield will exceed any crop raised in the last ten years.

In Pickens there has been too much rain during the past week. Cotton is growing luxuriantly, but it is said that it is going to weed. The corn that was planted early is not doing well.

In Bibb the crops about Centreville are not very promising just now, as there has been too much rain recently.

Huntsville's New Flour Mill.

Work is progressing rapidly on the flour mill building and it will not be a great while before the wheels will be in motion and Huntsville home-made flour of the finest quality will be pouring out at the rate of 100 barrels per day. This new enterprise will insure the best market price for Madison and adjoining counties' wheat and give a strong impetus to the increase of wheat growing in the Tennessee valley, of which Huntsville is the trade center. It will increase Huntsville's trade in all mercantile lines, for when the farmer sells his wheat he will just do his trading there, while he is at the door of all his wants in home and farm supplies.

A Game of Craps—A Knife.

A fight occurred in a grove near the new Baptist church, Gadsden, between two white men over a game of craps. One, named J. W. Buckalew, called Tom Coussey a vile name, when Coussey drew a 3-inch blade knife and cut Buckalew twice. One wound was between the seventh and eighth ribs and one between the fifth and sixth ribs. The latter one penetrated the lung. He is dangerously wounded and cannot possibly live. He has a wife and two children. Coussey is only 19 years old and has a young wife and an aged mother. He is a tough customer and seems to be unconcerned about his case. He fled, but was captured in Dwight City.

Sleeping on the Track.

Charles Denson, colored, was struck by a freight train, about one mile east of Paint Rock, Saturday afternoon, and fatally wounded. He had spent the night before in the calaboose for being drunk and disorderly, and when released Saturday morning he again loaded himself with whisky and started for his home, which is about two miles up the railroad. When struck by the train he was sitting on the end of the ties asleep, and on account of some elder bushes being near the engineer could not see him until within a few car lengths of him. The railroad company is furnishing the injured man all necessary medical attention, but little hope is entertained for his recovery.

Coosa River Navigation.

The Southern railway opened its new bridge over Coosa river Thursday and it worked without a hitch. It is expected that the government will commence work in a few days with a view of the completion of lock 4, just above the Riverside draw bridge, and with the advent of the new year steamboats may be looked for at Riverside on the Coosa, one of the nicest streams for navigation in the south, with high banks and beautiful scenery. A great transportation route for coal, iron and timber. At the present time thousands of logs in rafts are run to Riverside monthly, where they are converted into lumber to be shipped to various states by rail.

Typographical Union.

The regular monthly meeting of Birmingham Typographical Union No. 104 was held Wednesday afternoon in Erswell hall.

Among other business transacted the dues of the union were increased from 1 per cent on each dollar earned by its members to 2 per cent. This increase was brought about for the purpose of establishing a sick benefit fund for the members. The election for delegate to the International Typographical Union, which meets in Colorado Springs in October, was ordered held on the 29th instant. Considerable interest is being taken in this election. Colorado Springs is the location of the Childs-Drexel home for union printers, one of the best institutions of the kind in the United States.

Celebration at Guilford.

Ten thousand people attended the annual celebration at the historic Guilford battle ground, N. C., Saturday. The address was delivered by United States Senator Marion Butler.

OUR COUNTRY'S COMMERCE.

With the Big Cotton Crop in View Mills Close.

MARKETS ARE FLUCTUATING.

Notwithstanding an Increase of 60 Per Cent in Exports of Wheat for Five Weeks, as Compared to Last Year, No Corresponding Advance in Price Appears.

Current movements have been at largely of a temporary character or else purely speculative on the day-by-day plan that they are not highly instructive. Thus an extensive shut-down of cotton mills is solely in the hope that half production in July and August may clear a largely overstocked market. Stock fluctuations were still more ephemeral, including two sharp declines, and partial rallies within a week, both laboriously ascribed to various political causes, but mainly due to keen operators who saw a chance for a quick turn. Extended views of the half year's operations in the old branches of manufacture go far to explain numerous stoppages. In woolens they are without concert, mills waiting for orders; the sales of wool have not been a third of last year's for the same week. Prices are depressed, but still depend on foreign possibilities. In cotton goods the close of many mills, both north and south, for half of July and August is in effect a recognition of the fact that heavy stocks of goods, manufactured from cotton costing between 7½ and 8½c, could be expected to show profits if the mills go on manufacturing until a new and probably heavy crop of cotton is ready. The reduction of prices has brought out a large demand in many cases, but not enough to meet the output of the mills. A further decline in print cloths to 2½c is significant, when such production is assured.

The output of iron has largely decreased and there is a quite general stoppage of works for repairs, but the annual controversies about wages have in most cases been settled and it is believed will be settled in all without strikes.

Wheat declined 1½c and recovered 1c, but the receipts continued remarkably large. Atlantic exports show an increase and for five weeks, flour included, have been 9,847,678 bushels against 5,855,427 last year. The stocks in sight are better than a year ago and the winter wheat yields less, spring wheat seems only with fair weather to yield more than last year.

Corn promises remarkably well and also oats.

Cotton generally needs rain in parts of Texas, but the best of reports come most from other sections, and a large increase in acreage is generally reported. The closing of many mills causes another decline of a sixteenth in the price and proves that past consumption has to a considerable extent been real.

Failures for the past week have been 257 in the United States, against 197 last pear, and 22 in Canada, against 24 last year.

Cheyennes Getting Troublesome.

A special from Helena, Mont., says: The Cheyenne Indians have donned their war paint and are holding powwows, preparatory to a general uprising. Several troops of the Tenth cavalry have been ordered from Fort Custer to the Cheyenne agency at Lame Deer, Custer county, Mont. The Cheyennes have been unusually violent and ill-tempered this spring, and the depredations upon the cattle and stock of the white settlers have been more extensive than they have been for a number of years, and evidently committed in a spirit of pure maliciousness.

Other Mills Shut Down.

Owing to the present unsatisfactory condition of business, the Everett mills, Lawrence, Mass., will shut down Friday, July 10, and remain closed until Tuesday, September 8, unless there should be sufficient improvement in the business situation to warrant an earlier start. About 1,300 hands are employed.

VOL. IV. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JULY 9, 1896. NO. 37

MR. PEFFER SPEAKS.

CHARGES THAT BONDS WERE ILLEGALLY USED.

Stands for a Paper Money That Needs No Redeemer And That Will Be Good as Long as the Republic Lasts.

Senator Peffer addressed the senate May 28 on the Butler bond bill, and the following appeared in his remarks:

"The discussion that has followed the introduction of the bill has taken a very wide range. Silver in all its phases has been discussed ably. Gold monometallism has been treated with considerable ability. Both sides of almost every economic question have been considered. But the only argument which has been presented in opposition to the passage of the bill was that of the senator from New York, Mr Hill, which was that it is a populist measure.

"It appears that the time has come in our history when in the American senate the merits of a measure are to be determined by the politics of the senator who proposes it. I ask if that is democracy, if that is republicanism, that because a senator who is the equal of all his colleagues introduces a bill trenching upon a particular line of party politics it must be discarded, it must be hounded and beaten and abused and ridiculed without touching the merits of the subject involved?

"I assert, Mr. president, that in all of our eventful history no president before the year 1894 ever undertook to sell a government note or a government bond without express authority of congress before that time [illegible].

"This bill has been treated by senators as if were the first of the kind ever proposed. But that is error. We—and when I use the word 'we' I do but use it editorially, but I mean those of us who are charged with the paternity of bills of this kind—have not been derelict in our duty. The senator from North Carolina, Mr. Butler, coming here nearly two years after the bond-trading business began, very properly seized the first opportunity to press the subject on the attention of the senate, and it is greatly to his credit that he has been able to accomplish so much this soon. I allude to the matter only for the purpose of calling attention to the fact that early, even before the first sale was made, immediately, the next day after the proposition to sell was made, I offered a resolution reciting the facts and asserting as the sense of the senate that the whole proceeding was in violation of law. The next day I addressed the senate on the subject. A few days later the senator from Nebraska, Mr. Allen, delivered a forcible argument to show that such issue of bonds is illegal, and we have not lost an opportunity from that time until the present to denounce the whole proceeding as a grievous usurpation of power.

"Not only have the bonds been illegally issued, but there was no necessity for their issue, because there was an abundance of funds in the treasury at the time of the sale of the bonds to pay every debt that was due from the United States, whether we paid it in gold or in silver. There was an abundance of coin in the treasury with which to redeem all the greenbacks which had been offered at that time, so that absolutely and positively no necessity for the issuance of bonds existed, except only to accommodate the speculators in New York and London.

"In proof of that—it is not a mere idle assertion—I took occasion in a speech, delivered by me January 15 last, to collect the figures from the treasury. It appears that, beginning in 1879 with $128,000,000, we go on down to 1894, when there was $154,000,000. In 1889 there was $229,000,000; in 1890, $249,000,000, the largest amount in any one year. Then we come down to the last of January, 1895, with $51,000,000. On the last of January, 1894, when the first of the last three issues was made, there was $65,000,000 of gold coin lying in the treasury.

"It may seem almost revolutionary, and I have no doubt that if my good friend the senator from Connecticut, Mr Hawley, were here he would regard it as revolutionary, as infamous, and anarchistic, but I yet insist with all candor, with all earnestness, and with a patriotic devotion which I do not believe any senator will doubt, that there was no other demand upon the treasury at the time when the bond issues were made, except alone, from the speculators in Wall street, New York, and their confreres in the city of London, on the other side of the Atlantic. I have asserted again and again that the United States government has been forced into partnership with these men, that we are, in fact, the silent partner. We are expected only to tax the people and raise the money that these men want.

"The only need that the government has for money is to pay its debts. We promised to pay our debts in coin, and I have shown by the figures that we had an abundance of coin to do it.

"The only trouble—and the president of the United States is right about it—comes from the demand for gold, and it is not because the people of the United States demand gold—I mean the great body of the people of the country. They are not asking for gold. They care nothing about gold coin. Probably ninety-nine out of every hundred would be unable to distinguish at first sight between a quarter eagle and a half eagle in gold coin. The demand for gold comes from one class exclusively, and that is the speculative class—the money changers, the bankers, and, it is an ugly term to use, the gold gamblers. I can not think of a better word to use, because it is gambling, the same as gambling on a stock exchange or a race course.

"The object of the pending bill is to stop that kind of work, to tie the hands of the president, if he cannot use them in accordance with the law which he has held up his hand and sworn before God faithfully to execute. We—perhaps I had better speak for myself—I denounced it upon this floor as a usurpation of authority for which, if it had been perpetrated in the better and earlier days of the republic, the guilty one would have been impeached for high crimes and misdemeanors. I heard a democrat senator say on this floor, 'why do you not impeach him?' This is not the place to impeach him. At the time the bonds were issued the president was democratic, the senate was democratic, the house of representatives was democratic by a large majority, and there is the place to begin impeachment proceedings.

"But it is said, and that comes chiefly from this side of the chamber, from old veteran Republicans, that this bill is opening up the avenue to repudiation, that it means repudiation. I appeal to senators, especially to Republicans, a class of men with whom many of the best years of my life were spent, and not until the last six or eight years did I feel it to be my duty to separate from them on account of the tendency of that great organization toward the policy we are now pursuing. They charge me, and they charge the rest of us in this chamber who are Populists, with attempted repudiation. No, Mr. President, the legislature that sent me to this body was composed almost wholly of men who had been Republicans within two years. There were ninety-five Populists in the house of representatives. Every one of them voted for me. Out of the ninety-five populists eighty-three had been active, earnest Republicans up to and after the year 1888. They and I all voted for Benjamin Harrison. Out of those eighty-three old Republicans forty-one had spent from two and one-half to three of the best years of their lives in the Union army, in our great struggle to suppress the most tremendous rebellion known in human history. All of my ambition is to serve this great country. There is nothing that I venerate more highly, more intensely than I do the flag of our country. The great body of the Populist party in the Northern and Western states were Republicans only a few years ago, and there are more old Union soldiers in our party to-day in proportion to the aggregate membership than there is in the great organization of Republicans.

"I resent that imputation indignantly. It is unworthy of the senator from Connecticut (Mr. Hawley) and the other senators who have uttered the sentiment upon this floor. I have said, and I do now say, that you men who are insisting upon this policy will drive the people to repudiation in the end. I would stop repudiation; I would stop all dishonor; I would stop all revolution, by taking from the hands of the usupers the power they are improperly exercising. That is the object of the bill. I have said upon the public platform, in the presence of the people, as I say here in the senate, that this proceeding is not only without authority of law, but it is one of the most dangerous proceedings, the most dangerous exercise of power that has ever befallen the American people.

* * * * * *

"Populists want no reserve fund to redeem their money—no redemption fund for the benefit of stock brokers and banking syndicates. We believe government paper is a safer money than metal of any kind. We want government paper, not bank notes; we want money that is as good as the nation's credit—money that needs no redeemer; money as good in the hands of the poor as in the tills of the rich; money worth its face in the products of labor; money that will not slink away when trouble comes; money that speculators cannot corner; money that will pay debts and taxes; money based on the people's property and the public credit, money that the government will receive at par; money that will be good as long as the republic endures."

They Are.

The Hartford Courant says: "Connecticut capitalists have one hundred million dollars loaned in the west, and don't propose to have it paid back in 53c dollars," and then it threatens, for said capitalists, that it won't lend any more. Is the Courant aware that according to the republican platform of 1880 "the dollars", these same capitalists loaned were only "35c dollars?" Is it not also aware that the purchasing power of the dollar these capitalists have been getting in interest on this hundred million is more than double the dollar they loaned? They demand a dollar with 200 cents in it in pay for the 35c dollar they loaned, and then console themselves with the idea that they are "honest," and that these wicked farmers out west are trying to cheat them.—Daily Citizen, Naugatuck, Conn.

The National Game.

The game of baseball was fifty years old last week, the first match game having been played at Hoboken, N. J., on June 19, 1846, between the Knickerbocker and New York clubs Previous to that time townball had been the great game, but some of the devotees got their heads together and evolved a series of rules which changed the sport so materially that they decided to call it baseball. The first team was organized on Sept. 23, 1845, but it was not until the following June that a match game was played.

SURRENDER TO ENGLAND.

The Republican national platform endeavors to tire the reader with a lot of rot about tariff and reciprocity, and then shows the dominating influence behind the once great party of Abraham Lincoln when it says in substance: "The Republican party is unreservedly in favor of English money and against American money. It caused the establishment of the English system by the act of 1873, and since then every American dollar has been as hard to get as an English dollar. We are unalterably opposed to every effort to turn the silver in American mines into money; we prefer to borrow of England. We are therefore opposed to free coinage except by the consent of England. All our money must be as good as gold, notwithstanding the fact that that form of money has given to the world such monstrocities among nations as Turkey, Persia, Arabia, Egypt and Greece, whose people have long since been enslaved, and notwithstanding the fact that Italy, Austria, Germany, Russia, England, France and the United States are marching toward the same sad destiny. In short, we want a currency system that will make paupers by the millions and millionaires by the score."

TREASON OF 1896.

Article I. Section 3 of the United States Constitution says: "Congress shall have the power to coin money and regulate the value thereof." Notice that it says, "regulate the value." Now the republican platform says that the constitution is all wrong and that congress cannot and shall not "regulate the value" of money. Nowadays it must be done by international agreement only. Shades of Washington. Jefferson, Jackson and Lincoln behold the fruits of Yorktown and New Orleans. Behold the deadly treason to a constitution baptized by the blood of countless heroes and sustained by the blood of martyrs; behold the realization of William Pitt's prophecy in the English parliament 108 years ago that "America would be more profitable as a financial dependency than as a political dependency." Are the American people going to support such a treasonable platform? The man who can see it in any other than a treasonable light must be an idiot. If the spirit of '76 is sufficiently strong there will be another Yorktown in November.

COST OF A CAMPAIGN.

TO CONDUCT A PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN NOWADAYS.

Where the Money Comes From—Who Pays It and What They Pay It For—Why So Much Money Is Used.

Topeka Co-Operator: Although most of us have an idea that millions of dollars will be spent in electing the next president of the United States, few can say definitely where the money is to come from, who will collect it and how it will be spent. The record of these transactions is not kept for obvious reasons, but it can be dispensed with. Methods do not vary.

When the national committees of the two old parties assemble after the conventions make the nominations, the first thing to be done is to estimate the expense of managing the campaign. These expenses run into a fortune.

Therefore they will make a list of the very rich men whose interests are most affected by the result. To these men the chairman sends personal letters asking for subscription.

The Twentieth Century says William C. Whitney is expected to contribute $50,000 to his party fund, or his backers do it for him. But the most expedient method is to have the trust magnates from a pool and make the raise by themselves in one great amount. The Pennsylvania manufacturers, led by Tom Dolan, will organize a committee and agree to raise a million among themselves for the Republican fund. John Wanamaker raised $400,000 all by himself in 1892.

As a rule the tariff barons are expected to hand over two millions, because they are great beneficiaries when the Republicans are in office. The different trusts are then dealt with separately. For instance, the sugar trust will pay half a million to the national committee, receiving in return a pledge not to be interfered with should the party attain power. A concern like the sugar trust pays money to both the old parties and then does not bother its head about the result of the campaign.

But sometimes two trusts find their interests opposed. Thus the beef trust cannot contemplate without a shiver some legislation which the sugar trust wants. Thereupon the two bid against each other, for the support of the party most likely to win. That is why the Republicans have so much money just now. There is a general impression that the next president will be a Republican, and all the corruptionists are hastening to secure the friendship of that party.

Here we have the real explanation of the growth of civil service reform. In former years the parties found their chief revenues in struggles for office. The only rewards of victory were the emoluments of office and the opportunities of robbing the treasury. But with the growth of trusts, the creations of vast monopolies and the necessity of securing the franchises, the politicians began to find that the rank and file of the offices were poor gain. What the politicians found important was the possession of the executive and legislative branches of the government. Therefore the clerkships and inspectorships and the police and postoffice positions have been allowed to pass under civil service regulation. They do not yield the rich rewards to be gained by betraying the people to the capital.

Many people do not understand this and are ill-informed enough to imagine that politicians want the offices. What politicians want is power. Some of our most influential politicians care very little whether they are in office or not.

When the vast campaign fund has been collected it is distribnted among the doubtful states. A good organizer forms a campaign club. He inveigles a lot of young counter skippers and ill-informed wage earners who are given uniforms and torches or gewgaws of the kind and are sent parading and attending mass meetings in order to catch voters as addle-headed as themselves. The politicians pay for the noisy work, such as printing, music, hall hiring and so on, but their chief expenditure is in the bribing of voters. It is getting to be difficult, however, to bribe voters owing to the great improvement of late years in our election laws. Consequently most of the money goes to individuals who control voters, to saloon keepers, to stump orators and to the general run of shady characters so numerous during a presidential year. The papers are heavy subsidies. This money is never paid out openly as a bribe. It takes the form of payment for advertisements, of purchasing stock, of purchases of whole campaign editions and of the bills contracted in collecting "campaign material." The wonder is that many newspapers have any influence at all upon voters, but for some unfathomable reason they do.

In round numbers the political parties spend about twenty million dollars, directly or indirectly, in electing the president. That is little more than a dollar and a half for each voter in the land. When the campaign is over we poor, idiotic citizens of the United States wonder why the country seems to belong to the plutocrats. The country belongs to the plutocrats because they have bought it and paid for it.

Strikers Replaced by Machinery.

Promoters of strikes argue to their comrades that unsuccessful efforts are nevertheless ultimately beneficial; but study of the subject has led me to take the opposite view, viz.: that all strikes of skilled workmen are, in the end, harmful to the participants. No one single cause has done more, in my opinion, to hasten the introduction of entirely automatic machinery in operations where a certain degree of skilled labor was considered indispensable than strikes on the part of such skilled employes. Numerous instances might be recalled where large manufacturers have, on account of strikes, cheerfully expended immense sums of money in perfecting automatic machinery, not primarily to effect economy in wages, but as an assurance against future danger from such causes. A notable instance of this nature occurred a few years ago at one of the largest iron and steel works in the world. In a certain department specially skilled men were able to make wages which now seem incredible. They were, however, paid a percentage upon the tonnage and, owing to enormous output, the profits of these operatives exceeded in some years that of many successful manufacturers having large capital at stake. These men considered themselves indispensable and struck, not for higher wages or shorter hours, but at the dictation of outsiders. When work was resumed they found their occupations gone forever. Automatic machinery had supplanted the former skilled labor.—Popular Science Monthly.

Homes and Patriotism.

Before the French revolution 12,000 men owned all the land of France. Now she numbers 3,222,000 free holders. In England 180,000 persons own all the land, and the proportion of paupers is 23 in England to one in France. If our people desire to save themselves from the fate of English pauperism they will have to begin the work of salvation by adopting the New Zealand graduated land tax laws, which will speedily emancipate them from extortionate land rents, and give every industrious prudent man a chance to secure a holding somewhat larger than a cemetery lot—a home the great incentive to patriotism.—The Call.

A Village Rising Bell.

For more than twenty years Bowmansville, Pa., has had what is known as a village bell. It is swung between two high upright poles and was paid for by public subscription. Every day the bell is rung three times—at 5:30 o'clock a. m., 11 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The leading object of its ringing is to announce to farmers and other working people the time of day. The first bell in the morning at Bowmansville is the signal for the people to arise and in the summer most of the residents are out that early. The 11 o'clock bell announces that it is time to leave the fields and prepare for dinner. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon they prepare for supper.—Correspondence Philadelphia Record.

The residence of E. Hooke, of Mento, and contents were destroyed on Tuesday by fire. A fine mare belonging to Charles Canin, while plowing got her hind leg tangled up in a barbed wire fence and almost severed it from the body.

Tuscaloosa News.

Sam Little, colored, aged 10 years, was drowned in the Warrior river yesday by his playmates. They ducked him until he was strangled to death.

Two Residences Burned.

Opelika was visited by a destructive fire Friday night. The residence occupied by Dr. A. B. Bennett and Patrolman John Graves were consumed. The buildings were among the most attractive in the city, and the loss will aggregate about $3,5oo, with insurance for two-thirds their value.

Dog—Wagon Spoke—Dead Negro.

On Thursday James Jackson, colored, killed another negro, Ed Blanch, by hitting him on the head with a wagon spoke at Tom Peacher's store in one of Montgomery's suburbs, Boguehoma, all about a dog. Jackson was caught and jailed. He is reputed to be a hard case. His brother is serving a life sentence in the coal mines for killing a negro woman in Montgomery some years ago.

Hit by a Posse.

John Holman was shot at and, it is said, hit by a posse under Bailiff Teel in the south end of Tallapoosa county Friday. They failed to get him. He had his gun and fired back, it is said. Trouble has been brewing for some time, and news of a more serious nature may be looked for. Houses have been burned and other violations of the laws committed, and much ill-feeling is engendered.

Coming Back to Alabam'.

A large number of laborers from Gualan, Guatemala, where they have been working on a railroad, arrived at Mobile Wednesday night on the steamship Nicaragua. They deny that the railroad laborers down there have been ill-treated, but state that the country is very unhealthy and that large numbers of laborers are coming back home because the contractors have been forced to reduce expenses on account of a recent revolution among the people down there.

Unfortunate Rencountre.

A dispatch from Huntsville says news has been received there that Burt Hubert was perhaps fatally stabbed last Sunday by his brother-in-law, Tobe Connally. Mrs. George Hubert had loaned Connally her horse and buggy, which angered Burt, as he wanted them himself. An altercation resulted next day, during which Hubert started at Connally with a fence rail, and the latter stabbed him near the heart. The parties live near Moore's mill in the southeast corner of Madison.

Barnes Bound Over.

Rufus E. Barnes, the young white man who shot and killed the negro Crawford at Hall's commissary, Montgomery, Saturday night, was released on bail in the sum of $1,000 after a full and complete investigation before Justice Stokes. The magistrate, after hearing the evidence, ruled that he could not under the testimony discharge the defendant, yet he felt that the charge would not be of sufficient gravity to confine him in jail, so bail was fixed at $1,000. Barnes is a son of Detective Barnes, formerly of the Louisville and Nashville road, with headquarters in Birmingham. Mr. Barnes was present at his son's trial.

Public Spirited Negroes.

Whitfield & Williams, two enterprising and public-spirited negroes, of Scottsboro, who are in the saw mill lumber business there, have very generously offered Professor Council a car load of lumber toward the erection or rebuilding of Palmer hall at the State Normal and Industrial colored school near Huntsville. The losses from the burning of the building of Palmer hall have been adjusted and were placed at $5,338.81, which is on the building alone and does not include the worth of the many valuable books of the library. The trustees will now proceed to the work of erecting the new building.

Reports as to Crops.

Reports from Lawrence county leave no doubt that the crops are highly promising.

In Calhoun cotton is reported finer in the valley than for years and if seasons continue with no disaster the yield will exceed any crop raised in the last ten years.

In Pickens there has been too much rain during the past week. Cotton is growing luxuriantly, but it is said that it is going to weed. The corn that was planted early is not doing well.

In Bibb the crops about Centreville are not very promising just now, as there has been too much rain recently.

Huntsville's New Flour Mill.

Work is progressing rapidly on the flour mill building and it will not be a great while before the wheels will be in motion and Huntsville home-made flour of the finest quality will be pouring out at the rate of 100 barrels per day. This new enterprise will insure the best market price for Madison and adjoining counties' wheat and give a strong impetus to the increase of wheat growing in the Tennessee valley, of which Huntsville is the trade center. It will increase Huntsville's trade in all mercantile lines, for when the farmer sells his wheat he will just do his trading there, while he is at the door of all his wants in home and farm supplies.

A Game of Craps—A Knife.

A fight occurred in a grove near the new Baptist church, Gadsden, between two white men over a game of craps. One, named J. W. Buckalew, called Tom Coussey a vile name, when Coussey drew a 3-inch blade knife and cut Buckalew twice. One wound was between the seventh and eighth ribs and one between the fifth and sixth ribs. The latter one penetrated the lung. He is dangerously wounded and cannot possibly live. He has a wife and two children. Coussey is only 19 years old and has a young wife and an aged mother. He is a tough customer and seems to be unconcerned about his case. He fled, but was captured in Dwight City.

Sleeping on the Track.

Charles Denson, colored, was struck by a freight train, about one mile east of Paint Rock, Saturday afternoon, and fatally wounded. He had spent the night before in the calaboose for being drunk and disorderly, and when released Saturday morning he again loaded himself with whisky and started for his home, which is about two miles up the railroad. When struck by the train he was sitting on the end of the ties asleep, and on account of some elder bushes being near the engineer could not see him until within a few car lengths of him. The railroad company is furnishing the injured man all necessary medical attention, but little hope is entertained for his recovery.

Coosa River Navigation.

The Southern railway opened its new bridge over Coosa river Thursday and it worked without a hitch. It is expected, that the government will commence work in a few days with a view of the completion of lock 4, just above the Riverside draw bridge, and with the advent of the new year steamboats may be looked for at Riverside on the Coosa, one of the nicest streams for navigation in the south, with high banks and beautiful scenery. A great transportation route for coal, iron and timber. At the present time thousands of logs in rafts are run to Riverside monthly, where they are converted into lumber to be shipped to various states by rail.

Typographical Union.

The regular monthly meeting of Birmingham Typographical Union No. 104 was held Wednesday afternoon in Erswell hall.

Among other business transacted the dues of the union were increased from 1 per cent on each dollar earned by its members to 2 per cent. This increase was brought about for the purpose of establishing a sick benefit fund for the members. The election for delegate to the International Typographical Union, which meets in Colorado Springs in October, was ordered held on the 29th instant. Considerable interest is being taken in this election. Colorado Springs is the location of the Childs-Drexel home for union printers, one of the best institutions of the kind in the United States.

Celebration at Guilford.

Ten thousand people attended the annual celebration at the historic Guilford battle ground, N. C., Saturday. The address was delivered by United States Senator Marion Butler.

OUR COUNTRY'S COMMERCE.

With the Big Cotton Crop in View Mills Close.

MARKETS ARE FLUCTUATING.

Notwithstanding an Increase of 60 Per Cent in Exports of Wheat for Five Weeks, as Compared to Last Year, No Corresponding Advance in Price Appears.

Current movements have been as largely of a temporary character or else purely speculative on the day-by-day plan that they are not highly instructive. Thus an extensive shut-down of cotton mills is solely in the hope that half production in July and August may clear a largely overstocked market. Stock fluctuations were still more ephemeral, including two sharp declines, and partial rallies within a week, both laboriously ascribed to various political causes, but mainly due to keen operators who saw a chance for a quick turn. Extended views of the half year's operations in the old branches of manufacture go far to explain numerous stoppages. In woolens they are without concert, mills waiting for orders; the sales of wool have not been a third of last year's for the same week. Prices are depressed, but still depend on foreign possibilities. In cotton goods the close of many mills, both north and south, for half of July and August is in effect a recognition of the fact that heavy stocks of goods, manufactured from cotton costing between 7¼ and 8½c, could be expected to show profits if the mills go on manufacturing until a new and probably heavy crop of cotton is ready. The reduction of prices has brought out a large demand in many cases, but not enough to meet the output of the mills. A further decline in print cloths to 2⅛c is significant, when such production is assured.

The output of iron has largely decreased and there is a quite general stoppage of works for repairs, but the annual controversies about wages have in most cases been settled and it is believed will be settled in all without strikes.

Wheat declined 1⅛c and recovered 1c, but the receipts continued remarkably large. Atlantic exports show an increase and for five weeks, flour included, have been 9,847,678 bushels against 5,835,427 last year. The stocks in sight are better than a year ago and the winter wheat yields less, spring wheat seems only with fair weather to yield more than last year.

Corn promises remarkably well and also oats.

Cotton generally needs rain in parts of Texas, but the best of reports come most from other sections, and a large increase in acreage is generally reported. The closing of many mills causes another decline of a sixteenth in the price and proves that past consumption has to a considerable extent been real.

Failures for the past week have been 257 in the United States, against 197 last pear, and 32 in Canada, against 24 last year.

Cheyennes Getting Troublesome.

A special from Helena, Mont., says; The Cheyenne Indians have donned their war paint and are holding powwows, preparatory to a general uprising. Several troops of the Tenth cavalry have been ordered from Fort Custer to the Cheyenne agency at Lame Deer, Custer county, Mont. The Cheyennes have been unusually violent and ill-tempered this spring, and the depredations upon the cattle and stock of the white settlers have been more extensive than they have been for a number of years, and evidently committed in a spirit of pure maliciousness.

Other Mills Shut Down.

Owing to the present unsatisfactory condition of business, the Everett mills, Lawrence, Mass., will shut down Friday, July 10, and remain closed until Tuesday, September 8, unless there should be sufficient improvement in the business situation to warrant an earlier start. About 1,200 hands are employed.

THE PLATFORM.

"The People's Party of the State of Alabama, in convention assembled, recognizing the supremacy of political liberty over all the questions that can come before the people of the State for solution at the general State election, to take place on the 3rd day of August, 1896, reaffirm our allegiance to the cardinal principles of Populism as follows:

"First—We demand a free ballot and a fair count.

"Second—We believe in the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of international agreement.

"Third—We demand that miners and others like corporate labor be paid in lawful money of the United States semi-monthly.

"Fourth—We favor a tariff for revenue, so adjusted as to protect, as far as practicable the farmers, and the labour in our shops, mines, factories and mills, and their products against foreign pauper labor.'t

Judge Zell Gaston's amendment to the 2d section was as follows:

"We demand the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the abolition of national banks, the expansion of the currency to meet the needs of the people and the demands of commerce, free from the control of corporate influences, and we condemn the issue of interest bearing bonds in time of peace."

Next came a lot of resolutions, which passed unanimously:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that our representatives in congress be and are hereby requested to use their best endeavors to secure appropriations by the Federal Government to open the Warrier River to navigation from the coal fields to the Gulf of Mexico."

"Resolved, That our county appointing boards are hereby requested to give to the political opposition a competent inspector at every polling place in their respective counties,

"And we further request the inspector so appointed to give a competent clerk and fixer at each polling place to said political opposition."

THE Democratic National convention is now in session at Chicago. The silver Democrats appear to hold control and may possibly produce a straight unequivocal platform. Whom they will nominate for the presidency it is impossible at this moment to say, although more unlikely things may happen than the nomination of the Republican Senator Teller.

VOTE the straight Populist ticket

MR. W. C. Fitts, who at present is filling the position of Attorney-general although never elected to that office, and who is anxious to retain his grip, made a speech at Clanton on Wednesday which to speak mildly can only be described as inaccurate in every particular. He evidently recognized the fact that his audience was composed largely of Populists and to the best of his small ability he occupied the time in vilifying Populists generally and in repeatedly making the assertion that no matter what Chilton county may do at the coming election the remainder of the State would elect the Democratic ticket. This is the sort of nonsense Democratic speakers are talking all over the State, in the vain hope of securing some votes to help reduce the overwhelming majority which the Populist ticket will undoubtedly secure. Facts speak for themselves, and this morning's State-Herald contains no less than 54 Democratic speeches with appointments all over the State whose main argument is the Democrats are going to be elected so you may as well help to elect them. They know full well this cry is false but hope it may have some effect.

HON. Sam Adams and Hon. A. P. Longshore, two of the best known Populists in the State, and especially loved by the people of Chilton county, will make public addresses on the political issues of the day, at Clanton next Monday morning commencing at 10 o'clock. This will be one of the most interesting occasions of the present campaign as time has been offered to the opposition and we understand Mr. Tipton Mullins has undertaken to reply on their behalf. All our county candidates are expected to be present and we anticipate seeing the largest crowd that has been out during this campaign.

IN our county politics we are glad to find that the introduction of the Democratic ticket has already had the effect of solidifying the ranks of the Populist party. Some few of our good friends who were not altogether pleased at the result of our primary, at once perceived the cloven foot in the so-called "citizens ticket" and are now working as hard as they can for the Populist ticket. The prospects are improving rapidly every day for a larger majority for our State and county ticket than Chilton has ever yet returned.

DEMOCRATS of the fifteenth senatorial district held a convention at Wetumpka last Thursday and nominated Mr. Frank Baldwin of Verbena as their standard bearer. Mr. Baldwin has not the remotest prospect of success.

PEOPLE'S PARTY CALL.

The Executive Committee of the People's Party of Chilton County is called to meet at Clanton on Monday, July 13, at 9 o'clock, for the purpose of arranging for the present campaign.

All candidates of the party in the county are requested to attend this meeting, as it is thought necessary to have a conference of the committee and candidates before the details of the campaign have been decided upon.

storms

The Weather Bureau employs a skilled force of men, supplied with the most delicate scientific instruments, to foretell the weather. Perhaps you know when a storm is brewing without any word from the papers. Your bones ache and your muscles are sore. Your chronic muscular rheumatism gives sure warning of the approaching storm. Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, would be a most valuable remedy for you. The oil, with its Iodine and bromine, exerts a peculiar influence over the disease, and the hypophosphites render valuable aid.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been endorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby.

Editor BANNER: Please publish this letter in your paper. It explains itself. It was sent to Mr. Hicks at Plantersville a few days ago.

To Mr. Hicks, Plantersville, Ala.

Dear Sir: As you are nominated by the Democrats of this county for representative and the People's Party has nominated me for the same office, and as there are important questions before the people, I think they ought to hear you and myself express ourselves on these questions, especially as to what kind of man we will cast our vote for for United States Senator. I am sure there will be an effort to repeal the obnoxious election law, and instead enact one that will be fair to all parties. As I think the people might like to hear us on these questions and many others, I will meet you in joint debate in different parts of the county on fair terms and I assure you that nothing unpleasant will be engaged in on my part, but that I will discuss the issues between your party and mine. Please let me hear from you and if you accept please state what terms will suit you.

Respt. your friend.

Editor BANNER: Now that the primaries are over and everything settled down let us work in union and harmony; let us turn out on the first Monday in August and as we have a first-class State and county ticket let us strive and make every honorable effort to poll up the largest majority for our ticket that has ever been polled since the organization of our party. This we are confident we will do, and those little fellows who call us jackasses, clodhoppers, Mormons, and all the unbecoming names that they can think of, let us ship them to their homes and learn them that we are men. Yes, fellow citizens, let us hold up our party and right and justice will prevail. Yours truly,

J. L. THOMAS.

Donaldsonville, Ga., July 1, '96.

Editor BANNER: As I have never seen any news from this section of the political field, I thought I would give you a few sketches. The political field is ripe for harvest and I hope every true Populist will turn out and support every man from constable up to the president, and then let us all turn out in November and roll up the largest majority ever yet polled for the Populist party and win a great victory.

Gentlemen and Brother Populists the time has come that something has to be done and done right away for if we don't we had just as well give up and go under bondage, for the old parties have got us right to the place now, and if we don't do something right now they will put the yoke of bondage on us, they are trying to fool us again. The free silver Democrats are howling free silver! They think they will get the Populists to vote with them, and they will get some of the weak-kneed ones, but I can't see to save my life how they can have any faith in them. What did they promise us in 1892? They howled free silver and preached free silver doctrine. That was done so they could ride in office on the Populist ticket, and now they have started up the same old game, but that old game wont work so well this time.

There is not but one party friendly to silver and that is the Populist party. The free silver Democrats don't say anything about the ratio—whether it is 10 to 1, 20 to 1 or 16 to 1.

May the Lord help the people to turn their backs on such a party. Common sense ought to teach the people better than to put any confidence in any such party as that. With best wishes to the BANNER and its readers I am yours truly,

J. R. B.

Verbena, Ala., June 28, 1896.

Editor BANNER: As all the different county caucuses and conventions have been held, would it not be well for all Populists to ask the questions where am I at? Am I lending all the ability with which God has blessed me to the success of those principles so dear to the heart of every reformer? Is there among us those who for some real or fancied wrong have decided to give to our ticket only a different or careless support or perhaps to even sulk in their tents and let all go by default? I hear there are some such, and to those I would appeal to not let the failure of self or friend drive you from your allegiance so long as the principles of the party remain unchanged. You have perhaps been disappointed in your aspirations, betrayed by pretended friends, maligned by enemies, and your patience sorely tried, but remember that such is politics and when you submitted your name you could not but expect that the tongue of slander and falsehood would reach you and your best motives, if possible, misconstrued and used as a means for your destruction, but despite all this, behind you stand the oppressed victims of vicious legislation throughout the land, dependent upon you and others like you for relief, and no matter what may be your private grievances let me beg all such to immolate those grievances upon your country's altar and give to our ticket—State and county—your hearty support.

We have in this county what I would term a conglomerated ticket, masquerading under the name of the "Citizens' ticket" gotton up for the purpose of taking in all elements opposed to the Populist ticket, Democrats, Republicans and disgruntled Populists, therefore I would suggest that it be called the Demo-Republico-Popuo-get-there-oh party.

One question suggests itself right here, what is the purpose of this movement, nothing more nor less than to demoralize and divide our forces, else why endorse some of our men and antaganize others? What is the difference between them, they all stand pledged to the same principles and line of conduct and the only hope is to profit by the personal unpopularity of some one; then beware of the leaven of the Pharisees.

The prospects of the reformers were never so bright as now, then let us have no laggards but every man to his post prepared to do his whole duty.

In conclusion, let me say that of the many candidates for assessor I have seen no word of thanks to the friends that stood by them, neither the successful nor defeated aspirants, and being the hindmost log in the race I hate to be the first to say anything. However, let me say to those who honestly opposed me it was your privilege, I have no cause to complain to those who threw mud at me that they were engaged in a dirty work and I can only hope that the recoil may not fall on the unoffending head of anyone, and last, though by no means least, to the faithful few who so manfully stood by me through evil as well as good report, I can think of no words appropriate to express to you the thanks I would like to, and can only promise you your trust shall not be betrayed, but like the Scotch warrior;

Lochiel unfettered by fetters or chains,
While the kindling of life in his bosom remains;
Will victor exult or in death be laid low
With his back to the field and his feet to the foe.

Respectfully,
J. J. L. STEWART.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as its name implies, gives in readable form the best that appears in the other great magazines all over the world, generally on the same date that they are published. With the recent extraordinary increase of worthy periodicals, these careful reviews, summaries, and quotations, giving the gist of periodical literature, are alone worth the subscription price.

Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the 'REVIEW OF REVIEWS,' which is a sort of Eiffel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."

LIVE WASHINGTON NOTES.

The President Denies Executive Clemency for Johnson and Searcy.

CITY OF RICHMOND RELEASED.

Statement of Uncle Sam's Treasury Matters—Excess of Government Expenditures for Fiscal Year Ending June 30 Much Lower Than Previous Year.

Value of Foreign Silver Coins.

Mr. Preston, the director of the mint, has adjusted the values at which foreign coins are to be received by United States customs offices during the next quarter. The values are increased on a basis of $0.6705 per ounce of silver, as against $0.6820 on April 1, 1896.

Better Than Last Year.

The indications now are that the excess of government expenditures over receipts for the fiscal year ending June 30 will be about $25,500,000 as compared with a deficit of about $42,000,000 for the fiscal year 1895. The receipts for the present month will exceed the expenditures by about $1,400,000.

Executive Clemency Denied.

The president has denied the application for pardon in the cases of W. S. Johnson, sentenced in Georgia to eighteen months imprisonment and $1,000 fine and costs for scheming to defraud and conspiracy and Thomas M. Searcy sentenced in Alabama to one year and one day imprisonment and fine for fraudulent use of the mails.

Filibustering Steamer Released.

Mr. Chamberlain, commissioner of navigation of the treasury department, received a telegram Thursday from Key West announcing the release of the filibustering steamer City of Richmond. The dispatch states that the vessel and cargo of arms were released, no violation of law having been found against her.

Unwilling to Pardon Them.

President Cleveland denied pardons in several pension cases Monday among which was that of Stephen O. W. Brandon, of Bernosea. In the Brandon case he said:

"Denied. I am unwilling to pardon those who, in violation of our pension laws, overcharge applicants for pensions for the services they render in substantiating their claims."

Adding the New Stars.

For the first time Saturday the flag of the United States was floated with forty-five stars on its blue field, indicating the admission of Utah to the sisterhood of states. General orders issued by the war and navy departments have prepared the way for the change, and for several months past the flagmakers have been busy in placing a new star on the flags in stock. From economical considerations the old army flags will not be retired at once, but will be replaced only as they are worn out in service by the new ensigns. In the case of the naval flags the change was more easily made, for all of these flags are made at the New York and Mare island navy yards, while those on hand on shipboard may be readily altered by the expert sailmakers.

Educational Progress.

The total enrollment in educational institutions of all kinds in the United States for the school year of 1893-94 was nearly 16,000,000, according to the report for the year just promulgated by Commissioner of Education Harris. Of these all but 506,000 were in the regular schools, an increase of about a half million for the year. The percentage of total population enrolled in the schools was 20.53. School property gained in value during the year over $36,000,000 and 1,103 more school houses were in operation. In the past twenty years the south has increased 54 per cent in population, but its school attendance has increased 130 per cent more than twice as fast as the population. In the twenty years from 1874 to 1894 the value of school property in the south increased from $16,000,000 to $51,000,000—an addition of $40,000,000, or $2,000,000 a year.

Improving the Senate Chamber.

Beginning this week the historic old United States senate chamber is to be subjected to a complete and thorough overhauling, against the reassembling of the senate next December. When the improvements are all finished even Senator Morrill, who has occupied a seat in the venerable chamber almost thirty years, will scarcely know the place when he enters it, so radical will the change be. The galleries are to be entirely removed and replaced by new ones of fresh design and modern appointments. The old pale-blue wooden benches will be superseded by rising tiers of opera chairs richly upholstered and luxuriously comfortable. As a consequence such a thing as a crush in the senate galleries will be unknown hereafter, since their capacity will be a matter of exact computation, and when that limit is reached it cannot be exceeded. Besides the reconstruction of the galleries a new and improved system of ventilation will be introduced, including a special refrigerating apparatus, designed to keep the air cool and comfortable at all times. Electric bells also, like those in the house of representatives, will be rigged up in the senate chamber for convenience in summoning page boys, and some improvements will be made in the steam heating service. The sundry civil appropriation for the coming fiscal year, beginning on Wednesday, contains an item of $55,000 for the above improvements of the senate wing of the capitol, and plans have been perfected for beginning the work at once.

Uncle Sam's Treasury Matters.

The gold reserve at the close of business Wednesday was $101,408,759. Withdrawals during the day amounted to $217,000.

The treasury department authorized the treasurer at New York to reduce the premium on gold bars from ⅛ to 1-10 of 1 per cent.

The debt statement issued Wednesday shows a net increase in the public debt, less cash in the treasury, during June of $1,820,653. The interest bearing debt increased $1,875,300. The non-interest bearing debt increased $164,429 and cash in the treasury increased $238,866. The balances of the several classes of debt at the close of business June 30 were: Interest bearing debt, $847,363,890; debt on which interest has ceased since maturity, $1,636,890; debt bearing no interest, $373,728,570. Total, $1,222,729,350.

The certificates and treasury notes offset by an equal amount of cash in the treasury outstanding at the end of the month were $547,110,971, a decrease of $4,536,000. The total cash in the treasury was $853,305,635. The gold reserve was $100,000,000. Net cash balance, $167,432,990.

In the month there was a decrease in gold coin and bars of $7,296,779, the total at the close being $144,920,362. Of silver there was an increase of $1,192,876. Of the surplus there was in national bank depositories $16,637,884 against $16,162,972 at the end of the preceding month.

The comparative statement of receipts and expenditures of the United States issued by the treasury department Wednesday for the fiscal year ended June 30 shows the total receipts to have been $326,[illegible] and the expenditures $352,[illegible]. The receipts for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1895, were $313,390,075, and the expenditures for the same period were $356,195,298. This gives a gain of $12,[illegible] in revenue for the year just ended and a decrease of $3,[illegible] in expenditures. For the year ended June 30 the customs receipts were $160,[illegible] against $152,[illegible] for the year ended June 30, 1895. During the year just ended the receipts from internal revenue were $146,[illegible], an increase of $3,[illegible] over the fiscal year ended June 30, 1895.

The expenditures on account of pensions for the year just ended amount to $139,[illegible], being a decrease of $1,[illegible] over the year ended June 30, 1895.

The receipts for June, 1896, amounted to $27,794,[illegible], against $25,[illegible] for the corresponding month last year. The expenditures for June, 1896, were $25,444,[illegible], against $21,[illegible] for June, 1895.

RIOTING IN OHIO.

One Man Killed—The Militia Under Arms—Police Charge the Mob.

The Brown Hoisting company, of Cleveland, O., is employing non-union labor. On Thursday evening one of their men, leaving the works on a bicycle, was attacked by a part of the mob. He shot one of his assailants dead. He was rescued by the police, who, with the aid of four companies of militia, that were hurried to the scene, finally carried him, safely to the police station. At hour of quitting the men left the works escorted by 150 policemen. The crowd followed, yelling "Scab." The officers marched steadily forward to Case, up Windsor to Wilson avenue. At the Fourth precinct station, near Euclid, a halt was made and the workmen sent into the station. Then the policemen formed again across the street.

At this time the following party was a dense black crowd, reaching far down Wilson avenue. Suddenly the word "charge" was heard and the police sprang forward like the shot of a gun. In a moment they were upon the vanguard of the crowd. The latter were dumbfounded. There was a waver and all turned and fled. But they were too late to escape punishment. The batons of the police were falling like hail upon the heads of the men. The crowd was panic stricken. Two cars blocked the way north of Wilson avenue and the men, women and children were packed together in a tight mass, yelling and shrieking. One part broke away and ran down the Cleveland and Pittsburg tracks close at hand. Another went south on Wilson avenue. Men were lying unconscious on the streets or crawling around in a vain attempt to reach their feet. The police, dividing into squads, charged after the crowd, determined to inflict punishment severe and unrelenting. This lasted for several minutes, and then returning squads of policemen began to gather up unconscious men and others who were staggering around as a result of severe blows.

GOLD FIELDS OF ALASKA.

Some Trying to Get Away—Prospectors Still Pouring In.

William Hutchinson returned to Tacoma, Wash., Tuesday from Cook's Inlet, Alaska, where he spent two months. He came down on the Norma which left Kodiak June 10 with thirty-two passengers, all she could carry, though ninety wanted to come. Hutchinson says there are 1,750 people on Six Mile creek and about as many on Resurrection creek. About 750 of them are making from $2 to $15 per day at placer mining, but the remainder, he says, are absolutely helpless and unable to find enough to keep them alive. As a rule, the gold consists of such light flakes that a breeze blows it away. Many of the prospectors would like to go to the Yukon country. That, however, is 200 miles away, and it is currently reported that the Copper river Indians who live there, are on the warpath. Hutchinson thinks there will not be enough steamers to accommodate the people who want to leave Cook's Inlet this summer. Prospectors are still pouring in there, the steamer Dora landing 125 from Sitka on June 6

Another Successful Job.

Negotiations were closed Friday by which the government becomes owner of the site of the famous "battle above the clouds," on Lookout mountain, and the property will soon be converted into an adjunct of the Chickamauga-Chattanooga national military park. The deal was effected through national commissioners with the Cravens heirs. The distinguishing feature of this battle was a fierce charge, in which General Joe Hooker assaulted the lines of General Walthall, of Mississippi. General Walthall was in command of this outpost on the left Confederate besieging lines, and had headquarters in the Cravens house. The tract purchased is ninety-two acres of valuable residence property, situated half way up the side of the mountain, and very accessible by rail.

PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM.

Second Paper by Prof. Edward L. Patton, of Eutaw.

EDUCATIONAL NEEDS OF ALABAMA

People Need Arousing; School Laws Need Mending; the Cause Needs Lifting Above Politics; More Professional Teachers Needed, Longer Terms, Prompt Payment.

If there is a state in the union that needs more educational facilities it is Alabama. We need so many that it is hard to know just exactly where to begin. But I will mention a few of the most urgent. First and foremost, we need for our people to be more thoroughly aroused upon the question of educating our youth. More interest from the people in general. In some parts of the state the people are interested; in others they are lethargic. We certainly need more [illegible] to lift our state from its present scale of illiteracy. Second, we need more money. This is a vital question and one that seems hard to master with our finances and revenues in their present condition. It has been shown in my first article how this can be done and it is to be hoped that we have men who are able to cope with the situation and extend our school system. Third, we need better laws, as many that we have now are a drag and a burden to the public schools of the state. The school laws need a thorough revision. That part of our constitution that prevents a tax being made for school purposes should be amended. We certainly need a better system of payment. You may say a better financial system for the schools than we now have. Teachers need their money, and they need it regularly and promptly, yet by the system of payment now in vogue they are compelled to wait three months, sometimes six, and in case of poll tax money a year. I have waited nearly a year for poll tax money for a school taught nearly a year previous. The taxes are assumed to be collected the year preceding; we will say that poll taxes collected in October, 1895, and [illegible] should be ready to be paid by October, 1895, yet such is not the case, and the teacher must wait frequently until July, 1896, before being able to obtain payment from such taxes for services rendered. I know what I am talking about, because I have had the experience, and I know others who have. This should not be. Why is it that the state holds this money, while the teacher is deprived of it? Frequently to great disadvantage. The teacher gets no interest for the money thus used and the financial system should be so that the teachers can get their money promptly and regularly. The state of Tennessee issues her school warrants at the end of every month and they are good when presented. Other states do the same. Why can't Alabama?

We need more professional teachers. It is very creditable for a young man to earn money to educate himself, or to obtain the money to study another profession. It is very noble for a young woman to support herself, or help the family, but should the teacher, who has studied teaching as a profession, be so discounted? Should the child, so delicate a construction, a model for citizenship, a model for eternity, be placed in incompetent hands? It is frequently the case. There are many who only teach a short time who do good work, but teaching with another object in view is not to the best interest of a thorough educational system. Then again it keeps many who are thoroughly competent from entering as a profession. Some of the reasons for this is that where so many engage to teach for some of the causes mentioned, it lowers the standard of teaching, it lowers the standard of an education. It causes poor pay. Because a teacher who has spent both time and money to study professionally cannot teach for the salary that a teacher who has not done so can. The people soon want a cheap teacher and are not willing to pay any other kind. In view of these facts, I am led to believe that we need a law that will not grant a license under two years for a second grade, and four years for a first grade teacher. The persons proposing to teach must obligate themselves to such a license. If ever there was a curse upon the state, it is politics in the school. Yet no one can deny that such has been the case in Alabama. Many schools have been rent in twain by prejudicial politics. Communities have been divided and split up until in many places it is almost impossible for a good school to exist, because of the animosity existing between people differing on political issues. Let me repeat that politics has been a baneful curse to our schools. We certainly need every issue segregated from any political influence. We certainly need less three months' schools! Why? One reason is that so many people are content to have their children attend school for that period that the parents have gotten indifferent about their children attending school for a longer time. They depend on some little three months' school to educate their children and will not make any effort for a longer term of school. I have said that a three months' school is almost a curse to any community. I do not want to be misunderstood just here, so will state my reasons.

1. No teacher can thoroughly understand his pupils in less time than that, then just as he is beginning to understand the pupil, and the pupil the teacher's methods and his ways, school closes. The consequence is the majority of pupils forget what they have learned, and when the next three months comes, a large portion of the work must be done over. What business man can make a living only keeping his business going three months in the year? What farmer can produce a crop only tending his farm three months in the year? The same way in all business. Now, then, what kind of education can be built up only three months in the year?

2. The people seem to think that the state must educate their children, and in many cases patrons depend upon a poor, little three months' school, and will not make any efforts to keep a school longer.

3. Teachers who follow teaching as a profession cannot afford to teach only three months in the year, because they cannot make a living for themselves.

4. It causes so many teachers to change from place to place, all of which is detrimental to good school work. This last does not refer to the professional teacher, but to many others who follow teaching only for a short time. Many are worthy and do good work, but a large per cent are unfit for teaching, but they teach cheaply and in some places people seem to want that kind of teachers. We need many of these defects remedied; this can only be done by changes in our our school laws. These defects are glaring. Further attention will be given to other educational needs for Alabama. But let us sum up these already given so that they may appear plainly to our view:

1. Our people need arousing in educational interest.
2. We need money.
3. Our public school laws need a thorough revision.
4. We need less politics in school districts.
5. We need more professional teachers.
6. We need less three months schools and more longer terms.
7. We need a compulsory education law.
8. We need a law that will permit taxation for educational purposes.

Iron and Steel Workers.

The new scale of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers went into effect Wednesday. The scale is a slight advance over that previously paid. The mill operators who have not as yet signed the new scale are shutting down for repairs. So far the best of feeling exists among the employers and men and the common opinion is that the scale of wages will be signed at the proper time when the mills are ready to again begin operations.

The new scale of 40 cents per ton for coal mining also went into effect Wednesday. The miners are elated over the advance. Work is reported fair, some of the miners working full time. Saturday next has been set apart for a grand jollification at Blue Creek, Blocton, Bessemer and other places over the advance.

Walker County Coal Association.

S. L. Finley, of Memphis, Tenn., has been appointed commissioner of the Walker County Coal Association. He will succeed Mr. T. F. Steele, who has been appointed division freight agent of the Alabama Great Southern railroad, with headquarters at Birmingham, a position Mr. Steele resigned last fall to accept the office he will now vacate to return to his former occupation.

The Walker County Association met in Memphis, Tenn., Tuesday with the representatives of the coal companies of Tennessee to consider the resignation of Mr. Steele. The general state of business was also discussed, and it was ascertained that for the period of the year the coal business in Alabama is not unusually dull—in fact, it is as good as could be expected.

Boiler Exploded—Usual Result.

A terrible accident happened at an early hour Thursday morning on the Louisville and Nashville railroad seventy-two and a half miles north of Birmingham and one and a half miles south of Hartselle. The boiler of an engine exploded, killing three men, injuring another and wrecking eighteen cars. The killed are: James Jones, engineer; Dan Akins, colored, fireman; L. Jenkins, colored, front brakeman. Injured, A. C. Sandford, flagman.

The engine was No. 230, and was pulling southbound freight train No. 15. The noise of the explosion was heard for miles and miles around as the immense iron horse went to atoms. What caused the explosion will never be ascertained. Those who could possibly tell are now in the great beyond. It is conjectured that an insufficiency of water had something to do with it.

Rush of Natural Gas.

On Wednesday a tremendous rush of natural gas, estimated at 1,000,000 cubic feet per day, caused suspension of work on a well which the Burt Oil company of Harriman, Tenn., were drilling on the Eldridge farm, in Overton county, Tenn. This single well would supply the city of Chattanooga, with its 50,000 people, with illuminating gas. The entire area of central and northern Tennessee country is leased to oil prospectors and the excitement runs high.

VOL. IV. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JULY 16, 1896. NO. 38.

W. J. BRYAN NOMINATED.

The National Democratic Convention Performs Its Work.

SEWALL FOR VICE-PRESIDENT.

The Banner It Unfurls is for Free and Unlimited Coinage of Both Silver and Gold, Tariff for Revenue Only and the Abolition of National Bank Notes.

The national democratic convention assembled in Chicago last Tuesday.

At 1 p. m. the convention was called to order by Mr. Harrity, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the democratic national committee.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Ernest M. Sires, rector of Grace Episcopal church, Chicago.

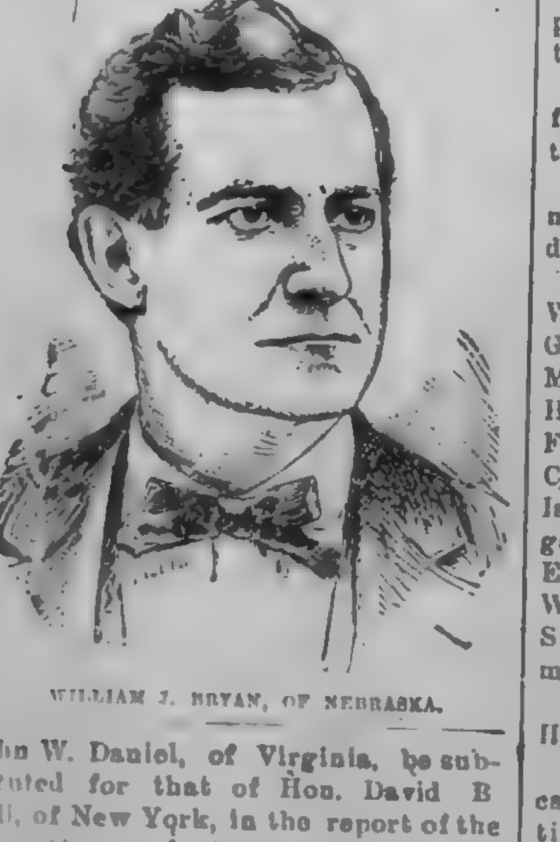
Chairman Harrity, by direction of the national committee, reported the following as the temporary organization of the convention:

Temporary Chairman, David B. Hill, of New York.

Temporary Secretary, Simon [illegible] Sheerin, of Indiana.

Sergeant-At-Arms, John I. Martin, of Missouri.

Henry D. Clayton, of Alabama, offered a minority report, signed by twenty-three members of the committee, recommending that the name of Hon. John W. Daniel, of Virginia, be substituted for that of Hon. David B. Hill, of New York, in the report of the committee, and that the Hon. John W. Daniel be chosen temporary chair[illegible]



WILLIAM J. BRYAN, OF NEBRASKA.

Upon the conclusion of the debate on the reports a roll call of the states was ordered on the question of the adoption of the minority report.

The vote, as announced by the chair was, ayes 556, nays 349. So the minority report was adopted and the Hon. John W. Daniel was escorted to the chair, and addressed the convention, closing with the announcement that the national democratic convention was now in session and would proceed to the business of organization.

After the adoption of resolutions of thanks to Chairman Harrity, the roll was called to give each state and territory an opportunity to name its selections for the several committees. When the appointment of the committees was completed the members of them withdrew for organization. The convention then adjourned until 10 o'clock Wednesday.

SECOND DAY.

The convention was called to order at 11 o'clock by the temporary chairman.

Prayer, by Rev. Thomas E. Greene, rector of Grace Episcopal church, Cedar Rapids, Ia.

The first business in order being the reports of committees, and no reports being ready the time was given to music and speeches until 1 p. m. At that hour the chair announced a partial report of the committee on credentials. The report gave each territory and the District of Columbia six votes and seated the contesting delegatoin (all silver) from Nebraska. The committee asked further time as to the Michigan contest. The report was adopted by a viva voce vote.

The temporary chairman was in his seat at 5:15, but it was 5:50 when the committee on credentials presented its complete report, upon which all other business was waiting. By this report the contesting (silver) delegates from the Fourth and Ninth Michigan districts were seated. A minority report was presented favoring the delegation as named on the temporary roll. A warm debate ensued at the conclusion of which the minority report was rejected by yeas 358, nays 558. The majority report was then adopted.

PERMANENT ORGANIZATION.

The report of the committee on permanent organization was then presented by Mr Finlay of Ohio, naming Senator White of California as permanent president of the convention and Thomas J. Cogan of Ohio as permanent secretary.

The report was adopted and Senator White was conducted to the chair. At the conclusion of the president's address, he had presented to him, by Mr. Clark of Montana, in behalf of the delegates of that state a silver gavel, from the mines of Montana.

The convention then adjourned until 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

THIRD DAY.

President White called the convention to order at 10:55 and Rev. Thomas E. Greene of Cedar Rapids, Ia., offered prayer.

Mr. Richardson, of Tennessee, was called to the chair, and Senator Jones of Arkansas, chairman of the committee on resolutions read the platform as finally adopted by the committee.

A minority report and two amendments by Mr. Hill, of New York, were read by one of the secretaries.

MINORITY REPORT.

The minority report declares that some of the declarations in the report of the majority are ill-considered and ambiguously phrased, while others are extreme and revolutionary of the well-recognized principles of the party.

The minority offers, as a substitute for the financial report of the majority, a declaration of which the first paragraph is as follows:

"'We declare our belief that the experiment on the part of the United States alone of free silver coinage and changing the existing standard of value independently of the action of other great nations would not only imperil our finances, but would retard or entirely prevent the establishment of international bimetallism, to which the efforts of the government should be steadily directed. It would place this country at once upon a silver basis, impair contracts, disturb business, diminish the purchasing power of the wages of labor and inflict irreparable evils upon our nation's commerce and industry.

The minority further declares in favor of the maintenance of the existing gold standard as essential to the preservation of the national credit until international co-operation for the coining of silver can be secured. It favors also "the gradual retirement and cancellation of all United States notes and treasury notes under such legislative provisions as will prevent undue contraction."

The minority report recommends the following amendment to the report of the majority:

"We commend the honesty, economy, courrge and fidelity of the present democratic national administration.

"Signed, David B. Hill, New York; William F. Vilas, Wisconsin; George Gray, Delaware; John Prentiss Poe, Maryland; Irving W. Drew, New Hampshire; C. O. Holman, Maine; P. J. Farrell, Vermont; Lynde Harrison, Connecticut; David N. Baker, Rhode Island; Thomas L. C. Weadock, Michigan: James O'Brien, Minnesota; John E. Russell, Massachusetts; Robert E. Wright, Pennsylvania; William R. Steel, South Dakota; Allen McDermott, New Jersey."

First amendment: "But it should be carefully provided be law, at the same time, that any change in the monetary standard should not apply to existing contracts."

Second amendment: "Our advocacy of the independent free coinage of silver being based on the belief that such coinage will effect and maintain a parity between gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, we declare as a pledge of our sincerity that if such free coinage shall fail to affect such parity within a year from its enactment into law, such coinage shall thereupon be suspended."

Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, offered an omendment denouncing the administration of President Cleveland, and addressed the convention in favor of the majority report. Senator Jones, of Arkansas, followed on the same line. Senators Hill and Vilas and Ex-Governor William E. Russell, of Massachusetts advocated the minority report and Bryan, of Nebraska, closed the debate for the majority.

ADOPTION OF THE PLATFORM.

At 3:15 the convention proceeded to vote on the minority report. It was rejected by yeas 303, nays 626.

The amendment endorsing the administration was lost. Yeas 357, nays 564.

Mr. Hill's two financial amendments were lost by a viva voce vote.

The platform as reported by the majority of the committee on resolutions was then adopted by yeas 628, nays 301, absent 1.

The conventian took a recess until 9 p. m.

NOMINATIONS.

Upon reassembling the convention was called to order by President White, who immeniately transferred the gavel to Mr. Richardson. The chair announced that the nominating and seconding speeches would be limited to thirty minutes, and that the roll of states would now be called for nomination.

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, nominated the Hon. Richard Parks Bland. Seconded by Mr. David Overmeyer, of Kansas, and Hon. J. R. Williams, of Illinois.

Hon. Fred White, of Iowa, presented the name of Ex-Governor Boies of that state. Seconded by A. D. Smith, of Minnesota.

Hon. John S. Rhea, of Kentucky, placed Senator Joseph C. Blackburn, of Kentucky in nomination. Seconded by W. W. Foote of California.

Mr. Patrick of Ohio, nominated John R. McLean of Cincinnati.

The roll call being completed at 12:35 a. m., the convention adjourned until 10 a. m.

SYNOPSIS OF PLATFORM.

Allegiance to the essential principles of justice and liberty—freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of conscience, the preservation of personal rights, the equality of all citizens before the law, and the faithful observance of constitutional limitations—is reaffirmed.

The party renews its obligations and reaffirms its devotion to the principles of civil and religious liberty.

We demand the free and unlimited coinage of both silver and gold at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation. We demand that the standard silver dollar shall be a full legal tender, equally with gold, for all debts, public and private, and we favor such legislation as will prevent for the future demonetization of any kind of legal tender money by private contract.

We are opposed to the policy and practice of surrendering to the holders of the obligations of the United States the option reserved by law to the government of redeeming such obligations in either silver coin or gold coin.

We are opposed to the issuing of interest-bearing bonds of the United States in time of peace.

We denounce the issuance of notes intended to circulate as money by national banks as in derogation of the constitution; and we demand that all paper which is made a legal tender for public and private debts, or which is receivable for dues to the United States shall be issued by the government of the United States and shall be redeemable in coin.

Taxation should be limited by the needs of the government, honestly and economically administered. We denounce as disturbing to business the republican threat to restore the McKinley law. Until the money question is settled we are opposed to any agitation for further changes in our tariff laws except such as are necessary to meet the deficit in revenue caused by the adverse decision of the supreme court on the income tax.

We hold that the most efficient way of protecting American labor is to prevent the importation of foreign pauper labor to compete with it in the home market.

We are in favor of arbitration of differences between employers engaged in interstate commerce and their employes, and recommend such legislation as is necessary to carry out this principle.

We demand the enlargement of the powers of the interstate commerce commission and such restrictions and guarantees in the control of the railroads as will protect the people from robbery and oppression.

We denounce the profligate waste of money and the lavish appropriations of recent republican congresses.

We denounce arbitrary interference by federal authorities in local affairs as a violation of the constitution of the United States and a crime against free institutions, and we especially object to government by injunction as a new and highly dangerous form of oppression, by which federal judges, in contempt of the laws of the states and rights of citizens, become at once legislators, judges and executioners.

Recognizing the just claims of deserving union soldiers, we heartily indorse the rule of the present commissioner of pensions that no names shall be arbitrarily dropped from the pension roll.

We favor the admission of the territories of New Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma into the union as states, and we favor the early admission of all the territories having the necessary population and resources to entitle them to statehood.

Public lands should be appropriated to the establishment of free homes for American citizens.

The Monroe doctrine must be maintained.

We extend our sympathy to the Cubans.

No man should be eligible for a third term to the presidential office.

The federal government should care for and improve the great interior water ways of the country.

Confiding in the justice of our cause and the necessity of its success at the polls, we submit the foregoing declaration of principles and purposes to the considerate judgment of the American people. We invite the support of all citizens who approve them and who desire to have them made effective through legislation for the relief of the people and the restoration of the country's prosperity.

FOURTH DAY.

President White called the convention to order at 10:55 and prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Greene.

Mr. Harrity, of Pennsylvania, put in nomination Robert Pattison, of that state.

Mr. Miller, of Oregon, in behalf of his state, nominated ex-Governor Sylvester Pennoyer.

BRYAN WINS.

Nominations being closed the secretary called the roll of states for balloting.

While the fifth ballot was progressing the names of Bland, McLean, Boies and Matthews were withdrawn.

Senator Turpie then moved to make the nomination of Bryan unanimous. There was objection on the part of the states not voting. The chair, however, decided the vote on Bryan's nomination unanimous, a majority voting for it.

The convention then took a recess until 8 p. m.

The convention reassembled a few minutes before 9 o'clock and, without transacting any business, adjourned to Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

FIFTH DAY.

At 11 a. m. the convention was called to order by the president. The name of candidates for vice-president being the first thing in order, George F. Williams of Massachusetts, John R. McLean of Ohio, James H. Lewis of Washington, George W. Fithian of Illinois, Sylvester Pennoyer of Oregon, Arthur Sewall of Maine, John W. Daniel of Virginia, Walter Clark of North Carolina, and Joseph C. Sibley of Pennsylvania were put in nomination.

SEWALL NOMINATED.

On the fourth ballot the vote was Bland 255, McLean 210, Sewall 97, Sibley 50, scattering 53.

Mr. Bland's name and that of McLean were then withdrawn. On the fifth ballot the McLean following went to Sewall. The nomination of Sewall was, on motion, made unanimous.

The usual resolutions of thanks were adopted and the convention adjourned without a day.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE IN NASHVILLE

An Entire Square in Ashes—Colored Fireman Fatally Injured.

A destructive fire visited Nashville at 12:30 Saturday, originating on the fourth floor of Rosenheim's retail dry goods store. It spread so rapidly that the interior of the establishment was gutted before the entire department was in operation. It quickly communicated to adjacent buildings, and, favored by the wind, the entire square, bounded by College, Deadrick, Church and Cedar streets, was soon in flames, and the efforts of the department were bent to confining the fire within the square. In this they were successful, but not until many handsome structures, including the Duncan and Commercial hotels on opposite sides of the streets, had been scorched and blistered and plate glass windows shattered. Not less than thirty-five business houses were destroyed, entailing a loss which conservative insurance adjusters say will approximate $300,000.

There were several casualties and numerous hair breadth escapes incident to the heroic fight of the firemen. Capt. W. M. Demoss, a brave colored fireman, and W. M. Silver, a member of his company, were cut off by a falling wall and borne down under a pile of debris. A shudder went through the crowd. They were thought to have perished. A few moments later they issued from the smoking ruins, Silver with no further injuries than a few bruises and cuts, Demoss is thought to be fatally hurt. Capt. Reuben Richard, colored, was seriously cut by fragment of plate glass. Several firemen fainted from over exertion and heat.

LATE TELEGRAPH NEWS.

M. Bookman Craig, a young gentleman who moved from Columbia, S. C., to Jacksonville, Fla., about a year ago, returned Thursday from his native city, bringing with him his bride, having been secretly married last Christmas and kept the affair from family and friends until he was ready to bring his bride to their new home.

A negro named Johnson broke into the section-house at Boca Ratones, the other day, and almost stole it bare. He was apprehended, and received a jail sentence of ninety days.

Fire broke out at 11 o'clock Wednesday night in the rear of Cohen & Peyren's paint shop, on Main street, San Luis Obispo, Cal. The water supply was inadequate. The Central hotel, adjoining the paint shop, was burned to the ground. The Hutchins block, occupied by Puig Bros. for a liquor store, a large frame building abutting the Hutchins block, the Bell photograph gallery, the Henderson block and the Brooks block were also burned. The loss is estimated at $250,000.

The latest estimate of damage in and near Pensacola, Fla., by the great storm on the Gulf, including shipping, city losses and losses of timber, fruit and farm products in the county, is from $600,000 to $800,000. The fruit and farm products in the county are a total loss and it is estimated that 30 per cent of the best timber in the county is down.

CRUSHED, MANGLED AND DEAD.

Twenty-five Killed and Eleven Injured in a Collision.

On Saturday evening an excursion train going out of Logan, Ia., was run into by a fast freight just at the outskirts of the city and ditched, killing twenty-five people and injuring eleven.

The train consisted of fifteen coaches, loaded down with members of the Union Pacific Pioneer association of Omaha and their families and friends. The excursion left Omaha early in the day, picking up recruits at Council Bluff, Missouri valley points and Woodbine, Ia. Its destination was Logan, Ia., which was reached about 10 a. m., and the day had been pleasantly spent. About 7 o'clock the journey homeward was commenced. The train had hardly passed the limits of the city and was rounding a curve when "down brakes" was whistled and then came a crash. The excursion train had been run into by a fast freight known as No. 38 and all the coaches were ditched. The engineers and firemen of both engines jumped and both crews escaped without injury. The conductor of the freight train says he was running on orders and that the excursion was not. The engineer and fireman of the excursion train disappeared after the collision, and this lends color to the story as told by the freight conductor.

His Last Hold-up.

Wednesday night as W. E. Lemerisce, postmaster of Forest Park, Ill., was sitting in his parlor in company with his son, his two daughters and two women visitors, the front door opened and a big negro carrying a big revolver walked in. He ordered young Lemerisce to stand, and, when he did so, told one of the girls to search the boy's pockets and hand over the money she found. While this was going on Mr. Lemerisce quietly stepped into the next room and, getting his own revolver, blew out the negro's brains. It is thought the negro intended to rob the postoffice.

The Gold Reserve.

Gold withdrawals Saturday amounted to $124,300, leaving the reserve at the close of business at $99,023,996.

EVENTS IN ALABAMA

Carefully Collated and Condensed for Our Readers.

DEPUTIES SENT TO ISHKOODA.

Remembering the Poor—Ambush and Slaughter—Alabama's Iron Market—Mehaffey's Fatal Fall, Industrial Progress—Remarkable Confession—Fine Crops.

Every Little Helps.

Jacksonville has a hose factory that employs fifteen hands.

Government Work at Riverton.

The work by the government forces on the lock of the Riverton canal is progressing admirably. During the month of June 2,800 cubic yards of masonry was laid.

Fayette Industrial Progress.

Fayette is gradually building up manufacturing industries. There is now in successful operation a tanyard, spoke and handle factory, grist mill, saw mill, planing mill, cotton gin, blacksmith shop, machine shop and trunk factory.

Into an Open Well.

Tom Sides, who had been missing since Monday, was found dead under the water in an old well near the Anniston Pipe and Foundry plant Thursday. It is supposed that Sides was walking near the well and in the darkness fell in. He leaves a wife and four children.

Alabama Iron Market.

The iron market is still very dull. No. 1 founday is selling at less than $6.50, which is the basis of the miners contract in the Birmingham district. There are few calls for quotations, and orders are not coming in. Iron is stagnant with no upward turn in sight. The yards are still full of the product and demand is far behind the supply.

Fine Crops—Superfine Hogs.

Fayette county crops are fine. Corn is earing well and cotton has a good weed, and in some parts of the county is the best ever grown in Fayette. Bud Cannon has imported from Ohio a pair of the finest hogs ever seen in West Alabama. They are the O. I. C. stock, about one year old and weigh over 400 pounds each.

She Remembered the Poor.

Mrs. Mitchell, who died recently near Birmingham left a will in which she made several gifts, and among them was $100 for the Charity hospital of this city. The total amount of property left did not come up to the amount of the gifts and they had to be prorated. The Charity hospital will receive $87, which amount the ladies of the Hillman hospital will receive on application.

Ambush and Slaughter.

Fannie Browning shot and fatally wounded James Partlow of Sheffield in Florence Friday. The shooting was done at the Browning woman's house. Partlow was entering the house when the woman, who was concealed under the steps, shot him. He ran several hundred yards after being shot three times. The woman claims the shooting was a mistake and that she took Partlow for another man. Partlow was taken to Sheffield today and will die. The woman is under arrest.

Unfortunate Accident.

News reached Huntsville Wednesday night of a very sad and unfortunate accident to the little 5-year-old son of John M. Hampton, near Meridianville Tuesday afternoon, cutting off his right leg by a mowing machine. Mr Hampton was mowing tall weeds near his house and his little son followed him, without his knowledge, and was concealed by the high weeds. A messenger for medicine reported the little fellow doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

Mehaffey's Fatal Fall.

Mr. W. H. Mehaffey, a carpenter employed at the car wheel works on Seventh street, Birmingham, died Saturday morning at the Hillman infirmary from the effect of a fall from a scaffold Friday afternoon. He, with some others, were erecting an overhead trolley when he fell, striking on his head and back. Drs. Copeland and Berry attended the injured man, but pronounced the wounds fatal. All that was possible to alleviate his sufferings was done, but to no effect and death relieved him of his sufferings. He lived at 2416 Avenue C and leaves a wife and daughter.

Florence Water Works.

The water works deal, by which the city of Florence is to purchase from the bondholders the water works plant for $125,000, is settled, so far as the city is concerned. The city council and the owners of the water works have reached an agreement which is satisfactory to both, and the papers for the formal transfer are being prepared. The deal now hinges upon the action of the legislature, which will have to authorize the issue of bonds by the city to purchase the plant. The matter will be presented to the legislature at its next session, and it is thought the issue will be authorized.

Coal Market Encouraging.

The mines are putting out a fair amount of coal for the usually dull season. The coal market is in comparatively good shape. There is demand for the supply. The turn at the mines this week was about the same as last. Orders are coming in for domestic and steam coal for delivery during the last of the month and later on. There is quite a tendency to improve. By the end of the month coal will be much more active and the miners, who are getting an advance of 2½ cents a ton by the new contract, will begin to enjoy the advance.

Two Gentlemen of Leisure.

William Sullivan and Edward McGhee, two young white men, were arrested by Officer Culpepper, of Birmingham, Thursday morning on the charge of burglary and grand larceny. After Detective Wiggins and Officer Culpepper had their men locked up safe they gave in and informed the officers where the goods they had stolen could be found. Acting on the information given them, Messrs. Culpepper and Wiggins went to Gate City and found a lot of clothing under a pile of old powder cans. These they brought to the city. Alderman Meade identified some of the goods, as did Rev. O. P. Fitzsimmons and Dr. Dabney.

Industrial Progress.

The Jefferson County Cotton Seed Oil mill, now being erected at East Birmingham by F. G. Kinney & Co., is nearing completion. Five car loads of machinery were received last week, and by next Saturday all of the machinery is expected to arrive, when things will be put in shipshape to begin crushing about August 20. The mill will handle about sixty-three tons of seed per day, and the product will be about 2,500 gallons of oil, twenty-five tons of hulls and three bales linters. From forty to sixty hands will be required to operate the mill. This is strictly a Birmingham enterprise, built by individual capital, and the only industry of the kind in the city.

Struck by a Train.

John Reed, colored, working with a section gang on the Alabama Great Southern road, was struck by a train near Irondale at 6 o'clock this morning and was seriously, though not necessarily fatally hurt. Freight train No. 51 struck the man. It seems that Reed was in a gang working in the middle of the track near Irondale when the train came along. The men were slow in getting out of the way, and Reed was struck. He was brought to the city and carried to the Hillman hospital, where Dr. Copeland attended him. His right foot was so badly injured that a partial amputation was necessary. His left leg was broken and a severe bruse was made on his left elbow.

Remarkable Confession.

A dispatch from Tuscaloosa says: News has just reached here that Commissioner Cline has confessed that the last grand jury drawn by the populites in this county was picked to indict democratic officials. At a joint debate Colonel Clements made this publicly known, and when Hon. F. S. Moody alluded to it later Steve Auxford, populist tax assessor, arose and denied that Mr. Cline said such a thing. Mr. Cline being in the audience, Mr. Moody asked him the direct question as to whether or not he had said what Colonel Clements had imputed to him. Mr. Cline promptly replied that Colonel Clements had stated the truth. Mr. Moody courteously thanked the commissioner and recommended his honesty and truthfulness.

Deputies Sent to Ishkooda.

The miners at Ishkooda are still holding out in their demands for more pay, and, as a precautionary measure against trouble and to protect men who may desire to work, deputy sheriffs have been sent there. About 500 miners are engaged in the strike. The mines are operated by J. W. Worthington & Co., who, it is said, have refused to accede to the demand for an advance in wages on the ground that there is very little demand at present for iron ore and the ore producers are not in a condition to increase wages under present conditions of the market. It was reported in Birmingham Friday that new men went to work Friday morning, but received threatening anonymous letters and quit. The deputies were sent out on the petition for guards in case an effort is made to prevent the new men from working. No violence whatever has thus far been reported.

Youth's Awful Death.

Jose M. Frazer, son of Rev. Guy Frazer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was jumping off a moving freight train at Coshocton, O., Wednesday evening, when he fell under the wheels and was torn to pieces, death resulting instantly. He had been visiting his aunt, Mrs. Frazer, at Frazerburg.

A little more honest politics is needed now worse than the so-called "honest money."

The senate very emphatically vetoed the president's veto in the matter of the river and harbor bill.

No currency system will benefit the people materially so long as the banks control the volume of money.

Labor is the true measure of value and Coxey's non-interest, good roads plan would fix a stable value on a day's labor.

Butler's bond bill stirred up all the latent vituperation in the stomachs of the gold bugs, and they belched forth rot as never before.

It is true that a gold dollar goes farther than any other dollar—it goes to Europe, but it never comes back until bonds are issued to buy it back.

The Fourth of July is coming but it is mockery to celebrate the same until the freedom from England, which our forefathers fought for, is restored.

The man who heads the democratic national ticket this year will have the honor of leading the greatest funeral procession the world ever witnessed.

Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge had the distinction of making the only gold bug speech in the Kentucky convention—and he hasn't paid that $30,000 to Madeline Pollard yet.

The best evidence that neither old party will bring prosperity to the people is that both have had a good chance under the most favorable conditions, and both have signally failed.

Speaker Reed declares he will not play second fiddle to tin-cup McKinley. All right; "Czar," we glory in your spunk. Just wait until 1900 and we'll lay you out with a populist.

It has been well said that the "preachers are, as a rule, the political idiots of the age"—but the college professors play them a close second-fiddle as the gibbering idiots of finance.

Wall street is growing bolder. It comes out flatly opposed to a government by vote of the people. May it be overtaken by hell on earth, and be forever plunged in fire and brimstone beyond.

If Henry Clews and the men whom he speaks for don't want to submit to be ruled by the "votes of an ignorant suffrage," let them go to Europe. The American people can get along without such anarchists as Clews.

It is now almost certain that the democratic party will declare for free silver in its national convention and nominate a free silver democrat—all by consent of Wall street. Where, then, will the silver party be?

When Wall street attempts to force a silver congress to violate its pledges to the people, then the earth will tremble in revolution. If Wall street will not submit to the voice of the people it will have to go. The people are in earnest.

It is constitutional for the people to pay the rich sugar trust a tax or bounty to increase its profits, but it is unconstitutional for the rich to pay an income tax into the treasury to help pay the running expenses of the government. So says the United States supreme court. Rats!

The eastern liars are defaming the west, by saying that it threatens to secede. Bosh! The only secession movement in this country is confined to the foreign spies and the traitors of Wall street. Henry Clews' cold-blooded anarchist letter from New York reveals the plot.

Banks of issue cannot be depended upon to preserve a uniform volume of currency. Without a uniform volume of currency prices will fluctuate, panics occur, and periods of depression and distress prevail. What we need is the abolition of all banks of issue, and restore the circulating medium to the government—the people.

THE PLATFORM.

"The People's Party of the State of Alabama, in convention assembled, recognizing the supremacy of political liberty over all the questions that can come before the people of the State for solution at the general State election, to take place on the 3rd day of August, 1896, reaffirm our allegiance to the cardinal principles of Populism as follows:

"First—We demand a free ballot and a fair count,

"Second—We believe in the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of international agreement.

"Third—We demand that miners and others like corporate labor be paid in lawful money of the United States semi-monthly.

"Fourth—We favor a tariff for revenue, so adjusted as to protect, as far as practicable the farmers, and the labour in our shops, mines, factories and mills, and their products against foreign pauper labor."

Judge Zell Gaston's amendment to the 2d section was as follows:

"We demand the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the abolition of national banks, the expansion of the currency to meet the needs of the people and the demands of commerce, free from the control of corporate influences, and we condemn the issue of interest bearing bonds in time of peace."

Next came a lot of resolutions, which passed unanimously:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that our representatives in congress be and are hereby requested to use their best endeavors to secure appropriations by the Federal Government to open the Warrier River to navigation from the coal fields to the Gulf of Mexico."

"Resolved, That our county appointing boards are hereby requested to give to the political opposition a competent inspector at every polling place in their respective counties,

"And we further request the inspector so appointed to give a competent clerk and fixer at each polling place to said political opposition."

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

Hon. S. M. Adams and other distinguished speakers will address the people of Chilton county at Kincheon on Thursday, July 23. All invited. Bring your baskets.

Hon. J. A. Logan, Hon. L. B. Pounds and others, will address the people of Chilton county at the following times and places:
Pilgrim's Rest, Friday, July 24 10 a.m
Stanton, Saturday, July 25, 10 a.m
Sardis, Saturday, July 25, 3 p.m

Everybody is invited to attend these meetings.

H. I. HONEYCUTT, Ch'm'n.

Clanton, July 13—(Special)—A joint debate was held here to-day between the Rev. S. M. Adams and Colonel Hibbard of Monroe county. The tirade of Adams was directed solely against Judge Caffey of Lowndes, whom he abused roundly.

WE reprint the above from the State-Herald of the 14th inst. as a sample of the "news" in that paper in order that the people of Chilton may decide for themselves the reliability of the State-herald's political "news." At the same time we respectfully refer the State-Herald to Col. Hibbard and get the opinion of that gentleman as to whether there is one word of truth contained in the last sentence. A newspaper correspondent should not indulge his prejudices at the expense of his veracity, but recently the State-Herald has published several "news" items from Chilton which if investigated would demonstrate their utter unreliability and in fact were so absurd we did not consider it worth while to notice them. Again we refer the State Herald to Col. Hibbard or any other reputable Democrat who was present at the joint debate on the 13th. and we will guarantee that not one of them will substantiate the report of the State-Herald's correspondent.

PUBLIC office is a public trust, and it is the duty of men who aspire to office to at least make themselves acquainted with the people they wish to represent. No intelligent, self-respecting voter can afford to vote for any man for any office—even if that office is only beat constable—unless he is acquainted with the candidate's general character and also his views on public questions. These remarks are suggested by the peculiar state of things existing among the Democrats of Chilton county. A few weeks ago they quietly nominated certain men for some of the county offices and from that time to this no one has heard a word from any of them. As to whether they are gold standard Democrats or silver Democrats, free trade Democrats or protection Democrats no one knows—possibly they do not know themselves and so keep quiet. Anyhow we repeat no intelligent, self-respecting voter can afford to throw his vote away on men he knows nothing about.

THE joint debate last Monday at Clanton between Hon. S.M.Adams and Col. Hibbard, of Monroe, who represented the Democrats, was unusually interesting. The courthouse was packed and the outside galleries crowded. It was the largest gathering we have had here in a long time. Mr. Adams led off with a speech of one hour with his customary eloquence, and maintained Populist principles with a vim and vigor that carried his audience with him. Col. Hibbard followed with a conservative speech, his main argument being that there is no difference in principle between Populists and Democrats, but only a difference of ways and means. This being generally admitted—we have always maintained that Populism was unadulterated Democracy, but not the "organized" Alabama variety—we shall yet hope to see the gallant Colonel advocating the Populist cause and voting the Populist ticket. He is much too good a gentleman to be engaged in the hopeless attempt to foist Captain Johnston upon the people of Alabama. Mr. Adams concluded in a forcible manner, and there is no doubt but that the joint debate added a considerable number of votes to the already large majority our ticket will poll two weeks from next Monday.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN, of Nebraska, who is generally considered a very good Populist, was nominated for president by the national democratic convention on a straight 16 to 1 silver platform. The platform, which will be found on page 4, is unquestionably Populist, and we await with great interest the proceedings of our national convention which meets in St. Louis next Wednesday. It maybe the national convention of the People's Party will endorse the nomination and thus insure the election of a silver man, instead of nominating another silver man and jeopardizing the cause of silver for an indefinite period.

No matter what course national politics may take, there is one paramount issue in Alabama, and that is honest elections. There is only one way to obtain that, and that is to vote for Goodwyn and the entire Populist ticket.

HON. A. T. GOODWYN
OUR CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

ABOVE we present our readers with a portrait of Hon. A. T. Goodwyn, the next governor of Alabama. No man in the State has a cleaner record than that borne by the distinguished gentleman who so well represented this district in the last State senate and who is yet so worthily representing the fifth Congressional district. The organized Democrats have in vain attempted to find some flaw in his record, but can find none. Misrepresentation has been largely indulged in and a recent issue of the leading Johnston daily contained a disgusting and scurrilous cartoon which no respectable paper would have published. Such means simply recoil on those who use them and we have full confidence that on the 3d day of August the people of Alabama will return such an overwhelming majority for Capt. Goodwyn as to render useless any attempt to overcome it by fraudulent returns from the black belt. To this end we know the good people of Chilton will largely contribute and we entreat every man to do his duty and help roll up the biggest majority ever returned from this county. We have hitherto given big majorities but this time let us surpass all previous efforts and give a bigger majority than ever before. Let every man come out and vote the straight ticket.

IN another column we publish a card from the Populist nominees in our county who were endorsed by the Democratic and Republican meetings, respectfully declining to accept the endorsement. This is just as it should be, and we are glad they have taken this action. It simply means that our nominees are all straight Populists and cannot be seduced from their allegiance At the same time, while they feel unable to support any but candidates of our own party, they will duly appreciate and be grateful to such of our Democratic and Republican friends who, desiring to see the best men in office, will cast their votes for them. The endorsement was practically an acknowledgment by our opponents that the ranks of organized Democracy did not contain men capable of filling our county offices or of course they would have put out a full ticket.

In some conditions the gain from the use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil is rapid. For this reason we put up a 50c. size, which is enough for an ordinary cough or cold, or useful as a trial for babies and children.

In other conditions gain must be slow, sometimes almost imperceptible, health can't be built up in a day. For this Scott's Emulsion must be taken as nourishment, food rather than medicine, food prepared for tired and weak digestions.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been endorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby.

DECLINED WITH THANKS.

Clanton, Ala., July 13, 1896

To our Democratic and Republican Friends:

We thank you kindly for the honor conferred upon us by your endorsing our nominations for the several offices for which we are the respective nominees of the People's Party in Chilton county, but we would most respectfully decline to accept the same as in any way binding upon us to support the Democratic ticket of the county or State, or any part of the same, or that our endorsement by you should in any wise operate against our own ticket either in the county or State as we understand has been suggested. We are Populites strictly from principle and do not propose to aid directly or indirectly in the support of any candidate other than the nominees of our own party.

Respectfully,
ALEX G. DAKE,
J. G. SMITHERMAN,
R. C. RIGGINS,
T. J. HUBBARD,
A. C. MIMS,

Clanton, Ala., July 15, 1896.

To the people of Chilton County:

Having considered the peculiar political conditions of these days, I have decided that my personal interests can be best administered without my holding public office or being a candidate for office. I have served nearly four years as county treasurer and have discharged the duties of the office to the best of my ability. I hope to carry with me upon my return to the position of a private citizen, the respect and good will of my fellow-citizens, whether we agree politically or not.

Thanking my friends for their kind expressions since my name has been before the public, and with no malice toward any one, I am ready to surrender this public trust with clean hands and a clear conscience.

Respectfully,
W. L. SAMPEY.

To the voters of the People's Party of Chilton County:

Whereas the report has gone out that our candidates if elected would not be able to make their bonds. I take this method of assuring you that if elected I apprehend no difficulty in executing my bond and I do not believe that any of the other candidates will fail to execute theirs.

Your Boy Won't Live a Month.

So Mr. Gilman Brown, of 34 Mill St., South Gardner, Mass., was told by the doctors. His son had Lung trouble, following Typhoid Malaria, and he spent three hundred and seventy-five dollars with doctors, who finally gave him up saying: "Your boy wont live a month." He tried Dr. King's New Discovery and a few bottles restored him to health and enabled him to go to work a perfectly well man. He says he owes his present good health to use of Dr. King's New Discovery and he knows it to be the best in the world for Lung trouble. Trial Bottles Free at J. S. Johnson, Jr., Drug Store.

A sail and fatal accident occurred on Tuesday at Mr. Grant's place 2 miles north east of Clanton. Mr. John and Mr. Will Grant had gone down to the fish pond to kill a crane. John fired at the crane about 35 yards away and killed it, the bullet striking the bird in the neck. The ball must then have glanced off, and some 80 yards further on passed between the rails of a fence and unfortunate struck poor Mr. Will, who was behind the fence, hitting him also in the neck. He was at once carried home and Dr. Matthews called in, but we are sorry to say the injury proved fatal and Will passed away on Wednesday evening. John and Will were inseparable, and their paternal regard was such as is rarely seen. We deeply sympathize with the afflicted relatives.

HEART DISEASE, like many other ailments when they have taken hold of the system, never gets better of its own accord, but Constantly grows worse. There are thousands who know they have a defective heart, but will not admit the fact. They don't want their friends to worry, and Don't know what to take for it, as they have been told time and again that heart disease was incurable. Such was the case of Mr. Silas Farley of Dyesville, Ohio who writes June 19, 1894, as follows:

"I had heart disease for 23 years, my heart hurting me almost continually. The first 15 years I doctored all the time, trying several physicians and remedies, until my last doctor told me it was only a question of time as I could not be cured. I gradually grew worse, very weak, and completely discouraged, until I lived, propped half up in bed, because I couldn't lie down nor sit up. Thinking my time had come I told my family what I wanted done when I was gone. But on the first day of March on the recommendation of Mrs. Fannie Jones, of Anderson, Ind., I commenced taking Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart and wonderful to tell, in ten days I was working at light work and on March 19 commenced framing a barn, which is heavy work, and I hav'nt lost a day since. I am 58 years old, 6 ft. 4½ inches and weigh 200lbs. I believe I am fully cured, and I am now only anxious that everyone shall know of your wonderful remedies."

Dyesville, Ohio. SILAS FARLEY.

Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5 or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

1000 WAYS TO CURE A COLD!

Quinine, aconite, hot tea, onion syrup, whiskey and quinine, rock candy and rye, a "sweat" foot bath, starvation feeding, wrapping your hose around your neck, cod liver oil, and old hundreds cough cure, these and over 900 other ways are used by the human race to cure a cold. The best way is to make CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER your daily companion and you will never catch cold.

A man must be miserable indeed who is laid up with a bad Cold, Catarrh, Headache, unable to breathe without pain, his throat sore and his head throbbing, when one little product in the market called CUSHMAN'S INHALER will give him instant relief.

RELIEF EASY TO GET!

He may go on and on, sneeze his head off for that matter, sniffle and snort around to everybody's discomfiture. His eyes may become inflamed, his head and ears ache, and his throat so sore he can hardly swallow. Patient he must be to endure it all when for 50c. he can buy CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER and restore himself to his normal condition.

Cushman's Menthol Inhaler a Jewel!

A woman will sit around prostrated in nerves, feeling desperate over loss of sleep, head and eyes racked with pain, cold settled in every bone, so miserable that life seems a blank, but if she would make the marvelous little instrument known as CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER her daily companion, her headaches would come less frequent, she would never have a cold, and sore throat and catarrh would have no terrors.

NEVER NEGLECT A COLD OR COUGH

Neglect a Cold or Cough and if La Grippe don't get you, Consumption will. CUSHMAN'S INHALER cures colds and all diseases of the breathway passages. You lose dollars in doctor bills in not keeping CUSHMAN'S INHALER handy to drive off a cold or cough or sore throat at its very first approach.

The Greatest Authority in the World.

DR. BROWNE.

DR. J. LENNOX BROWNE, F. R. C. S. Ed. Senior Surgeon to the Central London Throat and Ear Hospital, says: "The vapor of Menthol checks in a manner hardly less than marvelous, acute Colds in the head. For all forms of nasal diseases, causing obstruction to the natural breathway, I prescribe CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER to the extent of hundreds per annum."

[Is not this recommendation sufficient that all who read may profit by it?]

Brings sleep to the sleepless. Cures Insomnia and Nervous Prostration. Don't be fooled with worthless imitations. Take only CUSHMAN'S. 50c. at druggists, or mailed, postpaid, on receipt of price. Write for book on Menthol and testimonials.

Write us a letter covering these three points:

FIRST.—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."

SECOND.—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.

THIRD.—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, net, and should retail at not over 10 or 12 cents, if consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain; Zeilin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade-name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 300 or 400 per cent., instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine," which you be sure to specify, and take no other, as there is nothing else like it.

On receipt of your letter enclosing photograph, we will mail you free of charge, a $1.00 package Liver Medicine, or on receipt of letter without photograph, we will mail you a 25 cent package, free.

Though Baron Maurice de Hirsch was of distinguished ancestry and the inheritor of great wealth, his memory will be revered for what he was and what he did. The world cannot but admire the genius of a man who had his phenomenal grasp of great affairs who could seize opportunities before they were conceived by the ordinary mind, and who could go unerringly to the accomplishment of stupendous undertakings in which millions were involved. But it was not this rare power that insures the lasting fame of Baron Hirsch. The true nobility of the man appeared in his intense sympathy for the poor, the unfortunate and the oppressed, which found eloquent expression in the gift of millions for their relief. He was a munificent giver but without ostentation and without thought less worthy than that of ameliorating the condition of his afflicted race. His philanthropy was on the same magnificent scale as his operations in the business world and the ability that guided the one was only outshone by the unselfish charity that prompted the other. The death of his son may have been the chastening affliction that stirred the heart of the father to deeds of mercy and humanity; but the man who could be so moved possessed all the innate virtues so admired in the career of the dead baron. The man who would give forty millions to one good cause and make two continents the beneficiaries of his bounty, deserved all the prosperity that came to him, and left a lesson that the rich men of the world should take to themselves. There could be no greater worldly happiness than he enjoyed in the consciousness of duty done and the blessings his charity invoked.

PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM.

Third Paper by Prof. Edward L. Paston, of Eutaw.

RECAPITULATION OF ITS NEEDS.

Reasons for Compulsory Education. There Should be a Fixed Curriculum—Teachers Over-worked and Under-paid—Higher Standard of Teachers—Teachers' Institutes.

In order that the thread of the context of my second paper may be understood in the continuance of this one it is necessary to recapitulate the needs as has been before stated.

1. Our people need arousing in educational interest.
2. We need more money.
3. Our public school laws need a thorough revision.
4. We need less politics in school districts.
5. We need more professional teachers.
6. We need less three months schools, more longer terms.
7. We need a compulsory educational law.
8. We need a law that will permit taxation for educational purposes.
9. We need a common school curriculum, with the following studies: Reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic, geography, history, physiology, grammar, including language lessons, elementary algebra and elementary science.
10. We need a better financial system of payment for our teachers.
11. We need better pay for our teachers.
12. We need better protection for our teachers.
13. We need for our teachers to obligate themselves to teach two years for a second grade certificate and four years for a first grade.
14. We need a regular grade established for all of our common schools.
15. Our laws should be obligatory upon teachers to attend institutes and our state association, unless a reason exist that could conscientiously and honestly be rendered for non-attendance.

Most of the sections previously given have already been explained, but I wish to enlarge just a little upon the seventh, why we need a compulsory law. It is an actual fact that we have people in our state who have not common sense enough to send their children to school. They do not realize that God gave them children to care for, protect, love and educate. They seem to think that their children were given them to support and work for them while they, the parents, remain in idleness. There are many parents in different avocations of life who compel their children to support or help support them at an age entirely too early. I have known of farmers that compelled their boys from 13 years up to work, when their place should have been in school. While the father did no work at all, or very little anyway. I have known of parents compelling their little girls and boys from 6 years of age up to work in a mill to support them while their lazy, able-bodied fathers loafed. We certainly need a compulsory educational law. For if parents won't realize that their children are not given them to earn a support for parents there should be a law that would compel them to know what their duty is toward their children. Os course I do not mean that a child, when of the proper age, should not be taught to work, or should be raised in idleness, but it should not be done at the expense of its education—of its God-given rights.

Now for the ninth section. We need a curriculum: there is a great need for a regular commen school course to be established. In many places you will find one or perhaps two pupils who wish and may be prepared to study either algebra, latin, Greek or geometry. It is frequently the case that a teacher has to devote a part of his or her time to the teaching of one, two and sometimes three of these studies. It is just so much time taken from other pupils who need and should have the teacher's attention. But by the laws of the state the teacher must use the time to teach whatever is desired. In many instances the teacher is perfectly capable, in others not. Sometimes inexperienced, or unqualified teachers will essay to teach these branches and bring discredit to the profession, does himself or herself no good and results in injury to the pupil and dissatisfaction to the parents. Then again in this time and day when men and women make a specialty of studies mentioned how can the teacher of the public school be up in all of them. There are many small country places that want a college president and all the faculty combined in one man. Yet they are dissatisfied because the teacher fails to fulfill the position and teach all branches desired. The state laws permit such. Requirements of the people desire it. One evil resulting is too many teachers are smattering in their attainments and not thorough enough in the branches necessary for a common school education. Another evil is the teacher, in many instances, if entirely capable to teach a few studies well, cannot give satisfaction to patrons or do full justice to pupils with so much to do. The consequence is the frequent changing of teachers is frequently to the discredit of the capable teacher's ability. It is also hurtful to the pupils. I firmly believe this is one cause of so many teachers changing place every year. Still another evil exists from not having a curriculum. Many will essay to teach who know nothing about algebra, latin, geometry or Greek, still to obtain the position they will attempt it.

10th section. We need a better system of payment for our teachers. This has been referred to before, but just a little more. Our teachers should be paid monthly and not be compelled to wait three months and in many instances longer. Many states pay teachers of the common schools monthly. Why not Alabama?

11th section. One of our great needs is better pay for our teachers. Why do people want to send their children to ill paid teachers, paid so little that they can hardly live. They have no money to spend in improvement. Want to pay teachers some pitiful sum that is not as much as a day laborer earns. Yet so many people want to employ cheap teachers, then expect good work.

12th section. We need better protection for our teachers. [illegible] money due. I know this to be true for I have money due me for a school taught four years ago, though I held a waive note I found nothing to waive. I know others who have met the same treatment.

13th section. We need for our teachers to obligate themselves to teach two years for a fourth grade certificate and four years for a first grade.

This should be done for many reasons. One is that it will give us a better standard of teachers. Another it will cause teachers to better prepare themselves for teaching. It will be beneficial in many ways.

14th section. A regular grade of study should be established.

15th section. Our laws should be obligatory upon teachers to attendance of institutes and the state association. We have about 4,000 white teachers in the state, yet the attendance is only 100 to 150 teachers. We certainly should have a large attendance with that number of teachers. I shall deal more at length upon some sections given in another article.

At the recent Teacher's association held in Talladega, the enrollment was about 200, one of the largest ever had. Yet, notwithstanding this, that is hardly one-half of 1 per cent of all the white teachers in the state. We most assuredly should have a larger attendance. There should be some basis upon which more teachers should attend this association. Some of the causes for non-attendance may be found in the list of needs for Alabama Articles five and eleven for instance.

THROUGH SPANISH CHANNELS.

News of Spanish Triumphs Over Cuban Patriots Comes.

Four Spanish warships, in conjunction with the land forces under command of Colonel Seamora on June 29, attacked the rebels who held possession of Taco and Naguareje bays, near Baracoa. After sharp fighting the rebels were dislodged from their positions. The rebels lost seven men killed, and the Spanish captured four boats belonging to them, and destroyed their camps, plantations, etc. The Spanish losses are not stated.

General Ochoa upon receiving the information that a filibustering expedition would attempt to land on the coast near Jaruco, in the province of Havana, left his camp with 170 men for the purpose of preventing the filibusters from getting ashore. During his march he was harassed by rebel bands, which tried to intercept him and prevent his reaching the coast. With these parties General Ochoa had a number of engagements, in which the fighting was of the fiercest character. The rebels made a strong defense of their positions and the firing was mostly done at close range. While storming one of the rebel's positions General Ochoa was wounded, though not seriously. The rebels, who were commanded by the leaders, Montero and Valenica, lost thirty-six killed and three wounded, and nine of them were taken prisoners. Among the killed were a number of foreigners. In addition to these rebel losses, the Spaniards, when they reached the coast, captured seven prisoners from the expedition they had gone to intercept. The troops also captured thirty-one rifles, a great many machetes and 6,000 cartridges. The Spanish loss was eight wounded.

Arthur Sewall was born at Bath, Me., November 25, 1835. He has been a life-long democrat and has been chairman of the Maine Democratic State committee for many years. His residence is the Sewall estate in Bath, which has been in the possession of the Sewall family since 1760, when his great grandfather took title only three removes from a grant by King George. CHICAGO PLATFORM.

Jeffersonian Principles Reaffirmed.

We, the Democrats of the United States, in National Convention assembled, do reaffirm our allegiance to those great essential principles of justice and liberty upon which our institutions are founded, and which the Democratic party has advocated from Jefferson's time to our own—freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of conscience, the preservation of personal rights, the equality of all citizens before the law and the faithful observance of constitutional limitations.

Centralization of Power Resisted.

During all these years the Democratic party has resisted the tendency of selfish interests to the centralization of Governmental power, and steadfastly maintained the integrity of the dual system of government established by the founders of this Republic of Republics. Under its guidance and teachings the great principle of local self-government has found its best expression in the maintenance of the rights of the States and in its assertion of the necessity of confining the general government to the exercise of the powers granted by the Constitution of the United States.

Civil and Religious Liberty.

The constitution of the United States guarantees to every citizen the rights of civil and religious liberty. The Democratic party has always been the exponent of political liberty and religious freedom and it renews its obligations and reaffirms its devotion to those fundamental principles of the constitution.

Silver Once the Unit of Value.

Recognizing that the money question is paramount to all others at this time, we invite attention to the fact that the Federal Constitution names silver and gold together as the money metals of the United States, and that the first coinage law passed by Congress under the Constitution made the silver dollar the unit of value and admitted gold to free coinage at a ratio measured by the silver-dollar unit.

"The Crime of '73."

We declare that the act of 1873, demonetizing silver without the knowledge or approval of the American people, has resulted in the appreciation of gold and a corresponding fall in the price of commodities produced by the people; a heavy increase in the burden of taxation and of all debt, public and private; the enrichment of the money-lender class at home and abroad; prostration of industry and impoverishment of the people.

Monometallism Denounced.

We are unalterably opposed to monometallism which has locked fast the prosperity of an industrial people in the paralysis of hard times. Gold monometallism is a British policy, and its adoption has brought other Nations into financial servitude to London. It is not only un-American, but anti-American, and it can be fastened on the United States only by the stifling of that spirit of love and liberty which proclaimed our political independence in 1776 and won it in the War of the Revolution.

Free Coinage at 16 to 1.

We demand the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other Nation. We demand that the standard silver dollar shall be a full legal tender, equally with gold, for all debts, public and private, and we favor such legislation as will prevent for the future the demonetization of any kind of legal-tender money by private contract.

Object to "Gold" Bonds.

We are opposed to the policy and practice of surrendering to the holders of the obligations of the United States the option reserved by law to the Government of redeeming such obligations in either silver coin or gold coin.

Bond Issue Denounced.

We are opposed to the issuing of interest-bearing bonds of the United States in time of peace, and condemn the trafficing with banking syndicates which, in exchange for bonds and at an enormous profit to themselves, supply the Federal Treasury with gold to maintain the policy of gold monometallism.

Opposed to National Banks.

Congress alone has the power to coin and issue money and President Jackson declared that this power could not be delegated to corporations or individuals. We, therefore, denounce the issuance of notes intended to circulate as money by national banks as in derogation of the constitution; and we demand that all paper which is made a legal tender for public and private debts or which is receivable for dues to the United States shall be issued by the government of the United States and shall be redeemable in coin.

Tariff for Revenue Only.

We hold that tariff duties should be levied for purposes of revenue, such duties to be so adjusted as to operate equally throughout the country and not discriminate between class or section, and that taxation should be limited by the needs of the Government honestly and economically administered.

McKinley Law Denounced.

We denounce as disturbing to business the Republican threat to restore the McKinley law, which has been twice condemned by the people in National elections, and which, enacted under the false plea of protection to home industry, proved a prolific breeder to trusts and monopolies, enriched the few at the expense of the many, restricted trade and deprived the producers of the great American staples of access to their natural markets.

Income Tax Law Repeal.

Until the money question is settled we are opposed to any agitation for further changes in our tariff laws, except such as are necessary to make up the deficit in revenue caused by the adverse decision of the Supreme Court on the income tax. But for this decision by the Supreme Court there would be no deficit in the revenue under the law passed by a Democratic Congress, in strict pursuance of the uniform decisions of that court for nearly one hundred years, that court having sustained constitutional objections to its enactment, which have been overruled by the ablest judges who have ever sat on that bench.

Its Re-Enactment Demanded.

We declare that it is the duty of Congress to use all the constitutional power which remains after that decision, or which may come from its reversal by the court as it may hereafter be constituted, so that the burdens of taxation may be equally and impartially laid to the end that wealth may bear its due proportion of the expenses of the Government.

For Restricted Immigration.

We hold that the most efficient way to protect American labor is to prevent the importation of foreign pauper labor to compete with it in the home market, and that the value of the home market to our American farmers and artisans is greatly reduced by a vicious monetary system which depresses the prices of their products below the cost of production, and thus deprives them of the means of purchasing the products of our home manufacture.

Arbitration.

We are in favor of the arbitration of differences between employers engaged in interstate commerce and their employes and recommend such legislation as is necessary to carry out this principle.

Federal Railroad Ownership.

The absorption of wealth by the few, the consolidation of our leading railroad systems and the formation of trusts and pools require a stricter control by the Federal Government of those arteries of commerce. We demand the enlargement of the powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and such restrictions and guarantees in the control of railroads as will protect the people from robbery and oppression.

For Economy in Office.

tion of the Constitution of the United States and a crime against free institutions, and we especially object to government by injunction as a new and highly dangerous form of oppression by which Federal judges in contempt of the laws of the States and rights of citizens become at once legislators, judges and executioners; and we approve the bill passed at the last session of the United States Senate and now pending in the House relative to contempts in Federal courts and providing for trials by jury in certain cases of contempt.

Against Pacific Funding Bill.

No discrimination should be indulged by the Government of the United States in favor of any of its debtors. We approve of the refusal of the Fifty-third Congress to pass the Pacific Railroad Funding bill, and denounce the effort of the present Republican Congress to enact a similar measure.

For Liberal Pensions.

Recognizing the just claims of deserving Union soldiers, we heartily indorse the rule of Commissioner Murphy that no names shall be arbitrarily dropped from the pension roll, and the fact of enlistment and services should be deemed conclusive evidence against disease or disability before enlistment.

Territories Should Be Admitted.

We favor the admission of the Territories of New Mexico and Arizona into the Union as States, and we favor the early admission of all the Territories having the necessary population and resources to entitle them to Statehood, and while they remain Territories we hold that the officials appointed to administer the government of any Territory, together with the District of Columbia and Alaska, should be bona fide residents of the Territory or district in which their duties are to be performed. The Democratic party believes in home rule, and that all public lands of the United States should be appropriated to the establishment of free homes for American citizens. We recommend that the Territory of Alaska be granted a delegate in Congress, and that the general land and timber laws of the United States be extened to said Territory.

The Monroe Doctrine.

The Monroe doctrine as originally declared and as interpreted by succeeding presidents is a permanent part of the foreign policy of the United States, and must at all times be maintained.

Sympathy for Cuba.

We extend our sympathy to the people of Cuba in their heroic struggle for liberty and independence.

Against Life Tenure in Office.

We are opposed to life tenure in the public service. We favor appointments based upon merit, fixed terms of office and such an administration of the Civil Service laws as will afford equal opportunities to all citizens of ascertained fitness.

For River Improvement.

The Federal Government should care for and improve the Mississippi River and other great waterways of the Republic, so as to secure for the interior States easy and cheap transportation to tide water. When any waterway of the Republic is of sufficient importance to demand aid of the Government such aid should be extended upon a definite plan of continuous work until permanent improvement is secured.

Against a Third Term.

We declare it to be the unwritten law of this Republic, established by custom and usage of one hundred years, and sanctioned by the examples of the greatest and wisest of those who founded and have maintained our Government, that no man should be eligible for a third term of the Presidential office.

Appeal to the People.

Confidence in the justice of our cause and the necessity of its success at the polls, we submit the foregoing declaration of principles and purposes to the considerate judgment of the American people. We invite the support of all citizens who approve them and who desire to have them made effective through legislation for the relief of the people and the restoration of the country's prosperity.

THE STORM AT PENSACOLA.

Wind Moving at the Velocity of 100 Miles an Hour.

The wind at Pensacola at 11:30 a. m. reached seventy-two miles an hour, then lulled and shifted to the northwest, and raised to 100 miles an hour. Nearly every business house in Pensacola was unroofed and the contents damaged. The Merchants' hotel on Palafox street and the Methodist church were unroofed. Some small houses were blown down and trees uprooted everywhere, so that the streets are impassable and last night were in darkness.

In the harbor vessels dragged their anchors, and were driven hither and thither against wharves and other crafts. The steamers kept away by using their steam. The Swedish bark Svea, the Norwegian bark Johan Ludwig and the Italian brig Deadoni are ashore hard and fast. The yacht Annie M. lies one mile from shore in 18 feet of water. The tug Nellie Keyser is sunk near her wharf.

The damage in the city is about $200,000, but no life was lost. The Louisville & Nashville road east to Jacksonville is washed up in places. The nearest telegraph office reached by train is Flomaton.

One to Ten.

Deputy United States Marshal Peter Kroger arrived at Jacksonville, Fla., Saturday morning from Ocala with George N. Thompson, a young white man from Gainesville. Thompson was arrested in Gainesville on a charge of altering, raising and passing a bill issued by the United States as currency. He raised a $1 bill to make it appear to be $10. After being arrested he was taken before United States Commissioner David S. Williams at Ocala, and there pleaded guilty. In default of bail in the sum of $1,000 he was committed to the Duval county jail to await the action of the grand jury next December. Thompson acknowledges that he did wrong, and says he believes that he ought to be punished for his violation of the law. He will no doubt ask permission to come before the court at the present term and plead guilty and be sentenced.

Effects of the Storm.

A severe storm of wind and rain visited De Funiak Springs, Fla., and vicinity last Tuesday about 4 o'clock, continuing until 10 o'clock at night. The crops and fruits are injured very much. Telegraph wires were blown down. There were no mails for two days from the west. The farmers from the country report crops and fruits cut short in consequence of the storm. The fruit men of town are busy gathering up the fallen fruit and offering them at reduced prices. It is thought this is one of the most disastrous storms of many years. [illegible]

A MINISTER'S WIFE.

The Frank Statement of the Pastor of Bethel Church.

From the Advertiser, Elmira, N. Y.

Dr. Williams.—Dear Sir:—My wife has been a sufferer from rheumatism for more than three years, suffering at times with terrible pains in her limbs, and other times with a severe "crick" in her back which causes great agony. She spent much for physicians and medicine, but secured only temporary relief; finally she concluded to try Pink Pills. She has taken eight boxes and I can say from the first one she has improved until now she is almost entirely free from pain, and has grown much stronger and feels confident that, by the blessing of God, they will effect a permanent cure. We take great pleasure in recommending them to our friends.

(Signed.) Rev. J. H. Buckner,
Pastor Bethel A. M. E. Church, Elmira, New York.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, all forms of weakness either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 (they are never sold in bulk or by the 100), by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

THE STATE NORMAL COLLEGE, TROY, ALA.

This college is supported by state and Peabody fund appropriations for the training of teachers and is not a mere "Preparatory School" for some other, but is of college grade in every way, as a teachers' training school should be, and grants college degrees and diplomas, and its graduates receive state certificates for two, four and six years, or for life, from the state superintendent of education of Alabama, and these are the strongest testimonials of professional worth to a teacher. Indeed, the graduates of this college are in great demand as teachers and the college authorities take great pleasure in answering requests for trained teachers sent in by school authorities from all over Alabama and adjoining states.

It will be seen from the Normal Exponent that students desiring the usual college course may get it here at very low expense, too. Board is but $8 to $10 per month and tuition and incidentals low.

Persons desiring information as to this college or wishing to secure a good teacher should write to Dr. E. R. Eldridge, president, at Troy, Ala., for the Normal Exponent explaining every thing.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

Steamboat Grounded.

The steamboat Virginia, of the Baltimore Steam Packet Company, which arrived at Richmond, Va., Saturday on her first trip, and left for Baltimore with about sixty passengers, ran aground a short distance below Dutch Gap. The passengers were taken off and carried back to Richmond. It was thought by some that her bottom was injured, though an officer of the boat denied this. The arrival of the Virginia inaugurated a new all-water line between Richmond and Baltimore.

The difference—England's consent alone.

THEIR OWN MEDICINE

THE TALK ABOUT FIFTY-CENT DOLLARS.

An Unexpected Effect of Gold Worship—Laborers Demand Gold—The Contractors Are Unable to Obtain It—Some Suggestions.

The "educational campaign" of the gold bugs appears to be entirely too convincing in quarters where extreme ignorance prevails.

But the people of intelligence don't believe what they hear about "fifty-cent" dollars, and go right ahead accepting whatever kind of dollars bear the stamp of Uncle Sam.

The following press dispatch from Hazleton, Pa., shows the danger of lying to the ignorant foreign element of our population:

"The monthly pay days of many of the contractors of this region were in the past week, and much trouble was expected in paying off the foreign element. They refused to take either paper or silver money.

For the past week or two, Anthony Reitz, a well educated Austrian, who speaks several languages, has been among the foreigners and put it into their heads that was not worth more than 50 cents, and when any foreigner expressed a doubt regarding his statement he read extracts from American newspapers to substantiate his argument.

"Jacob Hogan, a contractor, who is building the reservoir at Buck mountain, employes 300 men, who had listened to Reitz's arguments. The men held a meeting and decided they would all be gold men, not only politically, but commercially, and that their labor should be traded on a sound money basis only. Reitz, who is an under boss, communicated this fact to Contractor Hogan, Thursday. The men their month's wages on Saturday.

Were to be Paid

"It did not strike Hogan at that time that there would be any difficulty in paying the men in gold. He called at his bank and demanded $1,900 in gold. He was struck dumb when the teller told him he could not get that sum in the entire county. Out of the $11,000,000 on deposit in the several banks of the county, it is estimated that scarcely $1,000 in gold is circulating.

"The laborers, however, have refused beyond the $5 limit, to take silver, and the contractor and his gold standard advocating under boss are very much embarrassed in consequence."

There are some good hints in this for the people. It shows the absurdity of depending upon gold alone as a circulating medium.

It suggests a way for working men to give the gold-bugs a dose of their own medicine.

If the people would simply demand gold for all checks and drafts on the banks they would soon have orators in the field talking out of the other side of their mouths.

But the people are more honest than the bankers. A wholesale boycott of bank notes and silver would make the bankers beg for mercy. They don't want their argument taken literally.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

Flashes of Thought Prompted by Passing Events.

The annual drain of gold upon this country from British investments is said to be not less than $150,000,000 or $200,000,000. This is about five times as much gold as we produce. Every dollar of interest and dividends on these foreign investments is payable in this country, and therefore payable in any lawful money of the United States. But little gold is in circulation. The business is carried on with silver and paper money. What is left in profits consists of that kind of money. How then does the foreigner turn his profits into gold to take to Europe?

Away back in 1879 this government resumed specie payment. That is to say it piled up $100,000,000 in gold, for which it sold bonds, and said, this "reserve fund" is for the purpose of making the greenbacks as good as gold. Anybody who wanted gold for greenbacks or treasury notes could get it. But nobody wanted it, for the greenbacks answered the same purpose as gold and were much more convenient. It looked like a sort of superstition to keep that gold piled up there to make the treasury notes or greenbacks good, when back of the $100,000,000 in gold was $70,000,000,000 worth of other property, and nobody wanted the greenbacks redeemed other than such redemption as that of every man receiving them as money, which was the case.

When the resumption law was passed there was no thought or intention of establishing a national brokerage for the purpose of aiding foreigners to deplete this country of gold and then selling it back again for interest-bearing bonds. Every paper obligation of the United States having the form of currency, except perhaps the gold certificates, can legally be discharged in either gold or silver. But a decision of John Sherman, sustained by every succeeding secretary of the treasury, without warrant of law, gave to the creditors of the United States, what is denied to the creditors of states, counties, corporations and individuals, the right to demand gold in payment of the obligations they held.

Thus the treasury gold reserve became the reservoir from which foreign nations could draw their supply of gold, and four times has Mr. Cleveland resorted to the expedient of selling interest-bearing bonds for gold to replenish this reserve. Had the secretary of the treasury exercised his right under the law to have paid off even one-half the demands made on him in silver, it would have put an immediate and effective check upon the raid on the gold reserve. As it was, the very men who conspired to raid the treasury and force the sale of bonds, were the ones who profited thereby by obtaining them at a lower figure than the market value.

And this is the process by which it is expected to force the government "out of the banking business," and turn the whole paper money business over to the banks. Now the question presents itself that this is either a conspiracy or a bare faced fraud. If the government, the people, with their seventy billions of wealth can't sustain their paper at par without placing itself at the mercy of foreign Jews and Shylocks, how are the banks going to do it without government aid? The banks would do just what they do now, they would not pay a dollar of gold in redemption of their obligations. They are now demanding of the government a thing they would not think of doing themselves, and if the people would assume the same attitude toward the banks that the banks have toward the government, they would force every bank to suspend within the period of six months.

One of the most contemptible frauds in this country is delegating to the banks both the power and credit of the government to issue their own notes and collect interest thereon. I have before me a bank note which says, "The First National Bank of —— will pay the bearer five dollars." Now what does that mean? It means that that bank is owing somebody (the bearer) five dollars; yet the bank is collecting interest on that note—on what it actually owes. Anybody that can see through a ladder can see at once that this is a fraud on the face of it. If there is any credit attached to that note it is because the government—the people—are back of it. The whole scheme in a nutshell consists in us—the people—loaning the banks our credit at one per cent and borrowing it back at ten per cent, or whatever the banks want to charge.

I don't know that the bankers ought to be seriously blamed for doing this as long as they can find a set of ninnies willing to wear patched clothes and pay the freight, yet it is a serious thing to bequeath such a burden to our children without a protest. The banker, however, is to be blamed. He is not satisfied with the laws he has for fleecing the people, but wants additional ones, and the assurance that the present ones will be made permanent. Of course there will be an end to all this, as there is to all else that is wrong and unjust. The money power have the people enslaved now with debt, and seek to make that slavery permanent by imposing conditions that will make it impossible to pay the debt. To accomplish this end they are corrupting our legislators, our courts and executive officers. Not content with this they have now begun to tamper with the ballot, and accuse the people of being too ignorant to vote. How it will end God only knows, but that right will prevail we have absolute confidence, if wrong has to be shot to death as was chattel slavery.

W. S. Morgan.

In a Hole.

The Real Republic discusses farming, farmers, products and prices as follows: "From the report of the secretary of agriculture for last year, we find that in 1880 we raised 498,549,878 bushels of wheat, price 95 cents, value $474,201,850. In 1894 we raised 460,267,416 bushels of wheat, price 49 cents, value $225,902,025. In other words, we raised practically, as much wheat as in 1880 but got $248,399,825 less money for it. The same rule holds in cotton and all other staple crops. How the farmers of this country are to pay their mortgages, taxes and other debts, live comfortably and prosper and at the same time the more they raise the less money they get for it, the goldbug farmer at the head of the agricultural department fails to tell us. If the farmer is to continually get less money for the more he produces, the way we figure he is bound to find himself in the hole. He is there now."

The Money Power.

The London, England, Clarion asks: "Could England annihilate the unspeakable Turk? Yes, if it were not for the unspeakable English bondholders. The Christian English are deterred from rescuing the Christian Armenians by Christian bondholders. The deliverance of the oppressed Armenians from bondage would involve the destruction of several hundred millions of Turkish bonds held by English bankers. And that is the reason why England does not annihilate the unspeakable Turk."

A STORY OF PILLAGE.

BONDHOLDERS HAVE PULLED UNCLE SAM'S LEG.

The Debt Reduced in Dollars and Cents but Increased in the Value of the Commodities It Represents—Some Plain Figures.

In the course of the late war and just afterwards, it was discerned by those who held the national debt, as it had been discerned by some of them from the beginning, that it was a good thing for the possessors. A great interest had been created by the war—the interest of the bond.

It were vain to conjecture how many sincere patriots found themselves possessors of the interest-bearing obligations of the nation. For all such there is no animadversion, but rather praise. It were equally vain to conjecture how many held those obligations simply for the profit and advantage that were in them and with no concern about the welfare of the government or of the people of the United States; but the latter class, whether many or few, increased and the former class decreased until the fund-holding interest was consolidated in the hands of a party having its branches in New York and London.

The party of the bond become skillful and adroit. It began immediately to fortify itself. It took advantage of the inexperience of the American people and of the inexperience of their legislators. It profited by the mistakes and misplaced confidence of both. They who held the bonds were wise by ages of training in the old world and the new. They understood the situation perfectly, and adopted as their method a policy embracing two intentions: First, to perpetuate the bond and make it everlasting by the postponement and prevention of payment; second, to increase the value of the currency in which all payments were to be made, that is, to increase the value of the units of such payments as the payments should become due, so that whatever might be the efforts of the people to discharge the debt it should increase in value as rapidly as they could reduce it! And honest people, abused to the soul by the politicians and Shylock, knew not it was so.

For thirty years this game has been persistently, skillfully and successfully carried out. It has beeen a play worthy of the greatest gamblers that ever lived! We do not call to mind any other such stake among the nations as that placed upon the issue; and the bondplayers have won on every deal. They have succeeded on both counts of their policy. They have turned over the debt into new forms of bond, and these again into newer, under the name of refunding, persuading the people that the process was wise and needful and cajoling them with the belief that the rate of interest was each time reduced for the benefit of the nation. It was done "in the interest of the people!" We, the holders of the bond, labor only for the interest of the people!

It is true that each act of refunding and transforming the national debt has lowered the nominal rate of interest; but at the same time it has lengthened the period of payment. At the beginning the date of payment was at the option of the government. Then it was at five years from the making of the bond; then it was at ten years; then at twenty years; then at thirty years. Now, the period of possible payment has been extended until the second decade of the next century cannot witness the end of the game. If the treasury should have today, or in the year 1900, a surplus of six billions of gold the government could not call and cancel its bonds. They were not made to be called and canceled, but to be refunded and perpetuated.

Besides, the reduction of interest has been a reduction only in name. In no case has the reduction been made until the value of the dollar of the payment has so enlarged as more than to balance the reduction. The same thing is true of the payment of principle as well as the payment of coupon. For thirty years the American people have been pouring into that horrid maelstrom the volume of their great resources. They have paid on their debt, or at least they have paid, in this long period, such a prodigious sum that arithmetic can hardly express it. (At the close of the year 1895 the interest account had reached the total of more than two billion six hundred and thirty-five millions of dollars!) The imagination cannot embrace it. And yet it is the truth of the living God that at the close of 1895 the national debt of the United States, in its bonded and unbonded forms, will purchase as its equivalent in value, as much of the average of twenty-five of the leading commodities of the American market, including real estate and labor, as the same debt would purchase at its maximum on the 1st of March, 1866. The people have paid and paid for thirty years, and at the end have paid just this—nothing!

The verification of this astounding truth is as plain and irrefragable as any other arithmetical result. On the 1st of March, 1866, the national debt was in exact figures, $2,827,868,959.46; at the close of the year 1895 it was, premium included, $1,237,500,000.00.

Let all men know it. Let the world know it. Let the common man ponder this appalling statement of an undeniable truth. Let our national authorities know it. Let the leaders of every political party have it shouted in their ears. Let every administration that has been in power from the first of Grant to the last of Cleveland be told in trumpet voice that the publications put forth from month to month as statements from the treasury about the reduction of the national debt by the payment of three millions or seven millions have been essentially and utterly false. True it is that the debt has beeen nominallly reduced according to the publications; but it has never been so reduced until by the contrivance of those who possess it the purchasing power of the currency in which the debt was to be paid has augmented fully as much as the equivalent of the payment!

All the multiplied millions the people have paid have been simply contributed to the bondholding class, whose claim after a lifetime is worth as much as it was at the beginning! The resources of a great people have been poured like a roaring river into a sinkhole that has swallowed all; and the golden streams of the contribution have issued silently through a thousand unseen spouts into the private reservoirs of the holders of the debt.—Austin Argus.

THE BOND INVESTIGATION.

The Committee Being Treated with Contempt.

In order that our readers may realize the amazing insolence of these plutocratic thieves, who are fresh from the looting of the U. S. Treasury, we copy the following from the record of the investigation:

Here is an extract from the New York Times' report of the colloquy between Senator Vest and Mr. Belmont:

"Q. Will you state what profit was made by August Belmont & Co., in the sale or handling of these bonds? A. I will not.

"Q. Will you state what profit the syndicate or combination which handled them made? A. I will not.

"Q. Will you state to whom the bonds were sold and for what price? A. I will not.

"'I may tell you,' said Senator Vest, assuming a toga which he had temporarily dropped while he was asking the question. 'That we shall report these refusals to answer to the full committee.'

"Mr. Belmont did not seem at all alarmed at this prospect. Mr. Vest tried one more question.

"Q Were any persons interested in the contract except those whose names appeared on the face of it? A. I decline to answer."

Of course the great J. Pierrepont Morgan was equally defiant. He told the committee just as much as he chose to tell them and no more.

He gave them no information they had not already got from the newspapers. He insolently refused to state what profits he made, and who shared the booty, or who got the bonds.

Unless the committee takes some action to compel these lordly rascals to answer legal questions they had as well adjourn and quit the business. If they tolerate the treatment they are getting they will deserve, and receive, the contempt of the country.—People's Party Paper.

Tax the Last Shirt Off.

John Sherman, the public thief under pay for services in plundering this country, from British money grabbers, made a speech in the senate on May 29, 1894, in which he said:

"I am willing to take that bill as it came to us from the house, and if it is not sufficient to supply the necessary revenues, let us add a tax on tea, a tax on coffee, or a tax on anything; for, as I said on a former occasion, I would vote for a tax on anything; I would take the last shirt off the backs of the people of the United States rather than to violate the public faith of the government."(See Congressional Record, p. 5959, May 29, 1896.)

If conditions continue to grow worse, it will not be long till the people will not have even a "shirt" to meet the demands of the tax vampires. Then will come the era of the bastinado, bull-whip and cat-o-nine tails—in which the laboring people will be driven to their tasks as in the days of chattel slavery. Vote for the old parties and you will hasten that day!—Southern Mercury.

COMMERCIAL CONDITIONS.

Failures Increasing—The Future Still Uncertain.

RAILWAY STOCKS DECLINED.

Mills Stop Work to Prevent a Disastrous Decline in Prices of Their Products—Woolen Manufacturies Waiting—Pig Iron Accumulating. Bar Iron Falling.

Failures for the week have been 269 in the United States, against 256 last year, and 35 in Canada, against 39 last year. Disapproval of the action at the Chicago convention has had some influence in the markets the past week, but a far more important factor has been the feeling that the future is still uncertain. This acute attack of doubt, coming at a time when business is for other reasons seriously depressed, has made the week unusually gloomy in speculative circles. The average price of active railroad stocks has declined from $47.22 to $44.76 per share and the average of trust stocks from $47.30 to $44.48 per share. Cotton has fallen about ⅛ cent in spot prices, because the men who were sure there would be a cotton famine in July and have been holding large quantities of cotton in expectation of higher prices have changed their minds. The closing of about three-quarters of the southern mills in producing capacity and about half of the northern mills for part of the time until the new crop comes forward will help to prevent a disastrous decline in prices of goods, but if accounts of conditions are not misleading and the general rains in Texas have helped the crop as much as many believe the yield is likely to be more than 9,000,000 bales. The decrease in consumption here is not as yet effective in helping the prices of cotton goods, which are still selling at about the lowest quotations ever made.

The woolen manufacturer is waiting, and as new orders are exceedingly slow the sales of wool at the three chief markets were for the week only 2,155,100 pounds, transactions at Boston being reported the lowest ever known at that market.

The output of pig iron July 1 was 180,532 tons weekly, against 182,220 June 1 and 171,194 tons a year ago. The decrease since the maximum was reached November 1, 217,306 tons weekly, has been material, and yet stocks are rapidly accumulating, those held by producers, not including the great steel companies, amounting to 815,872 tons' an increase of 29,929 tons for the month of June, or about 7,000 per week, which indicates a consumption of less than 173,000 tons. Considering the fact that the accumulation by the great steel companies must have been large, the consumption is undoubtedly smaller than it was a year ago. The demand for finished products of iron and steel is extremely narrow, although one considerable building contract is reported, 50,000 tons for the San Francisco Call building, being followed by smaller contracts. But in bars the combinations have found themselves unable to maintain prices, and there are renewed reports that the great decrease in sales of nails will force a reduction of prices August 1.

Bessemer pig has not changed in nominal quotations at Pittsburg, although one sale of 10,000 tons to an Indianapolis concern is reported at prices netting only $11 to the valley furnace. Gray forge has been sold at a price equivalent to $9.75 at Pittsburg. The average of iron and steel prices is the lowest since a year ago.

The manufacture of boots and shoes is weakening under the effort to secure an advance in price, although most of the works have orders for some time ahead. But the demand is very light and nearly all the shops would have to close if dependent upon new orders.

BOARDERS TAKEN IN

And Fed Free on Account of Peculiar Methods of Business.

H. D. Twitty, bookkeeper for Francis E. McCall, a naval stores factor in Savannah, Ga., and H. M. Reeves, chief clerk to the assistant freight agent of the Savannah, Florida and Western railway, were arrested Thursday, charged with making fraudulent receipts for naval stores with intent to defraud the railroad.

Three warrants were sworn out against each of them, the aggregate of naval stores being 1,700 barrels of rosin for which false receipts were given, according to the warrants.

It is alleged that there was collusion between Reeves and Twitty and that the former made out fraudulent receipts for rosin which did not exist, while the latter, who holds a power of attorney from Mr. McCall, hypothecated the receipts at different banks, drawing large sums of money on them. The receipt from the railroad is prima facie evidence to the bank that so much rosin is stored with it to the credit of the party to whom the receipt is issued. Under these circumstances it is a very easy matter to get the banks to advance money on such collateral.

The several banks of the city have advanced from $25,000 to $30,000 on such fraudulent receipts of rosin which have been issued from the railroad. One bank advanced about $10,000, another about $2,500, while the amount advanced by the Southern bank, with which Mr. McCall did business, cannot be ascertained.

Both Twitty and Reeves are in jail.

WILLIAM E. RUSSELL DEAD.

The Patriot Statesman is Cut Off in the Morning of His Prime.

Ex-Governor William E. Russell, of Massachusetts, was found dead in his tent near St. Adelaide De Pabos, Quebec, Thursday morning. Heart disease is supposed to have caused his death.

William E. Russell was the most conspicuous democratic leader in New England, and was one of the ablest democrats in the country. He was born in Cambridge, Mass., 39 years ago. His father was Judge Charles T. Russell, a distinguished citizen of that city. He was four times nominated for governor of his native state by the democrats and twice elected. Each time when he was defeated it was by small pluralities.

Governor Russell was a graduate of Harvard college and a lawyer by profession. He was regarded as one of the brightest orators in New England and was prominently mentioned as a democratic candidate for the presidency during the recent campaign. Only last week he attended the democratic national convention at Chicago and made a great speech at the sound money meeting at the Auditorium hotel before the convention assembled and afterward spoke ably against the adoption of the majority report of the committee on platform, closing the debate for the gold standard men. He was one of the sound money leaders at the convention, and on every side his ability was recognized. His speech at the sound money conference at the Auditorium hotel prior to the convention was remarkable for its ability and eloquence. Mr. Russell was an ideal leader among the young democrats of the country, and his death will be a source of keen regret. He was in Canada for recreation at the time of his sudden demise.

Big Rain in the Mountains.

A cloudburst in the mountains this afternoon north of old Fort Bliss, above El Paso, Texas, swept several hundred feet of the Santa Fe track into the Rio Grande. The Rio Grande has been entirely dry for the past two months. By this rain it was filled with a raging torrent fed by rushing streams descending from a hundred arroyos and canons. A number of animals and several persons had narrow escapes from drowning.

Lumber Mill Burned.

The lumber mill plant of the James Lumber Company, at Wadley, Ga., was burned Friday night. It was one of the largest country plants of its kind in the state. The loss amounted to $20,000; no insurance.

THE PLATFORM.

"The People's Party of the State of Alabama, in convention assembled, recognizing the supremacy of political liberty over all the questions that can come before the people of the State for solution at the general State election, to take place on the 3rd day of August, 1896, reaffirm our allegiance to the cardinal principles of Populism as follows:

"First—We demand a free ballot and a fair count.

"Second—We believe in the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of international agreement.

"Third—We demand that miners and others like corporate labor be paid in lawful money of the United States semi-monthly.

"Fourth—We favor a tariff for revenue, so adjusted as to protect, as far as practicable the farmers, and the labour in our shops, mines, factories and mills, and their products against foreign pauper labor."

Judge Zell Gaston's amendment to the 2d section was as follows:

"We demand the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the abolition of national banks, the expansion of the currency to meet the needs of the people and the demands of commerce, free from the control of corporate influences, and we condemn the issue of interest bearing bonds in time of peace."

Next came a lot of resolutions, which passed unanimously:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that our representatives in congress be and are hereby requested to use their best endeavors to secure appropriations by the Federal Government to open the Warrier River to navigation from the coal fields to the Gulf of Mexico."

"Resolved, That our county appointing boards are hereby requested to give to the political opposition a competent inspector at every polling place in their respective counties,

"And we further request the inspector so appointed to give a competent clerk and fixer at each polling place to said political opposition."

THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.

The national convention of the People's Party now in session at St. Louis is attracting more attention than the conventions of the two old parties which preceded it. This is caused by the uncertainty which prevails as to what course the Populist convention will pursue. Will it endorse Bryan or will it put out a straight middle-of-the-road ticket? If it should endorse Bryan it amounts to his election in November, and the total defeat of the Republican party. But whether Bryan's election really means the victory of the people so far as the free coinage of silver is concerned is not so clear. There is a great divergence of opinion among the leaders of the party, and as to the bulk of the delegates no man can tell which way they will vote.

Up to the time of our going to press, all reports tend to show that the delegates will not be controlled either way by the prominent men of our party. Every true Populist is capable of forming his own opinion, and will not bow his head at the bidding of even his own chosen leaders.

The only reliable news we have at this time is that Chairman Taubeneck called the National Executive Committee to order; Senator Marion Butler was nominated for temporary chairman and was elected to that position.

There appears to be a strong element in favor of the Populist Party nominating Wm. J. Bryan and some Southern man for Vice-president in place of Arthur Sewall the Democratic nominee. In this connection the names of Capt. A. T. Goodwyn of Alabama and Judge J. K. Hines and Tom Watson of Georgia have been prominently mentioned.

THE National Silver party is also in session and has appointed a committee to confer with the Populist convention. The silver party seem to be in favor of endorsing Bryan and Sewall.

GREAT exertions are being made by the Democrats in the effort to elect Capt. Johnston governor of Alabama. Every leading Democrat in the State is engaged in making public speeches, and finding they were not making the progress they wished speakers from other States are being imported. Among them is Governor Atkinson of Georgia who has promised to speak at Opelika, Lafeyette and Montgomery. We learn that posters have been circulated throughout Chilton county stating that Governor Atkinson would speak at Clanton July 31, but we are sorry Chilton will not have the pleasure of seeing the distinguished gentleman who says positively he will only speak at the places above mentioned.

IN our correspondence column will be found a card from Mr. R. E. R. Hicks, Democratic candidate for the legislature, replying to a letter from Mr. Lee Hayes published in the BANNER of July 2. But we must point out to Mr. Hicks that in his reply he has ignored the most serious accusation in Mr. Hayes' letter, viz.: that he (Mr. Hicks) had voted in the People's Party primaries and was now a Democratic candidate. Everyone acknowledges that voluntarily voting in a primary morally binds the voter to abide the result of that primary, and so far as we know Mr. Hicks enjoys the unique position of being the only man in Chilton who is not abiding the result of the People's Party primary.

ON the official ballot all names have to be arranged alphabetically and the voter must make a cross-mark (X) before the name of each candidate he wishes to vote for. The first names on the ballot will be arranged thus:

Vote for One

FOR GOVERNOR.

X ALBERT T. GOODWYN.

JOSEPH F. JOHNSTON.

and you should make a cross mark against the name of Capt. Goodwyn just as we show it above. Then go on down the ballot and make a cross mark before the name of each of our candidates and we will have the best governed State and County possible.

ONE week from next Monday and the people of Alabama will redeem the State from the hands of ballot-box thieves.

STAMPEDE TO POPULISM.

People's Party News Bureau, Head quarters National Executive Committee, St. Louis, Mo., July 23.

It can safely be asserted that the result of the democratic national convention is a surprise to the country. The leaven that the Populists have injected into the democracy seems to have leavened the greater portion of the lump and the party has revolutionized itself completely. The platform and the nominee are almost Populistic enough to suit the most extreme "middle of the road" advocates. The conversion of the democratic party at this time is as truly miraculous as the conversion of Paul and it is very much in evidence that Providence and the Populists should be given the praise.

There is a perfect stampede of the free silver republicans to the People's Party in Washington and the Populists clubs have received more accessions during the two last weeks than for two years previous.

The free silver sentiment is growing very rapidly in New York, Pennsylvania and other eastern states, and it is not improbable that the so-called "craze" will sweep every state in the union.

The Populists of California are swelling their ranks daily with deserters from both the old party ranks. The prospects for a Populist victory in that state is very flattering.

Notwithstanding the action of the democratic national convention, the Populists of Mississippi and the entire south are maintaining a bold front and declare they will not return to either of their old parties.

Gen. Coxey, who has been campaigning in the west and witnessed the rise of the free silver tide, announces in his newspaper, "Sound Money," that the tide is irresistible and while opposed to combinations that will tend to weaken the People's Party, yet recognizing that free coinage is a step in the right direction, he desires to see all the opponents of the gold stadard get together if they can do so on satisfactory terms to the Populists.

Hon. J. C. Sibley of Pennsylvania, the much talked of Presidential candidate, is petitioned by the Populists, democrats and independent voters of his district, to accept a congressional nomination.

J. Hugh McDowell, of Tennessee, Sergeant-at-arms of the Populist National Convention, and one of the strongest men in the party in the United States, was recently nominated for congress in his district. He has an excellent prospect of election and when elected will be heard from.

The latest notable convert to Populism is Senator Pettigrew, of South Dakota, who bolted the republican national convention with Teller. He made a formal announcement of his conversion before the Populist state convention at Huron, July 14, and was warmly welcomed.

Many of the goldbug democrats are advocating the nomination of Henri Watterson, late editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, for president in opposition to Bryan on the theory that he can carry several southern states.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

To the people of Chilton County:

I take this method to correct the false report now circulating against me in Chilton county. I understand that in many of the so-called speeches made in this county, I am accused of being a gold-bug. I deny it most emphatically. I am for the free coinage of silver, 16 to 1.

I am not a candidate for the legislature by my own solicitation, but in answer to a call made by the people of Chilton county. As regards the statement by Lee Hayes in one of his famous letters to the BANNER, I have to say that his statement about my being one of the grand workers of discord among the people is not true. I have not taken any stand in politics for years. I understand from the reading of his letter that he accuses me of working his defeat. He was defeated by the will of the people. I am sorry that I cannot see all the people in Chilton county at the same time I feel that it is unnecessary because I was born and reared in their midst and my record, both private and public, is a written page before them. In conclusion I will say that if elected I will serve the people to the best of my ability, and if not elected I will still have confidence in the wisdom of the people of Chilton county.

During the summer months the work will be pushed by the Association's active agents, and it is expected that flattering reports will greet the next stockholders meeting.

On motion the Association proceeded to the election of officers for the ensuing year, which resulted as follows: J. A. Logan, Pres.; W. J. HEART DISEASE, like many other ailments when they have taken hold of the system, never gets better of its own accord, but Constantly grows worse. There are thousands who know they have a defective heart, but will not admit the fact. They don't want their friends to worry, and Don't know what to take for it, as they have been told time and again that heart disease was incurable. Such was the case of Mr. Silas Farley of Dyesville, Ohio who writes June 19, 1894, as follows:

"I had heart disease for 23 years, my heart hurting me almost continually. The first 15 years I doctored all the time, trying several physicians and remedies, until my last doctor told me it was only a question of time as I could not be cured. I gradually grew worse, very weak, and completely discouraged, until I lived, propped half up in bed, because I couldn't lie down nor sit up. Thinking my time had come I told my family what I wanted done when I was gone. But on the first day of March on the recommendation of Mrs. Fannie Jones, of Anderson, Ind., I commenced taking Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart and wonderful to tell, in ten days I was working at light work and on March 19 commenced framing a barn, which is heavy work, and I hav'nt lost a day since. I am 56 years old, 6 ft. 4½ inches and weigh 250lbs. I believe I am fully cured, and I am now only anxious that everyone shall know of your wonderful remedies."

Dyesville, Ohio. SILAS FARLEY.

Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5 or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

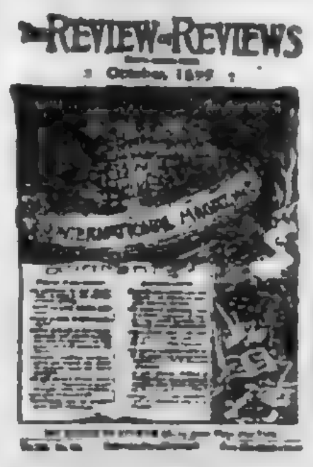
THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS

Edited by ALBERT SHAW.



THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as its name implies, gives in readable form the best that appears in the other great magazines all over the world, generally on the same date that they are published. With the recent extraordinary increase of worthy periodicals, these careful reviews, summaries and quotations, giving the gist of periodical literature, are alone worth the subscription price.

Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the 'REVIEW OF REVIEWS,' which is a sort of Eiffel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."

A Wonderful Cure.

I was a martyr to muscular rheumatism for thirty years; tried all medicines and doctors with no permanent relief. I was advised to take P. P. P., and before I had finished two bottles my pain subsided so I was able to work. I feel better than I have for years, and am confident of a complete recovery.

J. S. DUPRISS, Newnansville, Fla.

Testimony from the Mayor.

I suffered with Rheumatism for fifteen years, tried all the so-called specifics, but to no purpose. My grandson got me a bottle of P. P. P., and I feel like a new man.

P. P. P. begins its work by purifying the blood, which is the source of all life, and does not cease until a perfect and entire cure is effected.

The mortifying eruptions that disfigure the complexion, the tired feeling that prevents thorough accomplishments of the daily tasks, sleepless nights, loss of appetite, irritability of disposition, all mean a derangement of the system consequent from impure blood, which can and will be cured by P. P. P.

ROLLING MILL MEN STRIKE.

Help for Howard College—A Boy Accidentally Kills Himself—Increasing Postal Revenues—Down to Shame and Death—Traffic on the Tennessee River Active.

A Comfortable Balance.

Morgan county has recently paid her court house bonded indebtedness in full, and has cash treasury balance of several hundred dollars.

For Howard College.

Dr. P. T. Hale returned to Birmingham Saturday night from points in South Alabama, having visited Troy, Union Springs and Ozark. During his absence he raised for Howard college about $1,300, of which amount about half was cash.

Help For Howard College.

The Baptist people of Columbia gave a very entertaining concert at the court house Tuesday night, the proceeds of which went to the debt fund of Howard College, and for this help the institution is indebted to the untiring efforts of Mrs. L. G. Clark.

Tennessee River.

The Tennessee river at Decatur has fallen about four feet since Tuesday, but is still far above low water mark. Reports from Chattanooga indicate another rise. Boating on the Tennessee is active. The Pryor came into Decatur Friday with 500 bushels of corn, lumber and a lot of miscellaneous freight.

Wants Swan Lake Drained.

Mr. R. P. McEntire, an enterprising property owner, is making a praiseworthy effort to induce the counties of Limestone and Morgan and the Memphis and Charleston Railroad Company to join in defraying the expense of draining Swan lake, lying just north of Decatur, so as to reduce the water of the lake about five feet.

Fire at Woodlawn.

Friday night about 8 o'clock the general store of Mitchell & Walker at Woodlawn was found to be on fire, and despite the best efforts of those near by the house almost the entire contents were destroyed. The loss is covered by insurance. The origin of the blaze is a mystery; but it was supposed to have occurred through a spark from a cigar, pipe or cigarette.

Shot Her Husband.

Emma Morris, colored, aged 25 years, is in the Jefferson county jail. The charge is that she murdered her husband in the Blue Creek mining region last Saturday by shooting him with a pistol. Emma was brought to the county jail Monday morning by Constable Dock Parsons on a commitment from the justice court of T. M. Parsons. She brought with her in a basket a heavy billet of oak wood, with which she says her husband attacked her. She says she then shot her husband in defense of her own life.

Tells All About It.

One of the negroes arrested last week by Officers Ellard and Bodeker, of Birmingham, with a lot of pistols, razors and knives, has made a statement in which he says that the goods were stolen in a little town between Stone Mountain and Atlanta in Georgia. Postal cards have been sent to the place. Another negro named Jim Morris has been arrested on suspicion of having had some connection with the robbery. The negro who made the statement says that the other two did the robbery while he slept alongside the railroad track.

Down to Shame and Death.

Thursday at noon in Anniston at the house of ill fame of Ida Waters, Nora Tanner, the keeper of a similar resort, and Warren P. Rouse, a young man well known about town, had a fierce fight as the result of a row between them the day before, for which Rouse was arraigned in police court Thursday morning, with the woman as a witness against him. In the fight Madame Tanner had her arm broken in two places and was fearfully beaten over the head. Rouse was shot by the woman in the left side to the hollow and through the leg, from which wounds he died six hours later. The Tanner woman may die. Rouse was the husband of an estimable woman and the father of a child.

Looking at the Pistol.

Mr. W. R. Goudlock, who has been acting as deputy sheriff at Ishkooda recently, returned to Birmingham Thursday morning. He had occasion to go into Furman's tailor shop, and while there laid his pistol on the counter. A negro picked up the pistol and while examining it broke it and took out some of the cartridges. In handing it to Mr. Goudlock he also gave him the cartridges. It seems that while the negro was looking at the pistol he cocked it, of which fact neither of them was aware. Mr. Goudlock in putting the cartridges back discharged his pistol, the ball passing through one of the negroe's hands, making an ugly wound. The negro was badly frightened for awhile. The wound was dressed by a physician.

Religious Revival.

The good people of North Birmingham have certainly provided a great religious feast for their friends. The location of the tent was fortunate. It is in a beautiful grove, with abundance of shade and spring water. During the past week three services a day have been held. Large crowds attend during the day, and from 1,200 to 1,500 at night. Additional seats for 500 more were placed yesterday. At the close of the morning service yesterday 145 persons had professed faith in Christ. Among these are some of our best citizens. Rev. R. C. George of Gadsden is assisting Dr. Wells. Mr. Stapleton of Chattanooga has charge of a choir of fifty voices.

Industrial—Talladega.

The iron furnace at Talladega, which was for several years owned and operated by the Talladega Iron and Steel company, but which has been idle for quite a while, has been sold by Capt. W. F. Armstrong, of Selma, who was its most recent owner, to the Alabama Iron and Railroad company. The transfer was made to G. A. Mattison, superintendent of the Birmingham and Atlantic Railway company, as a representative of the new company. It is said that it is the intention of the Alabama Iron and Railroad company to put the furnace in blast as soon as some badly needed repairs can be made. The furnace, which is a large one, is one of the best in the state, and was most profitably operated for a number of years. It is a comparatively new plant, and has attached to it several mines and branch railroads.

Policemen on Wheels.

Saturday evening as Officer Dishercon, of Birmingham, was going along Twentieth street on his wheel, he heard a great commotion near the Chinese laundry between Fourth and Fifth avenues. Upon making a hasty investigation he ascertained that a negro named Henry Williams had stolen a bundle of laundry. The officer made after the negro towards Fifth avenue and caught him before he had gotten a block. This morning Judge Feagin in the inferior criminal court held the negro to bail to go before the next term of the grand jury. The officers on their wheels took up a negro named Jim Wright in Buzzard Roost who was wanted to serve out a sentence for the city. Wright was fined in a case and also bound over to the criminal court. Before working out his city fine he was turned over to the county, which dealt with him. He will now serve out the city sentence.

Increasing Postal Revenues.

In pursuance of orders issued by the postmaster general the Kansas City, Memphis and Birmingham railroad on Thursday ordered all of its agents to discontinue sending what is known as "R. R. B." mail. The other roads will probably issue similar orders within the next few days.

This matter was taken up some time ago by the postmaster general, and the result was an order commanding all roads to stamp its mail with the required postage and send it by United States mail.

The "R. R. B." mail is a big thing with all railroads, and the compelling of roads to provide all mail with proper postage will net the government a large amount of revenue.

Assistant Baggage Master Sam Moore of the union passenger station, Birmingham, states that from 5,000 to 10,000 letters are handled in that office daily, the larger per cent of the pieces being heavy letters. Thus it will be seen what amount of revenue will accrue from different points in the United States.

His Little Pistol Did It.

About 1 o'clock p. m., Saturday Allen Trumbower, a lad of 14 years, went into the country to purchase eggs for his parents, who live at Thomas, his father being weigher for the company. About 2:45 a negro man named Wallace Burt was riding along the Jasper road, about a mile from Thomas and five miles from Birmingham, when he saw the lad lying on his left side on the ground, and approaching found it to be Allen Trumbower, whom he knew well. He summoned the nearest neighbors and sent word to Marshal Phillips of Pratt City to come out there, also to Dr. J. W. Hirst of Thomas, both of whom arrived in a short time. When turned over the boy was still alive, and his own pistol was found under his body. He was conveyed to the home of his parents at Thomas, where he died and where the coroner saw and examined the body soon after its arrival there, and under the circumstances, there being no witnesses to the shooting, and thinking the same was done accidentally by the boy himself, did not call a jury of inquest.

Suicide or Murder.

The headless bodies of a man and woman were found on the Southern railroad track ten miles from Lawrenceburg, Ky., Saturday morning. The man's head was severed from the mouth up and the woman's diagonally across the head. Tickets were found on the man which show that they had been traveling on the Queen and Crescent route. They had evidently laid down with their heads on the rail, whether with suicidal intent or not will never be known. The bodies have been identified as those of Joseph Hopper and wife, of London, Ky. The coroner returned a verdict of suicide. The couple were about twenty-five years old. They were well dressed, apparently country people. No money was found on either person, but each had tickets showing they had been riding on the Cincinnati Southern. Hopper had a letter from Laurel river United Baptist church showing him in good standing and fellowship, signed by W. H. Brewner, moderator.

Disastrous Conflagration.

The car barns of the Chicago City Railway Company on Cottage Grove avenue, between Thirty-eighth and Thirty-ninth streets, Chicago, were destroyed by fire Saturday night. One hundred open cars, 180 closed cars and about 50 grip cars were burned, besides 50 horses, a large amount of feed and other supplies. It is estimated that the loss will reach nearly $350,000. The insurance is about $31,000.

The fire broke out at 7:30 o'clock in the bay of the barns, and but for the prompt work of the firemen many adjacent buildings would have been burned. A fire engine was demolished by a falling wall and Engineer Sullivan badly hurt. Transportation on Cottage Grove avenue was blocked for several hours.

The Stranded Steamer.

There appears little hope of saving the Pacific mail steamer Columbia. A dispatch from Pescadero says: The Columbia is rolling heavily on the rocks, thumping herself to pieces. The sea is calm, but the swell is rising, and there is about 18 feet of water in the hold, and the captain and officers of the steamer have apparently given her up and are preparing to leave when it is no longer safe to remain on board. The surf breaks close to the steamer, and if the sea gets rough she will last only a few hours. The underwriters have rated her a total loss. She was a new vessel on her first trip. Only a small portion of her cargo has been salvaged, and lighters are still at work removing the ship's fixtures and fittings.

MONTHLY COINAGE DOUBLED.

Heavy Gold Shipments During the Past Week—Improving the Rappahannock—List of Firms Denied the Use of the Mails for Violating the Postal Laws.

Calls for Reports.

Comptroller Eckles on Saturday issued a call for the report of the condition of national banks at the close of business Tuesday, July 14.

Bank Failure.

The comptroller of the currency has received notice of the suspension of the First National bank of Minot, N. D. The capital stock of the bank is $50,000.

Treasury Statement.

Saturday's statement of the condition of the treasury shows: Available cash balance, $261,618,393; gold reserve, $93,138,699. The treasury Saturday lost $258,800 in gold coin and $5,200 in bars, which leaves the true amount of the gold reserve $93,531,845.

Improving the Rappahannock.

Major Charles Allen reports that a depth of 8 feet has now been secured in the Rappahannock river in Virginia as far as Fredericksburg and 9 feet over all the lower bars in the river. He says a constant dredging will be needed to maintain the depth in the upper river on account of sand deposit by high freshets. During the year, by dredging, the channel in York river was deepened to 22 feet.

Denied the Use of the Mails.

Postmaster General Wilson has denied the privileges of the mails to O. Rothschilds' Sons Company and Lee & Co., 747 Broadway, and Harris & Co. and Clark & Co., 101 Fourth avenue, New York; L. J. Sexton, West Sumter, Mich.; the Louisiana Debenture Company, Leonard Robin, president; John Behrend, vice-president, and W. P. Wall, secretary and treasurer, of New Orleans, La., and F. M. Smith, of Marion, Ala., for conducting lotteries and other violations of the postal laws.

Gold Keeps Going.

Heavy gold engagements for export in New York today causes the treasury officials to fear that more will follow before the week is ended. The treasury gold reserve at noon had been reduced to $90,767,636. In the absence of both the president and Secretary Carlise from Washington, no expression of opinion can be obtained from them, but the treasury officials who possess their confidence, do not hesitate to say that there will be no change in the attitude of the administration towards the gold reserve and that if necessary to maintain it another bond issue will be resorted to when the reserve reaches the point where further action is rendered imperative.

Monthly Coinage Doubled.

Owing to the fact that the amount of silver dollars in the treasury available for redemption of treasury notes has become reduced to $10,0659,582, and will be further reduced by redemption during the current month, the coinage of silver dollars by the mints will be increased from $1,500,000 to $3,000,000 per month from the 1st of August, and will probably be continued at that rate in order that the treasury may have sufficient stock to redeem treasury notes presented in exchange for silver dollars.

On the 1st of March, 1893, the treasury held 29,390,461 standard silver dollars for the redemption of treasury notes issued under the act of July, 1890. Today the number of silver dollars held by the treasury for the redemption of treasury notes is 10,659,582. Since the 1st of March, 1893, the coinage of silver dollars has aggregated 11,983,056. Of this sum, however, $2,311,677 was profit, or seigniorage, which leaves $9,671,379 for the redemption of treasury notes. The amount of treasury notes redeemed in silver dollars and cancelled from November 1, 1893, to July 14, 1896, was $28,402,258.

International Arbitration.

The correspondence which has passed between the governments of the United States and Britain respecting the establishment of a general system of arbitration for the settlement of any disputes which might arise between the two countries, and also for the settlement by arbitration of the dispute over the Venezuelan boundary, has been made public in the shape of an even dozen letters which have been exchanged this year between Secretary Olney, Lord Salisbury, Sir Julian Pauncefote and Ambassador Bayard. The correspondence is of great interest as marking a sensible advance toward the adoption by the two English speaking nations of the principle of arbitration as the means of settling disputes between themselves; but the persons who have looked forward with hope and expectation to the speedy conclusion of treaties embodying the arbitration principle for the settlement of either or both of the two great open issues between the two nations are doomed to disappointment, for at the date of the exchange of the last note from Secretary Olney to the British ambassador here, dated within a month past, he points out the most vital point in the case, not only of the Venezuelan question specifically, but of the general arbitration proposition as well, were still the subject of discussion without much expectation of an early adjustment.

Notable features of the correspondence are the fact that where United States Minister Bayard, by instructions from Secretary Olney, proposed negotiations at Washington respecting the Venezuelan boundary dispute, Lord Salisbury broadened it into a general arbitration scheme, following a lead set by the late Secretary Gresham in the spring of 1895; that Secretary Olney later insisted upon dissociating the two subjects, evidently fearing an entangling alliance otherwise; that as to general arbitration, the issues, which still prevent an agreement, are the indisposition of the British government to include territorial disputes save with the addition of provisions that, in the estimation of Secretary Olney, will render the attempt at arbitration nugatory because there are no means of making the findings of the arbitrators binding upon the parties or of removing them from the possibility of infinite appeals. As to the Venezuelan matter, specifically, the great difficulty that cannot be overcome is the refusal of the British government to submit to the action of arbitration the territory upon which British subjects have actually settled. "Immitation arbitration" is what Secretary Olney designates Lord Salisbury's project, while the British premier criticises Secretary Olney's plan as calculated to result in evils worse than war in the institution of innumerable suits to recover claimed territory.

LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN

Battlefield—The Lines of Battle—Imposing Monuments.

Gen. A. P. Stewart, Gen. H. V. Boynton, Mr. J. P. Smartt and Engineer Betts, of the National park, have completed the general location of the Union and Confederate lines of battle on the Lookout mountain battlefield. Both lines will extend through the open ground on each side of the Cravens house, and will be in plain view from the city, so that none of the monuments to be erected on them will be concealed by the woods. To avoid this, General Walthall's lines were established a short distance east of the Cravens house, and the lines of General Hooker's forces about 200 yards west of it.

The government purchase of the Lookout battlefield embraces all the fighting ground on the mountain, aggregating 100 acres, including the Cravens and McMillan properties and several smaller holdings. As soon as the deed can be prepared the government will take possession. The purchase extends from a point on the west side of the mountain, 1,500 feet south of the north front of the palisades, to a point half way between the two inclines. Both New York and Pennsylvania are ready to erect very fine monuments near the Cravens house as soon as the government acquires possession.

New York and New Jersey are just closing contracts for imposing monuments on Orchard Knob. That of New York will be 40 feet high, and that of New Jersey 37. The New York monument will be the most costly one yet erected in the park.

An inspection of the Indiana monuments erected since the dedication has just been completed, with the astonishing result that upon six of the monuments the state commission has put historical tablets which do not belong to the site where the monuments stand, but in four cases to sites more than a mile distant. In six cases the state commission has failed to observe corrections in their tablets made by the national commission, but have chosen to cast the plates with their errors retained.

ANARCHY AT CLEVELAND.

The Reign of Terror Continues—More Troops to the Rescue.

The strike situation at the Brown hoisting works, Cleveland, O., assumed so dangerous a phase Thursday afternoon that three more companies of troops were hurried to the scene just before quitting time, and are now encamped in the works. Early in the afternoon crowds began to assemble and stood about sullenly, defiant of police orders to move on. There was so much evidence of a prearranged plan, every street leading to the works having its own division of the mob, that the authorities in hot haste sent for more troops. When the sixty-three men who had been at work were placed in vans to be driven home from the works it was found necessary to charge the mob twice before a passage could be made for the wagons. The drivers had refused to leave the stables with the vehicles, and the policemen did the driving. During the melee jeers and threats were hurled at the scabs, police and military, and some stones were thrown. The severest fighting was on Hamilton street, and in the charges about forty strikers were pricked by the bayonets. After a passage had been forced, the military had all it could do to keep the mob from chasing the wagons. There is a sullen spirit abroad, which is more dangerous than anything which the police have yet met. One man suffering from a bayonet wound was locked up by the police. The state board of arbitration began its work on the case Thursday.

Rolling Mill Men Strike.

About 300 men at the United States Car company's big plant at Anniston, Ala., are out as a result of a strike by the puddlers, heaters and rollers of the rolling mill department. The trouble has been brewing since the first of the month. A new scale was agreed to, but the company, while promising to pay it, declined to sign it for any definite length of time. This is one of the grievances of the men, and another is that 2 per cent of their wages is held back in the office as an insurance fund. All attempts to settle the matter have so far failed and the company officials announce that Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers are henceforth barred from the mill. The force will doubtless be reorganized right away, but in the meantime the company has telegraphed cancellations of orders of about 1,000 tons of bar iron, which were wanted for immediate delivery.

How Ex-Governor Russell Died.

It appears that the people who accompanied Ex-Governor Russell were his brother and Francis Peabody, from Boston. Their camp was near the Little Pabos river, where they had been fishing all day Wednesday, when the ex-governor seemed in the very best of health. The tent in which they slept was divided into two compartments, and, as the ex-governor slept alone, the others never knew that he was dead until late this morning, when they thought it was time to wake him. At a late hour Thursday night the coroner's jury returned to St. Adelaide de Pabos from the camp. The doctors and coroner's jury decided that heart disease was the cause of death.

Profited by Having Pocket Picked.

A lady was riding the other day in an omnibus along Oxford street, London, when a person in clerical attire followed her into the vehicle and sat by her side. Shortly afterward he got out of the 'bus and the lady, feeling for her purse, found it had been stolen. The behavior of the "clergyman" led to the suspicion that he was the thief. On reaching home the lady found in her pocket a large diamond ring. The purse contained but a few shillings, and the lady sold the ring left by the pickpocket for $200.

CANNON OF THE CUBANS.

They Are Often Made of Logs Bound with Rawhide.

The expedients to which the Cuban patriots are driven to procure weapons with which to carry on their warfare against Spanish oppression show them to be a most ingenious people. Almost everything has been pressed into service which would suffice for a cannon. Cannon in Cuba have been cast from crude bronze; have been extemporized from captured sugar mill steam pipes, and quite serviceable ones have even been made from wooden logs, wound with strips of green rawhide.

How Old are You?

You need not answer the question, madam, for in your case age is not counted by years. It will always be true that "a woman is as old as she looks." Nothing sets the seal of age so deeply upon woman's beauty as gray hair. It is natural, therefore, that every woman is anxious to preserve her hair in all its original abundance and beauty; or, that being denied the crowning gift of beautiful hair, she longs to possess it. Nothing is easier than to attain to this gift or to preserve it, if already possessed. Ayer's Hair Vigor restores gray or faded hair to its original color. It does this by simply aiding nature, by supplying the nutrition necessary to health and growth. There is no better preparation for the hair than SUFFERING IN SILENCE.

Women are the real heroes of the world. Thousands on thousands of them endure the dragging torture of the ills peculiar to womankind in the silence of home. They suffer on and on—weeks, months, years. The story of weakness and torture is written in the drawn features, in the sallow skin, in the listless eyes, in the lines of care and worry on the face.

Inborn modesty seals their lips. They prefer pain to humiliation. Custom has made them believe the only hope of relief lies in the exposure of examination and "local treatment."

Take ten cases of "female weakness" and in nine of them "local treatment" is unnecessary. There is no reason why modest, sensitive women should submit to it.

McELREE'S

is a vegetable wine. It exerts a wonderfully healing, strengthening and soothing influence over the organs of womankind. It invigorates and stimulates the whole system. It is almost infallible in curing the peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and painful derangements of woman. Year after year, in the privacy of home—away from the eyes of everybody—it effects cures.

WINE OF CARDUI is sold for $1.00 a bottle. Dealers in medicine sell it. Five bottles usually cure the worst cases.

Tariff Bankrupted McKinley.

We found the following going the rounds:

Another gentleman who ought to know, because he was hand in glove with the New York delegation tells a good story about the platform and the ticket. He said:

Here's another fact showing the pull the New York people had. The money plank in the platform was brought to the New York delegation for ratification. That plank was in the handwriting of H. H. Kohlsaat, editor of the Chicago Times-Herald, McKinley's warmest and strongest friend in the west. Kohlsaat went down in his pocket and paid $50,000 in cash to help McKinley out of his financial troubles several years ago. He is a politician as well as an editor, and was acting under instructions at St. Louis. Kohlsaat can have what he wants if McKinley gets there. His chances for the cabinet are bright, because he is an able man, and, never having held office, has no enemies. Chicago would be glad to see him honored, regardless of party."

McKinley's tariff helped to swamp McKinley, and then the millionaires paid his debts and put him on his feet. If he is elected they will own him—even to the clothes on his back.

The Citizen says that five thousand workingmen paraded the streets of Cleveland, Ohio, a few hours after Hanna returned from St. Louis, and they cheered—but not for McKinley—they cheered for Eugene V. Debs.

All money is only an order on society for its face value in the products of labor.

The people have had enough of experimenting with the two old parties.

Here it is:

"The Republican party is unreservedly for sound money. It caused the enactment of the law providing for the resumption of specie payment in 1879; since then every dollar has been as good as gold. We are unalterably opposed to every measure calculated to debase our currency or impair the credit of our country. We are, therefore, opposed to the free coinage of silver except by international agreement, with the leading commercial nations of the world, which we pledge ourselves to promote, and until such an agreement can be obtained the existing gold standard must be supported. All our silver and paper currency now in circulation must be maintained at a parity with gold, and we favor all measures designed to maintain inviolably the obligations of the United States, and all our money, whether coin or paper, at the present standard, the standard of the most enlightened nations of the earth."

Nobody cared what the tariff plank might be.

The whole cowardly surrender of the Republican party is embodied in this one plank—and on that the party will go down to destruction before the hosts of an aroused and intelligent patriotic people.

No great party ever before in the history of the United States came out thus boldly to defy the wishes and best interests of the American people.

The money power has spoken plainly through its treasonable tool, the Republican party.

But the American people will not surrender their blood-bought liberties to the metal god of misery, crime and oppression.

The doom of despotism is sealed—and that in its most defiant hour.

The rich spend money lavishly and the poor producer pays the freight.

[illegible]

Does Gold Circulate?

[illegible] ... That the free coinage of silver will drive gold out of circulation ... emphatically denied. It is impossible to drive any ... of money out of circulation ... is not in circulation. As gold does not circulate in this country as currency it cannot be driven out of circulation. The money grabbers and bankers control the gold, and when they order it paid out by the banks throughout the country, which is occasionally done for political effect, it circulates. When the bank bosses of New York order the banks to cease gold circulation it does not circulate. Practically there is not a dollar of gold in circulation at this time. Therefore, the assertion that the free coinage of silver will drive gold out of circulation is not worth considering, from the very potent fact that gold does not circulate.—Southern Mercury.

The Real Meaning.

One or two slight changes in the republican financial plank make it read as follows:

"We are unalterably opposed to every measure calculated to curtail the power of foreign money lords by improving the currency of our country.

"We are, therefore, opposed to this nation, with its 70,000,000 of 'free' people, managing its own financial affairs without a permit from 'the leading commercial nations of the world,' under an 'international agreement.'

"We unhesitatingly declare that our silver and paper currency must be maintained on an equality with gold, and the only way to do this is to destroy both, to the end that European shylocks may understand that we favor anything that will maintain their opportunities and our national honor.

"And, finally, whenever our masters will permit (by 'international agreement') we shall be ready to change our views 'to maintain inviolably the obligation of the United States.'"—Coming Nation.

A Modern Political Boom.

"You must have a good deal to worry you just now," said the presidential candidate's friend. "I suppose you are bothered a good deal by interviews for opinions?"

"Oh, no; my press agent attends to that."

"But the expense of the campaign is something pretty heavy?"

"My financial backer attends to the expenses."

"But you have lots of little details to think about—like getting the brass band to play 'Hail to the Chief' at just the proper point in the proceedings, and having the American flag hung where you can point to it at an effective juncture."

"No; the stage manager and property man attend to those things."

"Well—excuse me—but, would you mind telling me where you come in?"

"I—oh, I just do the running for office."—Washington Star.

There is some difference between the tin soldier McKinley and the other Napoleon famed in history. It will be more noticeable after election.

Now is the time to hold your populist picnics and camp meetings.

Mystery of Walter Parsons.

About one year ago Water, the 8-year-old son of a Tuscaloosa county farmer named Parsons, disappeared from his home and though a most diligent search, in which the whole neighborhood joined, was instituted, the little fellow could not be found. Friday a man was hunting in the swamps about five miles from the Parsons' farm, when he discovered lying in a lonely spot the skeleton of a child, which, by the tattered garments that clung about it, was later identified as the remains of little Walter Parsons. The skeleton received Christian burial in the presence of a large assemblage of sympathizing friends.

Considerable damage was done in McKeesport, where the Dewees company's mill had thirty-eight furnaces "killed" by the water, causing a loss of $25,000. Work was suspended at the water works and the National tube works.

A number of coal barges broke loose and sank, the loss by that means being about $25,000. In all the towns along the Monongahela more or less damage was done. The houses in the low parts of Homestead, Port Perry, Braddock, Dravosburg and adjacent towns were inundated. There was considerable injury everywhere to furniture.

Jail Failed to Hold Him.

A letter has been received by the police department of Birmingham from Madison, Ga., stating that Jim Morris, colored, had escaped from the jail there and was probably on his way toward Alabama again. A few weeks ago Morris and two other negroes named John Jones and Will Williams were arrested at Birmingham with a lot of stolen pistols, knives and razors in their possession. A good case of burglary was made out against the trio. Morris is suspected of making toward Birmingham again, as he has several friends there.

THE PLATFORM.

"The People's Party of the State of Alabama, in convention assembled, recognizing the supremacy of political liberty over all the questions that can come before the people of the State for solution at the general State election, to take place on the 3rd day of August, 1896, reaffirm our allegiance to the cardinal principles of Populism as follows:

"First—We demand a free ballot and a fair count.

"Second—We believe in the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of international agreement.

"Third—We demand that miners and others like corporate labor be paid in lawful money of the United States semi-monthly.

"Fourth—We favor a tariff for revenue, so adjusted as to protect, as far as practicable the farmers, and the labour in our shops, mines, factories and mills, and their products against foreign pauper labor."

Judge Zell Gaston's amendment to the 2d section was as follows:

"We demand the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the abolition of national banks, the expansion of the currency to meet the needs of the people and the demands of commerce, free from the control of corporate influences, and we condemn the issue of interest bearing bonds in time of peace."

Next came a lot of resolutions, which passed unanimously:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that our representatives in congress be and are hereby requested to use their best endeavors to secure appropriations by the Federal Government to open the Warrier River to navigation from the coal fields to the Gulf of Mexico."

"Resolved, That our county appointing boards are hereby requested to give to the political opposition a competent inspector at every polling place in their respective counties,

"And we further request the inspector so appointed to give a competent clerk and tixer at each polling place to said political opposition."

LET every man come out Monday and cast his vote for the entire Populist ticket.

IT is necessary for Chilton to return a larger majority than usual in order to reduce ficticious majorties from the black belt.

General Weaver, our candidate for President four years ago, was in Birmingham this week conferring with the Populist leaders.

THE National Convention is over and the result of its deliberations apparently has somewhat complicated matters—that is when looked at from a Democratic standpoint. From the point of view of the Populist, however, there need be no complication, but on the contrary everything can be made to work smoothly, harmoniously and triumphantly. The Democratic National convention nominated William J. Bryan, a gentleman of national reputation, as their candidate for the presidency, in a great measure, on a Populist platform, and also nominated Mr. Arthur Sewall, an obscure man, as vice president. The Populist convention, more patriotic than partisan, recognizing the necessity of united action in order to at once succeed in enacting a part of our platform into law have also nominated Mr. Bryan, and Populists will exert themselves to the utmost to insure his election. But the Populist convention refused to accept the vice-presidential nominee of the Democrats and instead nominated Thomas E. Watson, another gentleman of national reputation, as our candidate for vice-president. We have, therefore, a Populist-Democrat head with two tails against a united Republican party. This anomalous condition is not conducive to success. Our Democratic friends have loudly proclaimed that now is the opportunity for Populists to prove their devotion to the cause of free silver by accepting their candidates and working and voting for them. But there's the rub It is not the Populist who has so recently become converted. It is not the Populist who has to prove his sincerity. It is the Democrat. 'Tis but a short time since many of our Democratic friends were calling the Populist a silver crank and were predicting all manner of misfortunes if ever we came into power. Now that they have conceded our views were and are correct and have adopted them it is too much for them to ask us to prove our sincerity by conceding all they demand at the expense of our own party. They can best prove their own sincerity by the withdrawal of Mr. Sewall and by supporting and electing our nominee—Thomas E. Watson. Mr. Sewall cannot by any possibility be electe' if Populists support Mr. Watson—and that we are going to do—and would do more good to the cause of free silver by voluntarily declining the Democratic nomination than he will by endeavoring to get elected.

The election on Monday will greatly influence the course Populists will take in the national election in November. Reliable information from all over the State points to the certainty of Capt. Goodwyn and the co-operation ticket receiving honestly a large majority of the votes cast. But the same old dishonest methods seem likely to be practiced in a great many "organized" counties, judging from the refusal of Democrats to appoint representatives of the opposition as election managers, etc. We hope however that the white men of Alabama will give such an overwhelming majority for our ticket as to effectually put a quietus upon any attempt at fraud.

IF you don't know the name of every Populist candidate on the State ticket, cut out the sample ticket which we print in another column, put it in your pocket, and when you go to vote next Monday, take it out of your pocket and then make a cross-mark on the ballot against the same names we have marked on the ticket. Then you will have done your duty.

THE indications are that Mr. Bryan will secure a very large support among the workingmen of the East. Nothing could be more erroneous than the assumption that he stands no chance of an election. The effect of Mr. Bryan's nomination and of his manifest popularity soon began to make itself felt upon the stock market. The raids upon the Treasury's gold reserve began again, and on July 10 the fund fell below the one hundred million mark, and continued slowly but steadily to decline for some days thereafter. It is within the range of possibilities that the administration may be compelled to resort to another bond issue before election day arrives.—From "The Progress of the World," in August Review of Reviews.

TOM WATSON ACCEPTS.

A reporter of the Associated Press called upon Hon Thomas E. Watson at his home in Thompson, Ga., and elicited the following expression of his views in regard to the national ticket.

"I will accept the nomination as I wired my friends in St. Louis to that effect. I did it in the interest of harmony and to prevent the disruption of the Populist party which seemed iminent. Under the circumstances I did what I believed to be best for all interests. The movement for fusion was immensely greater than I had any idea of two weeks ago. I was originally for a straight Populist ticket. But the demand for fusion, or the adoption of the entire Democratic ticket, would have killed the Populist party. As it is the integrity of the party is preserved. Under the circumstances I fully indorse the policy pursued by the convention. There is no reason why I should refuse to receive the support of a man who agrees with me in three essential principles because he does not agree with me in four. I would rather accept his aid and thank him for it. If Mr. Bryan accepts the Populists nomination I believe our ticket will be elected."

"Upon what do you base your belief." "The combination ticket will carry the solid South and West with 233 votes, when 224 are necessary to a choice. Besides, there are Eastern and Northern States that are debatable ground. I should not be surprised to see as great a landslide in favor of free silver as we saw in 1890, and that several States which are now considered reliably Republican, will go for our ticket and free silver. The only doubt about the supremacy of the Populist Party in the West is the Democratic Party, and with the votes of this party we would carry the West. The only doubt about the supremacy of the Democratic Party in the South is the Populist Party. A union of the strength of the two will carry both sections solidly.

"I fully indorse the Populist platform just adopted at St. Louis. The Populists will indorse the Democratic platform as far as it goes. I consider that the Democratic Party is returning to Jeffersonian principles, and I am ready to devote whatever influence or talent I may possess to a restoration of the government to its early principles.

"I am ready to offer my services to the Executive Committee composed of Democrats and Populists to further the interests of the ticket. Mr. Bryan and I were friends in the Fifty-second Congress, and I believe voted together on every measure that came before the House. I have no prejudice against any section of the Union. I was born on the 5th of September, 1856, and therefore did not participate in the civil war. I am a Southern man in sentiment and feeling but I have no sectional bitterness. From the very foundation of the government I think the East and North have been represented in congress by shrewd business men who have paid very strict attention to getting passed such laws as would benefit their section. I do think that national banking laws, our tariff laws, our funding system have to a very great extent built up the North and East at the expense of the South and West. While I would not do any injury to these sections, I would like to see the fair thing done; those laws that discriminate against the South and West should be removed from the statute books. Our system at present is in favor of wealth as against the citizen, for the dollars as against the man. I see no reason why the law cannot give ample protection to property without doing injustice to the laborer and producer, and I should be happy to see a policy that would give mutual protection to each successfully. The South and West practically, produce all the wealth of this country; the East and North practically produce none of it. It is the literal fact, that the producing sections accumulate little or nothing while the non-producing sections accumulate fabulous profits"

Stand close to a high fence, and try to leap over. You fail. Walk back a few steps, get a good start. The fence is easily cleared. Neglect your cough, never mind your loss in weight, and when consumption faces you, your strength may not be sufficient to carry you over the danger-line. If you could only go back a few weeks and make a good start, you might win.

Editor BANNER: What wrought up such a change in the mind of Prof. R. E. R. Hicks? A very short time ago he and I had a very hot controversy in which he declared most emphatically that he was opposed to free coinage of silver, that he did not favor one class being taxed to pay the expense of coining the silver of another class and that it was equally just to manufacture cotton free as it was silver. In my reply I assured him that no class was burdened with the expense of coining the silver of another class, but that the government took one-tenth of the pure silver of the bullion owner, and replaced it with a baser or cheaper metal, hence no one was hurt by free coinage of silver. I notice in his card in the BANNER that he accuses some one of calling him a gold-bug in their so called speeches. I have used his name a few times but if I called him a gold-bug I did not intend it for I have accepted Col. Howard's definition of those fellows who believe in sound money and have neither gold or silver. He calls them doodle bugs. I have been one of Prof. Hicks' warmest friends, but he has proven anything but a friend to me. If the Professor has changed his mind on the money question he ought to have cried out before before becoming a candidate.

HEART DISEASE, like many other ailments when they have taken hold of the system, never gets better of its own accord, but Constantly grows worse. There are thousands who know they have a defective heart, but will not admit the fact. They don't want their friends to worry, and Don't know what to take for it, as they have been told time and again that heart disease was incurable. Such was the case of Mr. Silas Farley of Dyesville, Ohio who writes June 19, 1894, as follows:

"I had heart disease for 23 years, my heart hurting me almost continually. The first 15 years I doctored all the time, trying several physicians and remedies, until my last doctor told me it was only a question of time as I could not be cured. I gradually grew worse, very weak, and completely discouraged, until I lived, propped half up in bed, because I couldn't lie down nor sit up. Thinking my time had come I told my family what I wanted done when I was gone. But on the first day of March on the recommendation of Mrs. Fannie Jones, of Anderson, Ind., I commenced taking Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart and wonderful to tell, in ten days I was working at light work and on March 19 commenced framing a barn, which is heavy work, and I have not lost a day since. I am 56 years old, 6 ft. 4½ inches and weigh 250lbs. I believe I am fully cured, and I am now only anxious that everyone shall know of your wonderful remedies."

Dyesville, Ohio. SILAS FARLEY.

Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5 or it will be sent, prepaid on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Write us a letter covering these three points:

FIRST.—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."

SECOND.—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.

THIRD.—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, not, and should retail at not over 10 or 12 cents, if consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain; Zeilin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 300 or 400 per cent., instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine," which you be sure to specify, and take no other, as there is nothing else like it.

On receipt of your letter enclosing photograph, we will mail you free of charge, a $1.00 package Liver Medicine, or on receipt of letter without photograph, we will mail you a 25 cent package, free.

A Wonderful Cure.

I was a martyr to muscular rheumatism for thirty years; tried all medicines and doctors with no permanent relief. I was advised to take P. P. P., and before I had finished two bottles my pain subsided so I was able to work. I feel better than I have for years, and am confident of a complete recovery.

J. S. DUPRISS, Newnansville, Fla.

Testimony from the Mayor.

I suffered with Rheumatism for fifteen years, tried all the so-called specifics, but to no purpose. My grandson got me a bottle of P. P. P., and I feel like a new man.

The mortifying eruptions that disfigure the complexion, the tired feeling that prevents thorough accomplishments of the daily tasks, sleepless nights, loss of appetite, irritability of disposition, all mean a derangement of the system consequent from impure blood, which can and will be cured by P. P. P.

A Cannon Used as a Spile.

In some towns along the coast and in inland towns, too, one may still see planted at street corners cannon; relics of the revolutionary war, or of the war 1812, or, perhaps, the Mexican war. In navy yards one sometimes sees condemned cannon put to use as spiles, to make vessel's lines fast to. There is such a gun, planted at Governor's Island ferry landing, at the foot of Whitehall street in New York. The building out of an adjoining wharf seaward to which boats now tie up, has left this gun no further use as a spile, but it remains a picturesque object and one quite appropriate to the landing of a ferry or military post.

Cleansing.

A soap for cleaning silk is made by beating one pound cocoanut oil in 96 degrees F., adding half pound caustic soda, mixing thoroughly. Then heat half pound white Venetian turpentine, add to the soap and again mix thoroughly. The mixture is covered and left four hours, then heated again, and one pound of ox gall is added to it and well stirred. Next pulverize some perfectly dry, good curd soap, and add it to the gall soap in sufficient quantity to make it solid. One or two pounds of curd soap will be needed. When cold the mass should be pressed into cakes.

The War of the Future.

"How many seamstresses have we in the army?" asked the generaless.

"Now, what do you want to know that for?" asked the aid-de-camp, who had been a hired girl and still retained her lack of respect for authority.

"Why, I read somewhere that Napoleon often won his battles by hemming the enemy in."—Indianapolis Journal.

POPULIST CONVENTION

Nominates W. J Bryan, the Democratic Nominee, for President.

THE USUAL ORDER REVERSED

By the Adoption of a Rule Providing That the Nomination for Vice President Precede That for President—Thomas E. Watson, of Georgia, Nominated.

The populist convention met in St. Louis, Mo., last Wednesday and was called to order at 12:37 by Chairman Taubeneck.

Prayer was offered by Rev. W. L. Smith, of the Third Baptist church of St. Louis.

Ex-Governor Stone, of Missouri, was then introduced and made an address of welcome, which was responded to by Ignatius Donnelly, of Minnesota.

Senator Butler was introduced as temporary chairman, having been chosen by the national committee without a dissenting vote. He addressed the convention, after which the states were called for members of the committee on credentials. At the conclusion of the call a recess until 8 p. m. was taken.

The committee on credentials met immediately after the recess was taken and organized by electing F. M. Wardall, of California, chairman.

At 8:45 Chairman Butler appeared on the stage. The band played, "Put Me Off at Buffalo," and then Senator Butler called the convention to order. He announced that the committee on credentials would not be able to report that night, and that as owing to an accident there was no light, he would declare the convention in recess until 10 a. m. Thursday.

SECOND DAY.

At 10:10 Thursday morning the convention was called to order by the temporary chairman. Rev. Mr. Smith again offered prayer.

The chairman called the committee on credentials, but it was not ready to report and its time was extended. The roll of the states was called for naming members of the several committees.

The members of the committee on organization were requested to retire for consultation.

At 11:35 the committee on platform retired to meet at the Lindell hotel.

A motion that the delegates to the silver convention, now in session in the city, be admitted to this convention was ruled out of order.

At 12:45 the convention took a recess until 3 o'clock.

The convention was called to order and the credentials committee made a partial report, by the majority, recommending that the delegations be recognized in all the uncontested cases; that in the case of the First and Second Illinois congressional districts both contestants and contestees be seated with the right to cast half votes, and that in the case of Colorado the delegates known as the Patterson delegates be seated and cast the full vote of the state.

Minority reports, the chairman said, would be submitted in these cases.

That part of the report for the admission of the delegates whose seats were uncontested was agreed to.

The Illinois contest was taken up and the majority report agreed to by [illegible] to 642. Debate was limited to 15 minutes. This result was announced by the chair amid a scene of great confusion. It was stated by the chair in reply to a question that the Illinois delegations had voted on their own case, though no one had heard Illinois called. It was incidentally disclosed during the roll call that the vote of Louisiana had been increased by the committee on credentials from fifteen to thirty-two without any report being made in regard thereto.

The roll call also gave public information for the first time of votes assigned each state under the elastic rules of the convention.

Other contests were disposed of and Mr. Cox, of Virginia, chairman on permanent organization, was recognized by the chair. Mr. Cox stated the recommendation of the committee to be that Senator Allen, of Nebraska, be elected permanent chairman. A minority report naming James E. Champion, of Maine, was presented.

The majority report was adopted by 758 to 574.

On motion the election of Senator Allen was made unanimous.

Senator Allen was conducted to the chair and addressed the convention in a speech of one hour.

Senator Butler moved that a committee of 25 be appointed to confer tonight or tomorrow with a conference committee of the silver convention. Agreed to.

The committee on rules presented its report, and the convention, without acting on it, at 10:8 p. m. adjourned until Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

THIRD DAY.

Before resuming the business Friday morning the convention was entertained by the presentation of a gavel containing forty-eight kinds of wood, representing the states and territories, and by the appearance on the stage of two fantastics supposed to represent Uncle Sam and Miss Columbia. The latter treated the audience to a song.

The states were called for naming members of the committee of twenty-five to confer with representatives of the silver convention, and then the report of the committee on rules was taken up, and the minority report was read. It recommended that the nomination of a vice president precede that of president.

Mr. E. G. Brown, of Massachusetts advocated the minority report in a short conciliating speech and asked for a poll of the states on the question of proceeding to the nomination of a vice president. The chair ruled that Mr. Brown's motion was out of order until the previous motion to take up the reports by sections was disposed of. A warm debate ensued which was finally cut off by a demand for the previous question. Nevertheless Mr. Garry Brown, of Massachusetts, and Ex-Governor Gibbs, of Texas, were permitted to address the convention, after the chair had declared the previous question carried, both of them favoring the minority report and the nomination of a southern populist for vice president.

The question was put on the adoption of the majority report as far as it did not conflict with that of the minority, and it was carried.

Mr. Washburne, of Massachusetts, was called to the chair to relieve Senator Allen.

It was decided by an almost unanimous vote to leave the selection of chairman of the national committee to the committee itself, instead of confiding it to the presidential nominee.

The minority report as to the order of nomination was adopted by 785 for, to 615 against it.

The report, as amended was then adopted.

At 3:05 p. m. General Weaver, of Iowa, chairman of committee on resolutions, presented and read the platform as agreed to in committee.

Mr. Coxey, of Ohio, presented the views of the minority of the committee on platform, favoring non-interest bearing bonds; good roads; extension of suffrage to women, and the ownership and control by the government of every industry necessary to the welfare of the community.

Mr. Kearby, of Texas, on the part of the minority, stated an objection to the platform to be that it was too elaborate and too much like the one adopted at Chicago. He presented a subplatform, which was read.

A minority report of one member of the committee on rules was presented by Mr. F. Vallette, of Rhode Island. It was read, the opening paragraph being a paraphrase of the declaration of independence.

While the paper was being read the convention grew restless and shafts of sarcasm were fired at its author from every quarter. Mr. Vallette retorted with such violent anger that he was removed from the stage by force.

All amendments were laid on the table and the platform was adopted as it came from the committee.

A motion to call the states for nominations for vice-president was carried, but was reconsidered after the call had begun and at 4:33 a recess until 6 p. m. was taken.

When the convention reassembled and order was restored Delegate Pollock, of Mississippi, a member of the silver convention, was introduced by the chairman and proceeded to read the platform adopted by that body. When he reached the conclusion to the effect that Mr. Bryan had been nominated for the presidency there was an outburst of applause, drowning the further announcement of the nomination of Sewall for vice-president.

The call of states for nomination for vice-president was resumed, Mr. Bowman, of Alabama, appearing as the spokesman of that delegation to nominate for vice-president Representative Skinner, the populist congressman from North Carolina.

Representative Howard, of Alabama, placed in nomination Hon. Thomas E. Watson, the late populist congressman from Georgia.

Mr. Sovereign, master workman of the Knights of Labor, seconded the nomination of Mr. Watson on behalf of the state of Arkansas.

Mr. Lafe Pence, of New York, nominated Arthur Sewall, of Maine.

Captain Burnam, of Tennessee, named A. L. Mims, of that state.

L. C. Bateman, of Maine, put in nomination Mr. Mann Page, of Virginia, president of the National Farmers' Alliance.

WATSON FOR VICE-PRESIDENT.

The call of the states, the nomination and seconding speeches closed just before midnight. At this point General Weaver, with an obvious knowledge of the grave import of the telegrams which had passed between Senator Jones and Mr. Bryan, ascended the platform and in earnest tones stated that the gravity of the situation was such as to require that each delegation should have an opportunity to consult. This suggestion was received with loud cries of "no." Then General Weaver made another proposition that one vote should be taken and then an adjournment taken until tomorrow. This was also howled down and the chairman took a hand. He said the leaders of the party had been driven away from the platform and he asked if there was enough patriotism and decency in the gentlemen on the floor and in the galleries to accord a respectful hearing to any one.

The audience, shamed into silence, quieted down, but the hour of midnight being now passed, all further attempt at remonstrance was abandoned and the convention rushed on.

The voting for vice president began at 12:10 a. m. The roll was completed at 12:25. Then Mr. Burkitt, of Mississippi took the stand to withdraw his name and to ask his friends to change their votes to other candidates. Mr. Mimms, of Tennessee, next took the stand and asked his friends to cast their votes for Watson, adding: "I release them from all obligation to me."

Then changing of votes began and delegates almost tumbled over one another to change their votes to Watson, who soon had enough to insure a nomination, though the whole proceeding were so irregularly conducted that the clerks could not make a record. Finally Texas changed 103 to Watson and that settled it.

A motion was made to suspend the rules and make Mr. Watson the unanimous choice of the contion. As soon as this had been done the lights went out.

At 1:16 o'clock the electric lights gave out a feeble glimmer again, which slowly increased until faces were dimly visible. The chair announced that Mr. Watson had been declared the unanimous nominee for vice president. Then again the electric lights became once more fairly brilliant and the candles were blown out.

General Weaver again tried to get the convention to adjourn, but was cried down. The chair announced that the next order of business was the selection of a national committee. The convention refused to accept that and the chair retorted: "That's your order of business, anyhow." He put the motion to adjourn and declared it carried, and at 12:50 a. m. the convention adjourned until tomorrow at 9 a. m.

[illegible]NATED.

The [illegible] the convention on the fourth day was the selection of national committeemen. Committeemen on notification were then called for and named.

The call of the states for nominations for president was then begun.

Mr. Gaither, of Alabama, gave way to James B. Weaver, who nominated Mr. Bryan. A motion to make the nomination unanimous was made but failed, and the call of the states proceeded. Bryan's nomination was seconded by delegates from thirteen or fourteen states.

Henry W. Call, of New York, speaking for Maine delegates, nominated S. F. Norton, of Chicago.

Mr. Livingston, chairman of the Missouri delegation, named Ignatius Donnelly, of Minnesota, who declined. Then, speaking for himself, he nominated J. S. Coxey, of Ohio.

Texas seconded the nomination of Norton.

The proceedings were here interrupted long enough to hear and adopt a motion giving the national committee plenary power.

The vote was then taken for president. Bryan received 1,042, Norton 321, Donnelly 3, Debs 8, Coxey 1.

The convention then adjourned without a day.

THE POPULIST PLATFORM.

It Favors Free Coinage, an Income Tax and Government Railroads.

ST. LOUIS, MO., July 25.—The Populist platform, as reported by the majority of the Committee on Resolutions and adopted by the convention, is as follows:

The People's party, assembled in National Convention, reaffirms its allegiance to the principles declared by the founders of the Republic, and also to the fundamental principles of just government as enunciated in the platform of the party in 1892. We recognize that, through the connivance of the present and preceding Administrations, the country has reached a crisis in its National life, as predicted in our declaration four years ago, and that prompt and patriotic action is the supreme duty of the hour.

We realize that while we have political independence, our financial and industrial independence is yet to be attained by restoring to our country the Constitutional control and exercise of the functions necessary to a people's Government, which functions have been basely surrendered by our public servants to corporate monopolies. The influence of European money changers has been more potent in shaping legislation than the voice of the American people. Executive power and patronage have been used to corrupt our Legislatures and defeat the will of the people, and plutocracy has thereby been enthroned upon the ruins of Democracy. To restore the Government intended by the fathers, and for the welfare and prosperity of this and future generations, we demand the establishment of an economic and financial system which shall make us masters of our own affairs and independent of European control, by the adoption of the following:

Declaration of Principles.

1. We demand a National money, safe and sound, issued by the general Government only, without the intervention of banks of issue, to be a full legal tender for all debts, public and private; a just, equitable and efficient means of distribution direct to the people and through the lawful disbursements of the Government.

2. We demand the free and unrestricted coinage of silver and gold at the present legal ratio of sixteen to one, without waiting for the consent of foreign Nations.

3. We demand the volume of circulating medium be steadily increased to an amount sufficient to meet the demands of the business and population and to restore the just level of prices of labor and production.

4. We denounce the sale of bonds and the increase of the public interest-bearing debt made by the present Administration as unnecessary and without authority of law, and demand that no more bonds be issued except by specific act of Congress.

5. We demand such legislation as will prevent the demonetization of the lawful money of the United States by private contract.

6. We demand that the Government, in payment of its obligations, shall use its option as to the kind of lawful money in which they are to be paid, and we denounce the present and preceding Administrations for surrendering this option to the holders of Government obligations.

7. We demand a graduated income tax, to the end that aggregated wealth shall bear its just proportion of taxation, and we regard the recent decision of the Supreme Court relative to the Income Tax law as a misinterpretation of the Constitution and an invasion of the rightful powers of Congress over the subject of taxation.

8. We demand that postal savings banks be established by the Government for the safe deposit of the savings of the people and to facilitate exchange.

Transportation.

1. Transportation being a means of exchange and a public necessity, the Government should own and operate the railroads in the interest of the people and on a non-partisan basis, to the end that all may be accorded the same treatment in transportation, and that the tyranny and political power now exercised by the great railroad corporations which result in the impairment, if not the destruction, of the political rights and personal liberties of the citizen, may be destroyed. Such ownership is to be accomplished gradually in a manner consistent with sound public policy.

2. The interest of the United States in the public highways built with public moneys, and the proceeds of extensive grants of land to the Pacific railroads, should never be alienated, mortgaged, or sold, but guarded and protected for the general welfare as provided by the laws organizing such railroads. The foreclosure of existing liens of the United States on these roads should at once follow default in the payment thereof of the debtor companies; and at the foreclosure sales of said roads the Government shall purchase the same if it becomes necessary to protect its interests therein, or if they can be purchased at a reasonable price; and the Government shall operate said railroads as public highways for the benefit of the whole people, and not in the interest of the few, under suitable provisions for protection of life and property, giving to all transportation interests equal privileges and equal rates for fares and freights.

3. We denounce the present infamous schemes for refunding these debts, and demand that the laws now applicable thereto be executed and administered according to their interest and spirit.

4. The telegraph, like the post office system, being a necessity for the transmission of news, should be owned and operated by the Government in the interest of the people.

Land.

1. True policy demands that the National and State legislation shall be such as will ultimately enable every prudent and industrious citizen to secure a home, and therefore the land should not be monopolized for speculative purposes. All lands now held by railroads and other corporations in excess of their actual needs should by lawful means be reclaimed by the Government and held for actual settlers only, and private land monopoly, as well as alien ownership should be prohibited.

2. We condemn the land grant frauds by which the Pacific railroad companies have, through the connivance of the Interior Department, robbed multitudes of actual bona fide settlers of their homes and miners of their claims, and we demand legislation by Congress which will enforce the exception of mineral land from such grants after as well as before the patent.

3. We demand that bona fide settlers on all public lands be granted free homes, as provided in the National Homestead law, and that no exception be made in the case of Indian reservations when opened for settlement, and that all lands not now patented come under this demand.

Direct Legislation.

We favor a system of direct legislation through the initiative and referendum, under proper constitutional safeguards.

General Propositions.

1. We demand the election of President, Vice-President and United States Senators by a direct vote of the people.

2. We tender to the patriotic people of Cuba our deepest sympathy in their heroic struggle for political freedom and independence, and we believe the time has come when the United States, the great Republic of the world, should recognize that Cuba is and of right ought to be a free and independent State.

3. We favor home rule in the Territories and the District of Columbia and the early admission of the Territories as States.

4. All public salaries should be made to correspond to the price of labor and its products.

5. In times of great industrial depression idle labor should be employed on public works as far as practicable.

6. The arbitrary course of the courts in assuming to imprison citizens for indirect contempt and ruling them by injunction should be prevented by proper legislation.

7. We favor just pensions for our disabled Union soldiers.

8. Believing that the elective franchise and an untrammelled ballot are essential to government of, for, and by the people, the People's party condemn the wholesale system of disfranchisement adopted in some of the States as unrepublican and undemocratic, and we declare it to be the duty of the several State Legislatures to take such action as will secure a full, free and fair ballot and an honest count.

9. While the foregoing propositions constitute the platform upon which our party stands, and for the vindication of which its organization will be maintained, we recognize that the great and pressing issue of the pending campaign upon which the present election will turn is the financial question, and upon this great and specific issue between the parties we cordially invite the aid and co-operation of all organizations and citizens agreeing with us upon this vital question.

THE FLOODS OF WATERS.

Rising Rivers Rush Down Carrying Destruction Through the Valley.

The following dispatches showing damage all over West Virginia, eastern Kentucky, southern Ohio and Indiana from floods, were received Friday night:

At Glouster, O., the greatest flood ever known is pouring down Sunday creek, flooding coal mine No. 6, one of the largest in Ohio.

A dispatch from Sistersville, W. Va., says that the damage in the oil fields will amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars. The riggings have been washed away, the tanks and derricks overturned.

A dispatch from Caldwell, O., states that the towns of Ava, Belleville, Dudley, South Olive, Harrietsville, Carlisle and other towns along the Muskingum river are completely submerged.

The Ohio river road is washed out between Waverly and Moundsville, also near Sistersville and Woodland. The loss in Tygartsville alone is $50,000.

At Marietta, O., where the Muskingum empties into the Ohio, the merchants are moving from Front street. All the railroads entering the city are washed out, none able to get trains into the city.

Below Wheeling, the many streams tributary to the Ohio are on a rampage that has not been approached but once since the famous flood of 1875. Reports from Marshall, Wetsell and Tyler counties tell of inestimable damage to growing crops and the breaking of timber booms, freeing millions of logs, which are now passing down to the Ohio.

On the Ohio side of the river below Wheeling the Belaire, Zanesville and Cincinnati road has six trestles washed. The greatest losses have been along the west fork of Reedy. This creek is one of the main tributaries of the Kanawha. Some of the farmers along it are almost ruined and their fences swept away. Many homes have been washed away.

At Muncie, Ind., the White river is the highest known in years. The suspension bridge went down, precipitating twelve boys into the river. Walter Darlington, 15 years old, was drowned. Two others are missing. It is feared the five remaining bridges will be swept away before morning.

DISASTROUS CLOUDBURST.

Ten Lives Lost—Mills, Houses, Crops and Bridges Swept Away.

Ten lives lost and untold loss to property is the result, in brief, of a terrific cloudburst at 4 o'clock last Tuesday morning at the head of Benton creek, four miles west of Frankfort, Ky.

The dead whose bodies have been recovered are:

James Bradley, a farmer, with his two children.

Mrs. Bryant, a widow, with two children.

An unknown white man.

Thomas Massie, colored.

The missing are:

Mrs. Bradley and two children.

Benson creek comes out of the western portion of the county, crosses the various turnpikes, six or eight miles from town, then crosses the railroad four miles from town and comes down alongside the railroad until it empties into the river in the middle of the town.

Mrs. Bryant kept the toll gate near one of these turnpike bridges and the little toll house was right on the creek and just across from James Bradley's and not far from her father's, 'Squire Moore. The Conway mill, just above, was the first to go. Its timbers must have swept away the Bryant and Bradley houses. Those houses themselves must have hit the railroad bridge two miles below. The bridge was swept away with terrible force. Everything about it, iron and all, except the main abutment, is gone.

A half dozen or more county bridges have been washed away. The most valuable was the one recently constructed over Benson creek and cost $20,000.

Trains ran to the bridge from both directions, but the waters are so violent that it was impossible to transfer passengers by boat or otherwise.

Many people living in Benson valley left their houses and waded through the mad waters, only escaping a few minutes before the bridges washed away.

The destruction to property in many parts of Franklin county is complete. Damage is estimated at $100,000 at the lowest figure.

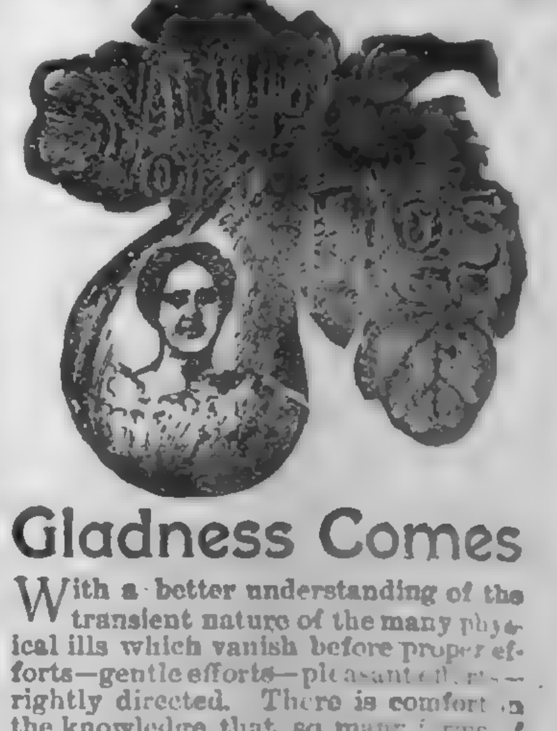
A tramp who was refused lodging by James Hewlett saved the lives of his family. He stopped in the barn afterward, and came to the door and awoke the family just in time for them to get out safely.

Boston has just discovered that it has streets to the number of 550 with duplicated names.

It appears from a recent Treasury report that the total number of immigrants arriving in the United States during the twenty-five years ending June 30, 1895, was 10,340,000. The total increase in population during that period was 31,200,000, so that one-third of that increase was due to foreign immigration. These figures are not quite accurate, however. There is a backward as well as a forward flow of population. Thus during the last fiscal year there were 280,000 immigrants, but 216,000 persons "other than cabin passengers" went from the United States to Europe during the same period. Some of them were foreigners who came here intending to stay but changed their minds. Others were persons of foreign birth going back to their old homes to pay a visit and intending to return. When they do so they will be put down as new immigrants. A great deal of this double counting has been done. But after all deductions are made the per cent. of increase due to immigration is enormous. Of the ten and a third millions who came between 1871 and 1895 six and a third millions, or 61¼ per cent., were males and four millions were females. The latter were divided very unequally among the different races. Of the Irish immigrants 49½ per cent. were women. The sexes were so evenly balanced that about every Irishman can have an Irish wife if he prefers one. Next come the Teutons, with a little over forty-one women out of every hundred immigrants. At the foot of the list, as far as European countries which have sent many people here are concerned, come the Italians. A little less than 22 per cent. of them were women. The proportion is growing, however. The per cent. of females in 1891 was a little over 20, but in 1895 it rose to 27 1-5. Of the total immigration of ten and a third millions the Teutons from Germany, Austria, and the Netherlands composed a little over three millions. A million and a third came from Ireland, and 1,600,000 from Great Britain. The Danes, Norwegians, and Swedes together footed up 1,150,000, and the Slavs, Magyars, and Czechs 986,000. The Latin races contributed only 677,000, of these 655,000 being Italians. Of the immigration 29.7 per cent. was Teutonic, the total number of males arriving being 1,800,000 to 672,000 Irishmen. These figures show what an enormous political influence the Germans could exercise if they took a keener interest in politics than they do. There is a marked difference in the quality of the immigration from different countries. The immigrants are classified under four heads—"professional," "skilled labor," which takes in mechanics of all kinds; "miscellaneous," which includes farmers, laborers, servants, etc.; and "without occupation," most of those coming under this head being married women or persons not of age. During the last fiscal year there came from England 16,817 males over 15. Of these 6,966 were skilled labor. Of the 16,417 Germans who came 4,262 were skilled labor. Hungary stands at the foot of the list, for out of 9,328 persons only 350 had trades, while 7,303 were laborers. Out of 24,547 Italian males over 15, 3,428 had trades and 13,155 were laborers. The Russian Jews make a better showing, for out of 14,586 persons 2,416 were skilled labor.

Streets with Gold Pavements.

Prescott, the capital of Arizona, boasts that it is the nearest approach to the New Jerusalem, as described in the Bible, as its streets are being paved with gold. The granite used for pavements contains $4 in gold and 20 cents in silver to every ton, so that in time, when less expensive methods of reducing ores are used, it may pay the city to tear up and crush its street pavements.



Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

Everything the farmer sells is low. Who sells low to him? We have repeatedly refused to join, and, therefore, defeated windmill combinations, and have, since '89, reduced the cost of wind power to one-sixth what it was. THE BIG CONVENTION.

REFLECTIONS INSPIRED BY THE PROCEEDINGS AT ST. LOUIS.

Will the Party Be the Victim of Treachery as Suggested by the St. Louis Republic and Other Organs.

The chaotic condition of American [illegible] plainly shown by the bolting [illegible] ted republicans, democrats [illegible] tionists from their respect[illegible] this year, was again em[illegible] illustrated by the proceed[illegible] the national people's party [illegible] at St. Louis. But since po[illegible] is only possible when [illegible] of party "leaders" fails of [illegible] the unquestioning re[illegible] the people, and since it is in[illegible] true that the oppressive [illegible] conditions at present [illegible] are the result of implicit obe[illegible] the past commands of those [illegible] placed in control of po[illegible], the disturbance of our [illegible] may be hailed as a [illegible] that the spirit of inde[illegible] still exists in the breasts of [illegible] for whose benefit alone govern[illegible] can claim the right to exist and [illegible] that spirit is now fully aroused to the necessity of important and radical [illegible] in the policy of our govern[illegible] was the spirit and the sense [illegible] that prompted influ[illegible] and prohibitionists [illegible] from their respective par[illegible] inspired the dominant faction [illegible] to mark out a course for [illegible] radically different from [illegible] it approved four years ago [illegible] administration of its own [illegible] the new policy as [illegible] of "cranks," "socialists," [illegible] and it was this same [illegible] ble and indomitable deter[illegible] to compel those in control of [illegible] affairs to inaugurate [illegible] which the people have come [illegible] necessary for their relief. [illegible] at times seemed to bid fair to [illegible] the people's party convention into [illegible] heartless horde of senseless [illegible] who were prompted solely by [illegible] belief that the supreme duty of the [illegible] was abundantly complied with if [illegible] would make all the noise he [illegible] is not a lack of respect for age [illegible] the convention to howl the [illegible] Senator Stewart from the [illegible] not a want of appreciation of services rendered by General [illegible] at the same critical mo[illegible] mouth to be stopped [illegible] yells of the people's [illegible] the intuitive [illegible] they were both en[illegible] the convention into [illegible] had decided not to [illegible] This scene occurred on the [illegible] of nominating Thomas E. [illegible] for vice president.

[illegible] order of nominating the [illegible] president first had been [illegible] the adoption of the minor[illegible] of the committee on rules. [illegible] for this way of pro[illegible] that if the usual [illegible] and Bryan nomi[illegible] convention would be [illegible] indorsement of [illegible] ticket by the [illegible] of Sewall for vice presi[illegible] delegates had recognized in [illegible] and gener[illegible] W. J. Bryan whom the [illegible] unexpectedly and in a [illegible] ful delirium inspired [illegible] honored with [illegible] standard-bearer of [illegible] person in every way [illegible] confidence, and had de[illegible] willingness to [illegible] in seating him [illegible] chair. But while [illegible] representatives of the [illegible] that is rapidly coming to the [illegible] American politics were thus [illegible] to display a degree of patriotism [illegible] unknown in partisan politics, [illegible] could not and would not be guilty [illegible] the self stultification involved in [illegible] proposition to nominate the rail[illegible] magnate and national banker [illegible] the democrats had selected as [illegible] for vice president. And [illegible] this contest between Wat[illegible] Sewall was on, and at the hour [illegible] when the delegates were [illegible] with the efforts of a con[illegible] session that Senator Stewart, who was not a delegate to the conven[illegible] to speak in behalf of [illegible] fellow-millionaire on the demo[illegible] ticket and was driven from the [illegible] by the cries of "time! time!" General Weaver followed and met [illegible] like fate because of the wide[illegible] inspired by his recent [illegible] he stood ready to sacrifice [illegible] for free coinage of silver. [illegible] followed as it speedily [illegible] the unanimous selection of [illegible] as the choice of the convention [illegible] president amid a display of [illegible] enthusiasm, in which the dele[illegible] every state joined, coupled [illegible] the fact that a simple doubt in [illegible] minds of the delegates as to [illegible] ether Mr. Bryan would accept their [illegible] nomination for president, prevented [illegible] nomination from being made unan[illegible] tells of a latent determination [illegible] the representatives of the people's [illegible] to place principle and patriotism [illegible] party and office-getting, of which [illegible] who are considering the advisa[illegible] of taking Watson from the ticket [illegible] substituting Mr. Sewall in his [illegible] would do well to take heed. It [illegible] hinted that the motion investing the [illegible] committee with plenary pow[illegible] with the avowed object of enabling [illegible] substitute the name of Norton for [illegible] of Bryan in case the latter declines [illegible] accept the nomination, was really [illegible] ed for the purpose of enabling [illegible] committee to take down Watson [illegible] substitute Sewall.

While this insinuation against the honor and loyalty of the new national committee gains no credence in any respectable quarter, it will do no harm to remind the wily democratic leaders that if they should accomplish this purpose through "proxy" tricks or any other devious method their action will be taken as a plain warning to the people's party that the unscrupulous element of democracy is in control of the democratic party and that they will conclude if present conditions must continue it were better that they be perpetuated under McKinley, who, whatever else may be said of him, stands in the open as a defender of the gold standard, rather than under Bryan, who, such action would indicate, was simply to be used as a tool to accomplish designs which would not bear investigation. That the Bryan leaders in the people's party convention were afraid to trust his nomination to the delegates conditioned upon his acceptation of the honor is proven by their haste to adjourn the convention after their desires had been accomplished without waiting to hear from Mr. Bryan. The same spirit which would not accept the advice of Senator Stewart or General Weaver in the vice presidential contest would have asserted itself and rolled W. J. Bryan from the list of possible presidential candidates had the convention believed that the honor which it sought to confer would have been contemptuously returned to it as a thing of no account. As it was, and in spite of every effort quietly made by the Bryan men to convince the middle-of-the-road men that Mr. Bryan would accept the nomination and thank the convention for the honor, the shadow of doubt upon this point remained so thick in the minds of 340 delegates who voted against him that it was deemed inexpedient to move to make his nomination unanimous.

Whether it was the fear on the part of Mr. Bryan that the acceptance of the people's party nomination might alienate from his support that class of millionaire monopolists of whom Mr. Sewall is a type or whether it was from a strained sense of duty on his part toward his democratic running mate, or whether it was a misconception on the part of his advocates in the convention as to what his real position was in the premises, the fact is indisputable that the close of the convention with almost one-fourth of the votes of the delegates recorded against his nomination leaves matters in a very unsatisfactory condition.

The platform adopted by the convention, since it provides for government money, without the intervention of banks, free coinage, government ownership of railroads and telegraphs, the abolition not only of corporate but private monopoly of land, and the initiative and referendum, is even more radical than the Omaha platform, and plainly bespeaks a determination to take no step backwards. It is not reasonable to suppose that a party whose invincible determination to move forward on the lines of the Omaha platform was plainly shown by the hearty and unanimous adoption of such a platform will consent for a moment to be balked in its career by the wishes of a few selfish office-seekers who fear that the substitution of the honorably and widely known name of Thomas E. Watson for that of the obscure millionaire Sewall may endanger their chances to obtain a place at the public crib.

The willingness of the people's party to accept Mr. Bryan as its candidate and the exponent of its principles is based wholly upon the fact that he is everywhere recognized as an independent, progressive, large-minded young man far in advance of the fossils of democracy who nominated him solely with the desire to profit from the association with the "new blood" and new ideas which his candidacy alone would make possible to them, while the hope of obtaining office under Mr. Bryan doubtless prompted some of the "leaders" in the people's party convention to support him, that contemptibly selfish motive did not inspire the tenth part of the thousand votes he received in the convention.

The people's party recognizes, as does every other body of intelligent men, that the power of the "pie brigade" is very great, and the men from Texas, Maine, Arkansas, California, Ohio, Illinois, and many other states who took part in the proceedings of the meeting held after the adjournment of the convention were determined that the influence of the office-seekers in their own as well as in the democratic party should for once, however, reluctantly be cast upon the side of principle, or else be rendered absolutely nugatory. Either Mr. Bryan will accept the people's party nomination and with Watson on the ticket with him and accomplish a sweeping victory over the gold standard as represented by Mr. McKinley, or he will refuse the assistance tendered by the people's party and with his monopolistic running mate go down in overwhelming defeat.

With two electoral tickets in the field, one for Bryan and Sewall, the other for Bryan and Watson, or Norton and Watson, such a division in the rank and file of the voting army would occur as would necessarily defeat the electoral tickets opposed to McKinley in three-fourths of the states of the union. The votes for the Bryan and Watson electors could not be counted with the votes cast for the Bryan and Sewall electors in order to elect Bryan.

The Republic, in an editorial in its issue of the 27th inst., chucklingly says:

"Senator Allen played a shrewd piece of politics when he refused to read the telegram from Mr. Bryan announcing a refusal to accept the populist nomination with any other except Sewall as a running mate.

"He secured the nomination of Bryan, prevented a bolt and placed the authority to make further arrangements in the hands of the national committee.

"Thus, while Watson is the nominee of the populist party for vice president, the votes of the party can be secured for Bryan with or without his acceptance, as the populist national committee may determine."

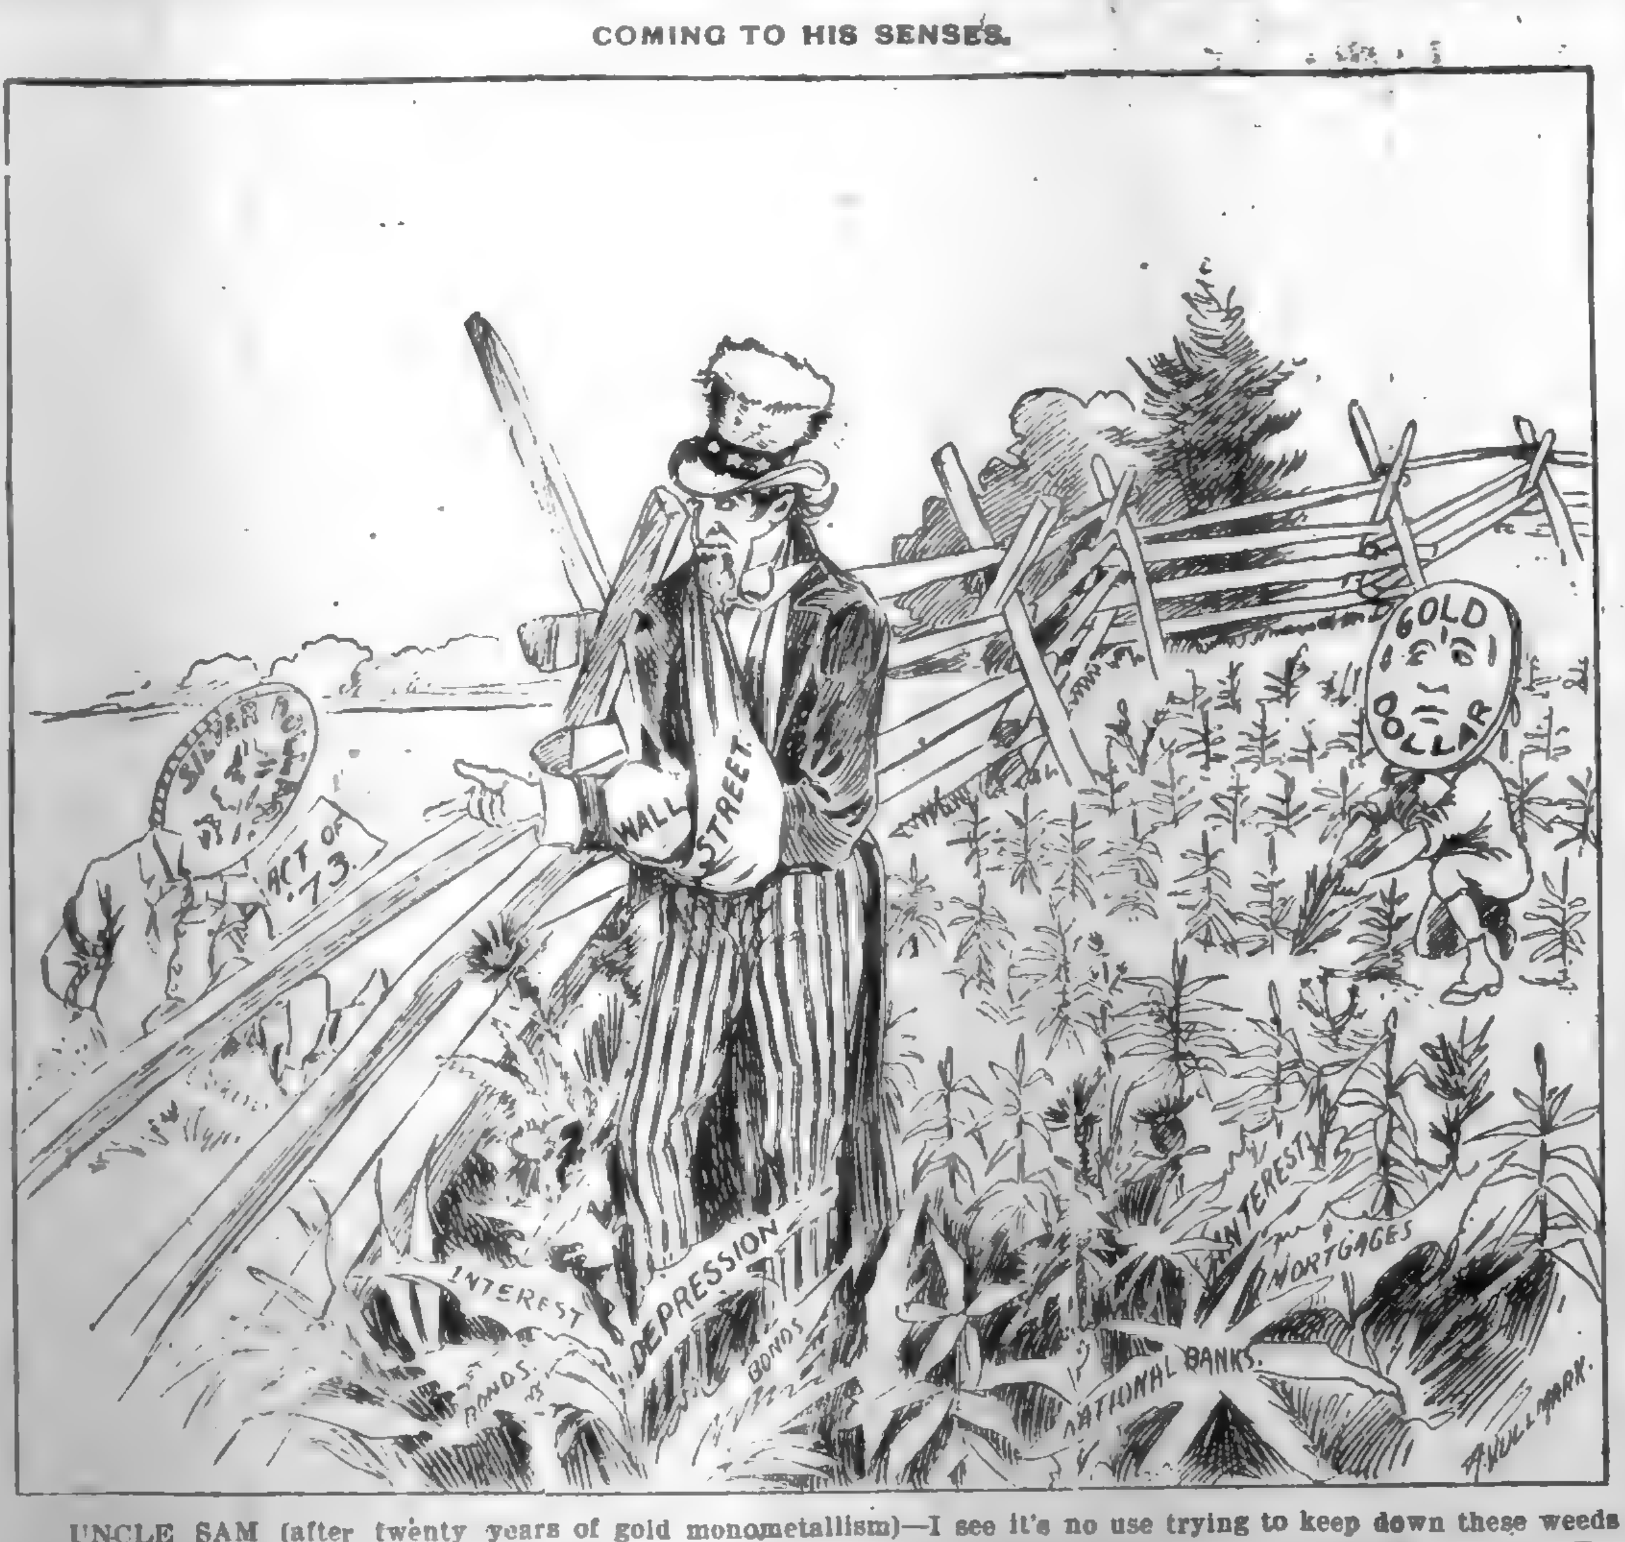
Here is a plain admission that Senator Allen received a telegram from Bryan declining to be the nominee of the populists except with Sewall. The intimation is plain (and it is true) that Bryan would not have been the nominee of the convention had such a telegram been read, but the assumption that the national committee will treacherously do that which the national convention of the party would not consider a moment is assumption pure and simple and is strictly on a par with the impudence which characterizes as "a shrewd piece of politics" a contemptible action which is only properly named when it is called "dishonest politics." The Globe-Democrat, another organ to whom real reform and real reformers are as poison, also suggests that the democrats will accomplish their purpose through the treachery of our national committee, which is to be relied upon to take down Watson and put up Sewall in his stead. These old party organs, who know absolutely nothing about reform or reformers, and who "measure everybody in their own half-bushel" and judge others by themselves, of course believe that the members of our national committee have each their price and all that is necessary is to meet it. In this they are mistaken. But suppose the impossible should happen, does anybody believe that the members of the people's party would permit themselves to be made merchandise of and delivered in the direction suggested?

T. D. HINCKLEY.

One good sign that the Democratic party is getting nearer to the common people, is that its present national chairman bears the good old-fashioned name of Jones.

Government legal tender paper money won't go to Europe. It will stay at home and attend to its own business.

COMING TO HIS SENSES.



UNCLE SAM (after twenty years of gold monometallism)—I see it's no use trying to keep down these weeds with one farm hand (Gold). Guess I have to untie that knot of '73 and put that other fellow (Silver) to work. Together they can keep the weeds out and then prosperity can grow.

WHO OWNS IT?

Does This Country Belong to Americans or to Foreigners.

Southern Mercury: It is high time for the American people to wake up to the fact that this country is going into the hands of foreign money lenders, and they will soon control it, if they do not already own a majority of the railroads, factories, breweries, furnaces, etc. Only contemplate for a moment the vast interests now held by foreigners:

Sixty per cent of the stocks and bonds of the vast Pennsylvania railroad system is said to be owned in Europe.

Nearly all the Illinois Central railroad, extending from Chicago to New Orleans, with great city properties and branches and laterals, is owned in Holland.

A controlling interest in the Great Northern railroad, running from Lake Superior to the Pacific ocean, is owned in England.

A controlling interest in the Northern Pacific railroad, lying south of and as extensive as the last named railroad, is owned in Germany.

Large, if not controlling interests in every other important railroad in the United States, are owned by European investors.

The controlling interest in the famed Pillsbury flouring mills at Minneapolis, the largest in the world, is owned in England.

The great iron mines of the Lake Superior region, said to produce 10,000,000 tons of iron ore a year, are largely held by English investors.

A controlling interest in the Grant Smelters in Denver and Omaha, the largest in the world, is owned by Englishmen.

Foreigners own immense interests in the breweries of the country, largely, if not controlling.

The largest bankers of New York are foreigners, or representatives of foreign banking houses. These are the great gold shippers.

A large percentage of our fire and marine insurance is in foreign insurance companies.

Five-sixths of all the freightage of our foreign commerce is carried in foreign vessels.

Foreigners own millions of acres of our farming lands.

They own many millions of dollars in value of our city properties.

Their mortgage loans overspread the face of the country.

Foreigners own millions of acres of millions of United States bonds, and state bonds, and they own untold millions of city bonds, and other municipal obligations in the United States, and vast amounts of other properties not here specially stated.

So great has become the aggregate of all these ownerships in the United States properties by foreigners living in foreign countries that the aggregate cannot be less than $7,000,000,000 or $8,000,000,000, with an average of earnings of not less than 5 per cent per annum.

It is well to be alive to the dangers ahead, and not to suppose that because a majority of the people are in favor of the free coinage of silver that we will have a walk-over. The power of money will be exerted as it never was before, and a campaign of bribery and corruption is before us such as this country has never seen. We must be in the fight from the start. Nothing is so dangerous as feeling too sure of victory. We can be sure of nothing until it is accomplished, therefore, until the polls close on election day we should not cease to labor for the triumph of our principles.

Keep the Reform flag floating.

POPULIST NATIONAL PLATFORM.

FOR PRESIDENT.

W. J. BRYAN, OF NEBRASKA.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT.

THOMAS WATSON OF GEORGIA.

The people's party, assembled in national convention, reaffirms its allegiance to the principles declared by the founders of the republic and also to the fundamental principles of just government, as enunciated in the platform of the party in 1892, but recognizes that through the action of the present and preceding administrations the country has reached a crisis in its national life, as predicted in our platform four years ago, and at present prompt and patriotic action is the supreme duty of the hour. To realize that while we have political independence our financial and industrial independence is yet to be attained by restoring to the peoples' government the constitutional control and exercise of the functions necessary to that end, which functions have been basely surrendered by our public servants to corporate monopolies. The influence of European money-changers has been more potent in shaping legislation than the voice of the American people. Executive power and patronage have been used to corrupt our legislatures and defeat the will of the people, and plutocracy has thereby been enthroned upon the ruins of democracy. To restore the government of the fathers and for the welfare and prosperity of this and future generations, we demand the establishment of our economic and financial systems, which shall make us masters of our own affairs and independent of European control, by the adoption of the following declaration of principles:

1. We demand a national currency, safe and sound, and issued by the general government only, a full legal tender for all debts, public and private, and without the use of banking corporations; an honest, equitable and efficient means of distribution direct to the people, and through the lawful disbursements of the government.

2. We demand the free and unrestricted coinage of silver and gold at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1 by the United States without waiting for the consent of foreign nations.

3. We demand that the volume of circulating medium be speedily increased to an amount sufficient to meet the demands of the business and population of this country, and to restore the just level of prices of labor and production and thereby establish prosperity and happiness for the people.

4. We denounce the sale of bonds and the increase of the public interest bearing debt made by the present administration as unnecessary and without authority of law, and we demand a law absolutely prohibiting the sale of bonds and increase of the public debt, except in accordance with an act or acts of congress authorizing the same.

5. We demand such legislation as will prevent the demonetization of the lawful money of the United States by private contract.

6. We demand that the government in payment of its obligations shall use its option as to the kind of lawful money in which they are to be paid, and we denounce the present and preceding administrations for surrendering this option to the holders of government obligations.

7. We demand a graduated income tax to the end that aggregated wealth shall bear its just proportion of taxation, and we denounce the recent decision of the supreme court in regard to the income-tax as a misinterpretation of the constitution and an invasion of the rightful powers of congress over the subject of taxation.

8. We demand that postal savings banks be established by the government for the safe deposit of the savings of the people and to facilitate exchange.

A true policy demands that the national and state legislation shall be such as will ultimately enable every prudent and industrious man to own a home, and therefore the land should not be monopolized for speculative purposes. All agricultural and grazing lands now held by railroad corporations in excess of their actual need should by lawful means be reclaimed by the government and held for actual settlers only, and private land monopoly should be prevented by appropriate state and national legislation.

The Pacific railroad companies have, through the connivance of the interior department, robbed multitudes of actual and bona fide settlers of their homes and miners of their claims, and we demand legislation by congress which will enforce the exception of mineral land from such grants after, as well as before, patent.

We hold that all governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, and in order that the consent of the governed may be clearly ascertained we favor direct legislation under proper constitutional safeguards so that a given percentage of the citizens shall have a right of initiating, framing and preparing laws and of compelling the submission thereof, and of all important laws, whether proposed by national, state or local legislatures, to a direct vote of the people for their approval or rejection.

Transportation being a means of exchange and a public necessity, the government should own and operate the railroads in the interest of the people; to the end that all men may be accorded the same treatment in transportation, and that the tyranny and political power now exercised by the great corporations, which result in the impairment, if not the destruction, of the political right and personal liberty of the citizen, may be destroyed. Such ownership is to be accomplished gradually, in a manner consistent with sound public policy.

The interest of the United States in the public highways built with public moneys and the proceeds of extensive grants of land, known as the Pacific railroads, should never be alienated, mortgaged or sold, but guarded and protected for the general welfare, as provided by the laws organizing said Pacific railroads. The foreclosure of the subsisting liens of the United States on these roads should at once follow default in the payment thereof by the debtor companies, and that after the foreclosures of said roads the government shall purchase the same if it becomes necessary to protect its interests therein, or if the same can be purchased at a reasonable price; and the government shall operate said railroads as public highways for the benefit of the whole people, and not in the interest of the few, under suitable provisions for protection of life and property, giving to all transportation interests equal privileges and equal rates for fares and freights.

We denounce the present infamous schemes for refunding these debts, and demand that the laws now applicable thereto be executed and administered according to their true intent and spirit.

The telegraph, like the postoffice system, being a necessity for the transmission of news, should be owned and operated by the government in the interest of the people.

We demand that bona fide settlers on all public lands be granted free homes, as provided in the national homestead law, and that no exception be made in the case of Indian reservations when opened for settlement, and that all lands not now patented come under this demand.

We favor a system of direct legislation through the initiative and referendum, under proper constitutional safeguards.

We demand the election of president, vice-president and United States senators by a direct vote of the people.

We tender to the patriotic people of Cuba our deepest sympathy in their heroic struggle for political freedom and independence, and we believe the time has come when the United States, the great republic of the world, should recognize that Cuba is, and of right ought to be, a free and independent state.

We favor home rule in the territories and the District of Columbia, and the early admission of the territories as states.

All public salaries should be made to correspond to the price of labor and its products.

In times of great industrial depression, idle labor should be employed on public work as far as practicable.

The arbitrary course of the courts in assuming to imprison citizens for indirect contempt and ruling by injunction should be prevented by proper legislation.

We favor just pensions for our disabled soldiers.

Believing that the elective franchise and untrammeled ballot are essential to a government of, for and by the people, the people's party condemns the wholesale system of disfranchisement adopted in some of the states as unrepublican and undemocratic, and we declare it to be the duty of the several state legislatures to take such action as will secure a full, free and fair ballot and an honest count.

While the foregoing propositions constitute the platform upon which our party stands, and for the vindication of which its organization will be maintained, we recognize that the great and pressing issue of the pending campaign upon which the present presidential election will turn is the financial question, and upon this great and specific issue between the parties we cordially invite the aid and co-operation of all organizations and citizens agreeing with us upon this vital question.

Autocratic Power of the Speaker.

No one thing shows the tendency of the country toward centralized despotism more forcibly than the almost autocratic power exercised by the speaker of the house of representatives.

Such is the power exercised by the speaker over the house and its members, that no law can be passed if he should be hostile to the measure. The people may elect representatives, and instruct them to advocate and pass certain measures, but if the speaker is not friendly to the measure the game is blocked. Certainly this is a despotic power such as no one man ought to exercise in this government, and is contrary to the letter and the spirit of the constitution.

If this is a government of the people it certainly should not be a government of one man power. If one man can block legislation, and refuse to have a bill introduced, it is unnecessary to elect a congress, for without the czar's consent no law can possibly be passed.

This despotic power of the speaker will soon become an issue in politics. It cannot exist without opposition, and very decided opposition at that. It does not belong to a government of a people. It is no representative government, and should be abolished. The speaker should be only authorized to carry out the wishes and will of the body over which he is selected to preside.—Southern Mercury.

If you intend to do anything this year for reform, now is the time to begin work.

The people mean business.

CHANGES IN POSTAL METHODS.

Miss Brown's Murderer Confesses Yellow Fever Still Prevalent in Cuban Ports—The United States Calls Upon the Governm Colombia for an Apology

Union Pacific Director.

The president has appointed John Sheridan, of Virginia, a government director of the Union Pacific Railway company, vice Fitzhugh Lee, now consul general at Havana.

Uncle Sam's Treasury.

The treasury gold reserve at the close of business Friday stood at $110,070,597. The day's withdrawals were $223,100.

The treasury deficit for July will be in round figures $12,800,000. The receipts for July have been $29,400,000 and the expenditures $42,200,000.

Yellow Fever at Cuban Ports.

Reports received by Surgeon General Wyman of the marine hospital service show that for the week ended July 23 there were sixty new cases of yellow fever in the city of Havana and twenty-four deaths. At Sagua la Grande for the week ended July 18 sixty-five new cases of yellow fever were reported, with eight deaths.

Americans Released from Prison.

The department of state is advised by Consul General Lee at Havana, under date of July 23, that Mr. George Calver, an American citizen, arrested in Manzanillo, district of Santiago de Cuba, in the month of April of this year, and Manuel Romagosa, also an American citizen, residing in the same province, have been officially notified of their unconditional release from prison.

Receipts and Expenditures.

The official treasury statement issued Saturday shows that the receipts of the government for July were $29,069,697 and the expenditures were $42,085,468, a deficit for the month of $13,015,871. The receipts for July were almost exactly what they were in July, 1895, while the expenditures were $3,500,000 greater. The customs receipts for July were $12,157,330, or $2,000,000 less than for July, 1894, while the receipts from internal revenue were $14,302,532, or nearly $2,000,000 greater than those for July, 1895. In expenditures the principal items that show an increase over July, 1895, are: Civil and miscellaneous, $2,300,000; navy, $1,400,000, and pensions, $400,000.

Quick Time Across the Continent.

Word was received at the navy department Friday that the special train carrying 100 men of the crew of the Charleston from Mare Island, California, to Norfolk, had arrived at the latter point, making the trip by the Southern route in four days and twenty-three hours, breaking all previous records for similar trans-continental journeys. Until recently enlisted men were exchanged between the Pacific and Atlantic coasts by way of Panama, consuming an average of thirty-five days, during which the men's services were lost to the navy, although their pay and subsistence went on. The advantage of the new transit system would be very great in time of sudden hostilities.

The Whitford Incident.

The United States has again been impelled to call on the government of Colombia to apologize for the schooner Whitford incident. A cablegram has been sent to the minister of the United States at Bogota, a copy of which he was instructed to lay before the Colombian government, demanded that that government reply immediately to the two notes recently addressed to it in regard to making amends for the outrage committed on the American vessel Whitford in March last. Minister McKinney is directed to say to the Colombian government that it must lose no more time in making an immediate disavowal and apology for the outrage perpetrated by its officials on an American merchantman.

July Treasury Statement.

The treasury statement of the public debt issues August 1 shows that the public debt less cash in the treasury at the close of the month to have been $966,154,512, an increase for the month of $10,850,352. The debt is classified as follows: Interest bearing debt, $847,364,250; debt on which interest has ceased since maturity, $1,633,640; debt bearing no interest, $373,315,094; total, $1,222,312,984, which does not include $555,212,973 in certificates and treasury notes offset by an equal amount of cash in the treasury. The treasury cash is classified as follows: Gold, $150,012,224; silver, $514,610,146; paper, $169,978,190; bonds, disbursing officer's balances, etc., $17,263,184, against which there are demand liabilities amounting to $595,705,374, leaving a cash balance in the treasury of $256,138,472.

The Rev. Dr. Pattison, of Chicago, is a preacher of the "progressive type." In giving the Presbyterian Ministerial Union some points on church matters, he declared his faith in the virtues of advertising. It would pay, he said, to insert church advertisements in the amusement columns of the papers. He also advocated popular music in the churches as a means of drawing the unsaved to God.

NATIONAL TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT:
WILLIAM J. BRYAN
of Nebraska.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT:
THOMAS E. WATSON of Georgia.

[illegible]

We demand the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the [illegible] to 1 [illegible] the expansion of the currency to meet the needs of the people and the demands of commerce, free from the control of corporate influences, and we condemn the issue of interest bearing bonds in time of peace."

Next came a lot of resolutions, which passed unanimously:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that our representatives in Congress be and are hereby requested to use their best efforts to secure appropriations by the Federal Government to open the Warrior River to navigation from the coal fields to the Gulf of Mexico."

"Resolved, That our county appointing boards are hereby requested to give to the political opposition a competent inspector at every polling place in their respective counties.

"And we further request the inspector so appointed to give a competent clerk and fixer at each polling place to said political opposition."

Who is going to bring in the first bale?

ONLY about 1500 votes were cast in Chilton county instead of 2500 as there ought to have been.

THE State Convention of the People's Party of Georgia meets today in Atlanta. The convention will no doubt indorse the nomination of Bryan and Watson.

OF course all the Populist county candidates were elected and will now proceed to make their bonds. G. B. Deans was elected senator for this district. Five other Populists have been elected to the senate and the Democrats claim to have elected 75 members of the house.

JOHN BREIDENTHAL, state chairman of the People's Party of Kansas, has uttered a strong denunciation of the plan to put up Populist electors instructed for Bryan and Sewall. He maintains that the party in Kansas must be true to Watson and the action of the national convention in all things. The Kansas Democratic leader says that his party will put no State ticket in the field this year and will make no demands upon the Populist State convention.

THE election is over and from all reports the usual result has been attained by the Democrats. Official figures cannot be obtained before Saturday, but from the unofficial returns published by Democratic papers it is evident that Captain Johnston is to be declared governor of Alabama by a majority of somewhere about 40,000.

Captain Goodwyn is reported to have made the following remarks:

"The Democrats have made cooperation in Alabama impossible. The Populists will vote for Bryan and Watson if the reports of the election as given out stand. Of course it will hurt Mr. Bryan and will do the cause of silver no good to divide Bryan's strength by having two electoral tickets, and we will not be to blame for that. With us civil liberty and honest elections come first. We must have these before all else. It will be the fault of the Democrats that the Bryan strength will divide in this State. We cannot affiliate with a party that destroys our civil liberty."

When questioned as to whether or not he would make a contest or what he would do Mr. Goodwyn said: "The home back [illegible] are [illegible] and when they come they will show up things differently from first reports. I am satisfied of [illegible] but the most [illegible] [illegible] have been perpetrated [illegible]"

[illegible]

Capt. R. F. Goodwyn made a brilliant and effective campaign, visiting nearly every county and speaking to the largest audiences ever assembled by a speaker in this State. He has been elected by from [illegible] to [illegible] majority in the white counties and received about [illegible] votes in the black belt, but these [illegible] votes are counted for Johnston, giving him a majority of about [illegible].

In our own county there was a large falling off in the total vote cast, only about 1500 voters going to the polls as against 1747 in 1894 and [illegible] in 1892. Here are the figures by beats as near as we have been able to get them.

	GOODWYN	JOHNSTON
Beat 1	34	[illegible]
" 2	160	57
" 3	61	46
" 4	156	176
" 5	193	62
" 6	80	36
" 7	102	56
" 8	[illegible]	66
" 9	129	12
Total	1063	506

Goodwyn's majority 557. In 1894 Kolb's majority over Oates was 729, and in 1892 Kolb's majority over Jones was 1062.

"Thomas Watson will not withdraw from the Vice-Presidency," said Lawrence J. McParlin, National Secretary of the People's Party. "The solidarity of the Southern forces and feeling would not tolerate such an act. It would be his political death, and he is not the kind of a man that withdraws. We have no fear on that point.

"I do think that about Sept 15 Mr. Sewall, the Democratic nominee for Vice-President, will withdraw, and from that time on you will scarcely know a Democrat from a Populist or a Populist from a Democrat. We have been working for the past twenty years to educate the Democratic and Republican parties to the fundamental principles of Populism, and I am pleased with the results.

"I am of the opinion, however, that arrangements and concessions will be made and agreements arrived at during the next few weeks between the National Executive Committees of the Democratic and People's party that will result in harmonious and united action."

NEXT in order is the Congressional convention.

About two years ago there appeared in Chicago a little book entitled "Coin's Financial School." Its author was a certain Mr. Harvey, at that time unknown to fame. Mr. Harvey's fame, however, is now secure enough. As a man of letters he may not be enshrined in the American pantheon, and as a monetary scientist and publicist his reputation may prove only ephemeral. But as a disturber of old parties, a path-finder where political issues were mixed and mazy, an agitator with a genius for exposition so great as to sway public opinion from the Alleghanies to the Pacific and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, Mr. Harvey has made it certain and inevitable that his name must be forever connected with one of the most remarkable chapters in the political history of his country. Never since 1860—perhaps it might be true to say that not even then, or at any previous time in our political life—has there been a great party gathering comparable, for intensity of feeling, for concentration of purpose, for superiority to mere personal aims or to mere traditional party prejudice, and for genuine fervor in behalf of specific proposed touching public policy, with the recent Democratic convention at Chicago. What had happened to make this convention so totally different in all its characteristics from the Democratic convention held four years before in the same city [illegible]

[illegible] it does not follow for a moment that we consider enthusiasm to be a safe guide in the field of monetary science.—From "The Progress of the World," in August Review of Reviews.

Cotton has suffered from the excessive heat and lack of moisture; it is opening prematurely and there is a general complaint of rust and shedding, especially in those counties where most of the cotton is usually made; in the northern counties the crop is yet in excellent condition, but the general consensus of opinion shows that the yield has been cut short very decidedly from what it promised two weeks ago, but the present outlook is still for a fairly good yield, provided more seasonable weather prevails from now on. The only report of boll worms is from the extreme west-central counties, where they have done but little damage as yet.

thin baby

Poor baby! Your pity goes out to it and rightly. To be thin, for a baby, is to be deprived of its natural ease; to suffer and not be able to feel it; to wear a sad pinched face; to live on the edge of sickness; to grow imperfectly; and to lose the power of resisting disease. When a baby is thin it needs more fat than it gets from its food; it is starved, fat-starved. Scott's Emulsion is the easiest fat it can have; the fat it needs. Half of SCOTT'S EMULSION has been endorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

COMMITTEE.

The 50th Anniversary Number of the Scientific American, New York, just out, is a really handsome and valuable publication of 72 pages. It reviews the progress of the past 50 years in the various sciences and industrial arts; and the various articles by the best scientific writers of the day are racily written and richly illustrated. The editors have accomplished the difficult task of presenting a compendium of information that shall be at once historical, technical and popular. The interest never flags for a moment, and the story of the half century's growth is in itself a veritable compendium of valuable scientific information for future reference. Price 10 cents per copy.

The People's party convention in Tennessee placed a full electoral ticket in the field, but gave the State executive committee plenty powers to treat with the Democrats to arrange a joint electoral ticket on which Populists should be given representation in proportion to the last vote. Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c and $100 per bottle

Danger Ahead!

Don't neglect slight symptoms of ill health. Headaches—biliousness—constipation—these are warnings that there's danger ahead. HEART DISEASE, like many other ailments when they have taken hold of the system, never gets better of its own accord, but Constantly grows worse. There are thousands who know they have a defective heart, but will not admit the fact. They don't want their friends to worry, and Don't know what to take for it, as they have been told time and again that heart disease was incurable. Such was the case of Mr. Silas Farley of Dyesville, Ohio who writes June 19, 1894, as follows:

"I had heart disease for 23 years, my heart hurting me almost continually. The first 15 years I doctored all the time, trying several physicians and remedies, until my last doctor told me it was only a question of time as I could not be cured. I gradually grew worse, very weak, and completely discouraged, until I lived, propped half up in bed, because I couldn't lie down nor sit up. Thinking my time had come I told my family what I wanted done when I was gone. But on the first day of March on the recommendation of Mrs. Fannie Jones, of Anderson, Ind., I commenced taking Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart and wonderful to tell, in ten days I was working at light work and on March 19 commenced framing a barn, which is heavy work, and I hav'nt lost a day since. I am 56 years old, 6 ft. 4½ inches and weigh 250lbs. I believe I am fully cured, and I am now only anxious that everyone shall know of your wonderful remedies."

Dyesville, Ohio. SILAS FARLEY.

1000 WAYS TO CURE A COLD!

Quinine, aconite, hot tea, onion syrup, whiskey and quinine, rock candy and rye, a "sweat," foot bath, starvation feeding, wrapping your hose around your neck, cod liver oil, and old hundreds cough cure, these and over 900 other ways are used by the human race to cure a cold. The best way is to make CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER your daily companion and you will never catch cold.

A man must be miserable indeed who is laid up with a bad Cold, Catarrh, Headache, unable to breathe without pain, his throat sore and his head throbbing, when one little product in the market called CUSHMAN'S INHALER will give him instant relief.

RELIEF EASY TO GET!

He may go on and on, sneeze his head off for that matter, snuffle and snort around to everybody's discomfiture. His eyes may become inflamed, his head and ears ache, and his throat so sore he can hardly swallow. Patient he must be to endure it all when for 50c. he can buy CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER and restore himself to his normal condition.

Cushman's Menthol Inhaler a Jewel!

A woman will sit around prostrated in nerves, feeling desperate over loss of sleep, head and eyes racked with pain, cold settled in every bone, so miserable that life seems a blank, but if she would make the marvelous little instrument known as CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER her daily companion, her headaches would come less frequent, she would never have a cold, and sore throat and catarrh would have no terrors.

NEVER NEGLECT A COLD OR COUGH

Neglect a Cold or Cough and if La Grippe don't get you, Consumption will. CUSHMAN'S INHALER cures colds and all diseases of the breathway passages. You lose dollars in doctor bills in not keeping CUSHMAN'S INHALER handy to drive off a cold or cough or sore throat at its very first approach.

The Greatest Authority in the World.

DR. BROWNE.

DR. J. LENNOX BROWNE, F. R. C. S. Ed. Senior Surgeon to the Central London Throat and Ear Hospital, says: "The vapor of Menthol checks in a manner hardly less than marvelous, acute Colds in the head. For all forms of nasal diseases, causing obstruction to the natural breathway, I prescribe CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER to the extent of hundreds per annum."

[Is not this recommendation sufficient that all who read may profit by it?]

Brings sleep to the sleepless. Cures Insomnia and Nervous Prostration. Don't be fooled with worthless imitations. Take only CUSHMAN'S. 50c. at druggists, or mailed, postpaid, on receipt of price. Write for book on Menthol and testimonials.

It has the universal commendation of medical men throughout the country, because we publish the formula on every bottle, and one trial will convince the most skeptical that it is a genuine health restorer.

Read The Truth And Be Convinced.

A Wonderful Cure.

I was a martyr to muscular rheumatism for thirty years; tried all medicines and doctors with no permanent relief. I was advised to take P. P. P., and before I had finished two bottles my pain subsided so I was able to work. I feel better than I have for years, and am confident of a complete recovery.
J. S. DUPRISS, Newnansville, Fla.

Testimony from the Mayor.

I suffered with Rheumatism for fifteen years, tried all the so called specifics, but to no purpose. My grandson got me a bottle of P. P. P., and I feel like a new man.
W. H. WILDER, Mayor of Albany.

From Two Well-known Physicians.

We are having a big sale for your P. P. P., and we prescribe it in a great many cases, and find it an excellent thing. We handle about one dozen bottles a week.

Pimples, Sores and Eruptions Cured.

I take great pleasure in testifying to the efficient qualities of the popular medicine for skin diseases known as P. P. P. I suffered for several years with an unsightly and disagreeable eruption on my face. After taking three bottles in accordance with directions, I am entirely cured.
Capt. J. D. JOHNSTON,
Savannah, Ga. of Johnston & Co.

The above letters are taken from many received by us. P. P. P., (Lippman's Great Remedy,) is a medicine whose virtues are known from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

P. P. P. begins its work by purifying the blood, which is the source of all life, and does not cease until a perfect and entire cure is effected.

The mortifying eruptions that disfigure the complexion, the tired feeling that prevents thorough accomplishments of the daily tasks, sleepless nights, loss of appetite, irritability of disposition, all mean a derangement of the system consequent from impure blood, which can and will be cured by P. P. P.

P. P. P. (Lippman's Great Remedy), is conceded by physicians and the people to be the Greatest Blood Purifier of the Age. It positively and permanently cures. For sale by all druggists or direct from us; price $1 a bottle, six bottles for $5.

Handsome Persian Women.

Many of the Persian women of the upper class are exceedingly beautiful, the frequent mixture of Circassian and Georgian blood having greatly improved the original heavy features of the native Persian race. They are lively and clever, and are often of great assistance to their husbands in directing and managing business affairs. In fact, in no country do women have more influence than in Persia, where they are quite content to pull the strings from behind the throne.

A Kerosene Oil Drunk.

Kerosene oil would hardly be deemed a desirable beverage by an epicure, but it is used in large quantities as a stimulant by Russian immigrants in this country. The habit is one that they acquire in their native land, and, strange as it may seem, they adhere to this form of intoxication even when other liquors are within reach of their purse. An "oil drunk" produces intense drowsiness, and the tippler of this odd drink goes to sleep as soon as he has become saturated with the liquid.

Professor Was Absent-Minded.

Prof. Dusel, of Bonn, noticed one day his wife placing a large bouquet on his desk.

"What does all that mean?" he asked.

"Why, this is the anniversary of your marriage," replied Mrs. Dusel.

"Is that so? Well, let me know when yours comes round and I'll reciprocate."

ASSASSINS OF COL. HUNTER HUNG.

Contract for Montgomery's New Freight Depot Let—Grasshoppers Destroying Crops—Heat Prostrations—Victims of a Storm—Death on the Track.

Religious Revival.

The series of meeting at the Baptist church, at Pratt City, closed Thursday night, with twenty-eight accessions to the church.

Overcome by the Heat.

Two cases of prostration from heat occurred at Selma Thursday. Live stock is suffering greatly. Planters are gloomy over the damage done to the cotton crop.

The Assassin Hung.

The two negroes who attempted to assassinate Col. C. D. Hunter, of Dallas county, two weeks ago, were lynched near the scene of their crime Friday night. The bodies were found swinging from a bridge and pierced with many bullets.

Huntsville Industrial School.

At the regular meeting of the board of trustees of the Huntsville Graded and Industrial school, July 28, Rev. W. L. Douglas was elected unanimously principal and superintendent of the school. Rev. Douglas formerly was a resident of Huntsville, Ala., but at present resides in Chattanooga, Tenn. The citizens of Huntsville feel proud of the selection.

Death From Heart Disease.

Nathan Williams, a negro about 38 years of age, dropped dead Friday morning about 10 o'clock from heart disease on Fourth avenue near Thirteenth street, Birmingham. He had not been very well of late, complaining of heart trouble. Coroner R. E. Jones made a preliminary investigation, but did not deem an inquest necessary. Williams came from Tennessee.

Important Contract Let.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad has let the contract for the building of their new freight depot at Montgomery to Dodson & Co., of Atlanta. The contract price is $33 000. The contract for building the underpass under the tracks through Commerce street to the river was let to Cook & Laurie, of Montgomery. Their bid was for the square foot and the contract will amount to a little more than $13,000.

"And No One Ministered Unto Him."

W. D. Cosby, a white man of good address, who had been in Selma several days without funds, went into Lockhart's livery stable in that city Friday afternoon and asked for a place to lie down. He was told to lie on a cot in the office. Later he went up stairs and laid down on the hay. About dark he was found cold in death. Papers on his person identify him and show that he is prominently connected in Lynchburg, Va. It is thought death was caused from a congestive chill.

The Tramp Who Was Killed.

It transpires that the tramp, Fred Arnsworth, who was killed in the wreck on the L. & N. Saturday was a son of a wealthy man at Fort Worth, Tex. The Warner-Smiley Company received a message from Fort Worth ordering them to embalm the body, and prepare it for shipment and send it to Texas. The Live Stock National Bank, of Fort Worth, telegraphed that they would be responsible for all expenses and the remains were shipped Saturday night shortly after midnight.

Laid Up for Repairs.

The R. T. Coles, Captain J. McDermott, Engineer Ben Samuel, broke her crank shaft and rammed her cylinder head, completely disabling the vessel, ten miles above Decatur, near Bluff City, about noon Thursday. The William Towle went to her assistance and towed her to this city for repairs. She was light on passengers and freight and on her regular trip from Chattanooga. The Tennessee is about 8 feet on the water gauge, the weather ranging from 95 and upwards and the soil getting very dry.

Grasshoppers Destroying Crops.

The striped and green grasshoppers have invaded the farms of Messrs. James Popper and M. Brown, three miles southwest of Decatur, having already destroyed a thirty acre field of clover and a strip of eight acres in a fifteen acre field of cotton. The insects made their appearance in the same locality three years ago and destroyed about fourteen acres of grain. The farmers are alarmed at the amount of damage the insects have wrought in only about a week's time and have set to work to invent means of destroying them.

Slept on the Track.

Saturday afternoon a crowd of negro laborers, who came from Georgia, left for Jasper to lay in a supply of whisky. They all got drunk and started back for Cordova. They reached Cane Creek trestle a short distance from Cordova and three of them refused to come further, and laid down and went to sleep. The passenger train that is due at Cordova at midnight ran over them and two, Wick Stewart and Tom Turner, were instantly killed, being literally ground into fragments and one other was badly wounded and was taken to Jasper for medical treatment.

Fire at Pratt City.

A fire broke out in A. Fayette's houses on Young street, Pratt City, at 9:20 o'clock Friday morning and four three room houses belonging to A. Fayette and one belonging to Mr. Evans were completely destroyed. The furniture in all of them was saved, but in a badly damaged condition. For a while it seemed that two whole blocks would go, but by the heroic efforts of the firemen, assisted by the public, the fire was confined to narrow limits. The heat was terrific and two persons were overcome by it. The money loss has not been ascertained. There was some insurance. It is stated that the gross loss will not exceed $2,000.

Confession of an Assassin.

The negro who shot Col. J. W. Hunter, of Selma, two weeks ago as he sat in the hall of his plantation home in the western part of the county surrounded by his wife and daughter, has been captured at Nanafalia, Marengo county. His name is Israel Mobley. He has made a full confession, implicating another negro on Colonel Hunter's place known as "Little Billie," and he, too, has been arrested. Israel says that he lay around the place for several nights before he got a chance to shoot. There are two indictments against Israel for stealing cotton, on which Colonel Hunter's name appeared as prosecutor. The negro stated that he had made up his mind to kill Colonel Hunter.

Victims of a Storm.

Information has been received of a terrible accident which happened at Columbus City, a small place in Marshall county across the Tennessee river, Saturday evening. A storm of no mean proportions came up and the signs were that a heavy rain was about to fall. Misses Dovie Proctor and Bishop, daughters of prominent citizens, accompanied by Maynard while out walking were caught in the storm. To escape the fury of the elements the trio entered an old building for shelter. The storm increased in velocity and the rain came down in torrents. The building in which the young people had gone for shelter could not withstand the winds and collapsed. The three were caught beneath the debris. Miss Proctor and Maynard Covans were instantly killed. Miss Bishop was so seriously injured that her life is in danger. Miss Proctor is the daughter of one of the best known families in the county. Everything possible is being done for the injured young lady. There is sadness in the little city.

THE STORM SWEPT REGION.

Destructive Winds and Disastrous Floods Bring Desolation and Death.

OHIO.—The most destructive storm in the history of Sunday Creek Valley occurred at Gloucester, a mining town twelve miles north of Athens, O., Tuesday night. Buildings toppled over, trees were torn from their roots and the town next morning was a scene of desolation. Five persons are reported killed and several others seriously injured. Nearly every building was damaged, and many completely demolished. Sunday Creek is washing away everything before it.

Later reports say the number of dead will reach fifteen.

INDIANA.—The rain and electric storm which struck Lafayette Tuesday night was the most disastrous ever recorded in the county. In six hours the rainfall measured 3.30 inches. The sewers were inadequate to carry off the water, and hundreds of cellars are filled. Several streets leading to the bluffs are completely torn out. The camp of workmen on the Soldiers' Home extension of the street railway was washed away, carrying tools, scrapers and dump carts into the river.

All railroads leading into the city were blockaded all day. The Lake Erie and Western railway bridge over Wild Cat creek was carried away, with about half a mile of track in another place. During the storm a number of buildings were struck by lightning, among them them the large store house of the artificial ice company, which was totally destroyed by fire. The Wabash river is out of its banks and rising at the rate of four inches an hour. The loss in this county is estimated at $75.000.

RECKLESS AND FATAL SPORT.

A Chute Boat Runs Down a Row Boat, Drowns Three Persons.

Three people were killed or drowned and a fourth seriously injured in an accident at Lake Ottosee, an outing resort three miles from Knoxville, Tenn., at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The dead are: Charles Perrin, aged 18. Walter Wright, aged 21. Miss Carrie P. Hibbs, aged 17. The injured is Mrs. Forester, a widow lady of Alabama, who was chaperoning the party.

The party were on the lake in a light row boat and came in the course of the chute boats.

A chute boat loaded with ten people dashed down the incline at a terrific rate of speed and hit the water with much force. It rebounded into the air and on the second bound it struck the row boat with its occupants. The crash upset the row boat and sent the passengers into the water and down to their death, with the exception of Mrs. Forester, who came to the surface and caught on to the upturned boat, where she clung until assistance arrived. Expert divers were soon put to work and the bodies recovered. An examination showed that the young people had been terribly bruised, perhaps by the chute boat when it struck them. The unfortunate ones were all members of the Broad Street Methodist Episcopal church, south, which was having its annual picnic at the lake when the accident occurred.

GERMAN GUNBOAT LOST

In a Typhoon, with Seventy-five Officers and Men.

A dispatch to Lloyds from Chefoo, on the north coast of the Shan Tung promontory, states that the German gunboat Iltis has been totally lost. The survivors of the crew have landed on the southeast promontory.

Another dispatch states that the Iltis was lost in a typhoon July 23 at a point ten miles north of the southeast promontory, which is a low reef-girted island lying about thirty miles southeast of the Shan Tung promontory. Only ten of those belonging to the warship were saved. All others, including the officers, perished.

The officials at the imperial admiralty at Berlin confirm the report of the loss of the Iltis. Dispatches received at the admiralty show seventy-five officers and men lost their lives in the disaster.

A severe storm, like a cloudburst, occurred west of Steubenville, O., Thursday afternoon about 4 o'clock, and within a period of thirty minutes a mighty torrent of water had spread desolation along both Parmar's and Fisher's Runs, in the lower part of the city. Two hundred people are homeless as a result of the flood. The damage will aggregate $200,000. The water came down the creeks 20 feet high, sweeping before it barns, houses, bridges, trees and outbuildings.

COMMERCIAL SITUATION

Reviewed by R. G. Dun & Co. for the Week Ending July 31st.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS IMPROVED

Yet Business Lags—Further Reduction in Print Cloths—No Gain in Woolens—Slight Advance in Boots and Shoes, Leather Stiff, Hides Off, and Iron Heavy.

Business conditions have clearly improved, though business has not. It is a torpid season and better prospects have little effect as yet. Gold exports have been stopped and foreign advices are more promising as respects an early and large demand for American products. The operations of foreigners in the stock market have reflected little beyond the troubles of speculators at the London settlements and varying degrees of ignorance about American affairs. The prospect for large crops of cotton and corn is still excellent and neither movement of wheat nor markets give countenance to low estimates.

Several weeks of extremely slack demand for cotton goods have brought a further reduction in print cloths to 2.44 cents, instead of the advance expected in consequence of the stoppage of 4,000,000 spindles, but prints are selling more freely, while brown and bleached goods are dull, except for export kinds.

The woolen mills do not gain, light weights opening 5 to 7½ per cent lower in price than last year, and sales of wool now reported are less than a quarter of a full week's consumption.

The boot and shoe industry has secured slight further advances from the lowest point in brogans and calf boots and shoes, but new orders are scanty, the more because the permanence of the advance is questioned. Leather is stubbornly held without change in prices, and in some grades is really scarce, although manufacturers are buying only for actual needs, but hides have turned downward sharply at Chicago, declining 5 per cent for the week's heavy accumulations.

The iron industry is helped but little by the settlement which gives puddlers of the Ohio region 50 cents advance in wages, because the demand is so slight that few mills can run and the association price is 1.2 cents, while steel bars are now being sold at less than 1.05 cents. A ray of encouragement comes to rail mills, two considerable sales having been made for 20,000 tons to a New England road and 10,000 by the new Premier Steel company of Indianapolis. But otherwise sales are small. Trade in wire nails has been so light that even the trifling allotment of 65,000 kegs for July is supposed to have exceeded sales and the association is in session in Boston to consider the matter. The billet pool has been constantly undersold by middlemen, and the open hearth steel men held a session at which reduction of prices was discussed. Many contracts for structural works are held back, and there is very little done in that line, and orders for plates and pipe are scarce. It is not strange that pig is weak, Bessemer being $11 50 at Pittsburg and southern somewhat lower at the east.

The volume of domestic trade, judging from exchanges, has been small even for midsummer.

It is not surprising that failures have been considerable in magnitude, and in twenty-three days of July defaulted liabilities were $10,069,481 against $8,392,727 in twenty-five days last year.

Failures for the week have been 281 in the United States, against 261 last year, and 40 in Canada, against 28 last year.

Death in the Discharge of Duty

The dead body of Sheriff Davi Douglass and the corpse of an unknown highwayman were last Monday night found lying a few feet apart in a wood two miles from Nevada, Cal. There were five empty chambers in the pistol of the sheriff, who had been shot through the heart and in the right eye and hand. The bullets of the sheriff had gone through the robber's heart abdomen and hip. The unknown man had a rifle, but it had not been used. It is supposed that Douglass was shot by a confederate of the highwayman.

A number of bold highway robberies recently reported in this neighborhood have all seemed to be the work of one man, who stopped coaches and private conveyances on the roads near Nevada City. The sheriff and his deputies had been untiring in their efforts to capture the highwayman. Finally Sheriff Douglass, believing that a large squad of deputies served to put the highwayman on his guard, determined to attempt the chase single-handed. He started out Sunday, accompanied only by his dog. The dog returned and searching parties tracked the sheriff to the spot where the officer and prisoner lay dead side by side.

PROSTRATIONS FROM HEAT.

Men and Horses Fall Dead and Dogs Go Mad.

There were seven prostrations from extreme heat Wednesday in Chicago. Reports by telegraph from the principal cities and towns of the West and South show unusually hot weather.

St. Louis reports thirty-four prostrations, many will probably die and thirty-six horses fell dead in the streets. Scores of dogs were driven mad. The temperature was 98, and the suffering was increased by humidity in the atmosphere. Two deaths are reported.

Louisville thermometer showed 98, breaking the hot weather record of fifteen years. Two deaths are reported.

At Quincy, Ill., it is 100 in the shad and many prostrations have occurred. None are serious, however.

Centralia reports 102, and Carlyle 104, with two deaths.

There were twenty-three heat victims in the vicinity of Clarksville, Tenn. The mercury stood at 100 degrees. A farm hand fell dead near Kennedy, and Gurnett Roach, a wealthy young Southern Kentucky planter, was overcome in his tobacco field and is in a critical condition.

Sixteen workmen on the water main were prostrated and three workmen on the electric street railway and two streets grading hands were also overcome. It is the hottest day in ten years.

Three men died at Louisville, Ky., from the effects of sunstroke, while about twenty others were prostrated, some seriously. Many of them may not recover.

So far four persons have been overcome by the heat in Columbia, S. C., and one death has been reported. The thermometer has reached 100 in the shade.

DARING AND FATAL ATTEMPT

Of United States Convicts at Leavenworth to Escape.

A gang of forty convicts from the United States penitentiary were being worked on the prison farm on the Fort Leavenworth (Ks.) reservation Tuesday afternoon when they became mutinous and made a break for liberty. The guards started shooting as soon as the prisoners ran and nearly all of the convicts dropped on the ground to keep from being killed.

George Yeast, the leader of the outbreak, refused to surrender and tried to get in some brush. Six loads of buckshot were emptied into him and he received death wounds. Yeast is an Indian Territory desperado. S. F. Dove refused to stop running until he was shot in the hip and abdomen and knocked down with the butt end of a pistol. His wounds may prove fatal. Sam Mills gained the Missouri river bank and was about to jump in when he was shot in the left leg and badly wounded.

The prisoners shot were long term territory horse thieves with bad records. When the prisoners who were shot were brought to the jail yard 200 convicts attempted a second mutiny and the guards, to protect themselves, were about to fire into them. Warden French arrived just in time and got the men into their cells.

FOOLISH AND FATAL RISK.

Five Men on an Engine Test a Bridge and Three are Killed.

About midnight Tuesday a locomotive went through the Vandalia (Ill.) railroad bridge over Walnut fork, killing three men. The run was being made to see if the track was safe after the heavy rain of Tuesday evening. Five men were aboard the engine when it went down. Engineer Frank Bowman, of Terre Haute, escaped with a few bruises, but Supervisor J. H. Brothers was severely injured. The killed are: Fireman Hibber, of Logansport; Brakeman Charles McKenzie, of Terre Haute; Conductor N. B. Fowler, of Terre Haute. Fowler's body is yet in the creek under the engine.

Homicide in a Church.

While Col. James F. Lilly was instructing a class in the Sunday school at the Baptist church in Metcalfe, Ga., last Sunday, John T. Rushin a prominent man of that vicinity, entered the church, and, after regarding Colonel Lilly a few minutes, seemed to go wild. Throwing his hat on the floor he drew a pistol and shot Colonel Lilly three times. Colonel Lilly ran out and fell outside. Rushin followed, and keeping back with his pistol those who would have interfered, deliberately took out a razor and almost severed his victim's head from his body. He then drank the contents of a four ounce bottle of laudanum, which was immediately ejected from his stomach, and ran from the crowd to his house, half a mile away, where he barricaded himself and was holding the crowd at bay when the latest report was sent. He is undoubtedly crazy.

Pill Clothes.

The good pill has a good coat. The pill coat serves two purposes; it protects the pill, enabling it to retain all its remedial value, and it disguises the taste for the palate. Some pill coats are too heavy; they will not dissolve in the stomach, and the pills they cover pass through the system as harmless as a bread pellet. Other coats are too light, and permit the speedy deterioration of the pill. After 30 years exposure, Ayer's Sugar Coated Pills have been found as effective as if just fresh from the laboratory. EMORY COLLEGE

Oxford, Georgia.

THE FALL TERM of this old and honored institution begins Sept. 16, 1896.

The Equipment of the College was never so good in its history. Full courses are offered in English, Philosophy, Greek, Latin, Chemistry, Biology, Physics, Engineering, French, German, Hebrew, Political Economy, History, Theology and Law.

The Expense for a year in Emory College is very low—much lower than in most Southern Colleges of like grade. Board can be had in Helping Halls as low as $8 per month, and in private families at from $12 to $15.

The Location of the College is one of healthfulness and moral security. Saloons and such demoralizing agencies are forever excluded from the town of Oxford by the provisions of the charter. The society of the place is cultured and religious. Oxford is emphatically a college town, and students at Emory College are not only free from the temptations to immorality which prevail in larger towns, but from the distractions of a commercial community and the unwholesome social excitements common in such places. It is forty miles east of Atlanta, and about one mile north of the Covington depot, on the Georgia Railroad, from which it is reached by a horse-car line. * * For catalogue and further information, address [illegible] by the emissaries of the [illegible] that they who advo[illegible] [illegible] oration of our coinage and [illegible] exact condition which it [illegible] the act of 1873 are [illegible] they wish to coin 50 cents [illegible] into a dollar and compel [illegible] that in lieu of an [illegible]. Than this there never [illegible] sophism and falsehood. [illegible] people desire and what they [illegible] do is to coin a hundred cents [illegible] that is, a dollar's worth, [illegible] grains of silver, into a [illegible] that act to break the [illegible] gold and reduce the exaggerated purchasing power of that metal [illegible] normal standard.

[illegible] dare say that 371¼ [illegible] silver are not a dollar's [illegible] him be challenged with the [illegible] whether that amount of uncoined silver will not purchase as much [illegible] of twenty-five of the [illegible] of the American market [illegible] and labor, as the [illegible] would purchase twenty-five [illegible]. Let him answer that truly, [illegible] afterward hold his peace. [illegible] of fact the uncoined silver American dollar will buy more [illegible] of our great staples than [illegible] would buy in 1875.

What then? The limited supply of [illegible] in the world has been cornered by [illegible] who own it. They are few, very [illegible] and the people are millions. The [illegible] of the cornered gold has advanced and more until it has become [illegible] two for one. All the while [illegible] gold has concealed the fallacy [illegible]. The gold eagle still pro[illegible] $10, although it has advanced in purchasing power until it is $20. Under this obscure and [illegible] process all productive industries been crushed to the earth. [illegible] labor in the field and shops been virtually ruined.

[illegible] gold coin is the [illegible] money, the honest money of the [illegible] real [illegible] silver money, on our old statute [illegible] dishonest and [illegible] most false, as it is the [illegible] ever put forth [illegible] to defraud the [illegible]

Washington Atmosphere.

[illegible] around Washington [illegible] to be unwholesome for reformers. Old Parson Brownlow used to say [illegible] as soon as he set foot in Washington he felt like stealing something. [illegible] only Populist paper that betrayed [illegible] in 1892 was located in Washington. It got to rubbing up against [illegible] practical side of the democratic [illegible] fund and ended by selling [illegible]. The Populists quick[illegible] support as soon as they [illegible] onto its curves and the paper, [illegible] with its editor, soon disappeared [illegible] sight. The same fate will overtake another paper as soon as Populists find out that it is a free silver [illegible] posing in Populist plumage. [illegible] can't serve two masters at [illegible]. Those that are not for us are [illegible]. If the Bimetallic league [illegible] establish them and [illegible] in the open. They will not [illegible] to use Populist nests to [illegible] cuckoo eggs in. As to individual Populists, it is noted that if they [illegible] so long at Washington the plutocratic microbes and bacilli get into [illegible] systems and the result is political consumption. They may go there [illegible], but they soon get to [illegible] with the enemy's heifers" [illegible] turn out hungry expectants of [illegible] and pelf. Reform plants won't [illegible] in the climate of the capital. That [illegible] is fatal to any wholesome development. You might as well expect [illegible] to survive in a sewer as reform [illegible]ciples to flourish in the fetid atmosphere of the national capital. Of [illegible] parties in the world the Populist [illegible] last one to receive its instructions or its inspirations from the sickly [illegible] unhealthy environments of the [illegible] city on the Potomac, where [illegible] is no such thing as citizenship, [illegible] men do not vote and, where [illegible]rnment is carried on by a commission.—Nonconformist.

True Wealth.

[illegible] Land Mechanic: "Wealth," according to Webster, "is a comparative [illegible]ance of things which are objects [illegible] human desire." True wealth lies [illegible] gold and silver, for those metals [illegible] be but as lumps of dirt if we [illegible] not land, houses, clothes, food, [illegible]ture, etc., to buy with them. During Robinson Crusoe's twenty-eight [illegible] of lonely isolation, his money was absolutely valueless to him, but the other personal effects taken from the wreck were beyond price. The world could get along without money, but it could not exist a week without food, shelter and clothing. Just try to produce these without labor and see what progress you make. Hence if true wealth is the product of labor, then labor surely is the very foundation of wealth, for labor creates wealth. The consummation of human prosperity, comfort and happiness then lies first in the ability to labor, for thus the material comforts are provided which are the essence of human development. Money hardly figures in this class for it is merely a means used to facilitate the interchange of the various products of labor. The world could get along without it, but we have learned to think we can not, and so have raised up a class of money vendors who by limiting the kind of money we should use, and cornering the supply, reverse the natural order of things and place our circulating medium at the top, true wealth in the middle and labor, the producer of all wealth, is crushed down to the bottom of the pyramid of human prosperity and greatness. No nation ever throve by such a disposition of labor. It will always result in distress, and, sooner or later, industrial revolution.

"MONEY TALKS."

The Fallacy of Gold Bug Ideas of Value Tersely Exposed.

"Every standard measure must have the dimension or quality it is designed to measure. Other qualities are unimportant or of secondary consequence. The yard must have length, the bushel measure must have capacity, and the measure of value must have value. By this is not meant value in use, as the value of air and water, but value in exchange, which is the only known value to political economy. All talk about any other kind of value in this connection is only a shallow attempt to evade an inevitable conclusion. It is just as easy and as rational to imagine a yard stick without length, or a gallon measure without capacity, or a pound weight that weighs nothing, as a dollar without value. This property of value inheres in money as stubbornly as the other properties inhere in other standards."—D. W. McClung in "Money Talks."

Mr. McClung sees the fallacy of his position, else why does he say, "By this is not meant value in use?" Is this not an indirect way of saying that money must have two values, one in its capacity to accomplish the purpose for which it was designed and the other in the value of the material of which it is made? Certainly the "yard must have length, the bushel capacity and the measure of value must have value," but the value of the yard stick and bushel and measure of value, is in their capacity to do the things for which they are created and not in the value of the material of which they may be constructed.

All that about it being "just as easy and as rational to imagine a yard stick without length, or a gallon measure without capacity, or a pound weight that weighs nothing as a dollar without value" is strictly true, because a dollar without value would be exactly the same kind of a thing as a pound weight that weighs nothing. What McClung really wants is a dollar with two values, one as an exchange medium, the other as a commodity, and to hold this position on the "measure of value" is as silly as it would be to hold that a gallon measure or a pound weight could not be properly constructed except out of material as valuable as that which they were intended to measure or weigh.

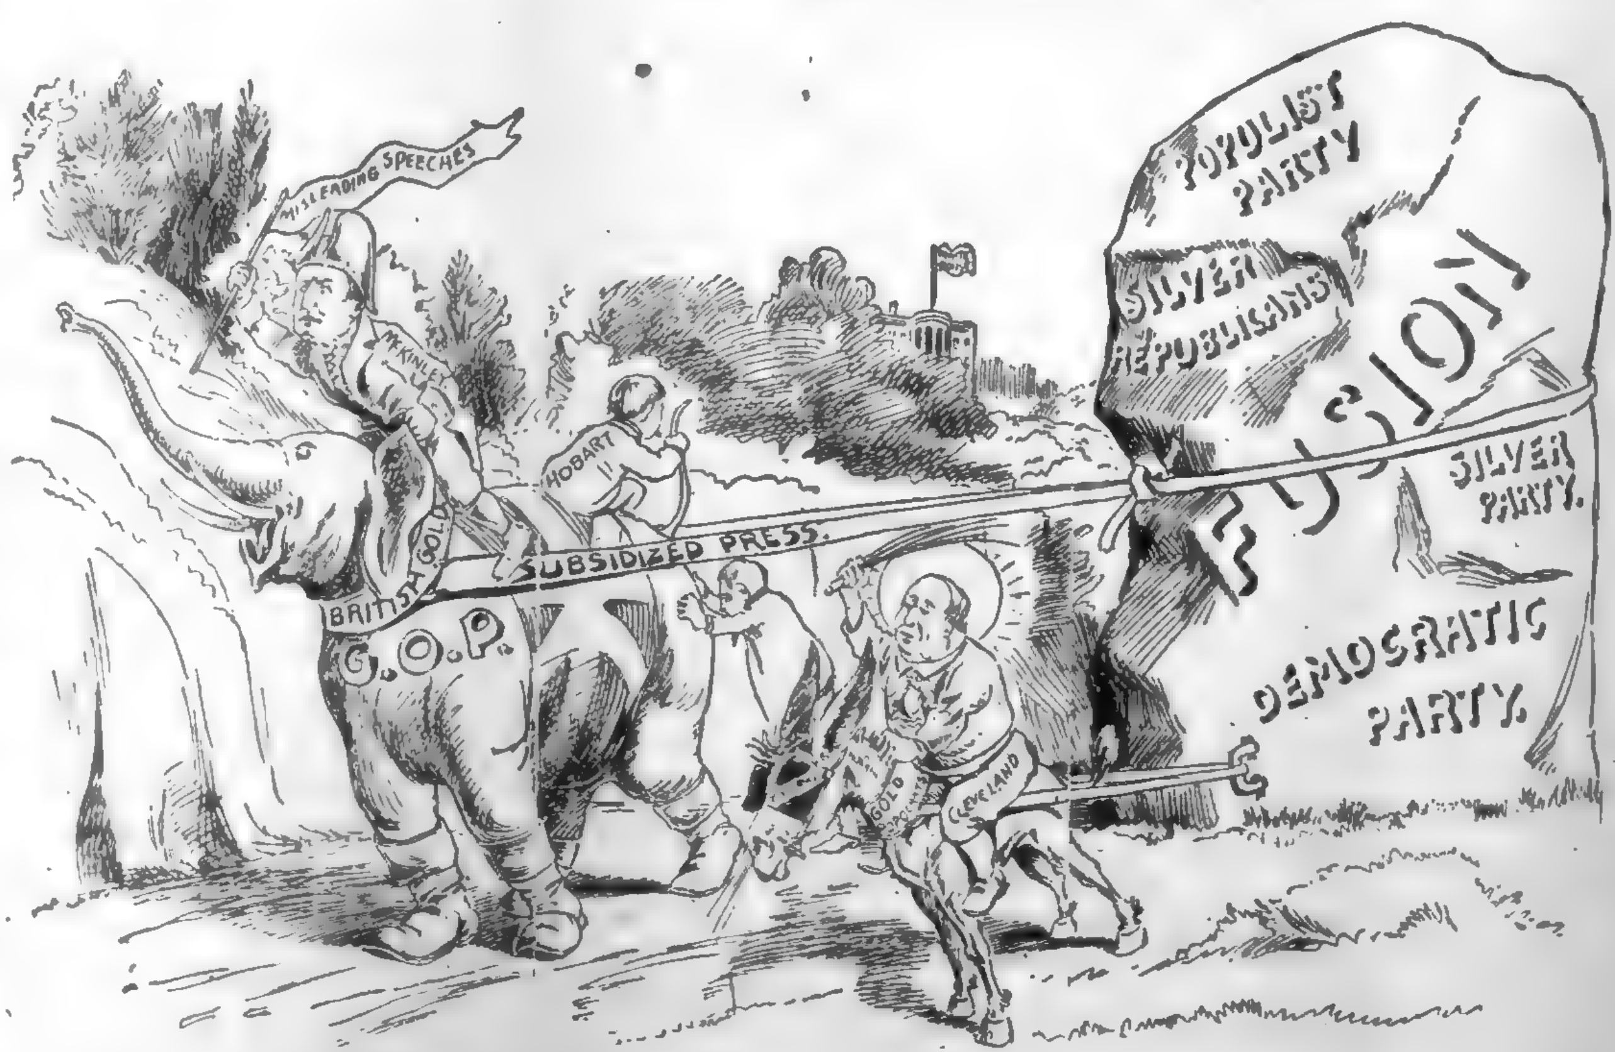
If a dollar, whether of gold, silver or paper be employed to effect twenty exchanges of a dollar's worth of value each, it is only a dollar at the end, and yet it has actually measured the value of twenty dollars' worth of goods. This is the kind of value, and the only kind of value which Populists believe money should possess. The intrinsic value theorists argue, however, that it must have an additional value in the material of which it is made, and to maintain their position they are obliged to make some very queer argument.

Take this one sentence from the above very plausible "Talk" and analyze it and see how little real logic it contains. "By this is not meant value in use, as the value of air and water, but value in exchange, which is the only known value to political economy." Now, read it again and leave out "as the value of air and water." and you have, "By this is not meant value in use, but value in exchange," etc., then try to think of some other use than that of "exchange," which would likely give "value" to the "measure of value," and see what a job you will have to contend with. A "bushel" may have various uses besides that of measuring things, it may be inverted and used for a seat, or it may be used as a receptacle for eggs or to throw at the cow if she doesn't behave herself, but if the "measure of value," commonly called "money," has any other "use" besides that of "exchange" it ought to be hunted up, properly labeled, and put in the national museum. And yet it is of this very kind of "value" which money does not possess, never did and never was designed to possess that McClung says "all talk about any other kind of value in this connection is only a shallow attempt to evade an inevitable conclusion."

"Intrinsic money" is a "measure of value" so long as it is edowed with the legal tender quality confered by the government stamp. Deprived of that it is not money, but a commodity, and is no more "a measure of value" than so much iron or copper. McClung should recollect that:

God makes bees and bees make honey,
God makes man and man makes money.

CAN'T BUDGE IT.



All the lies and slanders of the Boltocratic—(the new name for gold Democrats and gold Republicans) press cannot separate the Fusion Rock. A close inspection of the picture illustrates the condition of the Republican party to-day: John Bull is disguised as the G. O. P. elephant. The traditional Democratic donkey of the gold bug Democracy is assisting John Bull in the vain effort to pull down the fusion rock. The picture is a realization of Populist prophesies, that the campaign of 1896 would see Grover Cleveland and John Sherman under the same political banner, and that all patriotic Republicans, Democrats and Populists would join in crushing the plutocrats at the polls.

THE SILVER JOKE.

TOM WATSON RISES TO MAKE AN EXPLANATION.

The Free Silver Forces Being Led by the Men Who Helped to Demonetize It—From People's Party Paper Before the Convention.

And in the state of Indiana, also, the democratic free-silverites won a great and glorious "victory."

As a proper sign, symbol, and illustration of the real meaning of said "victory," Senator Dan Voorhees was put at the head of the delegation to the national democratic convention.

Dan, you know, is the man who led the fight against silver in the U. S. senate, in the good year 1893. Under Dan's leadership John Sherman and the balance of the boys closed up the mints and cut off our increase of silver money.

The democrats of Indiana now select the said Dan to lead the men who are to "demand" the reopening of the mints. This shows that the democrats of Indiana have caught on to the Georgia joke.

In Georgia, the great free silver "victory" enthrones Chas. F. Crisp, whom Mr. Bland accuses of killing the silver bill of 1892.

In Indiana the free silver victory exalts Dan Voorhees, who was Cleveland's tool and mouthpiece in the repeal of the Sherman law, under which our silver-note currency was being increased at the rate of four million dollars per month.

Free silver "victories," which crown and anoint the leaders who struck away from the statute book every law that was friendly to silver, inspire us Pops with immense confidence in democratic sincerity.

Ohio democracy also went for free silver. And yet John Sherman was not named as a delegate. This is what he gets by having played second fiddle to Dan Voorhees.

Had he come forward like a man and led the Cleveland Cuckoos to the repeal of the only silver law that was on the books, he would not have been snubbed in this hour of the democratic free silver "victory." He stood in the background, Sherman did, and let Dan Voorhees reap the honor of the senatorial murder of silver and now he must grin and endure it, when he sees the said Dan bearing off the palms of the democratic free silver "victory."

A merrier old farce and miscellaneous humbug than the democratic party has never yet excited the attention of political students.

And yet, Mr. J. P. Austin, and perhaps others of our party, are ready to melt away into rapturous fusion, absorption, assimilation, etc., etc., if the dear old democratic party will only open its lips once more, and promise us free silver!

When Mr. Austin steps into the populist state convention on August 6th and meets the boys from all over the state, he will be profoundly impressed with the fact that Atlanta wire-pullers are not the truest judges of populist sentiment in this state.

PAPER MONEY.

A Correspondent Submits a Few Propositions.

By J. G. Malcolm, M.D., Hutchinson, Kan.

The following propositions concerning money are submitted for the purpose of eliciting criticism:

1. The common idea that money must have intrinsic value has not yet been proved. Money is a medium of exchange and it is not consumed. It simply represents value, as a deed to a piece of land represents the land. It is the land that has the value. So a paper dollar may be considered as a deed to its share of the wealth of the country with all the other dollars in the country. It is this share of the wealth that has value.

2. Value is an ideal thing and is not one of the component parts of anything. It, therefore, cannot be measured, any more than love or hate or ambition. When we say that the dollar is worth so many grains of gold it does not fix its value, for grains of gold have no fixed value, any more than pounds of butter. No commodity can have a fixed or unchangeable value.

3. The dollar is a unit of value, but not a measure of value. All values are spoken of in dollars or in fractions of dollars or multiples of dollars. In this way we can compare the value of things.

4. The value of the dollar depends upon the amount of wealth in the country and the number of dollars in the country. No dollar can have any value where there is nothing to buy with it, nor can it have where the number of dollars are unlimited.

5. The price of all commodities, gold included, is regulated by the law of supply and demand, and must vary with these factions.

6. When we make the dollar so many grains of gold the value of the dollar must rise and fall with the rise and fall of the value of gold.

7. To increase the demand for gold must raise its price. During the last two years our government has bought $262,000,000 worth of gold. This has greatly increased the demand for it, and this has raised its price, and this is manifest in the low price of everything else.

8. The high price of the dollar is always expressed in the low price of everything else. One dollar is always worth 100 cents, but when the value of the dollar is based upon any commodity, neither the dollar nor the cents have any fixed value, because the value of the commodity changes with the law of supply and demand.

9. If value could be measured a unit of value which changes its value, as gold does, could not be a good measure of value, any more than a unit of length can be a good measure of length if it continually changes its length.

10. Any kind of money would be good if the unit value could have a fixed and unchangeable value, and no kind of money can be good that does not fulfill this condition. If the dollar did not change its value the average price of things would always be the same. By this is meant that if the average price of all the things should be taken the sum of these prices would always be the same. The gold standard does not secure this result, and therefore it is not good money.

11. The average price of things could be made unchangeable on the following plan: Demonetize all commodities and issue a new national paper money. Make it the only legal tender money. Establish national banks, just as we now have national postoffices. Accept all money now in circulation at par in these banks. This would give us about as much money in circulation as we have now, and prices would remain about the same. But, since the average prices of things now are lower than they were a few years ago, we should seek to restore prices to some extent, at least. This could be done by making a present of say $5 or $10 to every man, woman and child in the country. This would increase the supply of money; this would make it cheaper, and this would raise the price of commodities. But, if at any time prices should rise too much we could take money collected in taxes out of circulation in sufficient quantity to restore former prices. In this way the price, or purchasing power, of the dollar could be kept constantly the same.

12. Paper money should not be made a promise to pay in gold or silver, but might read as follows: We, the people of the United States of America, agree to accept this token as one dollar in payment of all debts and in exchange of all commodities.

13. People wishing to trade with foreign nations could buy gold, or other commodities, and trade as they do now.

14. No gold reserve would be needed at Washington, as the paper money would not require to be redeemed.

15. All deposits in national banks would be safe so long as the nation was solvent, because bankers would be mere agents of the government.

TO INVADE THE EAST.

Senator Jones Talks of the Campaign.

Senator Jones of Arkansas, the new chairman of the democratic national committee, in an interview confidently predicts the election of Bryan. He declared that the silver sentiment which prevailed at Chicago was but a sample of that existing over the country. The financial issue will, he says, be forced to the front and the republicans will be kept on the defensive. There will be little or no talk on the tariff except to insist that the country does not want a return to McKinleyism. "We purpose to get close to the people, and we shall do this by circulating literature and by talks on the stump."

The senator does not object in the least to placing of an independent gold democratic ticket in the field.

"It would not carry any state," he said, "and the only votes it would get would be of those democrats who would otherwise vote for McKinley."

"There were several reasons for the selection of New York as a place of notifying Mr. Bryan of his nomination," continued the senator, "and they all bear upon the campaign. We want to show the country that this silver movement is not sectional. For this reason we took an eastern man for the second place on our ticket, and we are going to begin our campaign in New York. We want to show New York that we are not a lot of long-haired fanatics, as we have been pictured, and, more than that, we want to have the searchlight put upon us and our candidates and our actions right at the beginning."

"But you intend to invade New England?"

"Most assuredly we do. The ground there is lying fallow and needs but to be cultivated. We shall go into Maine and put up a good, stiff fight there, and victory is by no means impossible. We will give the republicans all they want in the way of a struggle."

The senator expressed the belief that the democrats would carry West Virginia and probably two or more of the states of Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Wyoming, and Oregon.

Bryan Opposed to International Marriages

Editor Bryan was strongly opposed to the marriage of rich American women to titled foreigners, and on Nov. 3, 1895, said in the Omaha World-Herald that the rearing of rich American girls in such a manner as to make them desire titled husbands was a reflection on the parents, who cultivated a love for aristocracy rather than a pride in American democracy." Mr. Bryan continued:

"Our forefathers decided that titles were dangerous to liberty and it is to be regretted that the patriotism of Revolutionary days has given place to a disgraceful scramble among the daughters of some of our multi-millionaires, for lords and dukes and counts. When an Englishman or Frenchman or other foreigner, with nothing to commend him but a title inherited from a remote ancestor, (and possibly only retained because it could not be pawned), reaches majority, he embarks for the United States and enters into negotiations for some marriageable heiress or heiress-apparent. Instead of teaching their daughters to regard with favor the suits of worthy sons of this country too many ambitious parents lead their daughters into the market place, and seek to barter a fortune for a crown. Love may leap across the ocean and join in holy wedlock "two hearts that beat as one," but social ambition and hereditary avarice can never weld two hearts into home-building material. When Cupid becomes a boodler and courtship is carried on by brokers, marriage is a mockery. It is significant that poor American girls, however accomplished, have no charms for impecunious noblemen. It is also a source of congratulation that American sons do not seek foreign alliances. It is a shame that some American daughters do."

The question is not one of saving a party, but of saving the people, but if the People's party goes down the cause of the people goes with it.

It is said that Cleveland wants a third term. He ought to have it—on some St. Helena.

FROM WORLD-HERALD

BRYAN SENDS THUNDERBOLTS INTO ENEMY'S CAMP.

The Chicago Convention Was Representative of the Whole American People, Democrats, Populists and Republicans—The Sleeping Lion.

Omaha World Herald, July 12: The Chicago convention has passed into history.

In numbers, in purpose, in spirit and in its proceedings it is worthy to be called a remarkable gathering.

It has been called heterogeneous. It was no more so than our country. It was truly representative not of one principle only, but also of the antagonism to that principle. Silver coinage triumphed, but only after a fair and open fight with the gold standard.

The west and south, assisted by the great middle states, controlled the convention, and were represented by the ablest free coinage advocates in the land. But their domination was resisted by as distinguished a lot of eastern representatives as ever united in line of battle. New York sent men some of whom enjoy international reputations. Massachusetts was there with a delegation which represented the wealth and intellect of the great Bay state. Vermont and New Hampshire, Maine and Connecticut, Rhode Island and Pennsylvania were on the floor with creditable delegations. All these were present to do battle against silver, and they reflected the sentiment of those who sent them, just as the silver men voiced the demands of four-fifths of the states and territories of the country.

The convention was representative because each delegate in it, with few exceptions, stood for the sentiments and expressed the demands of his stat and section. In this respect it was in most striking contrast with the republican convention—a gathering controlled by bosses who moved their men here and there at will and forced them to stifle their convictions and repudiate their recorded opinions.

The republican convention was a body of men who gathered greedily to carry out the decree of their masters in order that they might share in the spoils of political plunder if their masters won success.

The democratic convention was a great tumultuous body of earnest men, who fought for their convictions and either triumphed in glory or fell struggling, unconquered to the last.

The one was a cut and dried affair, commonplace and conventional.

The other was extraordinary in new leaders, new expedients and new spirit, although pledging itself to the restoration of an old principle.

The one was a market place, where principles were bartered and sold and nominations put up at auction.

The other was a battlefield where occurred the conflict of great ideas and where men met to fight for their convictions.

Republicanism was inert, suppressed and lethargic in its last convention; while democracy was electric and responsive to the public demands.

St. Louis was a graveyard.
Chicago was a cradle.
The old republicans died.
The new democracy was born.

The Sleeping Lion of the East.

Omaha World-Herald, July 14.—The political autocrats and goldbug aristocrats of the east may well hesitate to put a third ticket in the field to divide the goldbug vote in eastern states.

Confident as they feel that New York and New England will give republican majorities, they hesitate to do anything that might imperil those majorities.

They have no scruples, but they do have fears.

They fear the sleeping lion.

Heretofore the lion has been docile, recognizing his keepers, obeying their commands and taking from them such food as they supplied. He has been lulled to sleep in political campaigns and put forth his great strength only under their guidance.

This sleeping lion is the labor vote of those great populous states and the time is at hand which may witness the arousing of the lion. He may turn against his keepers, and if he does their arrogance and their insolence will not avail them.

The great cause of the people, ably advocated in New York and New England, will produce results which may well cause goldbug bolters to falter.

He Raised Prunes.

The man who owned a fruit ranch in California was stopping for several days at the boarding house and the landlady was excruciatingly polite to him.

"Hugh!" sniffed the lady boarder with banged hair, "I guess she must be making love to him."

"Naw, she ain't," retorted the man boarder, with the red whiskers.

"Why not? Just look at her. He can't express a wish that she doesn't fairly break her neck to gratify."

"That's no sign of a duck's nest," insisted the red whiskers.

"I'd like to know what you call a sign, then?" and the lady boarder swished herself around in a pet.

"You wouldn't know if I told you," grinned the red whiskers. "There's a bond of sympathy you ain't on to. He raises prunes for the eastern market."—New York Recorder.

LIVE WASHINGTON NOTES.

Failure of the American National Bank Reported to the Comptroller.

REPORT OF MONEY COINED IN JULY

The Warship Maine, While Coaling at Key West, Touches Bottom, Sustaining Slight Damages—Reports of Maximum Temperatures Shows Unusual Warm Weather.

New Orleans Bank Failure.

The comptroller of the currency is informed of the failure of the American National bank of New Orleans. It had a capital of $164,000, and according to the last report to the comptroller owed its depositors $350,000 and had borrowed $160,000.

Money Coined in July.

The monthly statement of the director of the mint shows the coinage at the United States mints during July to have been as follows: Gold, $2,918,200; silver, $1,092,000, of which $30,000 was in half dollars; minor coins, $21,000. Total, coinage, $4,031,200.

Accident to a War Ship.

The Maine, while coaling at Key West, touched bottom and slightly bent several of her plates. When docked at Norfolk today the plates were examined and the injuries found to be slight. No attempt will be made to straighten the plates at present, but as soon as the vessel is cleaned she will join the North Atlantic squadron.

Paying the Sugar Bounty.

The work of entering the sugar bounty warrants on the books of the treasurer's office was completed Saturday, and they were all sent to the internal revenue bureau. It was stated in that bureau that all, or nearly all the warrants would be mailed that evening. About ninety-five were sent out in the morning, up to which time about $3,000,000 had been paid out on account of the bounty.

Maximum Temperature.

Reports of maximum temperatures received by the weather bureau show that the present warm wave is very general, and probably is the most severe during the present summer. The officials say it is very unusual for the temperature to reach such a high point in so many parts of the country at one time. The heat is due to an area of high barometer which has been prevailing over the southern portion of the country and low barometer in the northern part, which results in great waves of the heat coming toward the north.

In Washington city the heat during the past few days has been intense, and Wednesday the thermometer reached its maximum point, registering 96 degrees, according to the official readings, though instruments in business houses and other places were 100 and above. Notwithstanding the intense heat there were no prostrations.

The predictions of the weather bureau are that the warm weather will continue from the middle and south Atlantic coast westward to the Mississippi river, though some relief may be expected from thunder storms in some sections.

Among the temperatures reported to the weather bureau Wednesday were: Little Rock, 103 (the highest in the country); Albany, 94; Philadelphia, 94; Charlotte, N. C., 94; Jacksonville, 92; Pensacola, 96; Montgomery, Ala., 96; Vicksburg, Miss., 93; New York, 90; Memphis, 100; Indianapolis, 94; Oswego, 96; Cleveland, 92; Chicago, 96; St. Louis, Kansas City, Dodge City, Ia., and Phoenix, Ariz., 98.

RACE WAR IN ARKANSAS.

Italians, Swedes and Hungarians Attack Negro Laborers.

The race war in Polk county, Arkansas, has broken out in earnest, and as the result of the first battle three negroes are dead, others wounded and many more have been run out of the county by the whites. Several negroes have passed through Texarkana, Ark., who were forced to leave the country, and they bring news of a pretty bad condition of affairs. The trouble is between white and black laborers employed on the grading work of the Kansas City, Pittsburg & Gulf railroad, near Horatio, Ark. The white laborers are determined that negroes shall not work on the road and are being backed up by the citizens of the county, who have armed themselves for the purpose of running the negroes out. Thursday night a lot of whites, composed of Italian, Swede and Hungarian laborers, together with a number of natives, made a raid on a camp occupied by negro laborers, and three of the latter were killed outright, several others were wounded and a number fled in terror. Several of the leaders of the raid have been arrested.

Two Negroes Shot.

Charley Allen and Edward Alexander, two colored men, aged each about 23, were shot and killed near Robbins, Tenn., Saturday about 4 o'clock. The men were killed close to the caboose of freight train No. 31, that had sidetracked to let another train pass. Conductor Woody and the entire crew of train No. 31, are under arrest charged with the killing. It is said, however, that the man who did the shooting made his escape. Both the dead men were drunk and had a supply of whisky with them when killed. 'Squire Lew Allen took charge of a revolver that Alexander had in his pocket. Both men were shot through the heart. No one has yet been found to say that he saw the shooting, and the cause of the tragedy is a mystery.

THE PLATFORM.

"The People's Party of the State of Alabama, in convention assembled, recognizing the supremacy of political liberty over all the questions that can come before the people of the State for solution at the general State election, to take place on the 3rd day of August, 1896, reaffirm our allegiance to the cardinal principles of Populism as follows:

"First—We demand a free ballot and a fair count.

"Second—We believe in the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of international agreement.

"Third—We demand that miners and others like corporate labor be paid in lawful money of the United States semi-monthly.

"Fourth—We favor a tariff for revenue, so adjusted as to protect, as far as practicable the farmers, and the labour in our shops, mines, factories and mills, and their products against foreign pauper labor."

Judge Zell Gaston's amendment to the 3d section was as follows:

"We demand the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the abolition of national banks, the expansion of the currency to meet the needs of the people and the demands of commerce, free from the control of corporate influences, and we condemn the issue of interest bearing bonds in time of peace."

Next came a lot of resolutions, which passed unanimously:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that our representatives in congress be and are hereby requested to use their best endeavors to secure appropriations by the Federal Government to open the Warrier River to navigation from the coal fields to the Gulf of Mexico."

"Resolved, That our county appointing boards are hereby requested to give to the political opposition a competent inspector at every polling place in their respective counties,

"And we further request the inspector so appointed to give a competent clerk and fixer at each polling place to said political opposition."

THE resolutions of the State convention of the People's Party in Louisiana bitterly arraign both the democrat and republican parties. The action of the national convention in nominating Bryan and Watson was endorsed, however.

THE platform adopted by the State convention of the People's Party of Oklahoma declares for the immediate admission of the territory to statehood, and demands that pensions of privates and officers be equal.

WHEN the Democratic national convention at Chicago adopted the Populist platform and nominated the gentleman who would have been the Populist nominee the very least they should have done would have been to leave the Populist national convention to nominate the vice-president.

YESTERDAY in New York city William J. Bryan and Arthur Sewall were formally notified they were respectively the candidates of the Democratic party for the high offices of president and vice-president. Bryan met with a most enthusiastic reception and discussed the Chicago platform at considerable length.

THE above table shows the votes at every box in the county. Benson box was thrown out on account of the returns not being properly signed.

FROM all we can gather it appears to be generally conceded all over the State that Capt. Johnston honestly received a majority of the votes in the white counties. This result was mainly due to two causes—the honest vote of Hon. A. T. Goodwyn in congress to seat the negro Murray over Col. Elliot and the adoption of the Populist platform by the Democratic party. We would have preferred to have seen Capt. Goodwyn in the gubernatorial seat but bow to the inevitable and acknowledgment we have never made so far as Mr. Oates is concerned.

CONGRESSIONAL candidates are busy in Clanton this morning. Mr. H. A. Wilson, a Republican nominee, is stirring around, and Capt. Plowman of Talladega, accompanied by Mr. Thornton of the same place, is hard at work building a boom for the Democratic nomination. When is the Populist congressional convention to be held, and whom shall we nominate?

THINGS are getting pretty warm down Cuba way. Key West, Fla., had a solid shot fired from the U.S. cruiser Montgomery on Monday. Fortunately no one was hurt but such careless mistakes are highly reprehensible.

THE first bale of cotton was brought into town yesterday morning by Mr. Jim Edwards and put up to auction, Mr. Chesnutt acting as auctioneer. Mr. W. H. Merritt started at 7¢ and from that point it went up to 7.67½ at which price it was knocked down to Mr. W. I. Mullins. It was classed strict middling and weighed 570 pounds. This is the earliest bale on record that has ever been brought into Clanton—the record being August 22, 1891 when Mr. Mullins bought it at 7.10

"We are not going to put up any candidate against Bryan. We are going to vote for Bryan whether Sewall is withdrawn or not. I'm going to manage this campaign so that William J. Bryan gets every vote we've got.

"Here's what we're going to do in our State Convention: We're going to put out a full electorial ticket for Bryan and Watson. We can't vote for Sewall. Then we'll empower our committee to take off a part of our electors and put on a part of yours whenever the Democratic committee retires Mr. Sewall.

"The Democratic managers may have made up their minds to put Tom Watson down and keep him down, but I thank God the people of the South have entered into no such contract. Let it be known henceforth that the South and West will never again sit at the footstool of the North."

People's Party News Bureau, Headquarters National Ex. Com., St. Louis, Mo. August 13.

The banks, factories and railroads are evidently unified in a conspiracy to prevent better conditions for the people and to intimidate voters into supporting McKinley. They are trying to bring about a scare or a panic which shall defeat Bryan and are declaring all the facts of hard times to be due to a feeling of insecurity in the business world—meaning the world of monopoly and monopolists—on account of the campaign of reform now on. The big Tudor Iron works in East St. Louis have shut down and give as an excuse, fear of free coinage of silver being successful in the election, and a number of smaller factories have followed their example with the same purpose of creating a scare in the minds of the people. The money stringency in the banks becomes tighter every day and it is now practically impossible to secure loans on any kind of security in any part of the country. Correspondence to the bureau shows that these conditions exist in every section of the United States without difference. It remains to be seen whether the moneyed lords and monopolistic interests have the people by the throat so tightly that they can never again accomplish reform for themselves and the benefit of their children. The struggle seems to be the final one in deciding whether liberty is to live on the shores of the western whemisphere and the republic of our fathers is to be perpetuated.

Heavey rains in July damaged the crop, especially on the bottoms in Virginia, North and South Carolina, Florida and some portions of Georgia. Over a large area in Georgia the crop is in fine condition and promises a full yield. The drought which extended over Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas for several weeks produced more or less damage, and in many counties complaints are made of rapid shedding and premature ripening and blooming at the top. Some counties in Mississippi and Arkansas report the crop as irreparably damaged from drought and excessive heat. Some counties in Texas report crops in good condition, fruiting well and promising an average yield. But over the drought stricten district, where rain has fallen, it has come too late to be of any benefit. The continued drought and hard winds have done some damage." There is some complaint of too much dry weather in Tennessee, otherwise the crop is doing fairly well.

SCOTT'S Emulsion

Is the standard emulsion the world over. There is not a man, woman or child who is run down or emaciated or has weak lungs that Scott's Emulsion will not benefit. When you ask for it you will likely be told by the druggist that he has an emulsion "just as good." It is not true. No emulsion is as good.

Scott's Emulsion has benefited millions of people. Ask your druggist if he can refer you to a single case that has been helped by the unknown emulsion he sells, and if so, we will send you a book giving thousands of cases. You want the standard; not something that nobody knows anything about.

All druggists sell Scott's Emulsion.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

Stanton, Ala., Aug. 10, '96.

Editor BANNER: The greatest thing of importance we have is concerning our crops. It has been 27 days since we have had any rain. The time is not so long, but it has been the most severe drought ever known in this country. Of course corn is a right, but our cotton crop, I learn from the best farmers, has lost about one-half of its forms and bolls and is dropping its leaves like fall.

Mr. D. J. Watersworth of Stanton said he expected to make 40 bales, but it will push him if he gets 10.

Mr. John Haley of West Chilton says there will be about half a cotton crop over his way. Mr. John Parnell of Dixie reports half crop and everywhere I hear from is about the same.

I would advise that all farmers throughout the county and State give correct statements of the losses in crods. It may do the poor farmers some good. Sign your names to your letter so that if the public wants a reference they can get it.

I learn Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi have had a great loss in their cotton crop this year, so I think if farmers will not rush their cotton on the market too early we may yet get a fair price for it.

I hope farmers will send in statements about crops and others news and don't let us lose interest in our paper because the election is over.

A Unique Reference Book.

To say that it contains information of nearly universal interest, and that is, practically, obtainable by most readers nowhere else, is but the simple truth concerning Alden's Living Topics Cyclopedia. The second volume contains the lastest facts concerning the nations, Brazil, British Empire, Bulgaria, Cape Colony, Chile, Chinese Empire, and others, and concerning three states, California, Colorado and Connecticut; also concerning six large cities, Brooklyn, Buffalo, Charleston, Chicago, Concinnati and Cleveland. The information is generally from one to five years later than can be found in any of the leading cyclopedias, and commonly a year later than the 1896 almanacs and annuals. We name only leading titles; besides there are hundreds of others, all of them "living" topics. One wonders how busy seekers after knowledge have got along without such an up-to-date cyclopedia. The whole work complete to date costs only $1.00, if ordered at once. Specimen pages may be had free by addressing the publisher, John B. Alden, 10 and 12 Vandewater St., New York.

Blood and Brawn

Impoverished blood means loss of strength. Probably seventy-five per cent. of the diseases with which mankind is afflicted are caused by impure blood. Very many diseases—such as tetter, eczema, scrofula, erysipelas, etc., could not exist if the blood were perfectly pure. V. V. V. makes pure blood. It is composed of natural vegetable remedial agents skillfully compounded in the exact proportions to secure right results.

V. V. V.

The Great Family Remedy

The mortifying eruptions that disfigure the complexion, the tired feeling that prevents thorough accomplishments of the daily tasks, sleepless nights, loss of appetite, irritability of disposition, all mean a derangement of the system consequent from impure blood, which can and will be cured by P. Conferers of favors are sometimes often responsible for the lack of gratitude which they so sorely lament. They forget that the chief value of what they bestow lies not in the thing itself so much as in the spirit of kindness and good-will which prompted it, and that it is that which draws forth gratitude in return. Gratitude, like affection, cannot be demanded or enforced; it withers under compulsion, but blossoms forth under the warm sunshine of a kindly nature. If that does not accompany the gifts or the favor, let not the donor fancy that he is entitled to gratitude, or feel defrauded if he receive it not.

Carefully Collated and Condensed for Our Readers.

MUSGROVE'S MURDER A MYSTERY.

Whipping in Jackson County—Etowah Crops Burning Up—A Conductor's Collar Bone Broken, Burglary at Bridgeport—A Murderer Bound Over.

Sheep Industry in Jackson.

L. R. DeVaulx, of Little Rock, Ark., has bought a large tract of land in Jackson county, and will go into the sheep trade.

With His Little Pistol.

George Phillips playfully pointed a pistol at Mont Irwin, at Summerfield, on Tuesday. As usual the pistol was loaded, and Mont may die of his wounds.

One Boy Kills Another.

A boy named Raley, 15 years of age, had a difficulty near Liberty a few days ago with Lester Hollis, aged 12, and the fight resulted in Hollis killing Ravey.

Bound Over to Court.

Oscar Stone was tried before Walter J. Byrne, J. P., at Maysville, for the murder of Governor Jolly, and bound over to court. He was taken to Huntsville jail.

Burglary at Bridgeport.

The big plate glass window at Baxter's store in the Peyton block, Bridgeport, was broken and $25 worth of jewelry stolen. Marshal Barnett, at Cowan, Tenn., recovered some of the jewelry.

Dry Spell in Marengo.

The first bale of cotton was received at Demopolis on Friday, August 1, and was sold on the Saturday following at auction, Col. N. G. Winn being the purchaser and 6 cents the price. The honor of having raised it belongs to Messrs. DeScar Brothers, of Old Spring Hill.

Drouth in Lauderdale.

Three weeks' drouth and excessively hot weather have reduced the cotton crop in Lauderdale county fully 30 per cent. Before the hot spell came the crop promised to be the largest in many years. Should it continue two weeks longer, conservative men say there will not be half a crop in this section.

The Musgrove Murder.

The grand jury of DeKalb county has returned a true bill against O. R. Brown, a mountaineer moonshiner, for the murder of old man Musgrove on Lookout mountain on Monday, August 3. The accused was arrested by Sheriff's Deputies Richard Little, Thomas Freeman and Charles Stuart and taken to Fort Payne. Other arrests will follow.

Fire at Pike Road.

A fire destroyed three large country stores at Pike Road, in Montgomery county, Thursday night, entailing a loss of about $15,000. The fire originated in William Johnson's store, and was communicated to those of A. Blackburn and E. S. Armistead, consuming all three. Incendiaries are believed to have started the fire. All of the property was partially insured.

Etowah Crops Burning Up.

At Gadsden reports are coming in from all over the county that the crops are burning up, and if the weather continues as hot and dry as it has been for the past two or three weeks there will be a very small crop to harvest in his section this fall. The cotton crop is already cut 40 per cent, nearly all the bolls are turning yellow and drying up. Corn has been cut short about 30 per cent and is suffering very much.

Lightning's Deadly Stroke.

During a heavy rain last Tuesday evening, Mrs. Jack Grooms was killed by lightning at her home eight miles west of Rockford. She was sitting near the fire place in the house when the fatal bolt struck a tree near and is supposed to have glanced off into the house. She was alone with her two little children, Mr. Grooms being away from home, and it was several hours after the storm when her death became known to sympathizing neighbors.

His Collar Bone Broken.

Conductor L. A. Robinson had his collar bone broken and sustained other injuries by jumping from his southbound freight train on the Louisville & Nashville railroad Friday. The train is reported to have been running at a high rate of speed and when near Nashville one car left the track and dragged along thus for about two miles and necessitating the conductor and brakeman to jump off. Robinson lives in Decatur, where his injuries received medical attention.

His Most Faithful Friend.

One of the most pathetic scenes that it is possible to witness was noticed at Valley Head on Wednesday last in connection with the murder of old man Musgrove. It is stated his sole companion was a little dog, who seemed to know his master's every wish. When the dead body was found the little dog was standing beside it, barking and growling at the hogs that were attempting to devour the corpse. When the body was carried to a neighbor's house the dog accompanied it, and when it was placed in the coffin and the lid placed on it, the faithful little animal jumped on the coffin whining piteously. It is said the dog would permit those present to caress it, except a man whose name is not given, and who was subsequently charged with complicity in the murder.

One of the Whipping Party.

Will Campbell was brought to South Pittsburg, Tenn., Saturday morning with both legs badly crushed, and will require the amputation of one leg above the knee and the other about the ankle. He is one of the negroes implicated in the whipping and robbing of the colored orator, Christian, near Bridgeport last Monday night. He was trying to get away, and was stealing a ride on a freight train. When about two miles north of Bridgeport he was knocked off by a stock gap and both legs were run over by the train. Campbell has confessed to being one of the whipping party. He was accompanied from Bridgeport by Deputy Sheriff Green and Marshal Burnett. His legs have not been taken off yet. He will probably die.

Whipping in Jackson County.

Marshal Burnett and Sheriff Green, of Bridgeport, have secured the arrest of Joe Kelso, at South Pittsburg, Tennessee, as being one of the parties implicated in the whipping and robbing of R. W. Christian between that place and Bridgeport last Monday night. Kelso refused to go to Alabama without a requisition. He will be placed in jail at Jasper, Tenn., to await the arrival of the proper papers to convey him to Alabama. Considerable interest is being manifested over the whipping of the negro, and the Alabama authorities are using every means to secure the arrest of the guilty parties. It would be no trouble to make up a hundred or two dollars here to help in the prosecution, if required. It will be sifted to the bottom and the guilty parties brought to justice.

Mysterious Tragedy in Birmingham.

About 10 o'clock Friday night several pistol shots startled the boarders and others about the building at the corner of Second avenue and Twenty-first street, Birmingham, known as the Palais Royal. Officer Newman heard the shots and ran to the building and up stairs to the room from which the sounds emanated. On entering he found P. B. Green holding R. H. Fowler, with one arm around his neck and scuffling with him. The men were separated and it was at once seen that Green had been shot and was dangerously wounded. Captain Weir had followed Officer Newman and to the two officers the wounded man stated that he went to the Palais Royal at the invitation of Fowler to spend the night. After undressing, he continued, he called to Fowler and asked him to bring him a drink of water. Fowler did so, and after handing it to him pulled a 38-calibre pistol and fired three times at Green, one ball passing through the breast, another through the thigh and another through one of his fingers. Fowler was taken to the city prison and put in a cell. It is said that Green made a dying statement in the presence of Dr. Gibson, who was called to attend him, and others, in which he alleged his belief that Fowler had been hired to kill him.

Mystery of Musgrove's Murder.

The mystery surrounding the murder of old man Musgrove may possibly be cleared up. The coroner, acting under orders from the attorney-general, has exhumed the body and found that the deceased was shot twice in the back and once in the side. There are several theories advanced for the cause of the murder. Musgrove was an ex-confederate soldier, who was born in DeKalb county in 1821, and was consequently about 75 years old at the time of his death last week. He kept batchelor's hall, in a rude hut, his only companion being a little dog. He owned cattle, and it was while hunting some of them that had strayed away that he came across four men working at a still. It was thought, probably without reason, that years ago he gave information to the revenue officers that caused them to discover a pot still. These four men were suspicious of him and tried to kill him then, firing two shots at him, but he managed, old as he was, to get away. It is supposed that these four men, who Musgrove recognized and named to several of his friends, committed the murder. His body was lying in such a position as to lead to the belief that he had been killed in the road, where his tracks suddenly ceased, and then carried to where he was found by Ed Hartline and his wife on their way to Little River church. There is very great excitement over the matter, and every iota of evidence possible is being collected.

Fate of a Murderer.

No more pitiable spectacle can well be imagined than that of Capt. E. B. Turpin, the slayer of William Carter, at Gallatin, Tenn., whose trial was a nine days' wonder at the time. He used to be a bright, quick, vivacious man, full of life and energy, and always ready to take part in any sport, particularly if it related to horses, and he then had the best half mile track in the south. Now he is paralyzed and cannot turn in his bed, and groans, curses and prays alternately. He imagines that his victim is sitting on the bed with him, and he begs those near him to take him away. Occasionally he holds long conversations with his victim, and from the trend of his remarks it leads one to recall the saying of old, "Vengeance is mine. I will repay."

Action of Canada Banks.

The Standard bank of Toronto, Can., has given notice that after Saturday American one dollar bills or silver certificates will be discounted at the rate of 10 per cent. The other city banks will adopt the same rule.

Attachments were levied Saturday on the funds of the Woonsocket Rubber Company, in the hands of the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Company, the Industrial Trust Company and the Merchants National bank of Providence, R. I.

A freight train ran off the track near Marengo, Ia., Friday morning on the Des Moines road, and a number of cars were badly wrecked besides some other damage. Four tramps, who were stealing rides, were killed. There was no other loss of life.

An explosion from some unknown cause in the packing plant of Swift & Co., Kansas City, Mo., Thursday night, resulted in the death of one man and the injury of six others, four probably fatally, and in a fire which followed $100,000 worth of property was destroyed.

Shortly after 1 o'clock Saturday morning, when the southbound Florida Central & Peninsular train was about a mile below Ocala, Henry Greenway, the porter, discovered two men in the Pullman robbing the sleeping passengers. Greenway closed with the robbers, who drew pistols and shot him dead. The robbers then jumped from the train. A man who gave his name as Brown was arrested Saturday evening on suspicion of being one of the robbers. Brown is a stranger in this section.

At Niagara Falls the Park theater was destroyed by fire at 1 o'clock Friday morning, causing a loss of $50,000, covered by insurance. Thursday night a boxing exhibition was given in the theater and it is supposed the fire is due to carelessness on the part of some one in the dressing room. Adjoining property was damaged to the amount of $5,000.

By passengers arriving in New Orleans by the Illinois Central railroad Friday night it was learned that early Friday morning at New Montgomery, Miss., a small station six miles north of Brookhaven, a negro man raped a negro girl, aged 15, and then killed her with a club. The man's name is not known. The sheriff has gone in pursuit with bloodhounds.

Two failures were announced on the New York cotton exchange Wednesday morning, S. R. Post and S. Michelbacher. The former was posted before the opening of the exchange, but his liabilities are supposed to be under $30,000. The case of Michelbacher was called for a meeting and settlement of all outstanding accounts, and is believed to be about evened up.

Word has reached Winnipeg, Minn. of the death in the mountains of Mr. Abbott, a prominent railway man of Milwaukee, eldest son of W. H. Abbott. Mr. Abbott, while accompanying a party of mountain tourists in charge of Professor Ray, slipped over a cliff some thousand feet high, and his body is hanging on a jagged rock below, where it cannot be reached by members of the party.

Owing to the unsettled condition of finances and the uncertainty regarding the future of the American money standard, European capitalists, who hold options on four idle copper mines south of Houghton, Mich., will drop the deal when the options expire next month. Consolidation would have interested nearly $1,000,000 capital and would have given steady employment to six hundred men.

The British column, under the command of Colonel Plumer, had an engagement on Wednesday with the impis or regiments of Chief Sekombo and Umlugulus and three other impis of rebellious Matabeles. The rebels were completely routed. Major Shaw and four non-commissioned officers of the Britist force were killed and fifteen men wounded. It is estimated that 200 of the Matabeles were killed.

Two trains collided Monday near Dean Lake, Mo., on a trestle 60 feet high. No. 1 was behind time, No. 3 having the right of way. Both engines went down and the engineer of No. 3 was killed. Both firemen and the other engineer jumped before the collision and escaped. The smoking car of train No. 1 was telescoped by the express car. One passenger was injured fatally, two severely and three slightly. The express messenger was badly injured.

Nevada Bank Failure.

Sheriff Scroghem closed Conkling Brothers, banking house in Nevada, Mo., the Bank of Bronaugh, Bank of Sheldon and the Bank of Richards, all the property of Conkling Brothers Wednesday morning under an injunction of the Vernon county circuit court. Such action was based on a report of State Bank Examiner Gordon Jones, that the business was conducted in an unsafe and unbusinesslike manner. I. W. Conkling, of the firm, says the closed banks will be able to pay every dollar of their indebtedness. J. M. George and C. M. Shartet were appointed to take charge of the firm's business as receivers.

Concession to Uitlanders.

The volksraad has passed a bill allowing the children of foreign residents of the Transvaal, who attend the public schools, to learn the language of their parents. This is a step in the right direction of redressing one of the grievances of the Uitlanders, who energetically protested against their children having no school facilities for learning their own language, the only language that is recognized in the school being Dutch.

Cranky Thief Gets Shot.

W. L. Chamberlain, a crank, came into the bank of the Southern Savings & Trust company, of Jacksonville, Fla., at noon Friday and presented a paper to Teller Hubbard, who was alone in the bank. The paper was a demand for silence and the immediate delivery of $5,000, with a threat to throw acid in Hubbard's face if he did not comply. Hubbard covered the crank with a revolver and the two men grappled. Seizing his opportunity, Hubbard fired, hitting his opponent in the abdomen. Chamberlain will probably die.

Shot at a Race Track.

Hugh Penny, the once famous jockey, was shot at the race track at Dubuque, Ia., Saturday night by Harry Sayre, of Middleport, O., who had refused him the mount on His Brother in the fifth race. Penny struck Sayre, who drew a revolver, and, pursuing him about a tent near the stable, shot him twice in the back. Penny fell and Sayre fired a third shot, which missed him. Other jockeys and stable boys drew revolvers and started for Sayre, but the police jumped in an hurried him to jail. Penny's wounds are serious.

Assignment in Philadelphia.

An assignment for the benefit of creditors was made Wednesday by Boyd, Harley & Co., carpet dealers, 1222 Market street, Philadelphia. The attorney of the firm stated that the liabilities are about $250,000, and the assets are about $350,000. A portion of the latter, however, he says, is in bills, which may prove uncollectable. There is a considerable amount of stock on hand.

Laurada Takes Men and Things.

It is reported that after leaving the mouth of Christiana Creek, Del., Thursday, the Laurada was met by the tug Martha, from which it is said she took twenty-eight men and a large number of cases, many of which it is believed contained dynamite. The Laurada had eight large surf boats in addition to her usual complement of sea boats.

THE STATE NORMAL COLLEGE, TROY, ALA.

This college is supported by state and Peabody fund appropriations for the training of teachers and is not a mere "Preparatory School" for some other, but is of college grade in every way, as a teachers' training school should be, and grants college degrees and diplomas, and its graduates receive state certificates for two, four and six years, or for life, from the state superintendent of education of Alabama, and these are the strongest testimonials of professional worth to a teacher. Indeed, the graduates of this college are in great demand as teachers and the college authorities take great pleasure in answering requests for trained teachers sent in by school authorities from all over Alabama and adjoining states.

It will be seen from the Normal Exponent that students desiring the usual college course may get it here at very low expense, too. Board is but $8 to $10 per month and tuition and incidentals low.

Persons desiring information as to this college or wishing to secure a good teacher should write to Dr. E. R. Eldridge, president, at Troy, Ala., for the Normal Exponent explaining everything.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

"I like the small package of Pearline," a lady says; "it lasts two weeks and does two washings." Then she admits that she has been using soap with her Pearline. Now this is all unnecessary. If you don't put in enough Pearline to do the work easily and alone, you bring Pearline down to the level of soap, which means hard work and rubbing. If you use enough Pearline, the soap is a needless expense, to say the least. Use Pearline alone, just as directed, and you'll have the most thoroughly economical washing.

REDEMPTION MONEY.

AND BUSINESS MONEY APPEAR TO BE DIFFERENT THINGS.

An Abstruse(?) Subject Under the Calcium Light of Logic and Reason, Made so Plain that the Dullest Mind May Grasp It.

"Redemption money," or "standard money," as it is sometimes designated, must be made of gold or silver. Just at present the great financiers of the [illegible] commercial nations of the earth (see republican platform) are of the opinion that the beneficent functions of redemption money can only be properly performed by money made of gold. It may develop later on why [illegible], but for the purpose of this [illegible] the idea which has ruled the world for centuries, that gold and silver, or either of them, may be redemption money, is adopted.

Redemption money necessarily implies the existence of a money somewhere that needs to be redeemed, and it naturally follows that redemption money is better money than that which it redeems, otherwise it could not perform the functions of a redeemer. If redemption money does not hold the same relation to all other money which is in need of redemption that the Savior or Redeemer of man does to all mankind, that is, if it was not created by God, it was created by man. The question then follows, if man created money, why did he create two kinds, one as a redeemer, the other to be redeemed? And if a man cancel a debt with money which must be redeemed, is it not plain that he still owes the debt? And that he will continue to owe it until the identical money in which he paid the debt is redeemed? Certainly this is all plain enough, if the redemption theory of money is correct, for it follows as a matter of course that a promise to pay cannot be cancelled by giving other promises to pay. This absurdity though ridiculous in the extreme is a necessary sequence of "redemption money," and is no more absurd and silly than the theory which gives it life.

As a matter of fact, "redemption money" is a fiction, a myth, which never has existed and never will. There is a theory that the one hundred million dollar gold reserve fund held in much the same degree of esteem by our national officials as the white elephant of India is by the bare legged barbarians of that country, is for the purpose of redeeming the three hundred and forty-six millions of greenbacks still in circulation and doing all that money of any kind can do in the way of furthering exchange. This theory is, or rather was before the sacred gold fund had become seriously encroached upon, that at one time less than half of it remained on hand without in the least affecting the purchasing power of the greenbacks that the greenbacks would not be good money but for this gold fund held sacred to its redemption. Now indulgent reader, if you will try to figure out how to redeem three silver dollars and forty-six cents with one dollar you will, perhaps, realize what a humbug that gold redemption fund is.

But it must be remembered that the gold reserve fund is a humbug only in the same way and for the same reason that redemption money is. In the old wild-cat days of bank paper money the folly of the redemption theory of money was brought so close to the people that its stupidity became plainly apparent. The banker with, say, twenty thousand dollars in specie, gold and silver, for redemption money, would issue his notes or promises to pay to the extent of fifty thousand dollars and loan it to his neighbors to do business upon. Things would go along swimmingly so long as nobody doubted his ability to pay specie on demand, but as certain as [illegible] doubt was inspired that certain it was [illegible] his banking business came to a [illegible] and thirty thousand dollars of his promises to pay were never fulfilled. But for all this experience with redemption money acquired at a fearful cost [illegible] the people never [illegible] a moment completely lost [illegible] its soundness.

When the war of the rebellion came [illegible] gold and silver money slunk out of sight the people, through their representatives, very tenderly and carefully [illegible] up their redemption theory and [illegible] it away in a safe place until [illegible] and gentler times again made their appearance. If the policy of the $60,000,000 of treasury notes issued [illegible] the government at the breaking out of the rebellion had been persisted in the redemption theory would have been put to sleep forever along with that other preposterous travesty upon humanity—the right of property in man. But, as has been suggested, the people's representatives carefully put it away. At the request of certain patriotic (?) [illegible]ers, and enacted that all money henceforth issued should be as good as gold and silver money, except for the purpose of paying tariff, taxes and interest on the public debt. This, of course, saved the life of the redemption theory.

But the people had dallied so long and so delightfully with the sinful kind of money which had to have a redeemer that, after the war closed, they would no longer tolerate the presence of the redemption theory in their midst, and to save it at all it had to be removed to Washington city. The government would find the feat of redeeming three dollars and forty-six cents of its promises to pay with one dollar redemption money fully as hard of accomplishment as the wild-cat banker did to redeem two dollars with one were it ever called upon to perform it. But the fact that it is so far away from the people and that the people have far more "confidence" in their government than they ever had in the wild-cat banker goes a long way toward making its promises to pay a far more effective money than the wild-cat notes ever were, though the latter might have had dollar for dollar, twice as much redemption money back of them as the former.

The greenback, however, is not our only national currency dependent upon redemption money for its value. The currency issued by national banks reads: "The Blank National Bank of Blankville will pay the bearer on demand five dollars," or, as the case may be. These due bills circulate as money because they are backed by government bonds payable in redemption money, and the aggregate of these due bills and greenbacks in circulation is close to $600,000,000, or fully as much as the highest estimate of the total gold in the country. Since all this paper currency is redeemable on demand in gold under the present treasury ruling, and since the government is pushed the tightest to keep $100,000,000 on hand, is it not plain that the only reason why the government is not bankrupt consists in the fact that its promises to pay are not all presented at once, nor even in very large quantities?

But why all this folly about "redemption money?" The government by its emission of hundreds of millions of dollars in paper money through national banks and by its own treasury acknowledges the necessity for that much more money than it can possibly create out of gold and silver at the present rate at which those metals can be coined, even if free coinage of silver be restored at 16 to 1. The only object of money is to provide the people with a medium of exchange, and the government exercises the right to say how much gold or silver shall constitute a given amount of money. Since it exercised this right to entirely deprive silver of the power it once had to act as "redemption money" it can certainly finish the folly that plainly inheres in the redemption theory by declining to use gold, or rather, by declining longer to hypocritically pretend to a readiness to use it for redemption money. It is worse than folly, it is criminal for the government to pretend that the value of its paper money running into the hundreds of millions, depends entirely upon its ability to maintain intact a certain other small fund of money created of gold when it itself issues, or causes to be issued, the paper money and fixes the degree of fineness and the amount of gold in a dollar. It seems plain that all this juggling with money is inspired by the fact that it is a legal tender for the products of labor, and the more exalted and sacred it may be made to appear the greater will be its power over labor.

The redemption theory is a fraudulent one and common honesty demands that it be discarded.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

A Well Merited Rebuke from Our "Cheap Dollars" Neighbors.

The people of the United States are on a gold basis; in other words, they are holding up something like $1,000,000,000 of currency on $92,000,000 of treasury gold reserve, a magnificent accomplishment which reminds one of a Japanese juggler sustaining a series of ladders by his teeth lying flat on the ground. It is magnificent, but it is not finance. Mr. Carlisle, who knows so little of finance as to imagine, because the treasury issues notes, that it is in the banking business, is filled with awe as he contemplates the financial system of his country. We do not wonder, for it inspires the same sentiment in the minds of ordinary men. And, being on a gold basis, the United States must have a prosperous government? That does not apparently follow. The government, in point of fact, is in straits, for the revenue does not keep pace with the outgo. Not since last January have the treasury receipts reached the average monthly requisite of thirty million dollars, the amount which must come in if all the bills of the nation are to be met. In August the receipts ran up to $29,286,000, but the average has been below $27,000,000 for the other months. It looks like another bond issue and if that is made the treasury will be easier. A loan is only a palliative, however; what is needed is permanently to increase the revenue. The throwing off of the sugar duties was the beginning of the foolishness; those duties were not felt by anyone and they kept the treasury in easy circumstances. It is beginning to be noted by the American people that their finances are in control of charlatans who know no more about the fundamental principles of financial administration than so many school boys. Any European finance minister, who should make such blunders as have been committed in Washington, would be retired to private life for "keeps." Fancy an English chancellor of the exchequer in such a mess as is Carlisle. A commission in lunacy would be summoned to sit on his case. And no European finance minister has such a rich country abounding in potential sources of revenue to operate in. An ordinary financial duffer ought to shine as finance minister in the great republic which is rich beyond compute.—Mexican Herald.

NEARING A CRISIS.

AMERICA RAPIDLY APPROACHING THE DANGER LINE.

When the Present Process of Concentration Is Consummated Our False Financial System Will Have Finished Its Mission

The following, which appears in the New Charter of San Jose, Cal., very clearly shows how the present debt-making credit system is forcing the people out of their possessions and making a few people masters of the people and owners of the world. Why can't the people see and understand? Why do they stand indifferently by while the robbery goes on? Why will they be whipped into line year after year to vote their loved ones out of food, clothes and shelter, and into serfdom, bondage, pauperism and prostitution? Will nothing but the crack of doom awake them? Read the following:

Sixty-five billions is the assessed value of all the wealth in the United States, including lands, say the census reports.

Forty-two billions is the indebtedness of the country, say careful statisticians.

The average annual increase of wealth is 3 per cent, which on sixty-five billions is an increase of one billion nine hundred and fifty millions.

The average interest of six and a half per cent on forty-two billions amounts to two billions seven hundred and thirty millions—a deficit or annual increase of debt to the amount of seven hundred and eighty millions.

This deficit must be made up by the sacrifice of the lands of the producers to bond-holders. There is no other way for it to be made up. This accounts for the vast number of farms and homes going daily into the hands of the mortgage holders by foreclosure.

When this process of concentrating the ownership of the land into a few hands is consummated our false money system will have finished its mission and served its purpose. Then it will not matter how much money or how little we have or what it is made of, for the owners of the land will then be absolute masters of the products of labor.

The landlord will then take in rent what the bond and mortgage holder now takes in interest.

Being masters of the whole people the owners of the land will only employ enough to supply all their own wants and the rest of the people must die or emigrate.

When Rome fell one thousand persons owned all the land of the Empire, says history.

Reckoning from the foregoing statistics, the year 1912 will find the American republic in the control of perhaps less than a thousand men. Really, is it not dominated now by less than that number?

Revolution did you say? Oh, no; no danger. So long as the masses ignorantly lick the hand that smites them under the hypnotic influence of patriotism and partyism no revolution can occur.

So long as one workingman stands ready to shoot another workingman at the behest of corporative robbers, or dispute over a religious idea or the jingoism of a Monroe doctrine, or bruise each other's heads and reputations for the sake of party, just so long may those who are being benefited by the present systems of land, money, bond and transportation robbery compose their souls in peace, for they are safe.

But should an electric shock of intelligence suddenly awaken in man that slumbering instinct of the rights with which nature or nature's God endowed him, then look out for squalls.

A falsely called civilization has rendered impotent the natural instincts of men to assert their natural rights; but the signs of the times portend an awakening. What is it to be?

Government Ownership of Railroads.

Dr. Glover, of Macon, who has recently returned from a trip to Europe, Africa and Asia, wrote a private letter to the Flovilla Enterprise, from which that paper makes the following extracts:

"I traveled seventeen thousand miles and found no place where the American silver dollar or paper dollar was below par. I traveled over railroads that are owned and operated by the government. On the government railroads we feel more safe than on our roads, from the fact that they are all double-track and every precaution is taken to prevent accidents to passengers. The fare on the roads owned and operated by the government is about half what it is on the roads in this country.

"I am very glad to find on my return to America that so many who have been opposed to the true principles of government are beginning to see the light and have the manhood to say so.

"What I have seen of the financial systems of the old countries and conditions surrounding their people I am more firmly convinced of the justness of the demands of the People's party than ever. I hope the good cause may go on till Shylock is dethroned and all rejoice in a government for the people, by the people and in the interest of mankind, and the great idol (gold) will not have a worshiper in this fair land."

There were none to do honor to President Cleveland at the Chicago convention. However, Cleveland has been let in on the ground floor with Wall street, and has made enough money out of various shady deals to enable him to live henceforth comparatively independent of

NOTES AND COMMENT.

What the People Are Thinking, Saying and Doing.

One of the most amusing features of the present political situation is that of the democratic party posing as a reform party. Everybody knows that the times were hard enough before it came into power under the present Cleveland administration. The first thing it did after it got "a chance" was to dish us out a first-class panic. This was done very promptly and with an energy that showed that Grover meant to give us an object lesson which we could not forget.

* * *

Now at that time we had a silver law upon our statute books that provided for the coinage of two or three million dollars of silver each year, and more if necessary. The next thing the democratic party did, after launching the panic was to repeal this law and close the mints against silver altogether. All this time the leaders were announcing that they were doing just the right thing and that prosperity was just up the road a little ways, and that we would soon overtake her. But the people soon discovered that they never followed a colder trail.

* * *

Then the party took up the much-talked-of tariff measure. It was the harp of a thousand strings that had for years lulled the people into a political torpor that permitted them to commit the crime of ratifying the very parties and systems that had been industriously engaged in robbing them. Congress talked, and talked, and talked. Argument pro and con was piled up mountain high. Speeches were printed that were never made, and speeches were made that were never printed. They put fiddle strings and guts on the free list, and even as mean a man as Cleveland wouldn't sign the bill after it was passed.

* * *

After this Herculean task the members evidently thought they would perform their particular duty by keeping their seats warmed and drawing their salaries. Occasionally so many would be in attendance at the horse races or houses of ill-fame that the sergeant-at-arms would have to go out and run enough of them in to constitute a quorum for the transaction of what little business it was necessary for them to do in order to draw their salaries. Every measure that came up for the free coinage of silver was defeated, a majority of the democratic votes in congress being polled against it.

* * *

And now this "organized appetite for spoils" and plunder asks the American people to trust it to reform the financial affairs of the country. This bundle of blunders wants another chance. This army of office seekers has made a death bed repentence and promises now to undo the things which its own hands did in violation of every pledge made to the people by which they got into power before. What assurance have we got that these pledges will be held more sacred than the ones they made before? They are made by the same old place hunting leaders, and evidently for the same purpose—to secure the spoils. Will the people ever again trust this party of broken promises?

* * *

Many persons who talk glibly of fiat money don't know what it means. Any money that is lawful is fiat money. The fiat of the law, that is to say the decree of the law, makes gold money, and it is fiat money. It is not on account of any inherent qualities in the gold that makes a stipulated amount of it worth 100 cents, but the fiat of law that creates a demand for it as money, thus giving to it an artificial value. The law creates the demand and the demand makes the value. In proportion as you cut off the demand, you decrease the value; therefore if gold was demonetized by the principal nations of the world as silver has been, its value would be correspondingly low.

* * *

Men aver that you cannot legislate value in anything. But the facts are against them. It is legislation that makes gold worth what it is. For 50 years England has had a law requiring the Bank of England to pay a stipulated amount for every ounce of gold presented at its counter. If the United States would pass a law that it would use nothing but yellow horses for army and military purposes, it would be a discrimination against horses of other colors and would without doubt enhance the value of yellow horses. And this would be the result of legislation. Silver was never demonetized because it failed to remain at a 16 to 1 parity with gold—but it failed to remain on a parity because it was demonetized; and now the fiat of the law steps in and sustains the value of all coin that has the government stamp.

* * *

Money is but an order on society for its face value. This is true of all kinds of money, gold, silver and paper. The value of money consists in what it will buy, and not in itself at all. We can neither eat money nor wear it. When we receive it we have not got value received, nor won't have until we part with the money for something which will contribute to the sustenance of life or comfort. Therefore in its very essence money is only a convenient medium of exchange, and whatever a people agree to use as a medium of exchange, an order on the whole community, is absolutely good. The questions to be considered are divisibility, durability and convenience. It is folly to use a dear material on which to stamp the medium of exchange, when a cheap one can be had.

But upon what will such money be based? It is based upon the pledges of the people and every dollar of their property with which to redeem it. It would be receivable for taxes and all dues to the United States. Money of specific redemption, that is, money that is only redeemable in one or two specific things, such as gold and silver, is a fraud which the banks have fattened on for years. Money is made to circulate and the only redemption it needs is that which it gets in performing its functions—passing from one person to another. One man redeems it with his wheat, another with sugar or coffee, another with clothes, another with boots and shoes, and thus it is always circulating, performing the work it was intended to, and never hoarded or withdrawn from circulation.

Even Rothschilds' religion was respected in the republican convention and a Jew rabbi selected to deliver the opening prayer. The following is the closing paragraph to the prayer and the "golden fringe" phrase is as significant as rhetorical: "Prosper thou the work of this council convened in the cause of the people, and when its message goes forth over the land may its golden fringe bring forth to them the glad assurance that prosperity will brighten our homes, and the immediate jewel of our soul, the good name of our people and the credit of our government shall remain untarnished forever. May Thy grace, O, God, come upon us, and do thou establish the work of our hands. Amen."

The nomination of McKinley after such a prayer as that was approaching wonderfully near the "culminating atrocity." The republican party should have credit, however, for one thing this year, and that is frankness. It says in substance: "We are mean as h—ll and don't care who knows it."

John P. Townsend, millionaire, writing to the Maritime Exchange of New York, a labor skinning organization, regarding the effects of a free coinage law, says:

"The instant withdrawal of some $600,000,000 of gold from circulation which would follow an approaching change to a silver basis would give rise to an immediate stringency in the money market, loans of every description would be called in, bringing about untold disaster to every enterprise and calling distress to every borrower small and great. Rates of interest would be affected, the lender of money would withdraw his capital for the time being, and the borrower would find it impossible to obtain accommodation. Industrial establishments would be forced to close, and hundreds of thousands of workingmen would be thrown out of employment."

It will be remembered that after Jackson vetoed the United States bank bill the bankers plunged the country into a ruinous panic, and there is no doubt but that they will do so again if their demands are not acceded to.

This, however, is one of the very best reasons why the powers of the bank should be curtailed. There is no question but that the banks have the power which they boast, of precipitating a "stringency," or panic at their will. It is time, however, that the people should meet this issue and settle it once and forever. There are only two things to do to accomplish it: take from the present banks the privilege of issuing their own notes, and establish government postal savings banks in every county. With government banks panics would be impossible for there would be no loss of confidence, and therefore no run upon the banks. There would be no sudden calling in of loans, and no threats of Wall street power over congress.

Apropos to this is the latest bank circular issued by the Monetary Trust, 50 Broadway, New York. It is dated June 22, 1896. The following is an extract taken from it:

"We stated months ago that the heat of the canvass would develop a stampede of sagacious political leaders toward gold. We stated months ago that the outcome at St. Louis would be exactly as it has been. We stated some weeks ago that the triumph of McKinley would be the downfall of silver. We now inform you that the joint vote of gold republicans and gold democrats will amount to a larger popular vote than was ever cast for any policy by the American people; that the joint gold men among democrats and republicans will hold an overwhelming majority in congress and control the senate of the United States. The pretended fear of free trade papers that the republican party would combine with the silver men in some compromise is extremest farce. Far sooner will democrats and republicans combine upon protection to the gold basis. If Chicago declares for free silver it will put all serious honest democrats out of the party. The fact is the silver craze is simply the gathering together of men who have not property, who do not represent serious occupation, who are the shallow, the idle, the adventurous, the insane element of superficial circles. To doubt the outcome of such a campaign is to doubt the country. Always has it turned out to be profitable to rely upon the judgment of the whole people of the United States, whether in peace or war."

The St. Louis Evening Journal, commenting on this, says:

"Could anything be plainer? Can't you see that they don't purpose to have the voter who is not a property owner mixing up in the affairs of this government?

"Isn't it plain enough now that the object of the Wall street horde is to come out openly and fight its cause, or, rather, to array capital against the mass of common people and make them fight the matter out for them?

Using River Water.

Capital City Water company, which supplies the people of Montgomery with pure artesian water, however at a good stiff cost, has been forced, on account of the long continued drouth which has prevailed, to supplement their supply with water pumped from the river. The Alabama river water is not regarded as wholesome, and some kicking will probably result.

Two Men Cut in a Saloon.

In a difficulty in Echols' saloon in Gadsden, Saturday evening at 8:30, Bill and Jim Griffin received several knife wounds at the hands of Will Coleman. The affray was the outcome of a wrestling match between Bill Griffin and Coleman earlier in the evening. The wounds are painful, but not serious. The Griffin boys were drinking. Coleman has disappeared.

Terrible and Destructive Cyclone.

A terrible and most destructive cyclone swept over Augustine, Perry county, on Thursday last, leveling everything in its path.

Twelve negroes and three white people were killed by houses falling in on them, and ten other persons more or less injured.

Twenty-four head of horses and mules were crushed to death by falling barns.

The cyclone was followed by the heaviest rain that has fallen in that section in fifteen years. Creeks and branches were converted into raging torrents, sweeping away cotton, corn and other crops, causing heavy losses to planters.

Terrific Storm in Lauderdale.

A terrific storm passed over Florence about 5 o'clock Sunday evening. Great damage was done, but no fatalities have been reported. The greatest damage was at the corner of Court and Tombigbee streets. There two frame houses were blown down, and awnings, chimneys and trees wrecked. Trees were uprooted all over town, and on Court street large plate glasses were broken by the fury of the wind.

The storm came from the north, the storm cloud being met by another black cloud from the southwest. It is thought that considerable damage has been done in the county. The storm lasted less than twenty minutes, and was accompanied with rain and hail.

Terrorism in Bibb.

The stable of N. L. Wilson, of Blocton, was burned, with its contents, including a pair of horses, Wednesday night about 12 o'clock. A local report of the affair says:

"There is no doubt that the fire was ignited by Thrasher. He had it in for Wilson. The latter is a brother-in-law of the late Deputy Sheriff Griffin Bass. Wilson also was hated by Thrasher because he on one or more occasions hauled Sheriff Latham and posse in his buggies while they were hunting for Thrasher or members of his family. Sheriff Latham was in Blocton at the time, but was unable to raise a posse. The people are afraid of the desperado, who seems to have two desperate men with him, and a large number of acquaintances as his friends and spotters.

Hell Has No Fouler Fiend.

Rev. Gardiner C. Tucker, rector of St. John's church (Episcopal), Mobile, and his family have been spending the summer at Battles Wharf, a resort on the eastern shore of Mobile bay, Alabama. At 3 o'clock Friday morning Mr. and Mrs. Tucker were aroused by a tapping at the back door of their home, and then a childish voice was heard crying out, "Please, mama, let me in." Astonished and alarmed, the parents opened the door to find their 6-year-old daughter lying on the steps. She was taken in, and soon told her awful story. In substance she said that a man had taken her from the house and into the woods, where he had injured her. She was out of the house about an hour. The man, she said, brought her back to the house, putting her down at the gate. She had dragged herself to the rear gallery and knocked at the door. She said that the man was short and thick set, of light complexion, and was a white man or a mulatto negro.

Mr. Tucker immediately aroused his neighbors, and searching parties were organized. By the light of torches, lanterns and lamps the country adjacent to Battles Wharf was thoroughly scoured.

By daybreak the whole community was on foot, but no definite clue could be obtained except that about 12 o'clock the children in the Catholic orphans' summer home, a half-mile away, had been alarmed by an intruder who came in at the window, and when the children asked what he wanted, replied: "The sisters." Then he returned. He was seen to be a negro. The man who entered Tucker's went in at the window, picked up the child from a bed, on which lay also a 12-year-old daughter of Mr. Tucker. The little victim did not awake until she was out of the house. Reporters have gone to the scene, but as yet nothing has been heard from them.

NOTIFICATION OF THE NOMINEES.

Two-score of Thousands Gather to Witness the Ceremony.

The ceremony of formal notification of W. J. Bryan and Arthur Sewall of their nomination for the presidency and vice-presidency of the United States, came off according to programme at Madison Square Garden, New York, Wednesday evening.

At 7 o'clock the doors were thrown open, and, despite the efforts of the police to restrain them, the crowds on every side made desperate rushes for the entrances. In the struggles many women fainted and had to be carried away. The police finally began to use their clubs in an effort to restore order.

A wild scene of turmoil ensued at the main entrance. Men, women and policemen were jumbled together in an indiscriminate mob. Men tore each other and their own clothes in their frantic efforts to gain admission, and matters looked serious for some moments. Shriek after shriek came from the women in the struggling mass, and two or three of them fainted. Then the police rallied and with a vigorous use of their clubs soon formed a line, and thereafter there was a semblance of order.

Governor Stone, of Missouri, made the notification speech, Senator White, of California, having been unexpectedly detained at home. Mr. Bryan read his acceptance speech from manuscript, announcing in his introductory remarks that he would at an early day give to the press a formal letter of acceptance. The reading of his address occupied one hour and forty minutes. He pronounced the peroration without reference to his manuscript.

At the conclusion of Mr. Bryan's address, Governor Stone formally notified Mr. Sewall of his nomination. It was some time before order could be restored sufficiently for Mr. Sewall to be heard. His response is said to have been dignified and brief, following the same line of argument laid down by Mr. Bryan.

After Mr. Sewall's address, Mr. Bryan, accompanied by his wife, went to the Bartholdi hotel, where he spoke again from the balcony.

Besides the crowd at Madison Square Garden there were a number of overflow meetings, the attendance at which is estimated at 15,000, who were addressed from eight separate stands, by more than a dozen speakers. These meetings were held under the direction of the Bryan and Sewall club of single taxers and the Bimetallic League.

Wild West Show.

The Demopolis Driving and Bicycle Association have succeeded in arranging with Buffalo Bill's Trained Band of Indians to play a game of Indian ball and dance the celebrated Ghost Dance at their park in Demopolis on Thursday, August 27. It is needless to say that this will be a most novel and exciting entertainment. The Indians will be decked out in all their wild barbaric splendor and will give a wild west show that will thrill the nerves of every spectator. After the ball the squaws will dance the Ghost Dance with their weird songs and gesticulations, which is intensely interesting.

In order to place the performance within the reach of every one the management have decided to place the entire show at the price of one admission, that is to say 50 cents for adults, 25 cents for children and 25 cents for all colored people. The fare on all roads will be 1⅓ for the round trip. Put aside your spare change and go to see this wonderful Wild West Show.

Wages Cut Ten Per Cent.

The Snead & Co. iron works, of Louisville, Ky., employing 300 men, has given notice of a 10 per cent reduction in wages, owing to the depressed condition of business resulting from the situation of the money question. The announcement is made that wages will no doubt be restored should the gold standard triumph.

THE PLATFORM.

"The People's Party of the State of Alabama, in convention assembled, recognizing the supremacy of political liberty over all the questions that can come before the people of the State for solution at the general State election, to take place on the 3rd day of August, 1896, reaffirm our allegiance to the cardinal principles of Populism as follows:

"First—We demand a free ballot and a fair count.

"Second—We believe in the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of international agreement.

"Third—We demand that miners and others like corporate labor be paid in lawful money of the United States semi-monthly.

"Fourth—We favor a tariff for revenue, so adjusted as to protect, as far as practicable the farmers, and the labour in our shops, mines, factories and mills, and their products against foreign pauper labor."

Judge Zell Gaston's amendment to the 2d section was as follows:

"We demand the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the abolition of national banks, the expansion of the currency to meet the needs of the people and the demands of commerce, free from the control of corporate influences, and we condemn the issue of interest bearing bonds in time of peace."

Next came a lot of rsolutions, which passed unanimously:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that our representatives in congress be and are hereby requested to use their best endeavors to secure appropriations by the Federal Government to open the Warrier River to navigation from the coal fields to the Gulf of Mexico."

"Resolved, That our county appointing boards are hereby requested to give to the political opposition a competent inspector at every polling place in their respective counties,

"And we further request the inspector so appointed to give a competent clerk and fixer at each polling place to said political opposition."

POPULIST national headquarters will be in Washington with a branch office in Chicago.

ALL the newly elected county officers, with the exception of two, have filed their bonds; the two are nearly ready and will file theirs before the end of the week.

IN Chilton county the conceneus of opinion is that the cotton crop is just about one-half this season. Picking has generally commenced and ginning is about to begin. We hope our planters will go slow and not begin to rush their cotton to market. The market indications are good for a rise in price.

THE weekly crop report issued by the weather bureau at Washington on Tuesday last contains the following:

Alabama—Cotton failing fast under continued hot and generally dry weather; rust, shedding and premature opening general; picking progressing rapidly, but top crop almost a failure and bottom crop injured; partial showers in southern counties benefited late corn, cane and sorghum, but conditions unfavorable for all crops.

THE Republican state executive committee has been called to meet in Montgomery September 5.

WE have just returned from a short trip to southern Florida and our observations on the route are that crops are in bad condition. Cotton especially looks very poor and in spite of the early condition of the crop it was a noticeable fact that scarcely a bale is to be seen at any depot. This is conclusive evidence that throughout this section of the country planters are not rushing cotton to market. The orange groves still show the results of the big freeze but the trees are gradually recovering. We were informed that generally they will not bear much this season, but if no untoward event happens in the meantime next year they will be in good condition again. Politically we found Floridians are mostly Bryan and Watson men and will do their best to elect them. We found Tampa a most progressive and delightful city, and the heat not nearly so great as in Clanton or Birmingham.

1 J N Glasscock, W H Conway
2 D B Watts, B M Gentry
3 S E Waldrup, D C Hubbard
4 W D Z Foshee, J C Dennis
5 W H Strock, J J McDowell
6 E B Deason, R W Scott
7 J D McGhee
8 G F Martin, J E McCullough
9 Chas Childress, B N Martin.

Mr. H. Wingate of Verbena received the largest number of votes for coroner.

DEMOCRATS will hold beat meetings next Saturday morning at 10:30 to elect delegates to the county congressional convention to be held at Clanton Tuesday 25th inst. The Fourth district convention is to be held at Selma on Friday the 28th inst. There are several candidates in the field, but we are inclined to think Plowman of Talladega will secure the nomination.

Every Populist realizes that in this coalition of the silver forces Mr. Bryan stands for organized Democracy and Mr. Watson for organized Populism. They say that they have not demanded the disbandment of the Democratic party as a preliminary to co-operation, and that no such demand should be made of them.

They say that if the Democratic managers are candid and honest they should not weaken the cause of free silver by demanding the death of the only party which was its champion in 1893, when Democrats and Republicans were closing the mints.

In short, the Populists have caught on to the situation, swiftly and fully. They see that two plans are offered them by which they can help Mr. Bryan and free silver. The Chicago Democratic plan requires that the People's party have no national ticket in the field, and that every Populist stultify himself by voting for Mr. Sewall, of Maine. The St. Louis Populist plan gives every Populist vote to Mr. Bryan, but at the same time keeps a Populist on the national ticket, and thereby preserves the party from annihilation.

How can any true Populist hesitate between these two alternatives? So forceful is the logic of the St. Louis policy, that as fast as the rank and file of our party can make itself heard and felt, the Democratic fusion plan (whose secret motto is "Death to Populism") is shoved aside. * * * Another feature of the campaign which becomes every day more pronounced is that Mr. Watson, and not Mr. Sewall, is the choice of the southern Democrats.—Tom Watson in People's Party Paper.

In May and June certain cotton experts estimated that the cotton crop this year would approximate 10,000,000 bales, and sales of futures were made upon that basis. In our dispatches of yesterday a cotton expert of Denison, Tex., expressed the opinion that the crop will be under 7,000,000 bales. This estimate may be a little out of the way, but it is conceded that the crop will be much short of early estimates. Suppose the shortage should be 1,225,000 bales, at even 6 cents a pound, or $30 a bale, that would mean a loss of nearly $40,000,000 to the south. And the extremely hot weather is the chief factor in the deterioration of the condition of the growing cotton. It cannot be estimated with any degree of accuracy what the losses on other crops injured by the hot weather amount to, but it is safe to say they are somewhere in the millions.—Savannah Morning News.

News of the Campaign.

People's Party News Bureau, St. Louis, Mo., August 20.

After putting up a straight Bryan and Watson ticket of electors the Populists of Louisiana authorized the state executive committee to make such changes as action of the national executive committee might make necessary.

The platform of the People's party of Texas contains several ideas new to declared Populism, including a demand that all notes and other securities shall be rendered for taxation, and when secured upon real estate then the real estate shall be exempt from taxation to the amount of said security. The platform also demands an eight hour work day for artisans and mechanics and an amendment to the vagrant laws that will prevent the prosecution as criminals of laborers while in enforced idleness, and condemns the placing of raw materials on the free list.

The platform of Pennsylvania Populists favors fusion with the free silver democrats, but threatens repudiation of the state democracy unless the seventeen gold men on the electoral ticket are taken down.

The People's party of West Virginia nominated for governor Isaac Cox Ralphsnider of Fairmont, the free silver democrat who seems certain of nomination by his own party. The nomination of Ralphsnider was opposed by Judge J. A. Steally.

J. Edd Leslie, state chairman of the People's party of Pennsylvania, says: "The national leaders have a scheme to 'dump' both Sewall and Watson. Joseph Sibley, who refused the vice-presidential nomination at Chicago, will be agreed upon as a second place compromise. He has made up his mind to accept and Watson is willing to quit if Sewall can be brought to see his duty." No information from any other source comes as yet to confirm the statements of Chairman Leslie.

The democracy of Kentucky seems to be in sore need of Populist assistance to insure the success of the Bryan ticket in that state. Gold democrats are leaving the party by hundreds. In one county of the state 644 former democrats have signed a statement pledging themselves to vote the republican ticket. Logan Carlisle, son of Secretary Carlisle, is out in a statement repudiating the democratic party.

Populists of the Thirteenth Illinois district have nominated for congress Frank Palmar, of Clinton, who was previously nominated by the democrats.

Noah Allen, the old chairman of the Kansas Farmers' Alliance, has been nominated for congress by the Populists of the Tenth Texas district, in which Galveston is located.

Senator Squire, of Washington, who has been one of the foremost republican leaders in the senate, has publicly announced his intention of voting for Bryan.

Senator W. A. Peffer, of Kansas, authorizes the statement that he is a candidate for re election.

The People's party state executive committee of California has by address endorsed the nomination of Bryan, but announces that it will have none of Sewall. A committee has been appointed to confer with the democrats to arrange an electoral ticket upon a basis of the proportionate vote, the Populist electors to vote for Watson.

The state convention of Kansas endorsed the nomination of both Bryan and Watson.

A full ticket of Bryan and Watson electors has been put out by the Populists of Arkansas.

Jerry Simpson has been re-nominated for congress by both Populists and democrats of the Seventh Kansas district.

Eugene V. Debs declares that Indiana will go for Bryan by at least 25,000.

Georgia Populists have put a full state ticket in the field, headed by Seaborn Wright for governor. The convention authorized the state central committee at any time that Arthur Sewall should be withdrawn from the democratic ticket to withdraw six Populist electors and place six democrats in their stead.

Mrs. Laura Wineinger, of Selkirk, Kansas, writes; "I desire to let the whole world know what Dr. Miles' Heart Cure has done for me. For ten years I had pain in my heart, shortness of breath, palpitation, pain in my left side, oppressed feeling in my chest, weak and hungry spells, bad dreams, could not lie on either side, was numb and suffered terribly. Successful Treatment of Consumption by a Birmingham (Ala.) Physician.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 18.—(Special.)—Dr. R. M. Russell, of the Medico-Surgical Institute, of this city, has demonstrated, beyond a doubt, that the dread disease of consumption can be cured by the use of his Electro Medical Apparatus, in connection with the X-Rays. This Electro Medical Apparatus manufactures the same kind of electricity that makes the X-Ray, and this is used to conduct medicines into diseased tissues of the body. It was originated by Dr. Russell and has been in use in his Institution for about five years.

By the aid of the X-Ray machine, equipped with one of the improved tubes of Dr. Russell's own invention, together with the Fluoroscope, he is enabled to locate, exactly, any defective organ of the body and then by the application of proper remedies, by means of Electro-Medication, he is enabled to successfully deal with the worst cases of consumption, having recently effected remarkable cures on more than twenty different persons. By the same means the doctor successfully treats all ovarian as well as pulmonary troubles. In the treatment of ovarian troubles and all chronic diseases of women, the doctor has been quite successful. He spent a large portion of last year in Europe, introducing his method of treatment in the hospitals at the great centers. Dr. Russell has persistently refused to let the announcement of his discovery go out to the public until now, for the reason that he wished to thoroughly demonstrate the fact that consumption could be cured. He is an untiring student and worker, and ranks high among the eminent scientists of the world.

The American Steel Foundry Company's plant at Granite City, Mo., closed down Thursday on account of lack of orders. About 400 workmen are thrown out of employment. The foundry is not expected to be in operation again until after November 1.

J. M. Montgomery's store at Point Rock, Roane county, Tenn., was burned Sunday night. Thought to be incendiary. Loss about $120. J. H. Byrd's barn was burned at the same place on Sunday during a storm. It is supposed to have been set on fire by lightning.

For several hours Thursday at Nashville the temperature was 96 degrees. About 3 p. m. a strong wind, with rain, in the vicinity of the city, lowered the temperature greatly. This is the nineteenth day consecutively the temperature has been 90 degrees and over. No heat prostrations are reported.

At Philadelphia, August 13th, the thermometer registered its highest at 94 degrees at 1:30 o'clock. In the evening a light breeze sprang up, followed about midnight by a light shower, which cooled the air a little. By midnight the list of dead had increased to eleven. There were over thirty prostrations.

The employes of the Adams Express Company in New York city and Jersey City went out on a strike at 1 o'clock Saturday morning. The men complain that they were made to work too many hours in the day, and that old employes were discharged for no other purpose than to reduce wages. Between 500 and 600 men are affected.

The New York Times was purchased Thursday for a new company, in which Adolph S. Ochs, of Chattanooga, has the controlling interest. Mr. Ochs is to be the publisher and general manager, with absolute control. The sale was merely a formal proceeding, the outcome of a reorganization of the New York Times company.

He was arraigned for trial Thursday, but waived examination and was bound over to circuit court in the sum of $1,500, in default of which he was sent to jail. Very little change in Adkins' condition, who is seriously injured.

Wire Used for Cotton Ties.

The board of directors of the Charleston cotton exchange met Thursday and adopted the following resolution in regard to the bale of cotton bound with wire which was sent there to be tested a few days ago:

Resolved, That the bale received was tested and stood the strain of compressing; that so far as the exporting of cotton bound with wire is concerned this exchange cannot pass an official opinion in the absence of a majority of the exporters from the city, but as far as we can see at present we think the cotton baled in this way will be received by the exporters, provided the cotton is uncompressed and is wired as the sample bale sent us for inspection.

About Pneumatic Tires.

It has long been a question as to whether a double-tube or single-tube tire enables a rider to make the best time, in a race, and thousands of dollars have been paid by tire makers and promoters to prove their claims.

Tire makers have maintained racing teams at great expense, and some of them are beginning to think that this large expense is rank extravagance. These same advertisers have, however, done much to make the sport of bicycle riding attractive, and have done more than all other influences put together to show the possibilities of the bicycle. The kickers are those makers whose tires have failed.

The bicycle stands today as practically the only attractive form of outdoor sport, and is proved to be one of the most healthy and useful forms of recreation, furnishing an incentive for outdoor exercise, something that Americans particularly were much in need of until the bicycle came into general use. This is the opinion of those tire makers whose tires have not failed—the double-tubers—and who are willing to go on with the expense, since it is so much to their advantage.

It is now conceded by all who pretend to a knowledge of the bicycle, and of tires, that the double-tube tire is the most practical, and, at the same time, the fastest form of tire in the world.

In the so-called single-tube tire, wherein the whole fabric of the tire is cemented and vulcanized together, the walls of the tire are made of several layers of fabric, and the tires thus made are stiff and unyielding, as compared with the double-tube tire, in which the inner lining is free to move independently of the outer wearing cover.

All the important speed records of the world are now held by the double tube tires, and during the present year it is interesting to note that nearly all of the fastest riders of the United States are mounted on this form of tire.

As the racing man loses no opportunity to select such apparatus as will conduce to the fast item of speed, realizing that his reputation, salary and consequent glory depend upon his success as a racing man and a winner, he has gradually abandoned the single-tube form of tire and taken to the double-tube. As a result of this the records have been repeatedly lowered in the last year, and new records are now being made almost daily. It is apparent that the days of the single-tube are numbered, and that in a short time no racing man will feel properly equipped unless mounted on a double-tube tire.

An important point in favor of double tube tires is that they are greatly more durable. The single tube tire is all right for a very short time, but its average life, owing to the peculiarities of its construction, is but a few months. When the single-tube is once punctured it seems impossible to repair it so that it will remain air-tight. The plugs, whether vulcanized in or not, soon work loose, beside disfiguring the tire and making hard lumps, which on a smooth road can be felt at each revolution of the wheel.

The United States are about two years late in trying the single-tube tire. It was thoroughly tested out in use, in England and on the Continent, two years ago, and has been completely abandoned there because of lack of durability, impossibility of repairs, and the constant accompaniment of slow leaks which cannot be located.

It is a very difficult matter to make a tire air-tight. The holding of the air depends upon the integrity of the inner lining. In tires from which this inner lining cannot be removed, it is impossible to make them air-tight for any length of time. It is important for a new rider to know that many leaks are from causes that cannot be located on the outer surface of the tire, hence the importance of having the tube which contains the air removable for inspection and repair.

Private Bankers Suspended.

North & Taylor, private bankers, who did business at 959 West Madison street, Chicago, suspended Tuesday. The bank's depositors are working men and the total amount of their savings is placed at $100,000. The firm had a capital of $50,000. Charles A. North and Louis D. Taylor, the partners, have been in business for several years. They were compelled to discontinue business because of the extraordinary condition of the money market and inability to realize on securities. Depositors are promised full payment. The Equitable Trust Company was appointed receiver.
